Grey Mite (R. V. Wagner).—I should think the grey-mites are due either to your neglecting to keep the mealworms in a dry, warm place, or else to putting dead birds, dog biscuits, bones, or other animal matter in the box. If you use a wooden box, then the sides towards the top must be lined with tin. Are your mealworms healthy stock when you get them; or do they reach you packed in material infested with "grey mite"?

Half Way (F. J. L.)—The best thing you could do would be to try the effect of a change of temperature. If in a cold place now, transfer to a heated room, or vice-versa. This should start the feathers falling. You are feeding the birds very poorly indeed, though, and this may be responsible for the drag in the moult. Note reply to an enquirer last week on this point.

Ring Ousels (Amateur).—The Ring Ousel is a relative of the Blackbird, and requires feeding on the same lines (though he is not so fond of fruit). See the reply on this point given to a querist last week. You ought to succeed in catching one with a good-sized spring-net trap, baited with mealworms. Their value is not very high; only a few shillings. Adults are hard to get steady. Keep in the same sort of cage as you would a Blackbird; large box-pattern one preferable.

Turns "Somersaults" (A. H. W.).—I have never yet succeeded in curing a Goldfinch of the wretched habit of "twirling"—or "turning somersaults" as you term it—and I have tried endless dodges (some of them very weird and wonderful). I look upon birds so afflicted (if they are not afflicted, their owner is, at any rate) as a decided nuisance. Your bird should get much steadier, of course. Only time can tell whether he will Mule.

FOREIGN BIRDS.

Answered by WESLEY T. PAGE, F.Z.S., M.B.N.H.S.

What Did it Die of?

A.W.—You set me an impossible task. There may possibly have been some internal growths; most certainly from your description there was acute enteritis, a chill on the return journey having precipitated matters—and the bird's dyspeptic condition, consequent upon a long period of improper feeding, left it no power to rally against disease—also your diet of egg, etc., during its sickness only aggravated matters. I cannot give you a general diet under such circumstances; such information must be given for each individual case, after being made acquainted with the prevailing symptoms. Personally, I would not knowingly take a bird as a gift that had been fed on tea, coffee, or milk slops, general table scraps and other animal food. Your case is only one of too many that reach me, and if their termination is not always fatal, it means chronic dyspepsia and feather eating or pulling. I am afraid you will consider the above very unsatisfactory, but it is the best reply I can give under the circumstances. If you have other Parrots you wish advice about, I shall be pleased to advise you, if you will say what kind they are and give full details. I dare not give general treatment, etc., under the above conditions. Do not use your cage for another bird till it has been well sterilised—say paint it thoroughly all over, swilling crevices with neat paraffin; leave it in the open air for 24 hours at least, then well scald it with boiling water, seeing that all crevices are thoroughly searched; finally, give a thorough swilling with cold water, and when dry it should be safe to use again.

What Cockatoo?

Mrs. B. B.—It is a Gollin's Cockatoo, a native of the Solomon Islands, it is hardy and docile, and a very teachable species, a talented specimen such as yours should have a minimum value of £5. I should certainly persevere and get it on to a seed diet as soon as possible—give a little boiled maize daily, it only keeps fresh one day, and its tin should be scalded out for each occasion, and you should soon be able to drop the bread and milk. In addition to the seed diet it should have ripe fruit, nuts, greenfood, plain biscuit, a little unseasoned potato will do no harm, but I do not like milk sop for any of the Parrot tribe, save for the Loridæ, viz., Lories and Lorikeets. The second bird you name is certainly an Alexandrine Parrakeet—young males of the various species of Ring-necks, are two years old at least before they are in fully adult plumage, till which time they do not possess the ring. It would interest many if you would send a letter to the Editor for publication, describing your talented bird.

An Ailing Amazon.

R. J. Boyce.—Give this bird a dose of Dinneford's Magnesia, one teaspoontul in about one ounce of water, to form its only drinkable for the day till consumed, at intervals of three days each, two or three other doses may be given so long as its excreta does not become watery loose. Bathe the eyes with a rosewater and zinc eye solution (from your chemist). Diet: treat as follows—seed mixture, Canary, hemp, oats, wheat, small maize, dari and sunflower seeds, well mix and keep a supply continually in the cage; give a little boiled maize every other day, boil it till soft, drain off all water and then soak into same half a teaspoonful of Parrish's Chemical Food—also give at intervals ripe fruit, greenfood, plain biscuits, nuts, and keep up a supply of cuttlefish, grit and water. Examine its mouth, and if it appears at all furred, wipe it out with honey and borax (from chemists), using a small camel hair brush, which must be well cleansed for each occasion.

Grey Parrot Pulling Feathers.

Barge.—You give no particulars as to how you have been dieting the bird, and in nine cases out of ten, this trouble arises from improper feeding, which sets up skin irritation, and if it goes on for any length of time is almost incurable. Do not give tea, coffee, or milk slops, table scraps, or any kind of animal food. The proper diet is seed mixture (see recent issues), ripe fruit, nuts, plain biscuits, a little greenfood, grit, cuttlefish and water. I can give you no definite reply owing to your giving me no particulars—for one day put one teaspoonful of Dinneford's Magnesia into its drinking water (about one ounce), and after an interval of three days repeat the dose—supply it with cotton reels, and a branch of pine or willow to chew up and play with—let it be in your midst so as to keep it interested. If you repeat query and give me particulars as to how you have been feeding, etc., I shall be in a position to help you.

Cutthroats Refusing to Incubate.

"Experientia docet."—Am afraid I cannot assist you much save to counsel patience; so long as the birds are out of sight of one another I would be inclined to advise breaking up the pairs, or rather changing them about. It may possibly be that the pairs as they stand are brother and sister; such pairs according to my experience never do much, and the changing of them, i.e., mixing them up, may bring about the desired result in the spring. There is, of course, another factor against it, Canaries breed better in cages than in an aviary; it is not so with Foreign birds. Some will breed in cages and others will not; again, Cutthroats, though as a whole free breeders, yet I have heard of many acting as yours have done, but the probability is that if you change hens of the respective pairs about, they will settle down and incubate and rear their young. I presume there are no parasites in the cage and nest box. Cutthroats are rather liable to these when kept in cages—if so that would be sufficient to account for their refusing to incubate.

A Grey Pulling Feathers.

G.M.H.—Your diet is satisfactory, but I prefer the following to ready-made mixtures: Canary seed and oats two parts, wheat, dari, rice in the husk, hemp and sunflower seeds one part each, well mix, and let this form your staple diet. It is quite possible the bird is pulling its feathers merely to assist the moult; put the bird on a course of Parrish's Chemical Food—for directions see other replies. Give it one or two doses of Dinneford's Magnesia (see other replies), and spray it twice a week with quassia solution; this will make its feathers distasteful, and check his bad habit if it is such. The bird is sure to talk ultimately; talk to it in a general manner, and also try the constant repetition of odd words and phrases. The surest way to make or teach a Parrot to talk is to make it very fond of you; fondle it as much as your convenience will permit, and it will ultimately respond. Some individuals are more teachable than others. Do not give tea, coffee, or milk slops, table scraps, or any kind of animal food whatever.

Green Parrot Ailing.

"Cornubian."—The bird has either caught a chill through being in a draught, or else its digestive system is in a very bad way through improper feeding. Spray, or dab, with a camel-hair brush the bird's nostrils with diluted glyco-thymoline—put a little honey and borax (from your chemist) on its tongue two or three times a day; if it will permit you to do so, wipe out its mouth with same, use a camel-hair brush for the purpose, which must be well cleansed for each occasion. Bathe its eyes with a rose water and zinc eye lotion, wetting the surrounding plumage as little as possible. Keep its bowels moving freely, but not watery loose, by using Dinneford's Magnesia as required (do not scare the bird), one teaspoonful to the ounce of water will suffice, and it is better to leave two or three days between each dose. When not giving the magnesia make its drinking water the colour of pale port with Parrish's Chemical Food. As it finds the cracking of seed possibly painful, do not take this away, but give it a little boiled maize for a time; for method of preparation see other replies in this issue, also give ripe fruit, plain biscuits, and a few nuts. Do not give tea, coffee, or milk sops, table scraps, or any kind of animal food—keep warm, quiet, and strictly out of draught.

Grey Parrot with Swelling.

"Mulet."—In addition to the seed diet, also supply at intervals, ripe fruit, nuts, plain biscuits, and keep a piece of cuttlefish continually hanging in the cage. Lightly paint the swelling with tincture of iodine daily, so long as the skin does not break. Give a dose of Dinneford's magnesia—one teaspoonful in two tablespoonfuls of water—repeating same after an interval of three days, and again after a similar interval providing its voidings do not become watery loose. When not giving the magnesia, make its drinking water the colour of Parrish's chemical food. Keep the bird where it will hear ordinary conversation, and also talk to it, and by constant repetition teach it odd words (one at a time), and phrases, and it will ultimately begin to talk. In a fortnight or three weeks' time I should be interested in hearing how the bird is getting on. It would be wise if you have a vet. near, to let him have a look at it; he very probably could remove it at once, with very little risk to the bird—such a course is the most satisfactory method with such growths.

Seed Eaters for Exhibition.

J. B. Milne.—Draught is the great enemy of all birds, and if you eliminate that, they will generally fare well if properly dieted, etc. The under-mentioned should meet your case, and by watching the show reports you could add to them from time to time such species as were in the money:—Parrot, Cuba, Diamond, and Gouldian Finches; Violet-eared and Gold-breasted Waxbills; Queen, Parsdise, and Giant Whydahs, White Java Sparrows often catch the judge's eye when pure in colour and of good size. Pairs are by no means necessary for exhibition, though with many species I fancy their lot is a little happier when so kept. The birds you describe are Gouldian Finches and are very suitable; there are two varieties, Red-heads and Black-heads, but very few are on the market at the present time; value 20/-, 25/-, to 30/- a pair. The value of the others are, taking them in the order named, 70/- to 80/-, 50/- to 60/-, 10/6 to 15/- per pair, the Waxbills 80/- and 7/6 per pair, the Whydahs 20/-, 7/6, 10/6, and 40/- per pair. If you desire cheaper varieties please repeat query

Brevities.

What Value? (M.P.R.).—Have been much interested in the description of your bird. Of course, a cock Cockatiel in good condition is worth about 7s. 6d., but a young talented bird, which can plainly utter "Pretty Polly," "Tiger," "Pussy," and bark like a dog, should be worth 60s. at least. But few would want to part with such a bird; talking Cockatiels are not common by any means.

What Bird? (F.S.).—Your bird is either a Firefinch or an Avadavat, more probably the former; if so, there have been isolated cases of their breeding in cages, but the species is not a free breeder in captivity. Neither is the Avadavat, and I am very doubtful if it has even attempted to nest. Given the range of a large garden aviary, with growing trees and bushes, they are but shy breeders, and successful records of their doing so are but few. To have any chance of success you must provide them with a mate of their own species. You would find "Foreign Birds for Beginners," 1s. 1d. post free, from this office, very helpful; in it you would see the plumage of the above birds described, and by comparison should be able to decide which species yours is.

Zebra Finches (W. Shone, jun.).—Free breeders as Zebras are, I have known pairs act as yours, mostly when they were young from the same nest; it will be quite as well if they do not breed till spring. You might either get another pair, or change either the cock or hen with some other local aviculturist; possibly in the spring all may go well. If you are overrun with mice, possibly they are disturbing the birds, but I think the Zebras are the culprits as to the actual breaking of eggs. A good-sized square of zinc tacked on to the underside of roof over your nesting bush, should prevent mice getting at them; don't have any branches which are attached to the roof sides, or stick in the ground too near the nest; all this will help to make matters more promising. I can't keep the mice down in my aviary, the supply is continually renewed from neighbours' premises—yet I breed Zebra Finches and others.

Taming Lovebirds ("Sympatrie Vogel").—You do not say which species you possess; they are all anything but easy to tame, and some of them are so scary that if let out for a fly, that they will dash about wildly till they fall exhausted. As regards handling, you must judge by the demeanour of the birds, but certainly not if they are very scared. I remember turning a pair from a small cage to quite a large one; but they were so scared by their strange quarters that though they had been with me two or three months, they dashed about so that in ten minutes they were both dead. It is a case of patience with these birds; keep them where they will see you moving about, but yet in such a position that only quiet, steady movements will take place in their vicinity. Be very steady when attending to them, study their likes and dislikes, and offer such as they appear specially fond of in your fingers from time to time. Diet: Canary and white millet, spray millet, a few oats if they will eat them, the same as to a little ripe fruit, green-food, cuttlefish, and fresh water for drinking. A really tame Lovebird is not by any means common, but in time they become fairly steady.

POST MORTEMS.

Mr. J. North, 435, Oxford Road, Reading, will examine cage birds for a fee of 1s. 6d. each bird; for a report direct 2s. 6d.; analysis, 21s. Subjects for post mortem examination must be sent packed in a box direct to J. North, with fee. Any sent to the office of this paper will be thrown away, and if a fee is enclosed the loss will be the sender's.

Canary (Browne).—Well developed bird fever. If you have any birds remaining in your room, they must be removed and the place distempered.

Green Canary (Mrs. W. Thomson).—Inflammation of lungs and liver, ending with rupture of blood vessel of throat organ, which is apoplexy. This condition is often described as a severe chill.

GENERAL.

Answered by THE EDITOR.

A Letter (W. Reid).—Your letter has been duly addressed and posted.

Budgerigars (Done Brown).—Your query has been sent to our foreign bird specialist, but we are afraid it came to hand too late to receive an answer this week.

Brighton Show (C. Pearson).—Many thanks for your kindness. We had already made arrangements.

Lowestoft C.B.S. Show (Anxious).—Reports of shows conmed to members are sent us by the secretaries of the various societies. A report of the "Oct. 20th Lowestoft Show" has reached this office, only this week, and we shall be pleased to publish it. Obviously we cannot arrange to send special reporters to fixtures of this kind. Why, by-the-bye, do you not sign your name to your communication?

A Patent (R. F.).—We have really no information on the point, which is outside the scope of our journal. You should apply for particulars to the Patent Office, Southampton Buildings, Chancery Lane, London.

Dead Birds (A. Crossman).—If they received the birds alive (you will have to call evidence proving this) and delivered them to you dead, then on the facts stated in your letter we should think the railway company liable. Yes; if you lose the case you will have to pay the expenses of the company.

Bournemouth Show (G. W. Jones).—Your corrections unfortunately arrived too late—after we had gone to press.

Yellowhammers at Ayr Show (S. Johnstone).—You will see in this week's issue an official communication from the Scottish National Society, and in face of this we think you will agree that we should not be justified in publishing your letter. We do not seem to have as yet received any official notification from Glasgow and West of Scotland Society that they have dealt with the matter.

Timber (G. W. D.).—We do not know anything of the advertiser you mention. If you comply with Rule 8 we shall be pleased to write him on your behalf.

CORRESPONDENCE.

PROPOSED NEW SOCIETY FOR GLENCRAIG AND DISTRICT.

SIR,—Will you allow me to say that I shall be glad if all fanciers interested in the formation of a fur and feather club for Glencraig and district will please send in their names to me at 68, North Glencraig, Fife.

ROBERT BALLOCH.

A CAGE BIRD UNION MATTER.

SIR,—It is contended by some exhibitors that a person who is a member of a society that is affiliated to the Cage Bird Union, and who is also a member of a non-affiliated society, is entitled to exhibit in the open classes at the non-licensed show. I was wondering myself if it would be too much to ask the hon. secretary of the Cage Bird Union, Mr. Lythgoe, to put us right in respect to the above, so that we shall all know what to do?

UNION.

LEICESTER HAND-IN-HAND SHOW.

SIR,—On the 7th of Nov. I entered a Linnet in Class 20 at the Leicester Hand-in-hand show, and same took third prize. Not having received my prize money, I have written the secretary twice concerning same, and not receiving a reply I think it a case that wants bringing forward, as I am only a novice in showing, it being my first venture at open shows. I think it is the means of disheartening young fanciers just venturing out at open shows, to send their birds and receive no prize money.

F. CLARKE.

(We think there must be a misunderstanding somewhere, as the Leicester Hand-in-Hand Society is, we believe, one which always discharges its liabilities with promptitude.—Ed.)

COMMON CANARIES AT KIRKCALDY SHOW.

What Are They?

SIR,—As a lover of justice, and especially to encourage the young fanciers who start in the hobby with a pair of "common" Canarics, I would like to draw attention to the awards in the class for Common Canaries at Kirkcaldy Show. I entered two and got 3rd and hc. The 1st went to a hot-fed Norwich and 2nd to a Border. What are we fanciers, old or young, to enter? Both myself and many others hold it is detrimental to the Fancy for such to be shown in classes for "Common" Canaries.

J. MCGREGOR.

(It might be interesting if someone would define exactly what "Common Canaries" are. Can they be "weeds" which will not pass muster as any recognised breed; or what? We seem to remember hearing certain Yorks. and Norwich seen on the show benches dubbed "half-and-halfers." Would they pass muster in a "common" class? We must confess that the problem of what should and what should not compete as such seems not exactly easy of solution.—EDITOR.)

GLASGOW & WEST OF SCOTLAND SHOW.

An Appeal.

SIR,—Now that I have the most pressing of our show business over, I take the liberty of trespassing on your valuable space with the view of bringing before the wide circle of fanciers reached by your paper the baneful effects on our show of the infamous circular spread over the fanciers of Scotland and England just on the eve of our entries closing. I need not quote the circular—it has already had ample publicity in your columns—but I may be permitted to deal shortly with its allegations. These are mostly concerned with the financial matters of our last show. Now, so far as I know, every penny of prize money and every indebtedness to tradesmen were honourably and early met, with one exception, and that at the suggestion of the creditor (a member of ours), was allowed to lie over, although I have always had sufficient in hand to meet it. These facts, I believe, were well known to our traducer, but—who may escape the breath of calumny?—our club since I joined it has been doing its little best to keep its own gates clean, with the result that we have incurred the enmity of a certain class of bad men and worse fanciers, and only from such channels could such depraved matter issue. To fitly express our indignation and rightly label the perpetrators of this most diabolical of dirty actions would necessitate the employment of the whole gamut of scurrilous adjectives, and that stings them but little; but when we see men employing children to help disguise their meanness, we can't help thinking that their greatest punishment may yet be from among themselves, when the cubs turn and rend the jackals. We do not know the blackguards, but we ask every fancier's assistance in bringing them to light, and we promise that if they are worth the trouble we shall prosecute them till convicted. In the meantime it will no doubt be a satisfaction to them that we have lost over £50 on our show, but it is a great pleasure to me to be able to state that already several fanciers have come to our assistance with unasked donations ,and many more have promised us help. We are not above accepting these gratifying proofs of genuine men's repugnance at this dastardly treachery. Our own members have made a liberal voluntary subscription (at our first meeting), and we invite readers' assistance to help us over this embarrassment. Every outside exhibitor has been paid in full, and we have vindicated our claims to being an honest society, second to none in meeting our obligations and worthy of every fanciers' support. Donations sent to me at 102, Roslea Drive, Glasgow, will be acknowledged in next issue.

R. A. BROWN, Secretary.

ST. HELENS & DISTRICT O.S.

SIR,—In answer to Mr. C. Houlton's note in "Twitterings" last week: When did he resign, and did he conform to rules 9 and 16 in our rule book? These read:

9—That the subscription, which may be paid by instalments, be 5s. per annum, and one half to be paid before the 30th of June, and the remainder to be paid before the annual show.

16—That every member of this society shall be furnished with a copy of these rules, which must be returned to the secretary should he wish to resign.

Mr. C. Houlton's first letter to me was received August 1st, 1908.

A. GOODALL, Hon. Sec.

THE PRIZE MONEY AT OXFORD SHOW.

SIR,—I am sending you on the schedule of Oxford Show; also the catalogue with awards which they sent me. In the schedule it states in big type, "Prize money in full. No amalagamation." Yet from Class 61 to 71 they have not given one first prize, and four firsts in the 14 classes standing. Is this fair to outsiders? I am a good sportsman, and don't mind getting beat, but surely one's bird should get what it is entitled to. One of the rules, No. 13, reads: "The judges have power to withhold any prize if exhibits are not of sufficient merit." Now, this same bird of mine was placed first in a class of ten at Gerrards Cross on September 24th. under the same judge, so they can hardly fall back on Rule 13. He also got v.h.c. on November 17th and 18th at Wimbledon in a class of 15. I think it will be the last time I shall send to Oxford if this is their interpretation of paying full prize-money.

THE SEXING OF LESSER REDPOLLS.

SIR.—I noticed in Mr. Weston's answers to correspondents that he states it is quite an easy matter to sex Redpolls. From my experience, it is very difficult to know for certain about hen Redpolls. I have seen a red-breasted hen that laid eggs, and I have bred from cock Redpolls that did not show the least sign of red on breast; the only sign of a hen that I have proved correct was the smaller and paler colour of the red on the forehead of the bird. An old hen fresh caught is often only yellowish brown on forehead.

J. H. VERRALL.

(Our Mr. Weston states: "Until I read Mr. Verrall's letter I had never heard of anyone having a red-breasted Redpoll which proved to be a hen; I have never possessed one myself, nor do I know any other bird-lover who has done so. I can only adhere to my statement that the red-breast is a sure sign of the male sex in Redpolls, and allow Mr. Verrall's bird to be the proverbial 'exception that proves the rule.' I have frequently laid stress on the great difficulty of sexing Redpolls when not in adult breeding plumage; also related how two 'cocks' I selected to moult for show bred me some young ones—neither of this twain had a red-breast.")

STEADYING BRITISH BIRDS.

SIR,—In reply to Mr. Stephen's I should like to give my method of steadying Britishers. I always leave them quiet the first day after being caught, and in the evening, bring them out and put them on a table, about two feet away from me, with a table lamp between, so that the light shows full in the cage, leaving no dark corners. Sometimes I use an open cage, but then I throw some thing over three sides of it, to form a Box Cage. Now I put some tasty bits in the bottom for them to pick at, such as dandelion for Goldies and Linnets, or Bock or Privet Berries for Bullies, while a few crippled flies answer well for Chaffinches and Buntings. The first time they are brought in the lamplight they will flutter a bit, but they very soon quieten down, and the second time you will be surprised to find how quiet they are. I use this method with birds caught in the morning, and give them water at the same time (to make sure they have had it), from a straw or small stick, and if they are very thirsty you can lead them to the water vessel with the straw. by drawing it away so they cannot quite reach it and they will generally follow it.

AN AMATEUR.

WHAT IS ITS NAME?

SIR,—Mr. Murray in your issue of Nov. 21 asks me to name the bird about the identification of which there has been some question. I do so gladly, and beg to inform him that the bird is a Snow Bunting.

JOS. B. MOORE.

A FAMILY AFFAIR.

SIR,—May I, as a novice exhibitor, be permitted to call attention to what I consider a most objectionable feature in the exhibition world, namely, fanciers exhibiting at shows where relatives are judging. I do think judges should be above suspicion, but I am afraid incidents of this kind do not tend to create confidence. I hope that, in future, fanciers will not exhibit at shows were relatives may be judging, so that no suggestion can arise.

R. ELLWOOD.

THE THREE-TIER METHOD OF STAGING.

SIR,—I notice in this week's CAGE BIRDS a letter from Mr. Down, claiming to be the original maker and designer of the three-tier staging. Now, the three-tier method of staging has been used by the Edinburgh shows for thirty years; also at Glasgow and other Scotch shows. The Scottish National Show uses an improved three-tier method, which the Fancy Press and English visitors say is the most up-to-date method in use at any cage-bird show. I cannot understand in face of these facts how Mr. Down can claim to be the "original maker."

DAVID KINLAYSIDE.

SIR,—Respecting the "three-tier" staging, I beg to state that this method of staging was designed, and has been adopted by the Yorkshire Canary Club, of Ireland, since its formation in 1904.

YELLOWHAMMERS AT GLASGOW & WEST OF SCOTLAND SHOW.

SIR,—Re disqualified Yellowhammer at our show, Mr. Craig asks me to send you the enclosed letter received from the Scottish National, anent disqualification of the same bird for same alleged fault. I shall be obliged if you will kindly publish same.

To Mr. M. Craig, Glasgow. 20-1-08.

DEAR SIR,—I am pleased to inform you that my committee, at a meeting held on Saturday, 19th inst., duly considered the disqualification of your bird, and decided to withdraw the said disqualification, and allow me to pay you the full prize money, which I have pleasure in now doing, they being now of the opinion that the bird was legitimately shown and, therefore, that no suspicion rests on either your name or your bird. Trusting this is satisfactory to you.

I remain, Yours faithfully,
(Signed). JAMES WINTER.

I also enclose prize card.

LLANELLY SOCIETY AND A MISSING BIRD.

SIR.—Replying to Mr. Jones's letter, I may say that I was soon at work trying to find out what I had to do with the missing bird, and as Mr. Tedstone wrote me a satisfactory letter I looked it over, but I am annoyed at my name having been brought into the matter in the way in which it is, and unless the circumstance is fully explained in your next issue, I shall place the matter in other hands. I am a business man, and keep birds for a hobby, and the way in which my name is used in the wire to the show, without a reply, is damaging to my character, and unless they apologise I shall take proceedings.

F. BEARD.

Llandrindod.

(We must confess that on the face of it we do not see in what way the telegram of Mr. Tedstone's quoted by Mr. Jones last week is damaging to the character of Mr. Board, but probably Mr. Tedstono will be willing to supply our readers with the same explanation of it as he has already supplied to Mr. Beard himself.—EDITOR.)

SIR,— In your issue of the 28th ult. I was surprised to find a letter signed by the Chairman of the Llanelly C. B. C., drawing attention to a letter from Mr. D. H. Tedstone, the popular secretary of the Welsh C.B.C., which appeared in a previous issue. On reference to the letter I fail to see what exception the Llanelly Chairman can take to it. We see accounts of birds stolen and friend Patterson's birds' water alleged to have been tampered with, and the like. Surely, Sir, it is only right to acknowledge in the Press, when a fancier is assisted by a fellow fancier or club. Mr. Jones has evidently misconstrued the letter altogether, as the only construction one can put on it is, that it is a few words of advice to show secretaries, kindly meant, and quite in season. Anent the remarks "voluminous correspondence," etc., coming as they do immediately after the Llanelly maxim "Do unto others," etc., shows a spirit which is best left to the individual judgment of your readers. May I say that Mr. Tedstone initiated me into the Fancy, and during the few years I had the pleasure of his acquaintance I proved him a thorough sportsman and a gentleman in the truest sense of the word. I was with him at the time of the loss of his birds. and he told me that in all his long experience, he never felt so disheartened. He had sold all his Border Fancy Canaries and introduced some new blood with the hope of improving his Norwich stock, and to lose the lot within a week was enough to make any fancier disheartened. I was fortunate enough to obtain some of Mr. Tedstone's prize Borders (through a dealer), but I have not had sufficient time to prepare them for showing in the London District as I had hoped to do this season. I trust you will insert this letter as I fear some of our English friends may think there is something wrong with friend Tedstone, whom I hope they will have the pleasure of meeting at the forthcoming Crystal Palace Show.

R. A. MILLS.

VETERAN JUDGES AND THE CRYSTAL PALACE SHOW.

SIR,—I should like to be allowed to endorse the remarks of your correspondent, "Nuthatch," anent the lamentable lack of kindly sentiment evinced by the executive of the Great National eveut in setting aside the claims of London's veteran British bird man, Mr. Samuel Cook, to act as one of the British bird judges at the Jubilee Crystal Palace Show. Affectionately spoken of in London birdy circles as "Old Sam," Mr. Cook has always enjoyed an unstinted measure of confidence, and has always proved himself worthy of it. No judge ever dealt out more even handed justice than he; his awards were made with a directness which can well be appreciated in these days of "axes to grind," and he cared not whose decisions he upset, even though they were his own, so long as he satisfied himself that he had the right birds on top. His mistakes have been few and far between, but always admitted by him with the same characteristic bluntness as that with which he would defend his judgment when it was wrongly called in question. It is a pity indeed that he and our other veteran, whom we think of with affection as "Old Joe Hills," should not be allowed to retire together with all due honour (let us hope to be lookers-on for many more years yet), and I trust there is yet time for the L. and P.O.S. Committee to reconsider the point, and have it so. As far as the appointment of judges who are really novices is concerned, it really does not matter much, although it might be better, perhaps, to have men who have, year after year, demonstrated their ability as successful exhibitors of stock. Judging British birds, however, is a much simpler proposition than winning prizes with them, and the novice who has yet to win his spurs can quite creditably adjudicate upon the veteran exhibitors' products, so long as he follows in the footsteps of the veteran judges who have gone before.

C. PRIOR.

SIR,—I heartily agree with every word written by your correspondent over the nom de plume "Nuthatch." No one can be more disappointed than I am that Mr. Sam Cook's name does not figure in the judges' list of the Jubilee Palace Show. I think I am justified in stating that Mr. Cook was passed by my committee on account of his not being on the judges' list of the National British Bird and Mule Club and for no other reason. The British Bird and Mule Sections are being held under the patronage of the N.B.B. and M. Club, and members desire to compete for the club specials in all the classes. To enable them to do this, club judges had to be appointed. It is a condition that I, personally, do not agree with, and would never vote for; but I am only one amongst many. The judges appointed meet with the approval of the N.B.B. and M.C., for I have a letter from the hon. secretary, Mr. Plumbridge, congratulating us upon our list of judges. Strange to say, most of the protests I have received have been from members of the N.B.B. and M.C., and to these gentlemen I would say: Confer with your committee; get your restrictive rule waived for this show, and I will at once ask my committee to appoint Mr .Cook without displacing Mr. Allen Silver's name from the list. The classes could easily be rearranged and divided equally between the judges. I am writing Mr. Plumbridge by same post, and will keep the schedule from the printer another week in order to give Mr. Plumbridge time to consult his committee, and reply.

A QUESTION FOR LINNET CATCHERS.

SIR,—Perhaps some experienced Linnet catcher would be kind enough to let me know through the columns of your most valuable paper how I could catch Linnets which are feeding on stubble fields. I use a pair of clap nets 7 yards long and 4 feet wide. I have set them close to hedge and also in the midfield, and have tried every conceivable plan to catch them; but all methods have proved abortive. I use only one brace bird and two call birds, and would like to know if more brace birds would be better, or if any bait would be required in the net; and also if it would be advisable to place call birds under the net when set? I trust some catcher will be good enough to enlighten me.

ANNOYED.

JUDGE BAITING EXTRAORDINARY.

SIR,—In answer to "Querist," in your issue of last week, I, as an disinterested visitor to this show, beg to say that this particular exhibitor did not surpass himself by any means. Far from it. He simply asked the Judge appointed, the reason for placing his best bird below an inferior specimen owned by this same exhibitor. And when a fancier knows the merits and qualities of his own birds, and has proved it time after time at our biggest open shews, I think you must admit he has some ground for complaint. Further, is "Querist" aware that the exhibitor had the pluck to bet anyone present 20 to 1 that the awards would be reversed the following week under a specialist judge? Why did not the Judge take his bet, if he was so positive in his award? When "Querist" states the judge quietly but convincingly explained the reason to everybody but the exhibitor himself, he is wrong entirely. No, Sir, he did not by any means give the exhibitor a fair or reasonable explanation at all. His chief cry was that he detested the cages the birds were in, whereupen the exhibitor told him he was judging the bird, and not the cage. Now, "Querist," let me assure you this exhibitor will not go farther and fare worse. He went farther the following week at the premier and most popular Society in London, and carried off an eight-guinea silver challenge cup (the best cup this club holds), 1st sp. and 2nd. prize in the biggest class in the show, and had eight birds in the money out of nine entries. Surely this does not look like faring worse. Perhaps "Querist" was one of those dear chappies that this exhibitor beat, and has not got over the shock yet. I will sign my name when he has the courage to sign his.

ALLEGED YELLOWHAMMER-SISKIN HYBRID AT NORWICH.

SIR,—On visiting Norwich Show on November 28th my attention was drawn to an exhibit in the Hybrid class, entered in catalogue as a "Yellowhammer-Siskin," where it stood second prize. Various opinions were given by those present as to its proper name; some suggested it was another "Canterbury Pilgrim," others a cross between a foreigner and a Canary. But on being compared with an exhibit in the foreign bird class, a St. Helena Seed-Eater, it was seen to be identically the same, only in better conditien than the last named. It is a pity the owner of the third prize-winning Hybrid was not present with the courage to lodge a protest against the second bird, so as to put matters right, as such a thing ought not to pass without comment. Now, ye Cage Bird Union, wake up and take the matter in hand, and show you have control over such cases to prevent it occurring again. Let honour be given where honour is due. A VISITOR.

SIR.—One of the most interesting exhibits at Norwich Show was undoubtedly Mr. J. Howard's bird in the A.O.V. Mule or Hybrid Class. described as a Yellowhammer-Siskin Hybrid, and catalogued at £5. The bird was a picture, perfect in feather and condition and faultlessly staged. Yet the judge had a suspicion as to the bird's being really a Hybrid. However, at the last moment he decided to give the bird the benefit of the doubt, and awarded it second prize, the first prize going to a Canary Bully. On the show opening one of the first to enter was Mr. J. W. Ramsden, of London, and he was immediately asked if he could guess the parentage of the second prize exhibit. "Grand bird," replied Mr. R., "colour fed to perfection; had one like it at the Palace some six or seven years ago, and that was called a 'Canterbury Pilgrim.' What is this called?" Now, Sir, a bird similar in appearance, but non-fed, and not in nearly such good condition, was exhibited in the Foreign Section, and Mr. J. F. Hills was comparing the two birds later in the afternoon. his face wearing a worried look. Most of the fanciers present thought that the two birds were of the same species, but Mr. Howard stoutly maintained that his bird was as described. Certainly this "Yellowhammer-Siskin Hybrid" was the attraction of the show, and tho centre of interest. If no mistake has been made, it is without doubt one of the best Hybrids seen for a long time, and ridiculously cheap at the price named, £5. We hope to see this bird at the Palace.

ARE SPECIAL PRIZES A NUISANCE?

SIR,—The correspondence re special prizes in your columns prompts me to touch upon another phase of the same subject—the advisability of offering specials at all. It has grown to be the custom to offer, if possible, a special for every class in order to draw entries and patronage, and this, in the case of a show held in a sparsely populated district like ours, is a difficult matter to arrange. That we have been able to do so for our next show is a tribute to the generosity of our local fanciers and tradesmen, but is at the same time a great tax on their generosity. Half the value of the specials given in cash to the society would have been of greater benefit to everybody and much less trouble, both before the show and after, for our experience at Cockermouth is that nearly all—nay all—the trouble with exhibitors is due to the specials, whilst the reckoning up of points is often very troublesome and a cause of dispute and correspondence. I would, except in particular cases, abolish all specials and add, say, a corresponding, or pro rata, amount to the money prizes, and in some large classes give a fourth prize—say the amount of the entrance fee. I am, however, not an exhibitor except in a very limited sense, but am speaking from the point of view of a show official.

GEO. OGLETHORPE,
Chairman, Cockermouth and District Feather Society.

BIRDS "WRONG-CLASSED" AT SWINDON SHOW.

SIR,—The folly of having exhibits forwarded from one show to another is proved by the treatment I received at the hands of an official of the Dulwich Ornithological Society. Through a "whip-up" p.c., I made three entries for Dulwich O.S. Show, on condition the birds were forwarded on in good time for Swindon Show. This was done, as the Swindon secretary informed me that my birds arrived overnight (for which I tender my thanks to the Dulwich secretaries). But as it turned out they might just as well have remained at Dulwich until the show closed, as the party entrusted to tie on the Swindon labels was evidently new to the game, especially so when he did not know a "Cherry Blossom" from an unflighted hen. When I sent the Swindon labels, I sent a note asking the secretaries at Dulwich to please tie them on. I also mentioned that my ticked buff cock, class 4, No. 1, Dulwich, goes in class 4, No. 3, Swindon; class 7, No. 4, variegated hen, Dulwich, goes in class 8, No. 12, Swindon, etc., etc. Imagine my surprise when I got to the show and found my birds "wrong classed." I then went in search of my friend's birds, and found his unflighted hens in the cock class, and vice versa. However, I spent a very pleasant afternoon amongst a ripping lot of fanciers. The foreign birds were a treat and worth going a long way to see, and the Swindon fanciers are to be congratulated on their very pretty little show, which I hope was a success. C. E. BROWN.

THE RECENT INVERNESS SHOW.

SIR,—I was a spectator of the judging of Inverness Show, and was greatly surprised at the way the prizes were "pitched" at the exhibits—to say they were awarded would be a misrepresentation. The judge arrived about 10.30 a.m. and left by the 3.50 p.m. train south, taking about an hour off for dinner, which doesn't leave much time to judge a show with 39 classes. I happened to drop in when he was busy judging the Britishers, and as I watched him I formed the opinion, as did all who were present, that he merely picked up the first three decent specimens and stuck on 1st, 2nd, and 3rd—the others he hardly even looked at. I do not blame the judge, for the show is really too much for one man to judge satisfactorily in time to catch the mail train south. When he came to the special prizes he found he had about seven minutes to award nearly 50 amongst 300 birds, and these were most complicated, some being for members, others local, and remainder open, so that you may guess how they were awarded. A young gentleman, seeing the dilemma in which matters were, endeavoured to ascertain the meaning of it, but was severely rebuked by one of the officials in rather an ungentlemanly manner. The show itself was a good one, in an excellent hall, and I especially enjoyed the entertainment provided by the Roller Canarics. My object in writing is not to do the association any harm; the members (and I have met not a few) are, in fact, all good fellows and thorough fanciers, but rather to impress upon them the necessity of an additional judge for the Canary section, without which satisfaction to exhibitors cannot be given.

SALE.

Sale Open O.S. held their first open show on Nov. 28, in the technical school, a very nice room for a cage bird show. Having regard to the fact that there were four money prizes and a cash special for each class, coupled with a grand challenge cup for competition in the open class, we naturally expected that there would be a bumping entry, and were rather disappointed to find that it did not come up to expectations, but we trust the society will be better supported next year, and that the attendance, which we were pleased to see was very good in the afternoon, will make up for any deficiency there may be this year. In Mr. James Irlam, Sale has an ideal secretary, and although new to the game, no one could have been found who could have carried out the numerous duties more accurately or expeditiously, or would have had the show in better order. The committee—consisting of Messrs. J. Leigh, J. Gray, G. Whitney, J. Burst, F. Fields. W. Fields, C. H. Smith, W. Smith, S. Hartley, G. Allcock, Thomas Shield (President), and Horace Whitney (assistant secretary)—is a grand one, and worked hard to make the show a success. As to the birds themselves, the Yorkshires, Norwich, British and Foreign in the Champion section were a grand collection, and contained some very choice specimens, many noted birds of the season putting in an appearance. In the two classes for Bordero many wee gems were staged. The Novice Norwich, and Members' classes also contained many grand birds, which could well hold their own in the open. The silver challenge cup, presented by R. Unwin, Esq., for most points in open Canary classes, with 3 non-mated birds, was won by Messrs. J. and J. Hopkins, and Hyde's special by Mr. A. Royle. Messrs. A. G. Davis and Geo. Massey judged, and we heard no complaints.

The Pearson Cup for most points with four starred birds in members' classes was won by Mr. J. Spencer, Mr. W. Dooley being runner-up. The gold medal for most points with four starred birds in British classes was won by Mr. S. Beaty, Mr. E. Morgan being the runner-up. Messrs. J. Raynes, T. Harrison, P. Drinkwater, W. Bayley, A. Holt, F. Fielding, W. Crooks, and W. Whalley, gave very valuable assistance, whilst Mrs. Irlam watered and fed the birds, and made a nice exhibition with cups, etc., at the top end of the room.

BUDGERIGARS AND COCKATEELS.

By C. P. ARTHUR.

(with additional notes by Wesley T. Page, F.Z.S., and W. Laskey).

The breeding of Budgerigars and Cockateels is recognized as one of the most profitable and pleasure giving sides of foreign bird-keeping. In this thoroughly practical handbook an eminent authority and highly successful breeder of these two species gives very full details upon

How to Keep, Feed, Breed, Tame and Teach to Talk.

A handbook which should be on every bird-lover's book shelf. Two full-page illustrations.

EGREMONT (Cumberland.)

The 13th annual show was held on November 27 and 28 in the town hall. The entries showed a falling off as compared with those of previous years; the Norwich and Yorkshires were the worst. Borders came up strong, some very fine specimens being on view. The committee worked very hard for the success of the show, and the secretaries, Messrs. Woodburn and Lucas, especially displayed great energy in this department. Mr. J. W. Bancroft (Sale), judged all but the Border Fancies, and with a few exceptions his awards were very well received. Mr. J. Hopper judged the Borders, and gave every satisfaction.

PENZANCE.

Bird shows, and good ones, have to our knowledge been held in this grand old Cornish town in years gone by, but as the schedule does not give their number we cannot supply the deficiency; suffice it to say that on November 27th a very nice collection of nearly 300 birds was ready for inspection in good time. This and a good list of 21 specials, well spread over 28 classes, proves the enthusiasm of the honorary secretary, Mr. Pearce Sampson, who was supported by an able committee, amongst whom we noticed Messrs. Sendall, Bounder, Richards, Watkins, Williams, Batten, Carne, and last, but not least, Mr. Bodinnar, a most efficient lieutenant and chief steward. Riviera weather prevailed, as promised by the railway company, and roses, geraniums, veronicas, and laburnums are still in bloom. Mr. J. North judged, and gave every satisfaction.

BRIGHTON F. AND F.A.

Seventeenth annual show held on November 24th and 25th, in the North Road Lecture Halls. It was a great success. In the Canary section the birds were staged in a very light room by themselves and were well looked after by a well-known fancier, Mr. W. Swaysland (Brighton), also Mr. C. Pavey, and a good committee. The secretary Mr. J. W. Freestone, assisted by Messrs. Allfrey and Lintott, the assistant secretaries, had everything ready for judging early, and did well, considering the short time they had. Judge, Mr. J. Dobson (London).

TONBRIDGE.

The cage bird section at the Tonbridge Show, held Nov. 25th and 26th, form no inconsiderable part in the total number of exhibits catalogued. Classes of two dozen, and others of a score, were on view in the public Hall, a spacious and well-lighted place and free from draughts. A very full staff of officers and stewards ensured the proper supervision and care, while Mr. F. J. Bingham, the honorary secretary, and Mr. B. T. Rogers, his lieutenant, supported by an enthusiastic committee, were indefatigable in their exertions to make the exhibition a success. A list of twenty special prizes spread over nearly two dozen classes, enabled nearly every class to get one. Mr. J. North judged, and his awards were well received.

COWDENBEATH.

The above show was held on Nov. 28th in the Masonic Hall. The entries compared favourably with those of previous years, excepting in the 20 Scotch Fancy classes, with an average of not two per class. The affairs of the society are managed by a hard-working committee, headed by Mr. James Caithness as president; the vice-president is Mr. David Todd. The secretarial duties are admirably looked after by Mr. Jas. Orrock, who seems to get through his work with consummate ease; the finances being also in good hands with Mr. Wm. Simpson as treasurer. The hall is nicely adapted for a cage bird show, being well lighted and free from draughts; the exhibits were nicely staged and well looked after. The judge was Mr. Alex. Cochrane (Edinburgh), who got through his work in good time, and seemed to give satisfaction.

GOOLE.

At this fixture, held November 26th, cage birds had eight classes provided for them, and in these were 89 entries. Quality, too, was well represented, and quite a nice lot of birds were on view. One point, however, we would like to impress upon the committee, and that is to have the caged birds staged in a warmer corner of the hall; close by the door is by no means an ideal place for caged birds. In other respects the arrangements were most admirable. Mr. G. Butler makes a most capable secretary, and the success of the fixture is largely due to his untiring efforts. Mr. T. J. Ambrose judged.

CITY OF WAKEFIELD O.S.

The third members' show was held at headquarters, The Crown and Anchor, on Nov. 21. Altogether 70 birds were staged. The Yorks. and Norwich classes filled well. The British bird section was not so good as at our last members' show, the entries having fallen by about fifty per cent. Mr. Atkinson gained most points for Members' cup. Mr. J. Wilman judged to the entire satisfaction of the exhibitors.

INVERNESS.

The twenty-eighth annual show of the Inverness O.A. was held on 25th November, in the Music Hall. The exhibition was declared open by Sir Henry Munro. Geo. Mackenzie, Esq., President, occupied the chair, and in appropriate words, requested Sir Henry to declare the exhibition open. In the course of his remarks, Sir Henry said he could not possibly imagine a lover of birds being a bad man, and many a dingy home was no doubt brightened by the song of these delightful creatures. A record entry faced the judges, and as regards quality, nothing finer has been seen up North. The committee turned out in strong numbers before and at close of show, and everything was in spic and span order promptly. The hall is the best in the North of Scotland, being well lighted in the daytime and brilliantly lit up with electricity at night. The staging, too, was tastefully arranged and everything possible was done for the comfort of the exhibits. The committee are all fanciers of sterling quality, consisting of 37 members, which in point of numbers alone will compare favourably with the largest association in Scotland. They are particularly fortunate in having as their president Mr. Geo. Mackenzie, a gentleman who is a fancier to the marrow, and with a power of elocution that would put to shame many of our Cabinet Ministers. The Vice-President, Mr. Ed. Todd, assisted to make the show the success it turned out to be. The popular and energetic Secretary, Mr. A. Urquhart, was in his usual genial form, and not a little of the success of the show was due to his untiring efforts. He is an excellent official. The best bird in hall was adjudged a Scotch Fancy, the property of Mr. Ed. Todd, a bird possessing a particularly good neck, and all the points necessary to make up a specimen of the first water. A cup was carried off by Mr. A. Patterson, as was also "Todds" cup for best colour-fed bird with Norwich of outstanding merit. This exhibitor also did remarkably well in the British Bird Section. The British birds turned out in great strength, and a second set of winners could have been found in almost every class. The aviaries were a feature of the show, there being eight staged, all tastefully got up, and not much between them. Mr. Peter Pettigrew, Glasgow, placed the cards in all classes but the singing competition, which was handled by Mr. J. F. Kelly, and their decisions gave general satisfaction. We could not, however, follow the judge in some of his awards in the British Bird Section, but this he could not avoid having to "rush" these classes to catch his train. A separate judge for this section at future ventures would, we feel sure, be appreciated.

PATHHEAD (Kirkcaldy) N.B.

The Pathhead O.S. added cage birds to its eleventh annual show, which took place on November 21st. Being the first time that cage bird classes have figured in its schedule, it was hoped a goodly entry would encourage their efforts, but, unfortunately, only a very limited number were in evidence, too many shows in the immediate vicinity being the general explanation, while the want of a few decent special prizes was another. We hope by another year to see better prizes offered and more support given. Mr. James F. Dewar (Edinburgh) adjudicated. Mr. W. R. Gibson, the hon. sec., is a very capable official, and had everything in capital order.

Y.C.C. OF IRELAND Dublin.

The committee of the Yorkshire C.C. of Ireland are to be heartily congratulated on the magnificent success which attended their efforts in connection with the annual show which was held in the hall of the Royal Society of Antiquarians of Ireland, Stephens-green, Dublin, on November 26th and 27th. The Y.C.C. of Ireland has been in existence for only five years, but in that comparatively brief period it has done much to encourage and improve the breed of the Yorkshire in Ireland, a fact which was strikingly exemplified last week-end on the occasion of the fifth annual show. Happily, recent events have in no wise affected adversely the fortunes of the premier Irish club. The contrary, indeed, has been the case, and judging by the happenings of last week the Y.C.C. of Ireland has a prosperous and brilliant future before it. It was not with light hearts that the new committee set to work, for they had many difficulties to contend with, but they set about their task in businesslike and determined fashion, and the show, instead of being the dire failure that some people predicted for it, proved an unqualified success. As a matter of fact, it was the best Dublin show on record; the entries, which numbered close on 600, exceeded those of last year by about 150, and, what is of as much importance from the fanciers' standpoint, the quality of the exhibits all round showed a noteworthy improvement. Altogether the exhibition more than realised the expectations of the most optimistic, a state of affairs on which the committee, Messrs. J. J. Cloake (chairman), W. J. Birse (hon. secretary), R. F. Duigenan (hon. treasurer), P. H. Kenny, C. McKenzie, P. McDonnell, T. F. Lambert, P. Gillen, W. T. Taylor, C. J. Mulligan, N. Thompson, Dr. Lavery, W. Hankins, J. McQuade, F. O'Neill, A. South, J. Devins, W. Keatinge, J. P. Rooney, and S. Murtagh, are deserving of hearty congratulations. Mr. Birse makes a most excellent official. The arrangement of the birds, and the management generally were of a very high order, and satisfied everyone.

A strong feature of the show was the remarkable series of successes achieved by Mr. Hawkins, a member of the committee, who brought up a team of 20 splendid specimens of the Yorkshire. This Irish exhibitor, whom Mr. Hallilday, the judge, described as the "Bailey and Swanger of Ireland," clean swept the boards in the open classes, taking seven 1sts, three 2nds, six 3rds, and one commended, and thus went one better than at Cork, where his birds won three 1sts, four 2nds, and three 3rds. His success was all the more surprising by reason of the fact that he rarely breeds from any but birds of his own breeding. Like most breeders, however, he started with birds purchased in England. He staged his exhibits to the best possible advantage. But the "sensation" of the show was the magnificent Yorks. hen exhibited by Mr M. Fleming (Belfast) in class 13 (novices). This beautiful bird, in a splendid class of 13, won "hands down." Bred this season, it was coveted by the most experienced and sucessful of our breeders on both days. She took several specials, including Major Trotter's £1 5s. for best Yorks. hen bred and owned by a member, 10s. for best hen bred this season, silver medal for best novice bird, and silver medal for best Yorks. in the show. The judge gave it as his candid opinion that she is one of the best birds he ever had the pleasure of judging, and he expressed himself as doubtful if there are three birds in all England that would beat her in open competition. Catalogued at £20, Mr. Fleming refused, later in the evening, a bid of £10 which was tendered him by a noted English breeder and judge. Mr. Fleming was also first in class 21 with a spanking 1908 bird, first in clear buff cocks, first in clear buff hens, and several other awards. The competition in the open classes was very keen. In cinn. or cinn.-marked Mr. W. H. Coyne was an easy first, and Mr. J. Huggard, who had the best clear Yorks. hen in her class, was second and third respectively in the ticked, etc., buff cocks and clear buff cocks, coming out, we were given to understand, with the greatest number of points gained at the show for the cup, in the competition for which, however, Mr. Devins, who also, as will be seen on reference to the prize list, scored freely, still holds the leading position. Messrs. Sheridan and Fry waltzed off with the first prize in the largest class, that for buff hens (19 entries), and were also first and second in yellow hens, and second in var. cocks, securing third highest points for the cup. Mr. Duigenan was out of luck's way on this occasion, but his yellow hens, which won first and second at the Irish shows last season, easily retained their positions. Mr. Fleming, of course, scored heaviest in the novice classes, and was closely followed by Mr. T. Farrell, whose cup birds got the red card in clear yellow cocks, a second in clear buff cocks, and vhc in class 21. Another exhibitor who met with success was Mr. Birse. The Norwich exhibit was a large and representative one, and with the larger classes competition was very keen, for the quality of the birds reached a high standard of excellence. British birds, too, made a splendid show, the Goldfinches coming in for quite a deal of attention from visitors. Mr. Birse secured the special for the greateat number of points scored in British birds.

MUIRKIRK.

The Muirkirk O.S. held their annual exhibition in the Temperance Hall on November 28th. The hall is a very suitable one for such an occasion. It is well lighted by day, and very comfortable. All the exhibits were staged to the best advantage, and were well looked after by a body of enthusiastic fanciers. We regret to note the classes did not fill up so well as might have been expected, but the quality in most instances was very good, a large number of exhibits being forward that could hold their own in any company. The secretary, Mr. Jas. G. Torbett, had everything in apple-pie order, and is a very courteous official. He was well assisted by a capable committee. The only regret we have is that they had not more to do. We wish them a bigger turn-out another year. Mr. Robert Hardie (Auchenheath) made the awards in the cage bird section, and there was very little if any grumbling

NORWICH.

A Record at the Cathedral City.

The annual show of the Norwich Alliance Association was held in the Assembly Rooms, on November 28th and 30th, and we are pleased to be able to pronounce it a splendid success. The total number of entries was 854, a considerable increase on that of last year. The "native" birds (Norwich) were greatly in evidence, several of the classes containing over 20 entries. The Amateur, Limit, Unflighted, and Non fed classes especially were remarkably well filled, and the managing staff were more than satisfied. Much of the success was undoubtedly due to Mr. R. Roll, the able and energetic secretary, who has been many times tried, but never found wanting, at this arduous post. He was ably assisted by an enthusiastic and efficient staff of fanciers, including Messrs. W. W. Freestone (chairman), J. Parsons (vice chairman), Mr. F. Cullington (treasurer), Gilbert, Smith, Bartram, Bullard, Carlton, Cuthmore, Freeman, Holmes, Clark, Morrison, Barbee, Calver, Clapham, Daynes, Fish, Green, Horth, Johnson, R. Thompson, J. Thomson, Miles, Revell, Russell, Schulen, Smith, Stark, R. Wigger, A. Woollard and several others. The whole of the exhibits were packed and despatched by the mail train on the second night of the show, and all prize money was sent off the same night, so that many exhibitors would be pleasantly surprised by receiving cheques even before they received their birds. That is surely the way to secure support another year, for exhibitors will not be likely to forget such business-like treatment.

The opening ceremony was very graciously performed by the Mayor (Mr. Walter Rye). The arrangements showed that the officials were past masters in the art of successfully engineering a show, and, as the hall admirably suits their methods, owing to its grand space and light, nothing was in any way lacking. That the show is gaining in popularity year by year is an accepted fact, and this year's venture beats all predecessors of recent years. Impartial judges affirm that it is the best show ever held since the resuscitation of the club some eight years ago. Visitors were highly interested in the drawing competition, open to boys attending schools in Norwich. Their work, exhibited at the front of the stage, bears the stamp of merit, the effort of the winner being highly meritorious. There was general regret at the illness of the appointed Crest judge, Mr. W. E. Greeves, who was unable to fulfil his engagement. The committee were fortunate in obtaining the help of that well-known Crest breeder, Mr. F. W Barnett, who at some inconvenience was good enough to step into the breach and undertake the Crests and Crest-breds in the place of Mr. Greeves. Mr. J. Dobson judged the Plainhead classes, excepting the Amateur and Novice, which were taken by Messrs. J. Stark and A. Woollard, while Mr. J. F. Hills adjudicated upon the British, Foreign, and Mule Classes. We heard very little adverse comment on their decisions.

WEST STANLEY.

At this fixture on Nov. 28th the cage birds were by no means strong. This, we heard, is attributable to the fact that the Society were unable to obtain the Cage Bird Union's license. A few very nice exhibits were shown, and these were admirably staged on the platform. Capable stewards had charge, and Mr. T. J. Ambrose, who had a heavy morning's work in the fur section, judged in a painstaking manner. The show being on a Saturday and the railway accommodation none too good would no doubt account somewhat for the meagre support. In classes of less than six entries the first prize was withheld. Mr. J. H. Leighton made a most capable and obliging secretary, and is to be congratulated on his efforts.

COVENTRY (Godiva.)

Second annual open show held November 28th at the Chequers Hotel, Little Park-street. As was only to be expected, the Norwich were the feature of the show; these classes were well filled, and competition was very close—so close, in one or two instances, that it only needed a bit extra condition and polish to be able to turn the tables on the birds higher up. A hot-coloured clear buff led off, a bird of grand quality of feather and shape, closely followed by same owner's unevenly marked, third was a trifle larger. The winning buff was another bird of rare shape, and short, well-carried wings and tail. The second had good head and front. The hens were a very level lot, and must have taken a deal of sorting out. The winner was very typical, and of splendid quality. The second, a yellow, and third, buff, were of good all-round Norwich properties. Several larger birds were in the class, but the judge went for birds right through the Norwich classes of good medium size that were full in head, and well cut away behind perch. The unflighted classes contained some grand birds. Messrs. Symonds' winning yellow was of lovely colour and quality, with the shortest of wings and a good headpiece; this bird secured Ramsden's special. The winning unflighted buff is a grand shape, short, thick-set body, full head and neck, close and compact in feather, the second and third running it very closely. The Yorkshires were not very numerous, but what was lacking in quantity was made up for in quality. Mr. Burke's buff was the pick of the basket. He secured the special over the Yorkshire and Cinnamon classes. The bird has good length, rare stand, and finish, is full of style, and is feathered to perfection. The winning yellow has feather of splendid quality, is of good shape, and well drawn out. The unflighted winning yellow was another good one, though the second, a bird of warm colour, must have given it some trouble, being only beaten in length of side. In the class for dark Canary Mule (except Canary Bullfinch), Mr. Edwards scored with a romping good Linnet-Canary, and the A.O.V. Mule or Hybrid class again found him at the top with a really good Green-finch-Bullfinch in magnificent condition. A Gold-finch-Bullfinch was second, and a Linnet-Bullfinch third, both being exceptionally good ones, and well worth all they got. The limit classes were a strong lot, and contained some very cheap birds, those for £2 2s. and 25/- pairs being especially so. The Hinckley winning Goldfinch turned up, and again defied all-comers, though the second, a trifle larger bird and very showy, ran him very close up. The winning Bullie is a real topper, and the same remark applies to the winning Gale, which secured special for best British. Mr. W. Vardy (Nottingham) was down to do the Canaries, and Mr. W. G. Poole (Stratford-on-Avon) the British and Foreign birds, but owing to illness Mr. Vardy was unable to keep his appointment, so Mr. Poole did the lot, his awards meeting with general approval from the large company present. The show was excellently managed by Mr. W. H. Bray, the hon. sec., who is to be congratulated on that account. He was ably assisted by the show stewards, Messrs. J. Bent, H. Ward, J. Symonds, A. Symonds, T. A. Cooke, W. Houlden, B. Roberts, J. Allen, and J. Ingram. The president and treasurer is Mr. J. Busby, and the vice-presidents are Messrs. J. Blackshaw and A. Wright. Mr. J. Blackshaw was the show manager, and Mr. R. Symonds makes a capital assistant-secretary.

SWINDON.

Swindon and District C.B.A., first open show, held 26th and 27th November. Notwithstanding the clashing of a large number of other fixtures, the entries, which totalled nearly 600, were eminently satisfactory, and constituted a record exhibition for this district. The able and courteous Mr J Edmunds, and the hard-working, enthusiastic stewards, Messrs. Bywater, Bennett, Burson, Bale, Foster, Greenwood, Hopkins, H and R. Sendell, Sprules, Mackay, and Phinell, are to be heartily congratulated on the success of their initial venture. The hall of the Swimming Baths is exceedingly well suited for a show of this kind, the top light being particularly good, while the staging was nicely arranged, and at intervals relieved by a pleasing array of large palms and other tropical plants. Judging commenced shortly after 9 a.m., and catalogues with awards printed were on sale by 5 p.m.—smart work this, worthy of all praise. The great feature of the show was the remarkably fine display of Foreign Birds, chiefly through the efforts of the local foreign bird enthusiast, Mr. O. Millsum, who had no less than thirty entries, all rare, and in many cases unique, specimens, beautifully staged, and in grand order. The placing of the winners was an unenviable task; the Parrot class was of such extraordinary merit that the judge gave every bird out of the money a vhc card, making the remark that he should have liked to have given 1st prize to each. The large Insectivorous class contained many birds that have never been seen on the show bench previously. The British section made a grand display, the Goldfinch classes being the best we have seen this season, containing birds of exceptional merit. The judges were Mr. John Robson, Canaries and Hybrids, with Mr. John Frostick, British and Foreign birds.

The Canary section was worth a long journey to see, most of the leading Southern breeders being well represented, and competition was very keen. A gratifying item was the brisk sales on both days. Mr. Hodder's winning unfiguted yellow cock was claimed at catalogue price, also Mr. Gwilliam's winning ticked buff cock, while Mr. Schneider's yellow cock, 1st in his class in Novice Section, met the same fate. Many visitors honoured the Swindon Fanciers' Show by a visit, amongst whom we noticed Messrs. Rennie, Mathes, C. E. Brown, Spoor, Yates, Fulbrook, and Hodder, all of whom were loud in their praise of the way the birds were arranged, etc. Owing to Mr. Allsopp, who undertook to report the Canary section, not fulfilling his obligation, exhibitors in that section are unfortunately deprived of any comments.

BOURNEMOUTH.

The 17th annual show of the Bournemouth and Dist. C.B.A. was held on Dec. 1st and 2nd. The venue was the Winter Gardens, a grand place for a bird show, it being well lighted, roomy, and warm. The exhibits were well staged in tiers, which were nicely draped with hunting, which gave the show a very smart and cheerful appearance. The committee did their best to ensure the comfort of their charges, and were most assiduous in their attention. The entries did not reach those of last year owing to the Society not having the patronage this year of any specialist club, and also to two or three fanciers, who made heavy entries last year, having left the district. The quality in most of the classes was excellent, many grand exhibits being staged. The members' challenge cup was won by Mr. T. Neale, with a very smart unflighted clear yellow Norwich. The awards were quickly put up, and catalogues with marginal awards were on sale soon after 2.30, a very smart and creditable performance. Messrs. Leech and Jones, the hon. secretaries, worked like Trojans; they made an ideal pair, being methodical in their efforts, and most courteous and obliging. When we left early in the afternoon the show was thronged with visitors, and there appeared to be every prospect of the venture turning out a huge success. Mr. J. H. Payne judged Canaries, and Mr. W. G. Poole the British and Foreign birds and Mules.

EDINBURGH AND DISTRICT O.S.

The seventeenth annual show was held in the Free Gardeners' Hall, Abbeymount, on November 14th. The entries, compared with last year's total, were in excess on all sides, and in all classes the birds were of excellent quality. Competition, too, was keen. The judge's decisions were well received. Mr. Macolm won special for best Scotch Fancy in hall, Mr. Smith being runner-up. In the Norwich section Mr. Spence won both specials. In the Scotch Fancy novice class Mr. Robinson won, and Mr. Malcolm won a similar honour in the Norwich section. Mr. Gourlay won members' special for best Border. Mr. A. Smith won Councillor Stewart's special for most points in all classes. The show was well attended during the afternoon, and in every way was a very successful one. The arrangements were in the hands of Mr. G. R. Smith, the secretary, who handled his duties well. Mr. R. S. Spence is the President, and the committee consists of the following: Messrs. Dalling, Morrison, Dougall, Gourlay, A. Smith, junr., Sneath, and Thomson. The judges were Messrs. W. Thornton and J. M'Lay.

DUNDEE.

The City of Dundee and Dis. C.B.S. (amalgamated) held their annual show in the Gymnasium, Ward Road, on Nov. 28th, under the patronage of Scot. C.C. and Scot. F.C., also the Glasgow and Western Counties, N.C., M.B., and F.B.C. Entries came up well and compared favourably with those of last year. The hall is all that could be desired for a show. The president, Mr. Jas. Howie, had a hard morning's work in staging the birds, he was ably assisted by the vice-president, Mr. D. Smith, and Mr. Alex. Miller, secretary and treasurer, who is a past master in the art of carrying out a successful show. The Norwich section was in the able hands of that well-known fancier, Mr. Alex. McFarlane (Glasgow), who without doubt knows the type of a Norwich that is required to win on the show bench. He gave every satisfaction. Mr. P. Pettigrew (Glasgow) judged the British and foreign birds with great success. Crests and Crossbreds were ably judged by Mr. J. Mellay (Kirkintilloch). Special mention may be made of the grand Dark-Crested hen shown by Mr. Wallace; also the clear C.B. hen of Mr. Wm. Cairns.

DARLINGTON.

The 4th annual show was held in the Corn Exchange on Nov. 28th, with a record entry both in quality and quantity. The society were favoured in having the Mayor (Councillor Biggs) to open the show, which he did in a few well-chosen words. Yorkshires were strong in numbers, and some real good birds were staged. In Norwich, type and quality were well represented. As usual, Britishers were exceptionally strong, the class of Goldies being the best seen in the North this season. We regret to say that Mr. Wekin's Tree Creeper died in spite of every attention soon after being judged. Mr. Brunskill carried out the secretarial duties in this usual able and efficient manner, and was assisted by a band of hard-working stewards headed by the chairman, Mr. R. Todd. Mr. Cowgill judged all Canaries, and Mr. Maddison the remainder, and their awards gave satisfaction, as we never heard a grumble.

LEEDS.

Leeds C.H.S. held their 19th annual exhibition in the Salem Lecture Hall, Hunslet Road, on Nov. 27th and 28th. The room is a grand one for the purpose, being well lighted and free from draughts. Entries came up well, nearly every class being nicely filled, and this together with the fact that there was a grand attendance made the show a success in every respect. Yorkshire classes contained many noted champions, particularly the clear yellow cock and hen of Messrs. Ambler, the yellow hen of Mr. Brown's, the ticked hull of Messrs. Greaves and Crabtree, and the unflighted yellow of Messrs. Wright and Son. A class worth going a long way to see was that for heavily variegated Yorkshires, which was quite a show in itself. The Greens, both Yorkshires and Norwich, were good throughout, not a bad one being amongst them. Norwich made a nice show, and some right good red hot clubby specimens were on view. British and Foreign birds were a grand lot, and made a very interesting and instructive side show, there being some very rare birds amongst them. Hyde's special was won by Mr. H. Smith, Mr. Ramsden's goblet by Mr. W. Johnson, Mr. Sandiford's medal by Mr. D. Edwards, and the Foreign Bird Club medal by Mr. J. H. Harrison. Mr. A. Wilkins, the secretary has, it is very evident, little to learn in the art of show managing, he having everything in apple-pie order, and well under control, and being extremely courteous and obliging to all. He was well supported by the committee, Messrs. F. King (chairman), J. Chambers (vice-chairman), N. S. Love, H. Woof, J. Owen, A. Chew, R. E. Simpson, G. Hallet, F. Farrar, R. S. Banks, W. Ireland, E. Stokoe, and J. W. Medley, the treasurer, Mr. W. Ireland, all genuine fanciers, who have the welfare of the society at heart. Messrs. J. Robson, and J. Beswick judged.

SOUTHALL.

This show was held in St. John's Hall, on the 26th November, and was successful. It was the society's 11th venture, and was as well managed as any previous event, which is saying a great deal. The hon. secretary, Mr. A. Smith, backed by a committee of excellent fanciers, such as Messrs. J. Higgins, Timberlake, Brooks, Lingwood, Hoaken, A. Allwork, H. W. Allwork, Frant, and Argyle, made every arrangement for the comfort of the exhibits that the circumscribed space of the hall would allow. A courteous and enthusiastic cage bird steward had charge of the exhibits, which consequently received every attention. Quality was well represented, particularly in the Yorkshires. In the British bird section were several nice Goldfinches. Mr. F. Easterling judged, and his awards seemed to give satisfaction.

CIRENCESTER.

The 11th annual show was held on November 20th in the Bingham Hall. The cage birds were staged in an ante room by themselves, and were quite free from all draughts. Owing to the fact that entries were returned a sent after advertised date of closing, and also to a shortage of schedules, the entry was a poor one. Some nice birds were staged that were worthy of stronger competition. The hon. sec. Mr. Inward was a most obliging hon. sec, and did his work well. He was ably assisted by a very capable committee. Mr. J. H. Payne made the awards, and appeared to give every satisfaction.

OXFORD.

Entries came up badly in the cage bird section of the show of the Oxford F.S., held in the Corn Exchange on November 26th. The fixture was this year confined to the counties of Oxon, Bucks, and Berks, not at all fertile ground for cage bird exhibits; yet there should have been a better response to the committee's appeal. The two Foreign bird classes, and two of the British had to be cancelled. If the entry was not a large one, the quality of the exhibits was most excellent, several very noted winners being stnged, and their wants were well looked after by the cage-bird members of the executive; they looked very snug and comfortable. Both the members' challenge cups fell to Mr. J. A. Lees, his well-known wing-marked Jonque Goldie Mule taking that for the best Canary or Mule, and bis Linnet-Bullfinch Hybrid that for the best British Hybrid. The committee responsible for this year's fixture were Messrs. H. Johnson (chairman), J. C. Cortis, J. A. Lees, A. Galpin, W. White, W. R. Lee, R. G. Gillard, F. Butler, F. Pnlmer, A. Lewin, A. Payne, and S. Boulton, witb Mr. W. F. Cross as treasurer, and Messrs. A. H. Calcutt and H. Leden as hon .secs.; and the manner in which they all strove to make the show a success was most commendable. It is to be boped that when the balancesheet is prepared it will be of a satisfactory character. The show was a nice one, and well managed Mr. C. A. House judged.

HUDDERSFIELD.

Huddersfield's annual show took place on November 28th. The Primitive Methodist Schoolroom is of grand light, very spacious, and well ventilated. The show was under the Y.U. rules, and had the patronage of the Y.C.C. and C.M. Club. This being one of the Yorkshire Challenge Cup fixtures, competition ran exceedingly keen. All the "cream" was present, and hard and fierce was the battle. Mr. J. G. Barnes (Sheffield), who adjudicated this section, had a hard task before him. In the champion classes, which numbered 14, 180 entries were obtained. Novice classes, as usual, were hot; 126 birds turned up in the six classes set apart for them, giving an average of 21 per class. Norwich were up in fair numbers. Mr. Trengove (Rishton) appeared quite happy in his selections. Prize-money here was 22/- per class, and the classes provided deserved better support than 57 birds. Cinnamon marks were truly a superb lot. A better quality collection we have not seen for many a day. Leading winners amongst the novices were Messrs. Turton, Livesey, Lumb, Sowden, and Beaumont (Yorkshires), and Sykes and Fortunin (Norwich), with exhibits quite good enough to win at many open fixtures. Sandiford's medal went to Mr. J. Wilcock; special for best 4th cock was gained by Mr. A. Hirst; that for best 4th hen fell to Mr. H. J. Chittenden. Mr. W. Gledhill acts as president; he is a most genuine and enthusiastic fancier. The vice-president is Mr. G. Cartwright, also a capital official. The treasurer, Mr. W. H. Waring, is the right man in the right place. The committee are a band of well-known and well-tried men, who do all in their power to help things on, and deserve great praise for the manner in which they execute their duties. Mr. S. Lodge (secretary) and Mr. W. L. Brier (assistant secretary) are a brace of fine workers, and trot well together. They have every item at their fingers' tips, and are courteous in the highest degree. If the attendance of visitors is anything to go on (the show room was literally packed when we left), they can rest content that things will come out on the right side. Staging was of a very neat order; every specimen could be seen with ease. Prize-cards were promptly affixed by capital stewards. The management throughout was excellent, and everything went as smoothly as marriage bells. Mr. J. C. Barnes (Sheffield) took all the Yorkshires, he being the official judge, elected by the Y.U. Mr. J. Trengove (Rishton), adjudicated upon the Norwich and British birds. Their awards were well received.

EDINBURGH N.C. AND M.B.S.

Ninth annual show held November 21st. It proved a record both for numbers and quality. Norwich opened the programme, and here were to be found some of Scotia's prominent exhibitors contesting with the cream of the Fancy. Crests and C.B.s were a grand lot. These classes were judged by Mr. Adams (Dundee), who was happy in his selection. Borders were a representative lot; the B.F.C.C. medal and cup were secured by a grand green shown by Mr. Buglass. These classes and the Any Other Variety classes were judged by Mr. J. W. Bruce (Coldstream), who pleased the majority. British, Mules, etc., were a fine lot, too, and were carefully selected by Mr. J. Pendrigh (Edinburgh) to everyone's satisfaction. The management was ideal, Mr. Welsh, the secretary, having the reins well in hand, and carrying out everything to a complete and satisfactory conclusion. He was ably assisted by a willing committee composed of genuine fanciers. The show was held in the Buccleuch Hall, an ideal place, being well lighted.

WORTHING.

The 16th annual show of the Worthing F.A., took place in the Imperial Institute, on November 25th and 26th, and was a great success, thanks to the able management of the excellent hon. secretary, Mr. H. Tate, and his assistant, Mr. G. White, backed, as they were, by a splendid body of fanciers in the committee, Councillor W. Walter (chairman), Messrs. C. Pilgrim (vice-chairman), T. Gale, H. Hopper, G. Stubbs, A. Williams, and Councillor F. Tate (hon. treasurer). The Institute is a capital place for a show. The entries were good, and the quality was very nice. British birds came up well, as was to be expected in the home of that now well-known lady exhibitor, Miss Hopwood. Mr. Geo. Gardner judged Canaries and Foreign, and Mr. M. Penfold took the British. The show was opened by the Mayor (J. G. Denton, Esq.), who is an old cage bird fancier, and who that day had succeeded, to his great pleasure and satisfaction, in winning special for best Yorkshire.

CHAPEL-EN-LE-FRITH.

Annual 12 miles radius show held on November 21st, in the Church School. A very good entry was obtained (for a radius show), the quality being very high. The Yorkshire classes were both of very good quality, Mr. Vernon showing two grand exhibits and gaining special for best bird in show. Competition was also keen in Norwich. Mr. J. R. Cooper makes a most obliging secretary, being ably assisted by a hard-working committee, composed of Messrs. G. Mayle (chairman), R. J. Hunter (vice-chairman), S. Mycock, G. Lomas, S. Arsen, G. Simpson, Peter Vernon, J. Ford, J. H. Martin, H. Chapman, etc. Mr. A. J. Gladwin judged.

CAMBRIDGE.

The 15th annual show of the Cambridgeshire O.S. was held in the Corn Exchange on November 25th and 26th. The committee are certainly to be congratulated upon an entry of considerably over 2,000, in which the caged birds section staged a very important part. The whole of the arrangements were in the very capable hands of Mr. W. Driver, the indefatigable hon. secretary, Messrs. Linsey and Edwards occupying the position of bird stewards. The hall was kept at a suitable temperature. The Norwich section was fairly good, while the Yorkshires were considerably above the average both in numbers and quality. Mules and British classes contained a number of choice specimens, while the foreign birds were a show in themselves. Mrs. C. L. Anningson (a local exhibitor), with a grand team of no less than 30 exhibits (including the very rare Banksian Cockatoo, for which bird we understand that lady has refused a very high figure), captured, as might be expected, most of the prizes. Mr. H. T. Camp judged the Foreigners, and Mr. T. J. Ambrose the remainder.

WHITBY.

The 23rd show of the Whitby F.S. was held on November 25th, under the general secretaryship of Mr. J. G. Tomlinson, a most energetic and thorough official. The caged bird section was held for the first time in the new Market Hall, a very great improvement on the hall where shows have been previously held, it being lofty, well lighted, free from draught, and in every way fitted for show purposes. The exhibits were attended to by Messrs. F. C. Agar, W. Watmough, R. Dickenson, J. M. Fletcher, W. Porritt, with Messrs. J. P. Stamp and F. Calam as sectional secretaries. They are all enthusiastic, so that everything went well. The entry was a good one, averaging just over twelve per class. The classification might with advantage be improved upon another year, especially seeing that Whitby is so noted for British birds. Mr. E. Brunskill judged.

House's Canary Manual - - - - Post free 1/2

By C. A. House.

This is a thorough and practical guide to the general management and breeding of Canaries, written by a well-known expert and judge. It contains chapters dealing fully with the breeding, etc., of every member of the Canary family, and an illustration of each bird, by the master Canary artist, Mr. H. Norman, reproduced in the finest art style. There are also exhaustive chapters on aviaries and cages, breeding procedure, moulting, exhibiting, diseases, and seeds—a compendium of knowledge approached by no other book of its kind at the price

CAGE BIRDS, 154, Fleet Street, London, E.C.

LONG EATON.

First open show held Nov. 28th and 30th in the People's Hall. The management was ideal, everything being grandly arranged, the staging too being a nice height. The hall is an ideal one for a show, being excellently lighted, well ventilated, and very spacious. The Norwich made a capital display; Mr. W. Bowyer staged a nice team, and also Mr. E. Fox, who captured three firsts, his noted marked yellow and clear buff hen standing well out. The unflighted classes were heavy and keenly contested, some gems being staged. Yorkshire's were hardly so good in number, but the quality was A1; and Crests and Crestbreds were a grand collection. Mr G. Colledge having a grand team out. The Mules on the whole were good, and British were also a fine collection. The birds in the two Foreign classes (although not many in number), made a capital show. Mr. J. Turner carried out the secretarial duties to perfection, being ably assisted by a hard working committee, composed of Messrs. O. Clark (chairman), H. Hay (vice-chairman), E. Fox, W. Haliam, W. Schofield, A. Horwood, E. Wilcox, C. Rodgers, H. Sheldon, R. S. Turner, R. Hexter, J. Wood, E. Barker and J. Lowe. The entries came up well, being 320 in the 42 classes. Judging was over in good time and prize cards displayed promptly. The judges were Mr. J. H. Ree, the Norwich, Borders, and foreign birds, and Mr. J. Robson, the Crests, Yorkshires, British and Mules.

TICK (5): 1, 3, Cuthbertson, winner ticked yell., shines like satin, capital position and length, A1 quality and feather; 3rd, thigh ticked buff, well up in colour, superior feather, neat neck, head, and wings; 2, Parkes, neck marked yell., lovely colour and condition, capital length, A1 stand; vhc, Day; hc, Hymas. UNFLIG. (8): 1, Broughton, head marked buff, grand length and stand, smooth as glass, capital quality, A1 wings and back; 2, hc, c, White, cl. yell., stands like a guardsman, grand back and flights; 3, Cuthbertson, very stylish cl. buff, grand length and position; vbc, Flint. YELL. HEN (6): 1, vhc, Sutcliffe and Sons, cl., good length and stand, lovely colour, straight as a rush, in champion condition; 2, hc, Cuthbertson, head marked, long, typical, and upstanding, fine position very neat head and neck; 3, Broughton, cl., grand wings, racy and typical, stands well; c, Day. BUFF (6): 1, 2, Broughton, cl. and eye mark in order named, 1st clinking specimen, straight as a dart, fine silky feather; 2nd, spanking eye mark, grand level colour, neat head and back, in nice condition; 3, Cuthbertson, eye mark, grand length and position, nice level colour, stands well; vhc, Hawley; hc, Crowson; wrong class. Day. BORD. (4): 1, Taylor, cl. buff, well moulded, perfect wing and tail carriage, good quality of feather; 2, Wigginton, yell. green, lovely shape, grand head, perfect carriage, well shown; 3, vhc, Hall, splendid type, good pipe, tail, nice head and feather; vhc, very neat cl. UNFLIG (3): 1, 3, Wigginton, chin. green, and head and wing marked buff, leader perfect carriage, feather like wax, splendid position and style; 3rd, perfect head, grand eye, free mover, the type that is wanted; 2, Tyler, cl. buff, grand colour, wings and tail superb. A.O.V. (10): 1, 3, hc, Gilbert, two four-pointed buff Nor., both grand size and shape, grand head and wings, in lovely condition; 2, vhc, c, Seed, three cinns., in tip-top bloom, lovely shape throughout, neat head and front, A1 wing carriage. NOR. (NOVICE) (13): 1, Wilcox and Sons, cl. yell., grand shape, nice head and neck, rare wing carriage, stout front, in rare form; 2, he, cl. yell., Coltman, stout, good head and back, finely drawn, well staged; 3, Dallman and Sons, cl. buff, strongly made, plenty of substance, nice colour and condition; vhc, Eaton, very neat head and wing marked buff; c, Bentley. YORKS. (14): 1, Andrews, cl. yell., well up on leg, grand position and colour, neat head and wings, in lovely feather; 2, Day, cl. buff, very racy and typical, stands on good legs, nice even colour, in lovely condition; 3, Eaton, cl. yell., lovely feather, well up on leg, nicely finished; vhc, c, Rodgers and Orchard, nice length and position, not long enough; hc, Clarke. CREST (6): 1, 2, Barker, leader good one, nice round crest, finely centred; 2nd, good one, fine length of feather, well forward; 3, c, Barber, good bird, nice at back, well groomed; vhc, Dunn; hc, Shelton. C.B. (10): 1, 2, E. Barker, 1st buff variег., well up in substance, capital quality, lovely width of skull; 2nd, yell. green, good quality and shape, nice size, plenty of feather; 3, Bentley, buff green, good substance and quality; vhc, hc, R. Barber, two very nice buff variег., in lovely condition; hc, Stevens. MULE, LIGHT (5): 1, Gilbert; 2, hc, Colton and Dawn, look like cl., both Goldies, leader fine size and colour, 2nd very neat all through, as they stood at Nottingham; 3, Lander, fine coloured Gold-Canary, also nice one for shape and quality; vhc, he, Vardy. DARK (1): Cooper and Sons, dark, Goldie-Can., rare size and quality, in lovely condition. A.O.V. MULE (except Can. Bullie) (4): 1, Smith; 2, Lander, both Siskin-Canaries, both nice size, good quality and colour, fine condition; No. 2 Hingley, No. 3 Alton, wrong class. HYB. (6): 1, 2, Colton and Dawn, leader noted Redpoll-Bullie, best for size and markings, in rare condition, Nottingham winner; 2nd, Greenie-Bullie, very smart, excellent size and shape; 3, Gilbert, very smart Redpoll-Goldie, nice size and shape, good colour; vhc, Cooper; hc, Hexter; c, Hingley. GOLDFINCH (8): 1, Lander, grand one for blaze and quality, lovely size and shape, well tanned and marked, good one; 2, Hexter, also very shapely, nice size, square cut face, good moons and buttons; 3, Wilcox and Sons, rare size and shape, excellent blaze, smart one; vhc, Hexter; hc, Bexson; c, Robinson. BULLFINCH (5): 1, Harrison, beautiful type and size, broad chest, nice cap, excellent back and bars, one of the best, Liverpool, Nottingham, Hull, etc., winner, in grand form to-day; 2, Hexter, another good one, will improve in colour later, neat cap, bars and back; 3, Tyler, grand stamp, good colour, very steady, hardly size; vhc, Chick; hc, Henshaw; c, Garton. LINNET (4): 1, Chick, easy win, rare size, well marked on breast, fine chest, grand flights; 2, Alton, very shapely, well got up, good tone of colour, nice size and condition; 3, Robinson, good colour and marking, in fine order; vhc, Hadley. SISKIN, ETC. (9): 1, Robinson, Greenie, real good one, grand size, lovely shade of colour, rare shape, good head and front; 2, he, Henshaw, Redpoll, nice size, rare bib, well marked in extra bloom; 3, Hexter, Siskin, grand size, lovely quality feather, very neat cap, splendidly laced on sides, well staged; vhc, Turner; c, Widdowson. A.O.S. FINCH (6): 1, Chick, noted Hawfinch, The Prince, topper for size, in beautiful condition, walks over; 2, Asbury, Bramble, in nice condition, good colour and markings, good size, very steady; 3, Bexon, another Bramble, nice size, rather wild at time of taking notes; vhc, Hexter; hc, Garton; w.c., Chick, Meadow Bunting. BRIT., LARGE (3): 1, Hexter; 2, Heathfield, two very nice Thrushes, in lovely condition, winner grand size and markings. FOR., LARGE (4): 1, Stocker, Eclectus Parrot, in lovely feather; 2, Mrs. Henton, really fine Blue and Amber Macaw, in grand condition; 3, Hadley, Bluebonnet Parraket, well shown; vhc, Garton, pair of fine Japanese Hawfinches. SMALL (12): 1, 3, Stocks, Superb and Scarlet Tanager, two beauties, best possible condition, and staged in A1 form; 2, vhc, Mrs. Duncan, beautiful pair Green Budgerigars, lovely markings and colour, very nice size; hc, Garton; c, Bexon. SELL. (15/-) (9): 1, R. Holmes; 2, Sutcliffe and Son; 3, Barber; vhc, Hadley; hc, Ball and Sons; c, Flint. (30/-) (10): 1, 3, R. Holmes; 2, Colver; vhc, Holmes; he, c, Hallam. GIFT (5): 1, Wigginton; 2, Bentley; 3, Turner; vhc, Smith; hc, Schofield.

The Housing and Treatment of Foreign Birds in Captivity.

By WESLEY T. PAGE, F.Z.S., etc.

THE LAVENDER-BACKED FINCH (S. castaneiventris).—An interesting and pretty species, with a sweet little song. There are four at present on view in the new bird house at the Zoo.

I became possessed of one of this species in July, 1907, and at time of writing it is doing well, just successfully through its second moult in this country. It did well both in a cage and an outdoor aviary, in the latter place it has been since April of this year, and is there seen at its best. At the same time, I have seen some very fit specimens which are kept continually in cages, but they appear at their best disporting amid the greenery of an outdoor aviary, though of a retiring nature.

Adult male: The general colour of the upper surface is blue-grey, which is also the colour of the lesser wing-coverts; median and greater coverts, black, tipped and edged with blue-grey; bastard wing, primaries, and flights, black, edged with blue-gray; the inner secondaries are broadly edged with ashen, and the inner primaries with a small white spot at the base of the outer web; upper tail-coverts, crown of the head, ear-coverts, cheeks, and sides of the face, blue-grey slightly washed with dusky; tail feathers, blackish with grey edgings. Lower surface: throat, breast, abdomen and under tail-coverts, ruddy chestnut; sides of body, flanks and thighs, blue-grey, a small spot of pure white at base of mandible; beak and feet, brown; iris, deep brown. Total length, 3¼in. bare; tail, 1⅜in.

Adult female: The upper surface is mostly brown, lighter and more ruddy on the lower back and rump; wings, dusky-brown, with the lesser coverts darker, primaries and flights edged with olive; upper tail-coverts, brown; tail-feathers, brown, narrowly edged with olive; lores, eye region, ear-coverts and under surface, pale olivo-brown; with the breast, abdomen, under tail-coverts, pale buffish-ochre. Total length, 3½in.; of which the tail measures 1⅜in.

The description of the male is from living specimens at the Zoo; that of the female from Museum skins. Its range according to Museum catalogue is Guiana and Columbia to Lower Amazonia and Peru.

S. pauper.—Similar to Sombre Finch, but darker generally, the eye region being lighter. "Adult male: General colour, above brown with an olive tinge; lesser and median coverts, like the backs; greater coverts, bastard wing, primary-coverts, and quills, dusky brown edged with the same colour as the back; the greater coverts and inner secondaries rather more reddish on the margins; upper tail coverts, like the back; tail feathers, brown edged with paler brown; crown of head, slightly more ashy than the back; lores and feathers round the eye, ashy whitish; ear-coverts, dull ashy brown; cheeks and throat, pale ashy; sides of neck like the head; fore neck and breast, dark ashy brown, washed with olivo; abdomen, whitish; sides of body and flanks, olivo-brown; thighs, olive-brown; under tail-coverts, pale fulvous; iris, dark brown (J. Stolzmann). Total length, 3.5 inches; tail, 1.5 inches; habitat, Ecuador to Peru."

S. talasco.—The general colour of the upper surface is ashen-brown, mottled with darker (blackish) centres on the upper back; rump and upper tail-coverts more ashen and only slightly mottled, a white band across the lower rump; the lesser coverts as back with blackish bases; the remainder of the wing-coverts are blackish with light brown edges and much lighter at their ends; the inner primaries and secondaries have whitish margins, and are white at the base, forming a double wing-patch; tail-feathers, blackish with ashen margins and tips and white at their bases; crown of head dark ashen with minute dark streakings; nape, sienna-brown; a fine white line divides the cheeks from the throat, which is chestnut with a purplish sheen; sides of neck, light brown; remainder of under-surface white, washed with sandy-brown on the breast, and streaked with blackish on the sides and flanks; beak, blackish; legs and feet ashen-brown. Total length, 4in.; tail, 1⅛in.

According to the British Museum catalogue the adult male in winter plumage is much browner, with darker brown centres to feathers; the head is brown, and the light edges to the wing-coverts and quills broader and more hoary; the chestnut spot on the throat much obscured by sandy margins to the feathers.

The female is much browner than the male, lacks his chestnut throat and white rump-band; the under surface of body is tawny-buff. Habitat, Peru to Ecuador.

S. inornata.—The adult male is bluish-grey above, mottled with blackish on the upper back, and only slightly so on the crown; median and greater coverts dusky-black, with outer webs bluish-grey, the latter have white tips; remainder of wing-coverts, quills and tail-feathers dusky-brown with ashen edges, the primaries edged with ashy-white; sides of face and under surface, pale ashen merging into white on the lower abdomen; beak, ruddy-brown; legs and feet, dark flesh colour. Total length, 5⅜in.; tail, 2½in. Habitat, Bolivia and Ecuador.

S. homochroa.—The adult male is mostly deep slate-grey, slightly tinged with olive-brown on the under surface; forehead, lores, cheeks, and ear-coverts, blackish; beak, yellowish; legs and feet, dark flesh-colour. Total length, 4¾in.; tail, 2in.

The adult female is brown on the upper surface, streaked with darker; greater coverts tipped with tawny, other wing-coverts dark brown with lighter margins; tail feathers, dark brown with ashen edges; the under parts are mostly lighter or darker olivo-brown, almost whitish on the breast and abdomen. Habitat, Peru and Ecuador.

S. analis.—Adult male: Upper surface, slaty-grey; median, greater and primary wing-coverts, black edged with slate-grey; primaries are white at the base forming a largish wing-patch; quills, black with hoary margins; upper tail-coverts slaty-grey mottled with blackish; tail-feathers, black with ashy edges, and the outer ones tipped with white on the inner web, and a round spot midway up the inner web; front of head, lores, eye-region, chin, ear-coverts and cheeks, black, the two latter having the hind portions black; throat, sides of neck, and remainder of under surface, slate-grey; centre of breast and abdomen, white. Total length, 4⅞in.; tail, 2in.

The adult female differs from the male in being light brown above, streaked with blackish; lower back, rump, and upper tail-coverts, greyish with narrow black streakings, lesser coverts, ashen; median-, greater-, and primary-coverts and quills, dark brown edged with light; primaries have white bases forming a white wing-patch; tail feathers, brown, narrowly edged with paler brown and with a large patch of white about the middle of inner web; under surface, ashy-white with narrow black shaft streaks; sides and flanks, washed with ashen. Slightly larger than the male (?). It is unsafe to be definite on such a point from skins, as these frequently get stretched while being preserved.

S. analoindes.—Adult male: Similar to S. analis, but has no white at the base of the primaries, these being margined with white; the black chin-patch is smaller, and the white of the under parts blurred with ashy. Total length, 4½in.; tail, 2in.

The adult female only differs from the female of S. analis in having less white at the base of the privaries. Habitat, Columbia, Ecuador, Peru, and Bolivia.

Bird Catching for Amateurs.

The Spring Net Trap.

There is yet another method; this may be classed as the softbill trap. In regard to this particular method there is a diversion of opinion as to the pattern of the wire spring trap. The one I have here to-night you will notice is a half-circle in shape. Another, doubtless you saw illustrated in CAGE BIRDS on August 1st, is shown to be eliptical in shape. But when set, it was of the exact shape of the one I use; therefore, I claim for the man who made the net before you, that his is the best, owing to the saving of material and also to the simpler mode of setting same. And I think I am right in saying that the gentleman who is the original maker of this half-elipfical trap is a London born man, well known to most softbill fanciers in London, and if ever a man knew a bird and how to catch it better than the one whom I have in my mind, I should be pleased to meet him. I take this opportunity of paying this bird-catcher these compliments as a small acknowledgement of the many "quiffs" and many clever hints he was good enough to convey to me.

In using this trap, you are guided more by the particular species of bird you desire to catch than anything else. Redstarts, Stonechats, Whinchats, etc., are caught where furze bushes abound. Shrikes are caught around their haunts, or near their nests, in a thick thorn hedge. But the bird most sought after in the use of these traps is the Nightingale. So I will deal with him as an example.

In case any of our friends (the enemy) are looking out for a point at which to attack once again the birdcatcher in general or myself, I assure you I never catch a 'gale after April or the first week in May, nor before August. The best time to seek the 'gale is in the early spring, when numbers of them first arrive then you are sure of catching cock birds as they arrive quite a fortnight before the hens.

An Easy Victim.

I will imagine ourselves seeking 'gales; we are walking down a quiet lane. On our right there is a well-covered spinney, and hark! Tiu, tiu, tiu, tiu, spe, tiu, zqua, tio, tio, tio, tio, tio, tio, tio, tis, qutio, qutio, qutio, qutio, zquo, zquo, zquo, zquo, tzu, tzu, tzu, tzu, tzu, tzu, tzu, tzu, tzu, tzu, quorror, tiu, zqua, pipiquisi, zo zo zo zo zo zo zo zo zo zo zo zo zo zo gizzholding. Yes, that's the 'gale's welcome to spring. If you approach that bird gently and set your trap properly you can bet a mealworm to a shilling that the bird is yours. You must proceed to rake up the mould so as to make it look fresh to the bird, then out with your trap, pull back the netted wing and peg the trap to the ground with either a stout wire or a wooden crook. Then pull back your wire, hold fast over your net and adjust to your cork trigger. Then pin your mealworm through on to the said trigger, so that the least touch of the "bait" will send the net over. After that just cover the net lightly with a few dried leaves and it is ready to receive invited guests. And in this case, it's not the smaller the catch the more valued the prize, for instead of catching your 'gale you will probably catch Robin Redbreast or the ever-busy Accentor, but if you are lucky, in a very few minutes' time after you've left your trap, you may walk back again and get your 'gale.

After catching him you will need to carry him home. To manage this, I got my wife to make me some small linenette bags, after the same style as our school-day marble bags, so that when the bird was put in one of them he could not knock himself about and could at the same time have plenty of fresh air. But do not put more than one bird in one bag, or you may find both your day's sport and your birds killed.

I trust this condensed discription of the spring trap, for the intending seeker after Soft-bills, will prove sufficient, and as practice is much better than theory, you will go on improving as time goes on.

On the Use of Bird-lime.

With your kind indulgence, I will next endeavour to deal with another method of "snaring"; this one I mention almost at the end of the paper for the simple reason that it is the last method I myself would resort to. I refer to the use of birdlime in many and varied ways.

It has only one redeeming feature to me, and that is, that as I have to seek my living in smoky London, and snatch from Saturday to Sunday night away in the country in order to share the joys of nature and the fresh air, I am compelled to use bird-lime for catching Bullfinches, etc. It takes me back in memory to my school days in a little village near the beautiful Crays, in Kent—a place called Sidcup. At one end of the road in which my parents lived, was the school I attended, and at the other end was a tremendous wood; and in that wood there were more Bullfinches than in any other wood I have ever been in. It was always my hobby to take an old trap cage, my favourite old Bully hen, and a lime stick, for the purpose of catching those Bullies. All my spare time and money went in that way, and I well remember the sad predicament those poor birds got into after I had finished with them. I was not quite so far advanced then, as I am now, in the knowledge of how best to clean them from the lime, so I used to give them such a rubbing with ashes (out of the fire-grate) that you scarcely could tell them from the ashes themselves.

Chaffinch "Pegging."

The bird that is most sought after by the means of lime is, I think, the chaffinch, during the pegging season. This method of bird-catching I was asked by one of our oldest and respected members and fanciers to omit, but I fear that a paper on bird-catching would not be complete without it, as this method is truly the working man's way of getting his share of the beautiful country and the fresh air, which by right are ours, but which by right are in many cases withheld from us by the great landowners. I know many a man who spends his spare coppers in going to Romford after a few "pleasant" birds, who would otherwise spend them probably in a public-house; and his home and self are made happy with song.

The chief requisite for pegging is a stout-singing chaffinch—one with a good heart, as it is termed, so that he will do battle with any bird whom he may meet. You will also require a "dummy"—that is, a cock Chaffinch cured and stuffed. This is mounted upon a stick with a nail diven in either end of it, so that it may in turn be driven into a tree or bar of a gate-post. You must also have your lime in a case, made so that it will carry your twigs, which are of whalebone or wire (whalebone preferable, as that will "give" more readily when the bird strikes.

How to Make Bird-boxes.

Of course, as you are going bird-catching, you expect to catch something, so you want a box to put your birds in. A good box is made from a Hudson's soap box (costing one penny). Take off the lid and in its place stretch a piece of coarse canvas; tack this on with some short tacks. Next, cut a hole in the side of your box about 4ins. in circumference, which will not represent the top. You must go very carefully about the next move. You want a stocking, and as men don't usually use these to cover their anatomy with, you must resort to your sisters's, or your wife's surplus stock, but be careful not to attack her last new pair, to get one of the legs by which you must complete your box, else the women's suffrage question will be very prominent in the debate that follows. By tacking this round and over the hole in the box, it will allow you to put the birds in, and at the same time it will prevent their escape.

The Yorkshire Canary.

By T. C. CRAWHALL.

A Lecture given by the Secretary of the Northern Yorkshire Canary Club before the Members and Friends of the Jarrow and District C.B.F.S.

There is another point emphasised by most writers on the subject of pairing, which my personal experience has not proved to be quite in keeping with theirs, that is, the pairing of a large cock to a small hen; provided the hen be very typical, the cock may be almost anything if he has size and colour. They say size and colour come from the male parent, and type and quality from the female. This has a certain amount of truth in it, and is possibly safe advice for the givers of it to follow in their own rooms with their own stock, because they will know how their birds are bred, and what they are likely to produce.

I am, however, convinced it is not a safe policy for a beginner to adopt unless he knows the dealer from whom he obtains his stock. I will give you an instance of my own: Last year I paired a yellow cock up with two buff hens of very different type. From one I had three young, all hens; from the other also three, but these were cocks. These six birds were all yellows, and all except one followed the father as regards shape. One certainly was unlike him, but it was also unlike its mother; it went back to the grandparents, being a better bird than either of its parents.

Thus you see you cannot always rely upon the young following the hen as regards shape; in fact, I may say that, as far as I could trace the shape in my birds to either parent there was a larger percentage in favour of the sire.

The Question of Feeding.

On the question of feeding I am also at slight variance with some writers. When I got my first Canary an old fancier gave me a recipe for a seed mixture, which I have given two or three times a week ever since, and I have had very few sick birds. It was equal parts German summer rape, inga, and hemp, and half parts linseed and maw seed. This I give a pinch of frequently, and during cold winter weather an extra pinch of hemp. The birds seem to appreciate the mixture very much, and it must relieve the monotony of always eating white canary seed.

Of course, my hoppers are always filled with the best Canary seed; the other I give as a kind of refresher and tonic—a change of diet. I tried teazle seed, and many of the birds liked it well, but I thought it made them too fit during the breeding season, as I had one or two hens left their nest about the twelfth day, so dropped it. I have had one hen do the same this year, so perhaps the teazle was not to blame; there is no doubt but that the birds liked it very much. I have also used groats, but some birds will not touch them, while others go for them first. I think they tighten the feather and give it a bloom, and, consequently, are very useful during moulting and show season. The much-glorified Gold of Pleasure I have not tried as yet, but perhaps I shall give it a trial during the next moult.

My method during this pairing-up season has been to give egg food one day, the mixture I mentioned the following, and the third day boiled rape mixed with a little powdered biscuit, and so far I have only had one nest in which there were more than one unfertile egg, and that was a Crest hen, in whose nest only one out of four was fertile. About twice a week I give a spray of watercress.

A Generous Diet.

Some may think that I treat my birds too generously, but I think you will agree with me that it is necessary to give changes. I have in my room at the present time an old bird which would soon die if kept on a diet of plain Canary seed. It may be that he is old and requires extra stimulating food to keep him up to par. For some time he was very poorly. I dosed him with castor oil and salts, gave him tonics and milk sop—in fact, everything I could think of, but he got gradually worse, and for three days he could not take the perches. At last, I was speaking to a friend about him, and told him how puzzled I was what to do for the bird. He advised me to crush some hemp and give him. Well, he was on the perch next day, and has gone on well ever since.

I have at present a nest of full eggs from him. I have also a Border hen at the present time which needs a lot of stimulating food. If kept on plain diet she would die. Thus, although it may be wise to keep most of your birds on a very plain diet, there are some which from the nature of their constitution require more stimulating food than others, and for the bulk of the stock I would certainly advise frequent changes. If you don't give them too much, there is no fear of them taking any harm.

The Feeding and Training of Young.

I have tried all methods of feeding the young, yet I cannot say that I have been very successful. Egg and bread, egg and biscuit, hemp, various green foods, such as lettuce, dandelion, chickweed, watercress—in fact, everything that I have seen recommended. Last season I never put egg food into the same vessel twice, still I could not rear anything like the number I should have done—in fact, I did not average two chicks per hen, and from many I did not not rear any at all—they generally died at a week to ten days old. This season I am trying Mr. J. Robson's plan. I will give it to you,—

"Commence to give a little egg food on the thirteenth day, as if the hen has been sitting close the young will in all probability be hatched by then. In fact, when the weather is warm, it is quite a common occurrence for birds to be hatched in twelve days with a close-sitting hen. I give the yoke of egg only, mixed with biscuit or home-made bread-crumbs — two parts egg to one part powdered biscuit or bread—for the first three days with hemp and German rape seed added to the Canary. After the third day give the yolk and white combined with the biscuit, and continue it until the young birds are reared, increasing the supply daily as well as the hemp seed as the birds get older. Never crush the hemp for the old birds, as it keeps the hen longer off the nest shelling it, and allows the air to get to the young, which is very beneficial and strengthening to them. On the third day also commence to give a little watercress, and continue to increase the quantity daily."

I will give you another extract from Mr. Robson on weaning the young.

"Young birds first commencing to feed themselves should have the egg food for the first week the same strength as you have been giving the old birds to feed with, after which time the egg should be gradually reduced and more biscuit added, until you have worked them entirely on to biscuit. Then you should by degrees reduce the supply of crushed biscuit until you have gradually weaned them altogether on to seed. Crushed or scalded seed should be given. I prefer the former until they can crack it for themselves, which they generally do about six weeks old."

I may say that I give lunch biscuits, for the reason that when I add a little water to moisten the egg food it does not go sticky, but remains in a crumbly state. I find the birds take the egg food better when slightly moistened.

"Steady, Boys, Steady."

If you are successful in rearing a few Yorkshire, the next thing to consider is the steadying and training. A wild bird stands no chance beside one that is steady. Mr. Hadwin told the members of the Newcastle Society last year a very good method of getting the birds steady. He runs them into a spraying cage, gives them a little spray of warmed water, then runs them into an ordinary Yorkshire show cage. They at once commence to plume themselves, and thus get used to the cage.

To get a bird used to run from the stock cage into the show cage, you simply leave the show cage in front of the stock cage for two or three days with both doors open, so that the bird can run into either cage at will, then, say, after the third day, you go to the cage with a short cane or stick, put it into the stock cage, and with a little gentle manœuvring you will get him into the show cage. After you have done this a few times, he will know exactly what is wanted, so that all you need do is to place the show cage in front of the door, gently tap the wires, and he will run in quite freely.

In position.

I have almost all my birds trained to run so that I seldom need to handle them; even some of my Crests do the same thing. When you have them trained to run into the show cage, you must leave them in for an hour or two each day. I generally put three or four cages side by side with a piece of cardboard between of just sufficient height that when the bird stands to the top perch he has to gently stretch himself to see his neighbour in the adjoining cage. This helps to get him into a good upright position, which he speedily assumes when handled.

You must handle your birds frequently if you wish them to be steady. I do not advise you to do as a friend of mine did with his Linnet, which he wanted steadied. He gave it to his two-year-old son to play with. It certainly answered in his case, but I should not care to trust a probable exhibition Yorkshire to my youngest. I'm afraid his exhibition career would be nipped in the bud.

THE YOUNG NATURALIST.

Prizes of 1s. and two of 6d. each will be given each week for the best three anecdotes about birds written on postcards. Competitors must be children under sixteen years of age, and must state from where stories are taken.

Two stars indicate the Winning Contribution; one star the runners up.

*On Bird Language.

A few days ago at the back of my house two cock Sparrows were having a battle-royal in a small fir-tree. So engrossed were they in the struggle that they did not perceive the stealthy approach of "Mischief," the old Persian cat, who appeared to imagine she saw an opportunity of obtaining an easy prey. The cat had approached within two yards of them, when a chirp from another Sparrow sitting on the fence close by gave them warning of their impending danger. The conflict was brought to an abrupt termination, and the angry combatants soon disappeared in company with the sentinal to whose timely warning they in all probability owed their lives.—Sent by W. Reeves, 26, Stockley Street, Northampton.

*In Praise of the Canary.

The Canary is undoubtedly the national cage bird; it has become so on account of its beautiful song, pleasing colours, and markings, and domesticated habit. It is to be found in all its varieties, in the cottage, villa the mansion, and the palatial residences of royalty and the nobility. It has become a regular household pet, and no home is now considered complete which does not possess a Canary of some variety or other. As a songster it certainly stands in the first place of our domesticated birds; its sweet trills and water-bubble notes, coupled with its pleasing and attractive demeanour, make it loved and cherished by all who come in contact with it, besides being a very good ornament to the drawing-room or ladies' boudoir, when provided with a suitable cage.—Sent by Linda Waite (age 12), 8, Honeywall, Stoke-on-Trent.

Queer Place for Nests.

Swallows often build their nests in strange places. Once a pair of these birds built a nest in a lamp bracket, which was fixed close to a kitchen door. Yet the lamp was taken out of the bracket every day to be trimmed. Another pair built a nest on the frame of a picture which hung over the fireplace in an old hall in Bath. They went in and out of the room through a broken window. Another pair built a nest inside a schoolroom. One of the windows was left open for several days, and the Swallows took a fancy to the place for a dwelling. There they remained all the season. One of the strangest places ever chosen for a nest was the iron network of the famous Eiffel Tower in Paris. Here a pair of Swallows made their home at a height of nearly one thousand feet from the ground.—Sent by Mabel Dunn (age 14), 17, Stanley Street, Darlington.

Canary Breeding for Beginners - - Post Free 7d.

By Claude St. John.

A practical, up-to-date guide to the cult of Canary breeding, designed specially for the use of the beginner in the hobby. It contains many helpful illustrations, and deals very fully, and in an easily-understandable manner, with the choice, sexing and mating of the birds, feeding for condition, the cages and their fittings, the bird-room, egg-food, nest-building, rearing and moulting the young, colour-feeding, training for show, and all the details and difficulties likely to confront the breeder.

WILD BIRD LIFE.

More About the Rooks.

The hardiness of the Rook is proverbial. No matter what the weather is, he is always on view, either perched on the bare elms or feeding in the exposed fields, never hiding in cosy sheltered spots. By handling a dead specimen, we see at once how firm and hard he is. Like a trained athlete he is always in condition. His beak and claws are strong and powerful, and the muscles of his wings and thighs are firm and prominent. He is in every way fitted to his mode of living. Such a bird can never be exterminated, for the good he does balances the evil. His presence lends a charm to our English landscape. Many an old world home would lose half its romantic aspect if it were not for the companies of Rooks among the elms in the grounds. Many a dull stretch of country is enlivened by the presence of these common birds. They are regular and methodical in their actions, and as a community have much to commend them. The majority of the Rooks seen about our fields and homestead stay with us the year round, but those of the Continent of Europe are subject to considerable migrations. Many fly northwards in the Spring, breeding in Sweden, Norway, and Northern Russia, and during the Autumn large numbers visit the South of France, Spain, and other Southern countries. During the autumn months flocks of these birds come over with the other migrants to our Eastern shores, some to stay and spend the winter with us, and others to make but a passing call on their way southward.

The Useful Owl.

When Owls are seen to frequent the coops where game is reared, they are doubtless after the mice which come for the corn; but as hunting is strictly forbidden near game, they generally fall victims to the watchful gamekeeper, who will not, under any pretence, tolerate predatory birds near his charges.

A Huge Flock.

While travelling from Scotland the writer saw one of the largest flocks of Starlings he has ever seen. They were in a very big field, the majority of them being on the ground. So thick and dense were they that at first glance it looked as though the ground had been covered with soot or other refuse. It is impossible to estimate numbers in a case like this; there must have been thousands of them, and for such a mass to find food must be a most difficult matter. One hardly knows why Starlings should congregate in such enormous numbers. One would think they were safer and could forage better in flocks of smaller size. The mortality in a gathering like this during a severe winter must be very great, for only the healthy and strong among them would be able to obtain food.

A Note on the Crested Tit.

The Crested Tit is the rarest of the British Titmice, and is quite a bird of the North. Occasionally we see one or two at some of the Scottish Exhibitions, when the bird lover has an opportunity of closely studying its form and character, the beautifully barred crest, which extends beyond the back of the head, is erected at will, and when raised gives to the bird an exceedingly alert appearance. In form it closely resembles the Marsh Tit. It has no striking colours, the most conspicuous being the black and white of the head and crest. It is a bird of the pine woods, and seldom wanders far from the district where these trees abound.

ALWAYS USE OUR

DEPOSIT SYSTEM.

We are not responsible for the statements made in advertisements, nor for the bona-fides of either buyers or sellers. In all transactions the adoption of our Deposit System should be insisted upon.

IMPORTANT.

SEND THE FULL COMMISSION.—If the full commission does not accompany the deposit, the vendor will not be notified of its receipt until the amount deficient, plus the extra postage incurred, has been paid to us.

HOW TO REMIT.—Under no circumstances will Cheques or Post-dated Money Orders be accepted as deposits. Uncrossed Postal Orders must be sent and the numbers taken for safety.

RULES.

1.—PROCEDURE.—The intending purchaser should send to this office the amount of the purchase (our deposit fee included), and at the same time he should communicate with the seller, stating what it is he requires sent on approval. We acknowledge receipt of the deposit to both parties. In all cases the depositor should give his name and address, and also that of the vendor, and must write same clearly and distinctly.

2.—END OF TRANSACTION.—The deposit is retained by us until we hear from both parties that the transaction has been completed. If a sale has been effected, we hand the amount deposited to the seller. If a sale has not been effected, we return the amount to the depositor. The transaction must be conducted by the parties themselves. We merely hold the deposit.

3.—AMOUNT OF COMMISSION.—The fee is 6d. for each £1, or fraction of £1, and it must be sent at same time as the deposit.

4.—IMPORTANT POINTS.—The depositor must decide within forty-eight hours of the receipt of the goods whether he will keep or return the same, unless, that is, some other period of approval (of which we must be advised) is agreed upon by both parties. The depositor must at the same time notify us of the fact that he has returned the goods. If the goods are not returned within the said forty-eight hours, we reserve the right to send the deposit to the seller after the expiration of that period. And should the seller fail within three days to notify us of the receipt of his goods back again, the transaction will be treated as ended, and the deposit be returned to the depositor.

5.—A SATISFACTORY PURCHASE.—When a transaction has been completed to the satisfaction of both depositor and seller, both parties must at once return the deposit receipts as a guarantee of its completion. The depositor must at the same time instruct us to pay over the deposit to the seller.

6.—GOODS ALREADY SOLD.—If the goods are sold before our deposit note reaches the seller, or, if for any other reason he declines to do business, he must at once return the deposit note to us. Failing its receipt, we reserve the right to return the deposit to the sender after the expiration of three days.

7.—FRESH TRANSACTION.—In case no sale be effected, a deposit is available for purposes of a fresh transaction, provided another deposit fee be paid.

8.—GOODS IN TRANSIT.—Goods in transit are at the seller's risk, and any damage or loss sustained on the journey must be borne by the seller. But goods not approved of must be properly packed and returned by the same means as were used in sending the same.

9.—PAYMENT OF CARRIAGE.—The payment of carriage must be a matter for arrangement between the vendor and depositor. We do not undertake to settle disputes affecting questions of carriage. But in the absence of other arrangements the purchaser is liable for the carriage of the goods, and if the goods are sent on approval and returned, each party pays the carriage one way.

10.—DISPUTES.—In case of a dispute, the decision of the Editor is final.

PREPAID ADVERTISEMENTS

UNDISPLAYED.—Three Words a Penny up to eighteen words, MINIMUM Fourpence. One Halfpenny per Word for each word over eighteen.

IMPORTANT NOTE.—Two or more Advertisements coming from the same advertiser, even if sent in different names, are reckoned together, and, after the first eighteen words, are charged at two words a penny, but no single advertisement, even if accompanied by others, will be charged at less than the minimum price, viz., Fourpence.

Headlines or Footlines 6d., 9d., 1/-, 1/6 according to size.

Postal Orders must be sent as far as possible. All moneys should be made payable to F. CARL.

The Proprietor reserves the right to refuse any advertisement, or to cancel any advertisement ordered for a series, at any time, without assigning any reason for so doing.

Advertisements close Tuesdays first post in each week, and should be sent to the Advertisement Manager, CAGE BIRDS, 154, Fleet Street, London. Terms for Display Advertisements on application.

I DON'T BELIEVE

in making idle boasts nor exaggerated statements in order to induce anyone to become a customer. I find the best way to make and keep custom is to give downright good value at lowest possible price, and to ensure this none but highest quality materials and thoroughly-experienced workmen are employed in building up my goods. Clap nets, made from genuine thread netting, ¾-inch mesh, 3 yards long, 4/- pair; 4 yards, 5/-; 5 yards, 6/-; 6 yards, 7/-; 7 yards, 8/-; 8 yards, 9/-; 9 yards, 10/-; 10 yards, 11/- per pair; all guaranteed 5½ feet deep and strike 4 feet. All clap nets consist of two nets to the pair, and are fitted complete with pegs, poles, hemp lines, etc., ready for immediate use; all dyed with a special preparation which not only makes them invisible when set, but preserves netting as well, and nothing is spared to make them most durable and fastest working nets obtainable. Loose thread netting, as used in above clap nets, ¾-mesh, 7 feet deep, 3d. yard; 9 feet deep, 4d. yard; 12 feet deep, 5d. yard; all post free. This netting is guaranteed finest obtainable, and must not be confused with the thick American cotton fishing netting now being sold for bird netting; my netting is made from 60s/3 cord thread; ask others size of theirs' and compare. Self-acting spring net traps, 24 inches long, 18 inches wide, 1/- each; ditto, 18 inches long, 9d. each; carriage, 4d. extra. These net traps are by far the largest and most simple working nets on the market, and will catch and hold uninjured any bird from Wren to Rook. Sparrow nets, fitted on 19 feet bamboo poles, with pocket top and bottom, 6/6 pair; ditto, on 14 feet poles, 5/6 pair; single trap cages, 6d. each, double ditto, 10d. and 1/- each; treble ditto, 1/3 each; all have separate compartment for call bird. Patent self-setting and self-acting trap cages, warranted to automatically reset immediately each bird is caught, and require no attention whatever, 1/6 each; Goldfinch or Linnet cages, 6d. each, 4/6 dozen; Lark Runner cages, 6d., 8d., and 9d. each, 4/-, 6/-, and 7/- dozen; singing box cages, 10d., 1/-, and 1/4 each; all metal hanging Canary cages, with glass round, 3/6, 4/-, 4/6, 5/-, 6/-, and 7/6 each; Parrot cages, 4/6 to 25/- each; cottage-toped Thrush cages, 2/3, 2/9, and 3/6 each; round or square topped call cages, 3d. each, 2/6 dozen; better quality, 4d. each, 3/6 dozen. The only genuine Japanese bird-lime, guaranteed absolutely strongest and best made, stands all weathers and guaranteed to hold birds in the rain, ¼-lb. 6d., ½-lb. 10d., 1 lb. 1/0, post free. This lime contains a secret chemical which enables it to leave the feathers when a bird is taken from twigs, so why buy inferior rubbish at higher price. For full printed list of all catchers' appliances and sample netting, send stamp. Penny tin drinkers, three dozen 1/3, six dozen 2/3, gross 4/-, three gross 10/6; zinc ditto, 9d. dozen, three dozen 2/-, six dozen 3/6, gross 6/-, three gross 15/-. Dealers, send stamp for trade list of cages, etc., it will pay you. Everything sent on approval at my risk; cash or CAGE BIRDS deposit system, and money refunded in full if fullest satisfaction not given. Compare any article of mine with those obtained elsewhere at higher prices, and if mine is not by far the best smash it up. I will refund your money. (Imitators, kindly copy as usual.) Patronise the man who studies the working-man's pocket by not charging exorbitant prices for inferior rubbish, but sells a good article at low price. See British Bird and Roller Canary columns for further advertisements.

PRESTON, LANCS.

INSPECTION INVITED.

Undoubtedly one of, if not the, finest collections of Goldfinches, Bullfinches, Linnets and Siskins, in England to day. Possibly not the very lowest in price, but certainly the value cannot be surpassed, and I question if equalled. For instance: A really good British Goldfinch cock 3/6, for 5/6 a fine bird with good square blaze, wings, etc.; Russian cocks 3/6, 4/6, 5/6; exceptional Linnet cock 3/6; cages 3d. extra. For all others see my illustrated list before purchasing elsewhere.

Kindly note following dates and facts:—

West Bromwich. Dec. 2, 1908.—Received Goldfinch quite safe, and very well pleased with it.—C. Perkins to W. Rudd.

Price 7/6, won 4th number in class 16.

Now Shildon. Dec. 4, 1908.—I feel proud to tell you I got 4th prize at Darlington Show with my Goldie in a class of 16. The best show of Goldies that has been seen in the North. Judge's remarks; Grand bird, well up in colour, good blaze, nice chest. I am sure they are very encouraging remarks, and I will keep on showing him until I get a 1st, that is, if I have good enough luck to keep him. Everyone wonders how I got such a beauty and I tell them to send to you and they will get value for money. Next show Ferryhill, have missed Hartlepool.—H. C. to W. Rudd.

Olbeston Hall, Worksop, Notts. Dec. 6, 1908.—I am very pleased with Goldfinch I got from you; it arrived quite safe. Thanking you very much.—H. Selby to W. Rudd.

W. RUDD, THE Bird Specialist, NORWICH.

Goldfinches have arrived in grand condition. Prices, cocks, 4/6, 5/-, and 5/6 each. Specially selected exhibition specimens, with broad skulls, deep square cut, expansive blazes, well tanned chests, full moonings and buttons, and correct wing carriage, 7/6 and 10/- each. Week's trial allowed with all, and money refunded in full if perfect satisfaction not given. These are the only genuine Siberian birds imported direct by me in single wicker cages, not purchased in Belgium in boxes and sold in England as Siberian birds at 3/- each. If you want to obtain a winning specimen, send to the man that gets first pick. I claim to have by far more birds through my hands than all other advertisers together, so it naturally follows that by having a larger selection, I can give better value than others. All birds guaranteed well caged, steady, and properly on hard seed before sent out. If you would have highest quality at lowest price, patronise England's premier bird fancier. HARRY ALLEN.
LOOK MY GOOD BIRDS AND SOUND JUDGMENT!
Now, gentlemen, of all the money that has been deposited with the Editor, I am proud to say, not one single bird has been sent back. Proof, the Editor. Now, those who want real winners, like Messrs. Fox and Thomson, must send to me. My A1 specials can beat the world for steadiness, size, colour, and markings; all one price, 2/6. Gentlemen who are desirous of coming to the front must try my specials, which are in the reach of all comers. Linnets, in full song, with a beautiful polished cage, and my book of secrets, and a packet of my special mixture, 3/-. This is real bargain. Look! Fierce singing cock Linnets, with blood-red breast and extra loud voices, right for catching or contest singing, with new cage and my book of secrets, only 2/-. I defy any dealer in the world to supply the same for the money. Now, who would be without a bird and cage at this price? Deposit your money with the Editor of this paper for honest stuff. All on seven days' approval. Hundreds of these special birds in stock. Linnets taught by the world's champion; will sing anywhere; only 1/6. These special birds are real bargains. Goldfinches: Real Peartree cock Goldfinches, full colour, the largest in England, with deep square cut blaze, beautifully buttoned and mooned, and well tanned on breast; these prize-winners, 4/6. They are the talk of England. Other fine Goldfinches, same size, full colour, right for muling with, 3/6; Greypates, large, big birds, beautiful wing, well buttoned, bars showing splendid colour, will make winners, 3/-. These birds are very cheap, as they are all singing. Hawfinches: Hawfinches, grand big birds, splendid colour and markings, 6/6; a few gems, 7/6. They are grand birds. Pure Scifert Rollers, every bird perfectly trained, the finest strain in the world. They are real Schoolmasters, one guinea each; other musical boxes, same strain, right for contest singing, will sing anywhere in a minute, 15/-. Try one of mine. Being a judge I know what is wanted. Other grand birds 10/6, and proud. These are ceiling lifters. Beautiful cock Bullfinches, like paint, splendid cap and bib, grand wing bars, real prize-winners, 4/-; other grand birds 2/6. Hens 2/- and 1/6. Splendid cock Siskins, the right sort, 4/- each. Cock Chaffinches, Greenfinches, and Yellowhammers, 1/6 and 2/-; a few gems of either sort, 3/6. For proof of the above please read what others say: "24, Duffryn-st., Pontlattyn,—Dear Sir, —The three Goldies safe to hand last Thursday morning, and am quite satisfied with them.—J. Horrell, to H. Allen." "17, Duffryn-rd., Nantyffyllon, Bridgend,—Dear Sir,—I received the Linnet alright; he is a beauty, and in good condition, and very cheap at the money.—G. Griffiths to H. Allen." "93, Tonbridge-rd., Maidstone, Kent.—Dear Sir,—I received Linnet and Goldfinch quite safe, which I think is a very nice pair, and shall do all I can to get more orders for you. I have written to CAGE BIRDS to hand over the money for same, which I trust you will receive quite safe.—Believe me to remain, yours truly, G. Martin, to H. Allen. Best meeting place in Leeds for visitors is Harry Allen's Bird Stall, Bird Market. Those who want real value for their money should send to the largest British bird dealer in the world.—Harry Allen, Bird Specialist and Judge, City Aviaries, 40, Beckett-st., Leeds.

Hartz Mountain Cock Canaries.

Trained under Nightingales, Woodlarks, Titlarks, etc., have long purring rolls, sweet silvery trills, deep waterbubble runs, double harp, gong, flute, and bell changes, including the celebrated jug jug note, which is only to be heard in this strain. They are acknowledged by competent judges to be the best procurable.

Twenty-seventh year of importation, and still the demand increases.

Only 10s., 12s. 6d. and 15s. each; premier bandmasters 21s.

Each bird is fully guaranteed. We allow three days' approval on receipt of postal order or cheque. There is no need to use the deposit system with us; straightforward dealing and honourable treatment to all, whether prince or peasant. Satisfaction or money back immediately. Our stores are always open for inspection, and are admitted by hygienic authorities as near perfection as it is possible to be. Patronised personally by various Royalty.

AUGUSTUS ZACHE & CO., BIRD IMPORTERS

Our Contest Rollers,

have arrived, and are in splendid condition, and have more changes and better length of soug than for some years.

Don't Part With Your Money

till you are satisfied, and we send them on our well-known terms.

14 Days' Trial at our Risk and don't you buy a Roller on any other terms from anyone, either large or small advertiser, and insist on 14 days' trial.

Always Deposit Your Cash, and then you cannot be imposed upon. Our price for these Contest Rollers is 15/- each, and you cannot equal them at double elsewhere. Deposit your 15/-, and also get one on trial of some other advertiser, and keep the best one. We invite comparison, and guarantee that you will prefer our Contest Roller to any older costing double. If you want cheaper, try one of our 10/6 Schoolmasters, as these are same as sold by others at 15/- each, and are really good value. Hartz Mountain Cock Canaries, in song, 4/6, 5/0 each; trade supplied. We not only import them ourselves and travel Germany in search of best strains, but we correspond in either German or French. Patronised by Royalty. Catalogue post free.

Selected, with better notes, 6/6. Hens, 1/6, 2/6 each. Pairs, 5/9, 6/6, 8/6. Matched for Breeding good Songsters. Travelling Cages 3d. extra.

Please read a few latest opinions out of over one hundred just received:—

A Bargain.

114, Forest Road, Dalston. Dec. 1, 1908.—I feel I must write and thank you for the nice bird you sent me. It is quite a treat to hear him sing. All my friends tell me that I have a bargain for 5/6, and they assure me it is worth double. I shall highly recommend you to anyone in want of a good bird, as I don't think they can be beaten.—W. G. Buck to W. Rudd.

2, Atkins Cottages, Church Road, Hersham. Dec. 1, 1908.—The Hartz Roller arrived quite safe, and I am more than pleased with it. It sings from morning till night.—A. Reed to W. Rudd.

Opened fresh after three days' journey.

H.M. Coastguard Station, Hugh House, St. Mary's, Scilly. Dec. 4, 1908.—Pair of Hartz arrived quite safe, and I am very pleased with them; each bird has started to sing.—F. Chapman to W. Rudd.

No better for twice amount.

Hollenside Terrace, Lanchester. Dec. 4, 1908.—The Roller you sent me has been singing since the first day that he arrived here; I don't think that I could have a better one for twice the amount anywhere else.—Wm. Wallace to W. Rudd.

Perry, Chitton. Dec. 6, 1908. I received bird quite safe, and am very pleased with it. Don't think there is need for approval, as it has started beautifully at once.—J. Perry to W. Rudd.

2, Salisbury Ctg., Stourvale Road, Stourfield Park, Bournemouth.—Dec. 3, 1908.—I received the Hartz Canary, and am very pleased with it. I like the song very much.—E. Corbin to W. Rudd.

Fine.

18, Rectory Place, Loughborough. Dec. 1, 1908.—The Hartz Canary is "fine," and already in good song.—L. Slater to W. Rudd.

So deceived previously

The Broadway, Hendon. Dec. 1, 1908.—I am very pleased with Roller. I have been so deceived with buying birds from other dealers. I wish I had sent to you before; I shall recommend you to all my friends as you keep the genuine article.—N. Hunt to W. Rudd.

NOTE.—Persons not liking much noise and wanting low and sweet singing birds, can be supplied by mentioning the fact with order. A large collection of these in stock. Printed instructions how to keep in health and song sent with each bird. All on one week's approval.

HUMMEL ROLLERS.

Finest Rollers imported. To speak well of the Hummel is to gild refined gold. Testimonials from customers who say the Hummel is still singing as sweetly as when purchased four, five, six, and seven years ago. All Hummels have delightful, deep, delicate bow roll, hollow roll, hollow bow roll, du pipe, hollow bell roll, grand round bass roll vibrating hollow roll, and charming water bubble roll; one price only, 12s. 6d.; no fancy prices; Hummel hens, 3s. each; St. Andreasberg Rollers, 5s. and 7s. 6d. each. Hummel Schoolmasters, 20s. each, better than can be obtained elsewhere at treble the price. Thousands of testimonials have been published by me in CAGE BIRDS from satisfied customers. I guarantee strictly honourable trading and satisfaction to all. As usual we offer a cash prize of £5 to any customer who win a first prize in any singing open contest from now till March 31st, 1909. I will pay £50 cash if it is not a fact that I import my Rollers direct. Varney, sole proprietor and importer of this remarkable Roller Canary. Twenty years advertiser.—Varney, Stratford, London.—St. Mary Abbey, Mill Hill.—Received the Hummel; it sings beautifully indeed. It sings sweetly, and oh, so softly, all day, and I cannot imagine any bird with a more lovely voice; he begins, even these dark mornings, at 7.30, under his serge cover, and sings till 6 o'clock. Although his song is so lovely, it is beautifully sweet, he has no shrill notes, and I am able to read through it.—Miss F. Blockett. Southfelt, Poynton, Cheshire.—Received the Hummel, and am more than delighted with such superior song.—W. Glover to Varney, the largest importer of Rollers in London. Sumner-place, Billinghurst, Sussex.—Please send 12 good Hummel Rollers. I have six of your Hummel Rollers; all perfect Rollers.—J. Leyland. Sumner-place, Billinghurst, Sussex.—I enclose cheque for the 12 Hummel Rollers. Am very pleased with them.—Mr. J. Leyland. Oulton Lodge, Aylsham, Warwick, Sept. 20th, 1908.—Mr. Baptia wishes another Hummel Schoolmaster as supplied by Mr. Varney a few months ago. 24th.—Mr. Baptia has received the Hummel, which is again quite satisfactory. 22nd, 1908, 20, Bailey-street, Barnsley.—Hummel arrived safe. I am more than delighted with such superior song. 7, Broadgate, 22nd, 1908, Snow Hill, Skelton, Staffordshire.—The Rollers to hand all safe and satisfactory.—Geo. Gratton. 20th, 1908, 20, Gladstone-street, Kilworth. Hummel to hand; what a beautiful song; so superior to all other Rollers imported in this district.—W. Pebury, 20th, 1908, 5, Millfield-road, Blengome.—I enclose 20/- for another Hummel. I am so delighted with the last one; it is one of the best birds ever heard in this district, and I have seen a few.—The Hon. A. Stevenson. 22nd, 1908.—Canaries to hand in pink of condition. I have had birds from all over the kingdom, but never received such value.—J. Smith. List free; sole importer and proprietor of these Rollers.—Varney, the Great Hummel Importer, Stratford, London. 23rd year of advertising.

COME LET US.

Yes, come let us reason together, for you do not want, nor can you afford to throw away your money on worthless and misrepresented articles. For the past fifteen years I have continuously considered the requirements of the Fancy, and by careful breeding, training and importing none but the best quality birds from the best and most successful breeders on the Continent, besides personally testing and proving the qualities of every bird separately before leaving my aviaries and training rooms, I have always given given every customer the uttermost satisfaction, and I am proud to have to announce that the quality of my birds is even better this season than before. Without a doubt I sell more genuine trained Rollers than any other person, because all admirers of high-class songsters acknowledge that for quality of song, nureness of breeds, and reasonableness of price my birds stand alone. Let me send the birds you require, carriage paid, on seven days' approval at my risk. Note the following prices for genuine songsters (not cross-bred dummies):—Genuine trained St. Andreasberg Rollers, cocks in full song by day and artificial light, with long hollow rolls, water-bubble runs, harp, bell, gong notes, etc., 7/6, 8/0, 10/-, 12/6 each; a few extra good contest birds, pure Seifert song, 15/-, 17/6, 20/- each; hens same strain, 2/0, 3/6, 4/6 each. Don't forget the above. Birds are in specially constructed rooms, away from all other kinds of songsters, and never hear anything but pure Roller song. Hence their sweet soft melodious changable song. If you require a noisy bird I can supply you at the right price; my Hartz Rollers are the marvels of cheapness, cocks in full, loud, free song by day, and gaslight, with good changes of song—real, live musical boxes—5/3, 5/9 each; a few extra good, picked birds, 6/3, 6/9 each; matched pairs for breeding songsters, 7/6, 8/6, 9/6, pair; neat travelling cages for journey, 3d. each extra. See page 469 for unsolicited testimonials, originals of which, with thousands of others, are open for inspection. There is no humbug or bluff here; every bird sent carriage paid on seven days' approval at my risk.—Miss E. L. Storey, Practical Bird Specialist, Crowle, Doncaster.

THERE ARE TWO WAYS

of buying Canaries, one is by sending your cash blindly, and putting up with whatever is sent you, and the other is my way, viz., deposit your money with the Editor of CAGE BIRDS, and having bird on approval for a full week before you ultimately decide to purchase. All Canaries sold by me are sent out on the distinct understanding that you keep them one full week on approval, and if bird fails to prove in every way satisfactory, you return bird and the whole of your money is promptly returned to you. I take all risks during the whole time, so you cannot possibly lose a penny piece by giving me a trial. I have an enormous stock of pure St. Andreasberg Rollers, all direct from Leipzig, in full song day and gaslight, with long, hollow and double rolls, sweet, silvery trills, waterbubble runs, soft roulades, deep bass rolls, hollow bell rolls, piccolo trill, bell harp, and flute notes, etc., etc., and warranted entirely free from Titlark or other objectionable notes, price, 6/6 and 7/6 each; special Bandmasters, which excel in the deep bass, and hollow bell rolls, and are a cascade of overflowing melody, 10/- and 12/6 each; ordinary, loud, free Hartz cocks, in full vigorous song, 4/6 each, 28/- for seven; Hartz hens, 2/6 couple, 12/- dozen. All cocks are stamped on wing, "Hans Weber, Leipzig," and as I am sole importer of these birds, no other dealer can get one feather of this strain unless he purchases from me. See following few letters, full name and address given with each, so that any sceptical person can make any enquiries he likes:—"29, Clifford-road, West Stanley, November 10th, Sir,—Roller received in splendid condition, I am delighted with it, and for song I never had its equal. Please send another soon as possible. Yours, Wm. Roe." On November 14th Mr. Roe again writes, "Sir,—Received the other Roller, it is just what I wanted, splendid songster. I had a friend down, and he wants one the same, so please send on another, I will not be long getting you more orders." "1, Tweedale-place, Fort William, November 13th,—Sir, many thanks for sending me such a fine bird, it started singing morning after I got it. You will hear from me again. Yours, G. Kay." "107, Wheldon-lane, Castleford, November 14th.—Sir, Roller arrived safe, and a champion songster, he is too, I am more than satisfied with it. It started singing before I got it out of cage. Yours, H. Wilson." "Sunny Bank, Elkington-road, Bury Port, November 7th. Sir,—Please send me Roller at 7/6. I have been recommended by friends to whom you have supplied songsters that give every satisfaction, so hope the one you send will not be a disappointment, same as some I have had from other dealers. Yours, J. Williams." On November 11th Mr. Williams writes: "Sir, I have pleasure in advising you that Roller arrived yesterday. He is singing very nicely, and so far, I am quite satisfied." "Broom, Newton Mearns, Glasgow, November 6th. Sir,—Two Rollers arrived safe, and are singing nicely; many thanks for promptness. Yours, W. Wootton." "Dowlais, November 5th. Sir,—Received Roller safe, and healthy. This is the fourth bird I have had from you, and been satisfied every time. Yours, E. Jones." "88, Trafalgar-street, Sheffield, November 1st. Sir,—I appreciate your prompt attention to my order, and am very pleased with Roller, he started singing directly unpacked, and is a champion. Yours, A. Hickin." "28, Upper-row, Penywern, Dowlais, October 29th. Sir,—Received Roller in pink of condition, and he commenced singing as soon as unpacked. I am quite satisfied with him. Yours, Wm. Jones." Kindly note that these Leipzig Rollers are far better birds than can be obtained elsewhere at much higher prices, and I cordially invite all intending purchasers to test them side by side with those obtained elsewhere at higher prices, and if mine is not by far the best, return it to me, and tell everyone you know that my Rollers are not as represented. Could I afford to do this unless I was convinced that what I say is correct? I claim to be the largest retailer of Rollers in the Kingdom, and this trade has been built up solely by the merit of the birds, not by any lying boasts. Fresh arrivals twice weekly. Genuine dealers and clubs send for wholesale prices, lowest in the trade. See British Birds and Appliance columns for further adverts.

"Winners! Winners!!"

DYKES' high-class Yorkshires still lead the way; others try to follow; see reports of Bolton Woods, Grimsby, Birmingham, etc., in this issue; and have bred and sold over 50 winners to customers this season that have won in keenest competition; see testimonials published recently in this paper. For style, length and quality of feather, and possessing that bit of breed so much admired on the show bench, my birds are unequalled. Read these testimonials selected from scores similar received recently. Templeague, Dublin. Dec. 4, 1908.—Received birds last night, and am very well satisfied with them; they are simply splendid. I could not get anything like them in Dublin for twice the amount paid. There is no doubt you are the straightest man I ever dealt with. I sent for a pair of Canaries to another advertiser, and got two hens. If I know of anyone wanting birds, I shall certainly recommend you to them.—Thanking you for your fair dealing.—A. Borgin to L. Dykes.

Another from Graylands' Farm, Horsham. Dec. 7, 1908.—Birds arrived safe, and am more than pleased with them; and I think they are well worth the money. The cock bird is the best I have ever had in my room. I shall send for more later on, and shall recommend your birds to my friends that are wanting some.—A. Cooper to L. Dykes.

I have a grand collection for sale, including most of my winners that have won at leading shows (not winners that have never been judged, and sold for winners), but gems of the first water; long stylish yellow cocks, the right sort to breed winners, at 6/-, 7/6, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-; buff cocks at 5/-, 7/6, 10/-, 12/6, 15/-; all cocks on full song and standard length; pairs carefully selected to breed own winners at 8/8, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-, 25/- per pair; smart typical yell. or buff hens, feathered like wax, at 3/6, 4/6, 6/6, 8/6, 10/6, each; all guaranteed healthy and tight feathered, and cold room bred and kept; clears, ticks, green marked, cinnamon marked, and clear pink-eyed, cocks or hens, fit for keen competition, from £1 upwards; and some that can win at local shows, from 12/6 upwards; state wants. Illustrated price list post free. Travelling cages, 3d. extra.

And remember no risks whatever in dealing with the old reliable breeder, and no waiting; all birds sent off at once, on seven days' approval, at my risk; either cash or deposit with editor; a trial order will at once convince you who sends out the best value for the money; also few good Norwich and Crests cheap; state wants to the old firm.

of Canaries in the World

A very bold statement to make I fully admit, but it is not in the slightest an exaggeration; and more, it can be proved by INSPECTION. Leading judges, reporting critics, who travel everywhere when Shows are on, and who are in the know as to who is who, etc., have freely admitted, as they could not fail to do, that they had never seen such a collection under one roof; and even then did not see all, as they often have to be under more than one. See my advertisements under respective headings.

Send for my extended Copyright Illustrated List Free, it will only cost you a postcard; or for Three Stamps I will send my Amateur's Guide and Mammoth Illustrated Catalogue Post Free. The following you will find all exceptional bargains and I am certain will give you the utmost satisfaction, as only quality Birds will be sent. Your money will be returned in full if entire satisfaction is not given, or you can deposit the amount with Editor.

Finest Talking Parrots. I only deal in Parrots that will make first-class talkers; no rubbish. I am willing at all time to send my Parrots on four week's trial and three months' talking guarantee. Why? Because all my Parrots are young, strong, and reliable. My lifetime has been spent among Grey Parrots, both at home and abroad. I guarantee every customer every satisfaction. Grey Parrots are my special fancy. I have trained them, know their wants, and can give every purchaser a bird that will please him in every way. I can supply grey talkers, not thinkers, that will say almost anything, at reasonable prices. Before you purchase a grey or green Parrot, send for my Booklet entitled "Talking Parrots." All my birds are sent on four weeks' trial, at my risk. Send postcard for catalogue.—Mrs Forster, Princes Park Aviaries, Violet Street, Liverpool.

PARROT PROBLEM

solved. For full proofs send postcard at once for my large book, "Parrot Prattle," now containing 168 pages. This is the most wonderful book ever offered free of all charge to all Parrot fanciers. (This "Parrot Prattle" is registered copyright, and all infringers and imitators will be proceeded against). It contains hundreds of testimonials from all parts with full names and addresses, many interesting facts, and gives valuable advice and hints to all Parrot buyers. Full details of our original system of selling Parrots on four week's trial, at our risk, which we were the first to introduce. We sell Parrots of all descriptions on four weeks' trial, at our risk, before settlement. Cheapest and best in the Kingdom, and any Parrot sold by us, and not giving full satisfaction, will be exchanged any time within twelve months. Remember we lead and others try to follow. Write to other dealers as well as us, and judge for yourselves. Lists of Parrots for sale and above book post free on receipt of postcard.

KELTY AND BLAIRADAM C.B.A.

Annual general meeting held December 3rd, when there was a good number present. The balance-sheet showed £5 on the right side. It was decided to hold annual show on October 23rd, 1909. The following official benrers were then appointed:—Messrs. Jas. Stenhouse (president), Alex. Fotheringham (vice-president), John Ford, Normand Place, Kelty (secretary), Alex. Anderson (treasurer), and D. McConvillo and Fotheringham (auditors). The chairman was congratulated on the manner in which he had his business in hand, and the meeting closed with the usual vote of thanks.—J. FORD, sec.

WIBSEY AND DISTRICT C.B.S.

A "beast heart supper and social" was held on November 21st, at the headquarters "The Horse and Groom Inn." Upwards of 40 members and friends sat down, and the manner in which plate after plate was emptied was evidence of the excellence of the fare provided. After supper Mr. H. Barker presided at the piano, and with Mr. Crowther, the president, in the chair, the company settled down for a jovial evening. The night was wild and wet outside, but this did not damp the spirits of the assembled fanciers, and songs were sung by Messrs. W. Chapman, W. Hillas, H. Babratow, H. Barker and H. Pickles, and the time slipped away in a very pleasant manner. We passed an excellent evening.—E. W. JOHNSON, Hon. Sec.

Y.C.C. OF SCOTLAND.

Meeting held in the Co-operative Hall, Glasgow, December 1st, Mr. R. B. Gibb (vice-president) in the chair. After a general discussion, the date for annual general meeting was fixed for January 26th. It was also decided that final date for receiving bowl subscriptions, and specials be December 19th next. Will members kindly send on by then? Voting papers will be sent out directly after next meeting, for the election of office bearers, and must be returned to the scrutineers as early as possible. All country members intending being present at general meeting please let me know. The secretary read a paper on the principal properties of various seeds, and after a friendly discussion the meeting closed with votes of thanks to the secretary and chairman.—F. BOWMAN, Hon. Sec.

PLUMSTEAD & WOOLWICH C.B.S.

Monthly meeting held November 19th, and was fairly well attended. The discussion had to be postponed. The rules for show were revised, and the price of catalogue and admission were fixed at 6d. each. The contracts for printing were agreed upon. The schedule was passed, with 44 open classes and 40 members' classes, and the entry fee for members is to be 1s. 3d. open classes and 1s. members' classes. One member sent in his resignation, which was accepted. A committee meeting was held on December 5th, when the members proceeded to allot no less than 65 specials to the various classes. It was also decided to have the model cards, which the committee and one or two members subscribed for among themselves. One new member was elected. Fanciers wishing to exhibit at annual show must join at next meeting.—W. PAWLEY, sec.

SOUTH MANCHESTER C.B.S.

Last table show for 1908 on Tuesday, December 15th. It will comprise the following classes:—Lizards, Borders, Mules, and British. Now, brother members, support the committee. They are doing their best for you, so kindly show your appreciation of their efforts, and make this table show the best we have held. We are obtaining the services of competent judges; they will not offer their services if you do not support them better, and give them something to do when they come. The last table show, held December 1st, was a complete failure. Our host has kindly promised to give 2s. 6d. for the best bird in each class at our next show, and the remainder of the awards will be paid on the sliding scale, entrance fees 6d. per cage. Come, members, it is hard work for the secretary to be there and find no exhibits, so just rally round.—J. C. SPILSBURY, sec.

SCOTTISH NORWICH P.C.C.

Committee meeting held in secretary's room at Kilmarnock Show, December 5th, with Mr. Winter (president) in the chair. Others present were Messrs. A. Sloan, W. G. Muir, A. Watson, J. Young, and the secretary. Final arrangements were made for the club show, to be held in conjunction with Scottish National Show on December 31st and January 1st. The classes, which will be judged by Mr. Trengove (Rishton), are: Clear or ticked yellow cock, clear or ticked buff cock, variegated or green yellow cock or hen, clear or ticked yellow hen, clear or ticked buff hen, variegated or green buff cock or hen. This classification provides members with the opportunity of exhibiting a large number, and the committee anticipate a most successful club show. Members' attention is again directed to the special prize fund, donations towards which, however small, will be gratefully received and acknowledged by the secretary. The following gentlemen were proposed and seconded and duly admitted to membership:—Messrs. C. Thomson, J. J. Russell, J. Sinclair, W. Hutchison, A. McInnes, F. Taylor, J. McGovern, G. Martin, D. Johnstone, A. McFadyen, E. Barron, A. Malcolmson, W. Johnstone, W. Jack, A. McEwan, A. Cant, J. Peters, J. Ronistone, J. A. Irvine, J. Milul, and D. McNeil.—J. BROWN, sec.

BRADFORD EAST O.S.

Mr. J. Hartley gave a splendid Canary washing exhibition on December 1st, when a good number of members and friends watched him with keen interest. Mr. Hartley uses three bowls of water—one for lathering and two for rinsing purposes. He says he believes in the old-fashioned way of washing, and if this was a sample of what the old fanciers were capable of doing, then a lot of the younger fanciers will have to look to their laurels, for he put four birds through the process within 14 minutes, and delighted the audience with his easy and confident manner. He used Magerison's white Windsor soap for washing, and many remarks were passed about its being a rather big piece, but friend Hartley was not long before he showed those present what advantages this large piece of soap contained, to those who were in the "know." Laying the tail and the ends of the wings, always a very dirty place, on this piece of soap, he is not very long before he works a transformation in the colour, the dirt disappearing in quick time. He uses a brush for lathering the bird, and a sponge for rinsing, doing this thoroughly before he takes a nice soft towel and dries as much of the water off as possible; he then wraps the bird in another cloth, and lays it before the fire to dry for about 20 minutes. When Mr. Hartley had done washing the birds, he washed the perches, and put clean paper in the cage bottoms, ready for the birds as they came out of the cloths. One noticeable feature was that the birds did not seem much fatigued, after the easy manner in which they had been put through their ablutions. Mr. W. Laycock proposed a vote of thanks to Mr. Hartley; this was seconded by Mr. G. R. Rushworth, and carried unanimously. Mr. Hartley responded, and this brought a pleasant evening to a close.—H. HILL, sec.

SINGING CONTESTS.

YORK.

Usual weekly Linnet contest took place at the "Crown Inn," North Street, on December 5th, when 16 birds competed. Some very good singing was heard. Result: 1, Gurden; 2, Kirby; 3, Lumbert; 4, Oldroyd. Judge, Mr. W. Perry; timekeeper, Mr. Cooper.—J. W. SMITH, hon. sec.

LEEDS.

Usual contest held at "King's Head," Shannon Street, December 5th, when 19 birds sang before a crowded house, and were judged by Messrs. W. Kisher and T. Johnson. First, 2nd, and 3rd, Stead. Also on December 6th. Judges, Messrs. T. Summers and C. Cooper. Twenty birds were hung. First and 2nd, Stead; 3rd, Nichols.—WILSON NAYLOR, hon. sec.

I wish CAGE BIRDS good luck and prosperity. I look forward to it every Friday. I think the plates are grand; I have mine hung up in the bird-room.—CHARLES R. HULLEN (North Kensington).

THE SHOWS.

HORTICULTURAL HALL.

Held December 4th and 5th in the Horticultural Hall, Westminster. There was an excellent display of high quality birds, and these were very nicely staged, the room presenting a distinctly pleasing appearance. The only fault we could find was the many empty, or partly empty, rows of staging, which looked somewhat ragged, and spread the birds about unnecessarily. It would have been better to have taken the useless benching down, and grouped the exhibits more compactly. The hall is a wonderfully fine and suitable place for a cage bird show, being unusually spacious, and perfectly lighted, while it is really absolutely draught-proof. The heating arrangements are first-class, though at night the temperature got rather too much on the warm side. Messrs. Trower and Company, J. Carter and Company, and Hyde and Company had very attractive stands of their specialities in the hall, while Mr. Dawson, the "Chelsea Naturalist," made a good display of birds, cages, etc. The fact of birds being sold in the hall by a stall-holder caused a little heart-burning among those who had catered birds in the selling and extra stock classes. The entry, officially given as 1,727, was stated to be a record. In this total are included 11 returned (cancelled) entries, and 369 members' birds, while no fewer than 68 birds were marked 'absent" by the judges. The 110 open (not including those cancelled) classes contained 1,347 birds, an average of just over 12 per class. Deducting the Roller, selling, and stock classes, the average is under 10 per class. The Rollers (144 in six classes) and sell. and stock (193 in three classes) mustered strongly. This may be a record for the Horticultural Hall Show, but—well, there are the actual figures. The exhibits themselves were tended and fed in first-rate style.

How Did it Happen?

The Crests did not muster very strongly in numbers, but the quality was high, and specially so in the Crest-breds. A good few noted breeders entered into the fray, and the honours were fairly evenly divided amongst them. These classes were undertaken by Mr. R. L. Crisp, who seemed to please the majority with his decisions. The Yorkshires were strong both numerically and in point of quality, the S.Y.C.C. competitions drawing a big entry from its members. Several exhibitors from Yorkshire also sent down teams, but the men of the south rather more than held their own. A remarkable incident, and one which gave rise to some little controversy, was the disqualification of two birds belonging to Mr. Lohr (Carmarthen) for alleged staining; they were shown in the open Novice classes. The general opinion seemed to be that the "staining" was the result of accident, or carelessness of the owner. A red stain on tail and flight feathers could quite plainly be seen, and certainly did not improve the birds—the contrary, in fact. As one well-known fancier observed, it looked as though some excreta tinted with colour-food had got on the said feathers (say, during the moult), and been imperfectly wiped off with a cloth, leaving (or rubbing in) a palpable red stain. Whatever the cause, the judge had no option but to disqualify the two birds, and we presume the C.B.U. will endeavour to arrive at the facts of the case.

A Grand Lot.

The Norwich were admirable in quality, and the classes generally were well filled. Several new faces at London shows put in an appearance, and that not unsuccessfully. Those "cups" are responsible for a great deal of enterprise and zeal in the Southern Norwich Fancy. Some frequent winners elsewhere "went under" in the fray, notably that splendid ticked buff, "The Sign of the Cross." But none of the vanquished were at all disgraced by defeat. The yellows, as we have before noted this season, kept up a very much higher level than heretofore, Mr. Rennie's beautiful bird well holding his own against the most severe attack. The hen classes were very fine. This is as it should be, for much importance attaches to the hen—more than some people will allow—in breeding operations; and it is in this direction fanciers will begin to turn their attention very soon now. The Norwich, taken all in all, at the Horticultural Hall, were a grand lot, quite the equal of anything seen in the south this season.

Dulcet Strains.

The show of the British Roller C.C. was again the admiration of hundreds of visitors, and it is not to be wondered at, as some of the birds were both pleasing and interesting to the most delicate and cultured ears. The steady growth of this variety was clearly shown again by this well-filled classes. There were a few absent birds, due, no doubt to the very bad weather experienced in the north, which caused some of the intending exhibitors to keep their birds at home, while others came to hand some 12 hours late. The keenest fanciers of this variety would not have dreamt 7 or 8 years ago that such a grand lot of young birds bred in this country could be got together for public exhibition, but still the members of this club have succeeded in doing in a few years what it has taken Germany two centuries to accomplish. The reason why British breeders of this variety have succeeded so quickly lies in the fact that they bought the best breeding stock they could possibly obtain, and it is to be hoped that with perseverance we shall be able in the near future to compete in a sound and honourable competition with those experienced breeders the Germans. The staging of the birds was admirable in every way, and as nearly all the birds were shown in the newly adopted show cage, their uniformity was greatly admired, and the visitors not only had the pleasure of hearing the birds, but at the same time had an uninterrupted view of them, and were thus able to follow their song as near as possible. The most difficult task the judges, Messrs. Lester, Norris and Roehl, had was to do justice to such a large number of competitors, entailing, as it did, 15 hours' strenuous labour, but they can be congratulated upon the apparent satisfaction given to the whole of the exhibitors. The points given below for each bird are as awarded by the three judges together.

A Mixture.

The Lancashire section was not over large, but the two classes provided were fairly well filled, and among them were some of the best. Mr. F. J. Green had a strong team out, and this enthusiast has done much to popularise this variety down south. Perhaps in time we shall be able to get together some strong competition. The Lizard section was a show in itself, the champions from Lancashire (the home of the "spangle-backs") being represented by some real clinkers. So keen was the competition that the careless observer could see "nowt between 'em." They are little gems, and appear to be gradually increasing in popularity. Classes for stock birds should help somewhat to this desirable goal. London Fancies, which we remember some quarter of a century ago (how time flies), had a nice little class all to themselves. The effort to revive these charming birds appears to have resulted in steady progress, for they made an undoubted advance upon last season's show. With a few more enthusiasts added to the list of breeders we shall see them in all their past glory. And why not? We can easily do with another breed. The "wee" Border section was only moderately filled, the Midland men failing to support, although some even-marks journeyed from Carlisle, the home of the variety. Mr. A. J. L. Taylor, from South Wales, sent a few good ones, which fairly held their own, his winning buff hen taking the special for best Border. Mr. E. R. Roberts, from North Wales, also did well, as did that keen supporter of Southern shows, Mr. W. Simpson, from far-away Fort William. "Wolley Seiramac" had out a strong team, his even-marks being birds of exceptional merit. We have lately heard of several ladies taking up this charming variety, and if they do so earnestly the men are sure to follow; do they not always follow the fair sex? A word of praise must be given to Mr. Brownlie for the way in which he fulfilled his duties as judge; fault-findiug was a most difficult matter. There was a capital display in the cage classes. Cages of all shapes and sizes, and for every purpose, were to be seen. The chief exhibitors were Messrs. Palmer, Newley, Smith, and Linsey and Son, and we are surprised more makers do not take advantage of this method of bringing their wares before the public. There need be no return carriage, for the exhibits always find a ready sale, if reasonable in price.

A Debateable Point.

The Hybrids were highly interesting, and not bad classes on the whole, the quality of the winning birds being exceptionally good. Messrs. Jackson and Bond, Coffey, Morton, Leigh, Browning, Lamb, and Mrs. Askham, put down some well-known winners, and annexed a goodly share of the prizes. There was nothing new to be seen, and little that was controversial. We heard several expressions of regret that the notorious Canary-Chaffinch did not put in an appearance, and so give breeders a chance of inspecting it. Two or three of the judge's decisions we were unable to follow, though on the whole he did well. One curious point arose. First prize was given to a Goldie-Bullis in the A.O.V. Hybrid class, although a class confined to all Bullfinch crosses was scheduled. This resulted in some caustic comments from interested exhibitors, and eventually the committee upset the judge's decision, and moved the other birds one up in the class. It is a nice point, whether the officials could rightly claim to do this in face of the rule that the judge's decisions shall be "absolutely final, excepting in the case of fraud subsequently discovered." This was a mistake of both exhibitor and judge; but that is not "fraud." Rule 6 deals with specimens entered in a wrong class. But many present contended it lay with the judge to decide, and that only such cases as cocks in the hen classes could afterwards be dealt with by the committee. It is, as we remarked above, a nice point.

England's Pride.

The British birds made an excellent an attractive section. It must be confessed that they played "second fiddle" to the Foreigners in this latter respect, though still a great draw with the outside public. That respected fancier, Mr. S. H. Mays, made one of his all too rare appearances as a judge, and sorted out the Hardbills to the general satisfaction of the exhibitors. Mr. J. Frostick was equally happy in his selection of the winners in the Insectivorous section. The Hardbilled classes were in most instances very well filled, but none lacked quality, and several contained specimens far above those seen even at London shows. The Goldfinch class was, in our opinion, a splendid one, for quality far above those it has been our privelege to see for a long while. Quite half the class were of a stamp fit to win anywhere, and Mr. Harris must feel that he made an exceptionally good bargain when he persuaded the late owner of his Goldie (Mr. Maxwell) to part with it. We hardly saw a "duffer" in the class, which is saying a lot. The Hawfinches also included some stormers, and two such specimens as Mr. Francis' bird and Mr. Chuck's "Midland Chief" (or "Midland Prince") seldom come together. They are both very fine in all points, and although the class contained many birds of high merit, these two stood well away. The Bramblefinches were not quite up to high-water mark in point of numbers, but the quality was good; and the same may be said of the Linnets and Chaffinches. The Greenfinch class contained some rare big birds. The Bullfinches were a good lot. The Yellowhammer class was a distinct disappointment, only eight birds competing; the A.O.S. Bunting class, too, had but six entries.

The Insectivorous Section is always an interesting one, and it came well up both in quality and variety on this occasion. Mr. Maxwell, as usual, staged some grand specimens, especially in the migratory class; while in the small resident class, visitors were able to get a good view of the Jenny and Golden Crested Wrens, which, while familiar enough to country friends, are seldom met with in the metropolis. The little Treecreeper is another interesting bird, and was an object of much curiosity. The Chough is another bird that few people see except on the show bench. The Nightingale class attracted many admirers, and from some of the questions asked by visitors it seems clear that even in these enlightened days there are still plenty of people who judge this bird by the strength of its voice, and expect to see something about the size of a Woodpigeon.

The Gorgeous Ones.

It has been some years since there was gathered together so goodly an array of rare and uncommon Foreign Birds. There were about ten that made their first appearance on the show bench in this country; others that had only appeared this season for the first time, and again others that reappeared after a lapse of years. Mr. C. T. Maxwell's Mexican Trogan first courts our notice; the species in question is one of the least resplendent of this gorgeous genus, but is nevertheless a beautiful bird, even within the limits of its cage giving indications of how beautiful it would be under the influence of light refraction. Briefly, the upper surface is an arrangement of metallic, bronzy-greens and steely blue, the latter colour adorning the head and neck; wings much darker, almost blackish and much spotted and barred with pure white; the under surface mostly greyish-white, with the ventral region orange-red. The now well-known King Bird of Paradise, also owned by Mr. Maxwell, could this year get no higher than third in its class, though in excellent condition. Another uncommon exhibit was Mr. Townsend's Giant Barbet, and though not as gorgeous as some of its relatives, it was a striking and handsome exhibit, in faultless condition. Another very rare exhibit was Mr. Millsum's white-spotted Laughing Thrushes (Ianthocincla ocellata), beautiful and striking birds, but evidently not yet used to the small limits of a show cage, as slightly damaged plumage round the beak bore witness; but space will not permit any but the briefest allusion to the many other rarities exhibited. Mr. Maxwell's black-throated Lorrikeet is indeed a beautiful and rare bird, plumage somewhat similar to the well-known Blue Mountain, but more chaste and beautiful—a first appearance. The same may be said for Mr. Millsum's rare and beautiful black-winged Lorry (Eos cyanogenys), clad in a rich garment, dull carmine-red of various hues, purplish-blue head, and black wings. Mention must also be made of Mr. Maxwell's black-cheeked Lovebird, which has been described in previous issues. The Tanager class was certainly ahead of past years, Mr. Maxwell's black-throated Tanagers all being first appearances, and all of exceptional beauty. Among the uncommon exhibits must be mentioned Mr. Miller's very fine Hawk-headed Caique and Mrs. K. L. Miller's exquisite Sun Conure (Conurus solstitalis), and a very beautiful Splendid Parrakeet, in very fine condition. A very rare Bulbul was entered by Mr. Watts, in the Tanager class, where, of course, it was "W.C." It belongs to the genus Iole, but as the writer did not take detailed notes of its plumage, he cannot be sure of the species—most probably virescens. In the Waxbill and Finch classes Mr. Maxwell showed a beautiful Gaboon Weaver, which is bluish-black on the upper surface and scarlet on the under surface; it is most probably Spermospiza hæmatina. Painted Finches (Emblema picta) were exhibited by Mr. Maxwell and Mrs. Leslie Miller—there was the curious spectacle of prizes being awarded to this species entered in different classes, viz., 155 and 156. Mr. F. Finn judged, and complaints were very few; in several of the classes the separation of the different exhibits must have been difficult indeed. That well-known "annual" is always cropping up, that in Foreign Bird Classification provision is only made for rare birds, and that the common or freely imported species stand no chance of being in the money—at the present time classes for common Tanagers, common Finches, and common A.O. Species would doubtless soon be well filled and profitable classes for show managers. However, exhibitors cannot expect such reforms unless they support such. Show managers will not provide classes unless they can secure entries for them, and as we much wish to see the F.B. Classification extended, the writer was very disappointed to see only six entries in the class for common Waxbills, etc.—the matter lies in exhibitors' hands. There were 113 entries among the 12 classes provided, fully two-thirds of which were from members of the Foreign Bird Club. Foreign bird exhibitors must be congratulated on the general excellence of the condition of their exhibits.

The judges were Messrs. R. L. Crisp (Crests and C.B.), P. Mason (Yorks. and Sell.), R. Brownlie (Bord.), F. A Lester, J. W. Norris, and C. Roehl (Rollers). J. Robson (remaining Canary classes, and Mules), S. H. Mays (Brit. Hardbills), J. Frostick (Brit. Insectiv.), Frank Finn (Foreign). Most of them finished in good time, despite the gloomy day, and their awards seemed to be well received.

The Crests and Crest-breds.

CREST YELL. (5): 1, Shearman, nice-bodied hen, neat crest, leafy feather, well laid on; 2, T. J. King, heavy variegated, good frame, capital crest, nice shape, neat; 3, Mrs. Crow, wing mkd. dk, very fair specimen, good and neat beadpiece; 4, Ley, grand body and quality, very decent crest. CL. BODY BUFF (6): 1, Tyson, slashing big bird, very massive frame, carries a pied crest of splendid size and shape, very round and neat, well finished at edges, good texture; 2, Taylor, another well-built bird, also carrying a very nice, expansive, well-groomed crest, few light feathers in it; 3, King, dark crest, close up, very neat, well made headpiece, good size and feather; 4, Evins Bros., very taking clear, lovely quality, good neat beadpiece, in fine condition; vhc, Johnson; "W.C." Mitchell, tkd. on rump. A.O.V. BUFF (12): 1, Taylor, mkd. wings and rump, well-known, rattling good alround bird, grand stout body, lovely quality feather, very expansive shapely crest, thickly and neatly built; 2, Tyson, also a very fine bird for substance and shape, has an immense crest, nicely made up, and well centred and radiated, loses a little in texture, maybe; 3, Ley, wing mkd. dk, grand frame, clothed with splendid feather, rare big beadpiece, neat, good centre and droop; 4, Radley, green, grand size and quality, fine neat crest, lovely droop; vhc, Mills; hc, Shearman; c, Gale. HENS (14): 1, 4, Lazarus, leader the well-known winner, splendid body, very big crest, correct centre, wonderful frontal and droop, neat as possible, a gem; 4th, mkd. right wing, also excels in frontal, very good alround; 2, Johnson, heavy variegated, big bird, carries a wide spread of crest, beautifully drooped and finished, very leafy, good one; 3, Tyson, mkd on back, another splendid hen, grand fronted crest, very fine texture, thickly built and neat, fine big frame; vhc, Evins Bros., much above the average in merit; hc, Turner; c, (no name); No. 11, Gals, too late. CREST-BRED YELL. (7): 1, Mrs. Crow, very big almost green, rare body and head, good rise and entrance, lovely feather; 2, Johnson, light variegated, full of quality, fine frame and feather, wide dome, skull; 3, Ley, great size, true Norwich type, full, well-domed head, wide entrance, looked equal to any from outside of cage; 4, Mrs. Crow, green, lovely texture of feather, big, shapely body, nice skull; vhc, Evins Bros.; hc, Bowyer; c, King. BUFF (15): 1, Radley, heavy variegated, an out-and-out stormer, marvellous size and head, exceptional rise and entrance, lashed to perfection, heaps of feather of grand width, gem; 2, 3, Pool, two more wonderful exhibits, heavy variegated, wonderful head for width, entrance and turn-back, green follows, practically equal to its room-mate, both very high-class exhibits, hard luck to meet winner; 4, King, lightly variegated, trifle narrow in skull, though still of remarkable width, splendid dome and lashing, very broad feather; vhc, Horton, another clinker; hc, Gale; c, Tyson. HENS (14): 1, Tyson, green, with curious light patch over beak, an exceptional hen for size and shape, has a grand wide rising skull, good entrance and lash; 2, Piper, almost green, beautiful feather, very massive build, lovely wide head, grand browing and dome, looked to be very close up; 3, Ley, light feathers in wings, beauty for skull properties, great width and rise, rare lash, heavy cobby frame, well clothed; 4, Pool, green, lovely dome skull, capital entrance and browing, well built body, plenty of feather; vhc, Mills; hc, Taylor; c, Lazarus. CREST 1908 (7): 1, Johnson, almost green cock, neatest possible crest, expansive, thickly built, round, good centre, very good body, we heard was bought (with others) at a surprisingly low figure; 2, T. J. King, wing mkd. dark, very fine alround youngster, cock, big and good crest, not quite so neat as leader; 3, Cory, wing mkd. dk, not quite the body of leaders, but has an excellent headpiece, expansivo and well built up; 4, Evins Bros., green hen, very promising, fails at sides to-day, big crest, fine texture; vhc, J. Brown; hc, Ley. CREST-BRED 1908 (11): 1, Lazarus, splendid green, very well built, wide cushion head, well browed, grand feather; 2, Evins Bros., another very fine green, heaps of feather, good rising skull, trifle less width; 3, King, another lovely feathered green, very bold head and body; 4, Greenwood and Burson, monster for size real good skull, hardly the wealth of feather of leaders; vhc, Mills; hc, Ley; c, Mrs. Crow. OPEN NOVICE CREST (21): 1, c, Ashby, mkd. left wing, dk, trifle oval in shape, yet a very good crest, neat, good droop, well built, nice big body; 2 vhc, Braund, lightly var., good body, lots of feather, expansive, shapely headpiece, well put down; 3, hc, Burgess, variegated, very neat crest, excellent texture of feather, nice size; 4, Hoar, wing mkd, dk, fine body and quality of feather, capital crest, trifle weak one side. The Yorkshires.

YORKS. CL. ETC. YELL. (16): 1, Webb, fine long upstanding bird, very level colour, well rounded, good one, yet we thought a trifle coarse; 2, Halliday, very well drawn and modelled, neat, grand legs, well braced, full of quality and bloom; 3, vhc, Pattrick, all quality, two very typical built birds, long and well drawn; 4, Hudspeth, nice one, capital length, stands on good legs; hc, Crisp, very close up, we thought; c, Parrott. BUFF (12): 1, 2, Crisp, winner tkd. neck, stands out for position and boxey feather, tight as a Java everywhere, exquisite quality, beautifully modelled, not a harsh line anywhere, wins hands down; 2nd, clear, also grand feather and quality, very long and well drawn, splendid legs; 3, Knight, fine, long, straight, boxey-feathered bird, plenty of leg, very typical, we thought needed a tubbing; 4, Pattrick, very stylish and taking, grand quality, good leggy bird, well shown; vhc, Rorke; hc, Webb; c, Greaves and Crabtree. MKD. ETC. (11): 1, Crisp, cinn. wing and eye mkd. buff, one of the best we have seen, exquisite quality, waxlike condition, wonderful length and shape, hard to find fault with; 2, Greaves and Crabtree, yell., wing and eyes, splendid lengthy bird, rare legs and position, fine wing and tail carriage, very typical, shown in grand style; 3, Johnson, very nice stamp of bird, well rounded, slim, neat, lengthy and good in position, seemed to be soiled in condition; 4, Rennie, yell., fine length and shape, we could not get it tight in feather when taking notes; vhc, Davis, clinking good Yorkie; hc, c, Pattrick. HENS, YELL. (14): 1, hc, Crisp, beauty, neat and clean as a new pin, grandly drawn, fine length, plenty of leg and style, shows beautifully, perfect quality; 2, Greaves and Crabtree, another sweet hen, hardly the taking style of winner, yet bad to beat for length and type, rare quality and bloom; 3, vhc, Pattrick, perhaps hardly so well moulded, but for length and quality excellent, nice head and wings, good stand; 4, Webb, trifle stronger, smart position, nice quality and bloom, good length, neat; c, Rennie. BUFF HENS (19): A warm lot; 1, 3, Rennie, the well-known clear, faultless condition, grand hen for length and style, beautifully moulded and drawn, very neat in plumage, wants beating; 3rd, another very typical hen, good legs and position, trifle sharper on front; 2, Halliday, lovely clear, well drawn, straight as a pencil, all quality, neat everywhere; 4, Crisp, shade on the small side, fine quality and bloom, smart position, shapely; vhc, Davis, very stylish and typical; hc, Johnson; c, Rorke. BRED 1908 (14): 1, Rennie, clear yell., the "Non-such," truly a splendid youngster, A1 quality and bloom, lengthy, very shapely, grand legs, yet inclined to tip wings across at times; 2, vhc, Crisp, buff, tkd. back head, rattling good bird, beautiful quality, fine length and position, tight as wax; 3, Pattrick, very lengthy, typical, long-sided bird, nice wings and tail, good stand; 4, Parrott, cinn.-mkd., lovely quality, fine stamp of bird, stands grandly; hc, Davis; c, Greaves and Crabtree. OPEN NOVICE YORKS. YELL. (15): 1, spl, vhc, Baker, clear, fine length and style, very neat; 2, Jefferies, hardly so tight in feather as leader, yet a beauty for length, well drawn; 3, Green, head tkd., close run, very stylish and lengthy, good legs and quality; 4, Beeny, very good clear, excellent quality and type; hc, Rogers; c, No. 2, disqualified. BUFF (11): 1, Jefferies, fine clear, very long and well-drawn, neat, good style; 2, Rogers, hardly so finely drawn, good one for position, boxey feather, nice bloom; 3, Whittome, trifle shorter, plenty of leg, good stand, A1 quality, neat; 4, Beeney, same failing, typical position, upstanding, fine quality; vhc, Allen; hc, Franks; c, Adams. MKD., ETC. (11): 1, Dixon, mkd. right wing, good, long, tight-feathered bird, stands well; 2, Green, yell. cinn. mkd. head and wings, well moulded, neat, good length and style; 3, Batchelor, fine stamp of bird, well drawn and neat, capital position; 4, Allen, long one, but quality and style, nice and neat; vhc, Whittome; hc, Franks; c, Jefferies. trifle weaker in head and neck, grand tone of feather, rich undercolour, finely shown; 4, Gill and Pethick, beautiful type and feather texture, a good bird; vhc, Watson, sweet bird, fails just a shade in head only; he, Baker, lovely bird of grand shape, fine frosty feather, one could scarcely reconcile its low position on the list, a frequent winner. TKD., ETC., YELL. (11): 1, Seed, variegated, nice colour, good in shape; 2, Cook, magnificent ticked bird, lustrous and rich, grand type, lovely flutish; 3, Midgley, another grand ticked bird, rare size, and close in feather; 4, Hodder, variegated, grand quality, nice colour; vhc, Ins, Whetstone; c, Crimes. TKD., ETC., BUFF (12): 1, 2, Hodder, winner in new face, grand body, rich undercolour, beautifully burnished head, bold and nicely formed, bonny bird, 2nd variegated, beautiful quality, neat head, good wing covering; 3, Rennie, very similar to 1st in most respects, hardly so closely boxed up, perhaps, but close up; 4, Evans, "Sign of the Cross," fine bold bird of rare undercolour, not quite so glossy as winner; vhc, Bowyer; he, Baker; c, Crimes. HENS, YELL. (16): 1, Rennie, bold and short, level, well packed wings, glossy feather, nice colour, a good one; 2, Gill and Pethick, rare quality of feather, neat head and neck, level colour; 3, Tottle, variegated, grand chest and front, rare quality of feather, sweet hen; 4, Cook, bold, silky in feather, short flights, good colour; vhc, Gill and Pethick, rattling good all-round hen; he, Hodder; c, Sandiford. HENS, BUFF (15): 1, Hopkins and Allsopp, "The Temptress," one of the most uniform hens for type, as a buff, and for quality and undercolour the writer has ever seen, a gem of the first water; 2, Whetstone, good one, just beaten by the winner in type, excellent all-round characteristics; 3, Hodder, variegated, rare type, fine quality of feather, well known; 4, Gill and Pethick, good quality and shape of head and neck, just a wee bit squnre behind; vhc, Evans; he, Sandiford; c, Morris. UNFLIG. YELL. (16): 1, Midgley, most lovely feather, very typical, rich in colour, short in body, grand bird, but did not seem to have a full tail; 2, Gill and Pethick, shapely again, with nice "flow," rare quality of feather, hardly so rich in colour as winner, but a real good one; 3, Cook, bird of true Norwich properties, fine colour, grand quality; 4, Rennie, level colour, nice bold chest, neat head, fine silky feather; vhc, he, Howard; c, Hodder. UNFLIG. BUFF (12): 1, Midgley, very similar in build to the nullig. yellow, grand feather and bloom, rich undercolour; 2, Rennie, a bird we liked much, ran the winner a neck-and-neck race, even if it did not just get in front—a matter of opinion; 3, Gill and Pethick, another beauty, chubby, good feather and colour; 4, Baker, a bird carrying the most lovely bloom, like gauze, rich in undercolour, bonny shape, close up with the others; vhc, Seed; he, Cullington; c, Bowyer. OPEN NOVICE CLASSES.—NOR. CL. YELL. (11): 1, Harper, fine body, grand quality; 2, Isom, rare shape and quality, nice colour; 3, Luff, full of quality, nice colour; 4, Mrs. Mazzoni, smart bird, good type, silky in feather and rich in colour; vhc, Reeves; he, Lee and Kearney; c, Baker. CL. BUFF (12): 1, Keech, bold and shapely, nice quality of feather, and has good undercolour; 2, Dixon, another bird of merit, fine shape and quality; 3, Harper, typical, in rare bloom; 4, Fuller, good shape and colour, just a trifle free in feather; vhc, Baker; he, Rogers and Mazzoni; c, Reeves. TKD., ETC., YELL. (12): 1, Palmer, splendid quality, nice colour, capital shape and style; 2, Keech, variegated, dense colour, nice shape; 3, Hart, full of quality, excellent shape and colour; 4, Ferris, variegated, rich tone of colour, silky feather; vhc, Baker; he, Billington; c, Parr. TKD., ETC., BUFF (8): 1, Jordan, variegated, of fine quality, nice body; 2, Penuells, rare quality, good shape and finish; 3, Keech, variegated, very neat and typical; 4, Rogers and Mazzoni, ticked, lovely close feather, rare undercolour, if a little more chubby would need pegging back; vhc, Lee and Kearney; he, c, Harper. HENS (20): 1, Isom, variegated, buff, very sweet and typical, we liked much, quickly claimed; 2, Hart, another really good shapely hen, full of quality; 3, Harper, buff, pretty, very shapely; 4, Billington, yellow, well up for type, quality, and colour; vhc, Hollands; he, Kuce; c, Parr. UNFLIG. (24): 1, Lathleif, yellow, lovely silky feather, nice colour, full of promise; 2, Thomas, yellow, teeming with quality, nice shape and colour; 3, Lee and Kearney, chubby body, nice head, good quality; 4, Joyes, variegated buff, good quality of feather, but a trifle free; vhc, Joyes; he, Luff; c, Thomas. SELL. (30s.) (5): 1, Litchfield and Son; 2, Richardson; 3, Cooper; 4, Day; vhc, Keech, some cheap birds amongst them.

All other Canary Classes.

CINN. YELL. (3): 1, Dormer, capital type, good broad head, full chest, nice even colour throughout; 2, Shearman, quite as good in colour, had hardly the substance of winner, but a good one for a' that; 3, Pretty, big bold bird of good colour, plenty of substance, capital wings. UNFLIG. (8): 1, 2, 4, Dormer, 1st bouncing bird, splendid quality, rare body, good level back and wings, very rich colour; 2nd, a good big buff, sound colour, typical, nice wing carriage; 4th, another good one, capital head, back and wings, close up; 3, Pretty given in catalogue as owner, but we believe should be Shearman, splendid type, sound in colour, hardly so deep as winner perhaps, but very level; vhc, King. LANCS. COPPY (11): 1, 2, vhc, c, Green, two bonny birds leading, rare substance and length, leader has a bit more frontal than 2nd, two rattling exhibits; 3, Lowe, grizzle-capped bird, good substance, plenty of feather, nice neat coppy, hardly the size of winners perhaps; 4, he, Ind, very fine long-sided bird, nice even grizzled headpiece; No. 10, West, we heard was the Manchester and Rochdale champion, stood cardle c. PLAINHEAD (7): 1, Lowe, grand bird, very shapely, stands well, splendid substance, with plenty of head feather, lovely quality; 2, 4, vhc, he, Green, 4th big bold bird, rare length, hardly the substance of winner perhaps, but a good one, splendid headpiece; 4th, good buff, exceptional quality, capital substance throughout; 3, Ind, another topper, rare size and quality, plenty of length, good, full head and neck. LIZ., GOLD., CL. B.C. (8): 1, Hampshire, lovely bird, rare quality, teeming with colour, full of work throughout, capital size and shape, Manchester winner we heard; 2, 3, 4, he, c, Dewsnap, wonderful team, 2nd rare ground colour, very even in spangling, good body work; 3rd, very shapely, full of work throughout, nice depth of colour; 4th, very similar, must have run close; vhc, Rukin. SILVER C.C. (6): 1, vhc, Dewsnap, a beauty, capital size, very shapely, good sound colour, lovely spangling, ahead of everything in body work; 2, 3, he, Rukin, good one, hardly so shapely perhaps, but excellent spangling, very hot colour; 3rd, similar bird for substance and shape, very bold spangling; 4, Hampshire, neat stylish bird, splendid cap, full of neat work, very close up. B.C. (8): 1, 2, vhc, Dewsnap, a very shapely neat little bird, capital colour, very close, even spangling, hard pressed by his companion with rather more work, very bold and distinct, excellent colour; 3, 4, he, Rukin, capital bird, nice size and shape, good back, fails a wee bit in body work to leaders; 4th, similar, very even, bold spangling, nice body work, capital condition and colour; c, Fisher. GOLD (ANY AGE) (4): 1, Dewsnap, very rich coloured C.C., lovely quality, beautifully spangled, scarcely a trace of age, easy first; 2, Fisher, another good C.C., lovely work, bit grizzled in flights; 3, Hampshire, real good, broken cap, rich ground work; 4, Rukin, another good one, beautifully spangled, wears well. SILVER (16): 1, Rukin, good C.C., lovely quality and colour, full of work throughout, would almost pass for a youngster, so neat and nice is it; 2, 3, 4, Hampshire, very shapely, good ground work, beautifully spangled throughout; 3rd, very rich-coloured C.C., very neat bird, clear, distinct work; 4th, another good one, very bold spangling, good distinct wings and body work; vhc, he, Clegg. BORD., YELL. CK. (5): 1, Roberts, real typical Border, very stylish and jaunty, good head and wings, in faultless condition; 2, Pearson, another good one, very typical, hardly so fully moulded as winner perhaps, but very rich colour and good quality; 3, Sciranac, fine jaunty bird, travels well, splendid wings, lovely condition; 4, Mrs. Baker, very stylish, beautifully moulded, hardly in the condition of leaders, but will improve with care. YELL. HEN (8): 1, Simpson, bird of grand condition, which secures her her place to-day, closely pressed; 2, he, Sciranac, beautifully moulded, grizzle cap, with good round head, lovely wings, hardly fit yet as might be; 3, Taylor, little gem, good head and front, lovely condition, a grand exhibit; 4, Bowes, good one, very rich colour, very stylish, in capital condition; vhc, Roberts; c, Rukin. BUFF CK. (11): 1, Simpson, real topper, grand position, sweet full head, nice clean run, good win; 2, Taylor, another good one, shade bolder in front, very typical, hardly so well filled in at back perhaps, but splendid position; 3, Bowes, very rich, sweetly moulded, stylish, must have pressed hard; 4, Roberts, good size, rare feather, well moulded, nice wing carriage; vhc, Sciranac; he, Bott; c, Ellwood. HEN (7): 1, Taylor, little queen, beautifully moulded, nice clear, runs, good style, capital wings, took spl for best Border; 2, Bowes, another good one, very close up, lovely feather, sweet head, good wings, natty close-feathered tail; 3, Simpson, good feathered bird, nice front, stands well, nicely filled back; 4, Roberts, very jaunty little bird, stylish and free, good head and wings, capital condition; vhc, Pearson; he, Baker. EVEN MARKS (8): 1, 3, Sciranac, real typical Border, good rich colour, very jaunty, splendid wings, evenly balanced eyes; 3rd, similar, with grand wings; 2, Robson, bird of good position and feather fails in eye marks just a trifle, nice exhibit; 4, vhc, Meekly, best mkd. birds in class, 4th fails just a bit in type (and the standards says type is first), but the yell is a real beauty; he, Ellwood; c, Roberts. UNEVEN (9): 1, Simpson, little gem, lovely carriage and colour, sweet head, beautiful front and wings, grand condition; 2, 3, Sciranac, two birds of exceptional quality, right position, beautiful heads, very typical, lovely pair, will improve a bit yet; 4, Taylor, very fine upstanding buff, lovely condition, and contour; vhc, Pearson; he, Roberts; c, Stovin. LONDON FANCY (7): 1, 2, Tilby, good clear body, with nice dark wings and tail, a distinct advance during the twelvemonth; 2, similar bird just a shade more tick. on it, a nice exhibit; 3, 4, Tyson, good type, cl. cap, and nearly cl. body, good wings and tail; 4, another from the same room, looks like a nest fellow; vhc, Filby; he, Tyson; c, Tilby. FRILLS: 1, 2, 3, 4, Brooks, capital team all big bouncing birds, beautifully frilled, especially the two leaders, these birds are an interesting addition to a show and deserve to be popular.

The Roller Section.

YOUNG BIRDS (bred by the exhibitor, and wearing the 1908 closed rings): 1, 2, 3, extra 4, he, and special, Randall, 1, 59 pts, magnificent, has secured the owner the club cup for the second year; 2, 51 pts, another good bird of the same strain; 3, 47 pts, bird with good song and delivery; 4th, 41 pts, good all-round songster; extra 2nd, Percival, 48 pts., good deep songster; extra 3rd, 4th, Fisher, 3rd 42 pts, wonderfully deep and full; 4th, 42 pts, another deep and full bird, had slight nufzug; 5, Walton, 39 pts, good tours and delivery; vhc, Waring, 37 pts; c, Turpin, 21 pts. Cages.

CAGES (show or stock): 1, Millsum, cage for Soft-bills, with bowed front, of nice depth, light, and strongly made, combination cage for show and travelling, made to admit light when on the journey; 2, 3, Palmer, another soft bill cage, very neatly made, with the ordinary feed and water vessels, light and strong, cheap; 3, Palmer, bow-fronted Blackbird or Thrush cage, well made, good front; 1, Newley, good box-cage suitable for Finch or Soft-bill, with draw board, and fittings complete, reasonable in price; vhc, he, c, Palmer. BREEDING: 1, 2, Palmer, good, well-made double breeder, fitted throughout, perches in correct position, capital size, very reasonable in price; 2, capital three-compartment breeder with top and bottom door, fitted throughout with wire and wood slides, quickly claimed, capital cage; 3, Newley, neat single breeder, 20 by 16, fitted with seed, water and egg drawer, perches arranged to prevent fouling, useful size; 4, Linsey and Son, soundly made double-breeder extra full size, with wood and wire partition, very light and strong for its size, reasonable; vhc, he, c, Palmer. A.O.V.: 1, Newley, Chough or Magpie cage, strongly and well finished, food and water easily got at, capital show cage for these species; 2, (no name), cottage cage suitable for a large bird, built to give as much protection as possible when in the open, has a metal drawboard; 3, vhc, he, Palmer, an open double breeder or drawing-room cage, beautifully made of wire and metal, can be used as single or as two; 4, Newley, Blackbird or Thrush cage, good size, perches nicely arranged, fitted with usual feeders; c, Parrington.

The Hybrids.

CLEAR, ETC., CAN. HYB. (7): 1, 4, Jackson and Bond, leader ticked Siskin-Can., nice size and shape, lovely quality and feather, real good Mule, 4th very big clear, grand shape and style, very pale colour; 2, Browning, very pretty four-pointed, graud whig marks, good eyes, lovely quality and colour, in A1 form; 3, Gunnell, also four-pointed, fine size and shape, capital colour and silky feather; vhc, Hills; "we," Alford, a lightly varieg. bird. VARIEG., ETC., GOLDIE-CAN. (12): 1, 2, Jackson and Bond, two fine specimens, leader marked wings and eyes, very big and shapely, fine colour, trille loose, grand style and quality; 3, Lamb, almost six-pointed, excellent bird for shape, size and colour, but we thought fortunate to beat 4, Hopkins and Allsopps, the well-known "Sunset," an exceptionally good and shapely Mule, exquisite quality and colour; vhc, Browning; he, Edwards; c, Leigh, wonderful bird this, grand shape, pale in colour, but inexplicably low down in the list. A.O.V. VARIEG. (7): 1, 2, Jackson and Bond, head and neck mkd. Siskin-Can., and uneven mkd. Linnet Can., both well-known and in grand form, latter undoubtedly much the better Mule of the two; 3, 4, Askham, pied tail Can.-Bullie, gem for size and shape, exquisite plumage, wonderful deep colour, finely mkd., should have been second, with the Linnet-Mule first, 4th another very fine pied Can.-Bullie; vhc, Fulbrook; he, Edwards; c, Mrs. Coon. DARK GOLDIE CAN. (9): 1, Coffey, Jonque, a topper, splendid size and shape, beautifully rich coloured and burnished coat, graudly mkd., wins well; 2, Francis, buff, excellent size and shape, expansive blaze, capital colour, good stylish bird; 3, Browning, another gem of a Jonque, slasher for size, full of colour, lovely shape and style, hardly so rich in face as winner, yet close up; 4, Fulbrook, another very nice buff, grand colour and shape, just loses in size; vhc, Ward; he, Freen; c, Smith. DK. LINNET-CAN. (13): 1, 3, Morton, beautiful Jonque leading, really fine size and shape, chock full of rich, sound colour, rare bloom, 3rd most shapely and stylish buff, beautiful feather, grand carriage, both "in the pink"; 2, Coffey, another high-class Jonque, fine colour, yet not so hot as winner, grand size and shape, lovely quality, had bad habit of facing cage back; 4, Fulbrook, nice big upstanding bird, very fine condition; vhc, Edwards; he, Godfray; c, Browning. A.O.V. DK. CAN. (15): 1, 2, Leigh, the champion Jonque Greenie leading, wonder for size and colour, sound all over, in first-rate condition, 2nd grand Siskin, rare size and shape, full of colour, well marked, two fine Mules; 3, Mortlock, lovely Redpoll-Can., for size, shape, quality and colour a gem, put down in first-rate order; 4, Fulbrook, Twite-Can., we thought decidedly lucky, only moderate in size, and very slim in build, nice quality and condition; vhc, Lamb, pretty Cinn. Siskin-Can., fine size and condition; he, Hunt; c, Collins; "wrong class," Browning, magnificent Jonque Greenie-Can., runs a little light at thighs and root of tail, which presumably accounts for its unwelcome card; No. 2, Lamb, one of the best Twite-Cans. we have seen, twice the size of 4th, much better in colour, steady, very fine condition. A.V. BULLIE HYB. (5): 1, 3, Mrs. Askham, one of the grandest coloured Can.-Bullies out, very deep and warm, carrying lovely sheen, splendidly mkd, big, good chested, fine headed bird, wins hands down, 3rd exceptionally big, finely built hen of same cross, certainly ought to have been a male; 2, Jackson and Bond, another first-rate Can.-Bullie, splendid size and shape, in rare fettle, well beaten for colour; 4, Browning, nice Greenie-Bullie, big and well built, excellent offer; "we.," Picrott, a variegated Goldie-Can. A.O.V. HYB. (8): Judge awarded 1st to very fine Goldie-Bullie, which was clearly in its wrong class, and its owner, Mr. Fulbrook, had it marked "wrong class" on protest being made; the 1st then went to Lamb, the well-known Redpoll-Goldie, a perfect gem, colour, blaze, shape and bloom of the highest order; 2, Mrs. Cooper, grand Chaffinch-Bramble, shows the cross most distinctly, lovely specimen, will want stopping; 3, Tonks, exceptionally good Goldie-Greenie, rare size, shape and colour, fine fellow; 4, Coffey, also a nice Chaffinch-Bramble, lovely condition; vhc, Barrow; he, Mrs. Ackland. HYB. PAIRS (7), interesting class: 1, Mrs. Page, cock Greenie and hen Bullie, grand couple, in beautiful condition; 2, Gunnell, excellent Goldie with a smart yellow hen Canary; 3, Cutting, another smart couple, Greenfinch-Bullfinch; 4, Watson Lyle, fair Siberian Goldie and neat Redpoll; vhc, Kitchener; he Maxwell; c, Fulbrook, latter Chaffinch and Canary.

British Hardbills.

GOLDFINCH (28): Grand lot, half the class fit to win almost anywhere; 1, c, Harris, former an old winner, wonderful large, clean cut blaze, perfect buttons and moons, beautiful rich tanning, fine size, in wonderful bloom considering its hard work of late, champion all over; 2, he, Prior, another gem, shade smaller blaze but very rich, splendid quality of feather, perfect buttons and moons, very clear in whites, shows well, must have run winner close, seemed a very light plumaged specimen; 3, 4, Hirst, big Finch, with a fine square skull, not so bright in blaze or clear in whites, we think a tubbing would improve it; 4th, rich colour, fine blaze, very tame; vhc, Jordan, rare big Finch, good blaze, very rich browns, well polished, a trille unsteady; a lot of grand birds had to be left out of the cards altogether. BULLFINCH (16): 1, Francis, nice shapely bird of rare colour, dense black cap, splendid wings, good clear back, looks like the Dulwich winner in new hands; 2, Coffey, another very fine Bullie, capital cap and wing bars, clear breast, good carriage, steady as a rock; 3, Gunnell, similar type to winner, very steady, fine carriage, well polished cap, shade paler breast, in nice order; 4, Wyse, typical Britisher, smaller than leaders but a capital colour, nice condition, well staged; vhc, White, fine size, good cap, nice quality; he, Withers Bros.; c, Cullen. LINNET (12): 1, Marley, wins well, excellent quality, very rich nutty brown throughout, dense poncillings, nice throat markings, good carriage, fine size, very close feather; 2, Maxwell, an old winner, but beaten to-day, good markings, splendid carriage, but shade paler in colour, grand condition; 3, Pickles, a bonny big Linnet, nice throat and cheek marks, paler on breast than winners, rather bad carriage with right wing, in fine bloom; 4, Morrison, another big bird, good colour, but lacks pencilling, soon clamed at £1; vhc, Hurst, very fine sized and marked Linnet, in nice order, some preferred for higher place; he, Mortlock; c, Hunt; both nicely-marked birds in good trim. SISKIN, ETC. (15): 1, Maxwell, the well-known Twite, wins easy, rare size, very dense pencillings, full of bloom and put down in grand order; 2, Francis, equally well-known Siskin, colour-fed to perfection, fine size, good cap, thigh marks, very distinct; 3, R. J. Howe, big Mealy Redpoll, full of bloom, shows well, has nice pencillings, and is very steady; 4, Pickles, clinking Lesser Redpoll, rich colour, good bib, fine size, real good specimen, well deserves his place; vhc, Quantrell, another rich Twite, rather faulty wing carriage but a good one; he, MacDougall, colour-fed Siskin, in nice order; c, Botting. GREENFINCH (22): A hot lot; 1, Hurst, rare sized yellow, fine quality of feather, good wings and tail, massive head, well staged; 2, he, Pickles, grand type of greenie, good clear colour throughout, rare size, stands well, beaten a trifle in head; 3, Lee, hot fed, rare wings and rich body colour, fine quality of feather, bit nervous; 4, Howe, massive bird, tremendous head and chest, level colour, nice bright wings and tail, goes soft at times; vhc, Coffey, another big Finch of good colour and style, very close up; c, Marley. CHAFFINCH (35): 1, 3, R. J. Howe, former fine quality, rich breast colour, clear in whites, medium size, well defined head and back colour, latter deep breast, has a light feather or two at back of head, but a larger bird, shows well, clear white wing bars, very steady, and put down to perfection; 2, Francis, another of rare size, deep breast colour, good whites, full of quality; 4, he, Hurst, shade smaller than leaders, but in nice feather and very steady, good bird; vhc, Coffey, nice size and colour, a bit pale on throat; c, Botting, another of the right stamp. BRAMBLE-FINCH (9): Not such a hot lot as we have seen this season; 1, Hurst, big bird, beautiful dark spangling on head and back, good thigh marks and carriage; 2, Hunt, shade smaller, richer breast colour, good spangling, thigh markings are none too distinct, shines like satin; 3, R. J. Howe, fine big-bodied bird, rich colour through, grand spangling, good markings, splendid carriage, some preferred to win; 4, Coffey, beauty, splendid quality, rich spangling, fine bold bird, shows itself to perfection; vhc, Prior, another good one, paler in colour, but in grand condition; he, Cutting; c, Quantrell. HAWFINCH (12): Good class, contained some grand birds; 1, Francis, rare size and marvellous colour, very massive skull, rich-coloured head, well-defined collar, large bib, coming into breeding trim; 2, Chick, very similar bird, and beat 1st at Dulwich we believe, splendid wing bars, shows splendidly, both stand out from the remainder of the class; 3, Simpson, nice showy bird, smaller than the leaders, nice bib, rare quality, beautiful colour; 4, he, Maxwell, medium size, fine condition, has a nice bib, but hardly so massive a head as leaders; vhc, Richardson; c, Hunt. YELLOWHAMMER (8): 1, Marley, rich colour, good size and quality, capital head and thigh marks, shows well; 2, Curry, an old winner, looking well, very steady and in nice order, not so clear in head markings; 3, Mackie, hot fed, trifle smaller, fails in head marks, nice wing markings; 4, Maxwell, very fair stamp of bird; vhc, Gunnell, an old winner, nice size, in good order; he, Raine; c, Parrot. A.O.S. BUNTING (6): 1, Chick, the noted Corn Bunting, almost too well known to need description, has very fine distinct markings throughout, and wonderful rich colour, steady as a rock; 2, 3, vhc, Wynn, very nice, rich-coloured Cirl, capital head and dense black throat, in fine feather, latter a good Reed Bunting, nice dark head, good white collar, and nice back markings; 4, Francis, Lapland Bunting, nice quality, just showing traces of Blackthroat, probably a young bird; he, Maxwell. HENS (15): A good variety here, 1, 2, R. J. Howe, Hawfinch, fine size for a hen, good head and well defined, bib, and wing bars; 2, capital Bullie, good clear cut cap, fine size, rich body colour, fine quality of feather; 3, Chick, capital Siskin, nice markings, good quality, has white feathers in face; 4, Dewhurst, Yellow Bunting, nice size and feather, very steady; vhc, Coffey; he, Hunt; c, Wynn.

British Insectivorous.

SONG THRUSH (15), a capital class: 1, Maxwell, grand Blackbird, fine size, very lustrous plumage, and jet black flights, good crocus bill and eye cere, very steady, put down in capital order; 2, Price, very nice Thrush, good size and colour, well spotted, plenty of bloom, well staged; 3, Griffin, well-spangled lustrous Starling, plenty of spots, very tame, put down in A1 order; 4, R. J. Howe, well-known Thrush, fine quality with a good rich breast and well spotted, but scarcely as distinct as first; he, Lugg, good Starling, fine size, well spotted; c, Francis. LARK OR PIPIT (5): 1, Shirley, rich-coloured Treepipit, medium size, well marked, nicely staged, fine bird; 2, McVary, Skylark, fine bodied bird, rare broad chest, plenty of pencilling, shade pale in colour, but in splendid trim; 3, R. J. Howe, Pipit, paler than winner, but very nice condition, and perfect feather; it was busy trying to separate the food from the sawdust when we saw it. It is a great mistake to put the food tin on the cage bottom; 4, Mrs. Warren Vernon, a nice Meadow Pipit in grand bloom, full of colour, plenty of markings; vhc, Cook, Treepipit, perfect feather, well shown; he, Fullbrook. CHOUGH, ETC. (4): 1, 2, Maxwell, the well-known pair in their usual places, Chough leading, shines like satin, rare red bill and legs; Magpie (the survivor of the fire), dense black head, and pure in whites, grand metallic sheen on flights and tail. We heard that Mr. Chough had an attack of migratory fever on Thursday last and wandered into the neighbours' gardens, but soon fell a victim to its liking for mealworms; 3, Bussey, very fine Jay, in grand trim, beautiful blue wing bars, contrasting with the black flights and rich brown plumage; 4, Quantrell, another Magpie, not quite so large as second, very clear cut bill and whites, carrying plenty of beautiful metallic sheen. BLACKCAP OR NIGHTINGALE (5): 1, Francis, wins well with the noted Nightingale, grand quality of feather, perfect feet and tail, tame as possible, cheap at catalogue price, at which it was claimed; 2, R. J. Howe, another good Big Gale, paler in colour than winner, good shape and stands well; 3, Mrs. Cookes, sweet Blackcap and stands well; 3, Mrs. Cookes, sweet Blackcap in nice order, light as wax, splendid cap, well polished, steady, perfect feather; 4, Baker; vhc, Cooper. SMALL INSECTIV. RESIDENT (13), fine class: 1, 3, R. J. Howe, 1, sweet Jenny Wren, well shown, has a perfect eye mark and nice size, wins well, quickly claimed and dirt cheap; 3, nice Tree creeper, rich coloured back, pure white throat; 2, Fullbrook, sweet little Goldcrest, nice bright crest, capital feather, well staged, looked very natural on its yew bough; 4, vhc, Bardner, former Bounty little Long Tailed Tit, in grand form, quite a treat to see these little chaps recognised now a days; latter, a fine Bearded Tit, good colour and in fine feather; he, Maxwell; c, Meadows.

Our next open fixture, writes Mr. W. T. Davies, hon. secretary of the Vaynol Park, Port Dinorwic Show, will be held on August 14th, 1909.

Report of Cowdenbeath Show in the Crest-bred cock class credits Bowie with 1st, writes Mr. Geo. Arnott (Sinclairtown), whereas I won that honour.

The Hucknall Torkard C.B.S. will hold their members' show on December 12th, when Mr. Vardy will judge, writes Mr. H. Marshall, the hon. secretary.

I must thank you for the grand report which you gave us of our show writes Mr J. Pearce Sampson, hon. secretary of the Penzance and Dis. F.A.

Allow me to congratulate you on your last exquisite plate. The Buff Yorkshire is as true to life as possible—excellent, I'm sure.—GEO. OAKES (Masbro').

The Vale of Leven and Dumbartonshire Show report credits Mr. Methuen with 2nd in class 79, whereas I had that honour, writes Mr. Wm. Griffiths (Glasgow).

Entries are slack, and date of closing same will be extended to Saturday next, write Messrs Moody and Sparrow, hon. secretaries of the St. Albans F. and F.F.S.

I was fortunate enough, writes Mr. A. Kemp (Malton), to obtain fourth prize in the Goldfinch class at Darlington Show, and not Mr. Hodgson, as given in the report.

I have removed from Sheffield Street, Carlisle, to 12, Vyner Street, Haxby Road, York, I am in no way connected with any other fancier of the same name.—J. F. CRAIG.

Report of Sale Show in the Border Yellow class should read: 1st, 2nd, v.h.c., Bayley, and in the Buff class 1st, 2nd, v.h.c., Bayley; 3rd, 4th, Blackshaw.—W BAYLEY (Altrincham).

The Leeds Show catalogue and report credits Mr. Fowler with 2nd in the Buff Yorkshire open novice class, whereas I won that honour with my Buff cock bird.—G. GIRLING (Hull).

The report of Norwich Show credits Nobbs with 3rd and 4th, in the A.O.V. Mule or Hybrid class, writes Mr. Nobbs (North Walsham) This should be Nobbs, as I won these prizes

Will members kindly pay in the money received through the sale of tickets for annual show as soon as possible? writes Mr. A. B. Forse, hon. secretary of the Walthamstow F.A., so that the accounts can be made up and the prize money paid?

TWITTERINGS—continued.

Classes 28 and 29 in the Eccleshill schedule, writes Mr. T. Elsegood, joint secretary, should read: Class 28, novice Norwich Yellow or Buff cock, and class 29 novice Norwich Yellow or Buff hen.

Will secretaries please note that the 1909 show of the Cambridge C.B.S. will take place on Wednesday and Thursday, November 10th and 11th, writes Mr. T. S. Moore, the hon. secretary.

I find, writes Mr. H. J. Chick (Nottingham), that I entered my Hawfinch as "Midland Chief" in error at the Horticultural Hall Show. It should have been "Midland Prince." "Midland Chief" was at Altrincham, where he took the 1st prize.

Mr. J. Cuthbertson (Darlington), won the cup for members, with most points for six exhibits, at our recent show, with Messrs. Wildsmith and Hawkins, also of Darlington, runners up, writes Mr. A. Bowes, secretary, Crook Original C.B.S.

We learn that Messrs. Rudd Bros., of Norwich, sons of the well-known Norwich bird specialist, have a perfectly clear Linnet Canary Mule, which is good in shape, size, and quality.

By a printer's error, the name of Mr. M. Cooper, (Taylor St., Batley) was last week printed "T. M. Cooper" in our advertisements of Yorkshire Canaries. Will his customers please note?

Will you kindly ask the Wellingborough exhibitor making four entries at Coventry O.S. Show, writes Mr. G. Peters, the secretary, and requiring a catalogue, to let me know his name and address.

Report of Long Eaton Show reads: v.h.c, Dunn, in the novice Crest class, writes Mr. J. Bunn (Nottingham); it should read Bunn. In the novice Crestbred class it credits R. Barker with v.h.c.; this was also my bird.

Messrs. J. and J. Hopkins (Bolton), write: Kindly announce that Mr. A. Hirst (Accrington), is the winner of the Unwin cup at Sale Show, and not ourselves, as Mr. Hirst ties with us for points, but gets more prize money.

At Norwich Show the Black Redstart belonging to Mr. Lowne (Yarmouth), which was awarded 1st prize, also won CAGE BIRDS special for best Britisher, and silver medal for best bird shown by a member of the L. and P.O S.

Mr. Jas. Irlam, secretary of the Sale Open O.S. Show, writes that Mr. S. W. Birchley entered a large team of birds for their show but owing to a delay on the journey from another show they did not arrive home until the afternoon, when it was too late to do anything.

We have engaged Mr. W. Mundell to judge Canaries, and Mr. F. Marwood, British, etc., at Doncaster O. and F.S. Show, and hope with their good reputation, good prize money, and prompt payment, to secure a bumping entry, writes Mr. G. Bescoby, joint secretary.

Please inform secretaries and others that I have removed from Grange Street to 30, Carter Street, Wakefield, writes Mr. Percy Parker, secretary of the City of Wakefield O.S. Mr. W. A. Cowgill (Bradford), has been engaged to judge our members' show, to be held on December 26th.

Kindly draw attention to rule 3 in our schedule, which should read: "Saturday," December 26th, and not "Thursday," as printed, as we do not wish exhibitors to be deceived (by printer's error) into sending birds before day of show.—J. CARLIN, hon. secretary Eastfield Side C.B.F.S. (Notts).

All exhibits entered at our show were in the Railway Company's hands by 6.30, writes Mr. G. H. Barnwell, hon. secretary of the Harrogate C.B.S. Prize money was paid to the exhibitors attending show and all other was paid out on the Monday. We had a very successful show. Success to CAGE BIRDS.

The Coventry O.S. has, as the subject for a debate at its next meeting: "Suggestions for bettering or ending the C.B.U."

Entries for Bromsgrove Show are very poor, not three per class, writes Mr. Jeffrey, the secretary, and will, therefore, be accepted up to Saturday, December 12th.

Many thanks for the good report you gave us of our show, writes Mr. Jas. Kerr, secretary of the City and County of Perth O.S. I have paid all prize money. The winner of CAGE BIRDS special prize was Mr. Adam McNaughton.

On receiving my copy of CAGE BIRDS on Friday morning, writes Mr. W. P. Barnes (Grantham) I was delighted to see such a life-like sketch of my Silver Lizard cock bird, which does credit to your artist, Mr. Norman. It is an excellent portrayal of my prize winner. May I wish CAGE BIRDS every success?

Mr. F. W. Bradley, secretary of the Millom C.B.A., writes: I have taken the liberty of sending out bundles of schedules of our show, to be held January 1st and 2nd, to several secretaries. Would these gentlemen kindly oblige by distributing them among their members or any exhibitors overlooked? We have a splendid classification, and hope for a good entry.

Having received no entries yet up to the present, writes Mr. R. Binks, secretary of the Ferryhill and Dis. C.B.S., we trust fanciers will give us a humping entry at our open show, December 19th. We have a good classification. (Mr. J. Stanger (Pelton Fell), is to judge, and we are giving good specials to be awarded to the best bird in each class. Entries close Monday, December 14th, or Tuesday morning first post.

Allow me to thank all who sent me entries for Sale Show last Saturday, writes Mr. J. Irlam, the secretary. I am sorry to say that we did not receive a very large entry, probably owing to its being our first open show, but trust that we shall double the number next year, as we intend to run a two-days' show. I hope also that any little error may be overlooked, as this is my first attempt to run a show, and we all must learn. The winner of the Unwin Cup is Mr. A. Hirst (Accrington), and Messrs. J. and J. Hopkins runners-up; this, of course, was my mistake. I have several very nice letters from exhibitors.

I have always found CAGE BIRDS a great help to me, and have not given up reading it yet.—A. S. WHITWORTH (Truro).

Allow me to wish CAGE BIRDS every success, writes Mr. A. H. Williams (Neath). I know I would feel quite lost without it.

Some of the rarer species of wild birds are, it is said, disappearing from Epping Forest. It is believed that this is due to the thinning out of the undergrowth, large quantities of blackthorn and hawthorn having been cut away, and the sanctuary of the birds thus destroyed.

Mr. G. A. Charles, secretary Reading C.B.S. informs us that his society intend launching out and holding an open show next year on November 17th. We wish the committee success. He further states: We had an increase in entries at our last show, and no doubt CAGE BIRDS made all the difference.

The birds of Bute seem to have got puzzled by the topsy turvy nature of the present season, writes a Scottish correspondent. It is solemnly recorded that a Sparrow in the Rothsay neighbourhood is busily engaged in rearing a brood of young, under the mistaken belief that the winter is past. A Starling, it is also noted, is busily engaged rearing a brood of young in Largs, one of our coast towns, across the Firth from Bute. So much for the mildness of the season.

It is recorded that recently when the train between Spalding and Sleaford was ruuning at high speed a Partridge came in contact with the look-out light of the front guard's brake and smashed the glass (which was a quarter of an inch thick), and severely cut the face of Mr. H. Watson, a chief inspector of the line, who was sitting on the seat inspecting the signals through the glass. Others in the van witnessed this unusual incident.

I had my noted ticked buff claimed at Swindon Show at catalogue price, £5, by a well-known exhibitor, writes Mr. G. Gwilliam (Gloucester). He has appeared four times this season, winning 1st and 3rd spls., and spl. best Norwich in show at Glo'ster; 1st Cheltenham, 1st and spl. best Nor. at Morriston, 1st Swindon. I have won outright the open Norwich Plainhead Challenge bowl, value £6, and medal, also Mr. Winfield's challenge cup, value £5, and gold medal. I won the above three years in succession at Glos'ter Cage Bird Show.

Xmas Holidays.

SPECIAL OFFER to senders of undisplayed SMALL PREPAID ADVERTISEMENTS.

Two Insertions for Price and a half.

Owing to the Xmas Holidays, advertisements for the issue dated DEC. 26th, must close on MONDAY. DEC. 21st, and despite the huge increase in our circulation, we have decided to again offer to advertisers the same advantages as last year. We are therefore prepared to accept advertisements for our next two issues, for the price of one and a half insertions, provided the wording remains exactly the same. Orders must definitely state that the announcement is for the "two weeks special offer" and must be accompanied by the fee for the two insertions.

AS AN EXAMPLE.—An advt. costing a shilling for one insertion will appear in our issues dated Dec. 19 & 26, at a cost of eighteen-pence, provided the order is sent now. We make this offer to induce advertisers to send in their orders this week for the Xmas Holiday week also, and so spare themselves trouble, and us a heap of detail work when the time at our disposal will be necessarily short.

A SPLENDID XMAS GIFT.

Lovely Almanac presented to readers of "Cage Birds."

With every Copy of "Cage Birds" there is this week given without extra charge a magnificent 12-page Almanac in colours.

BY arrangement with the enterprising firm of Spratts Patent, Ltd., universal providers to the fancy, CAGE BIRDS is enabled to give its readers this week such a gift as is probably unique in the history of Fancy Journalism. In the long series of exquisite calendars issued by Messrs. Spratts, we cannot recollect any more calculated to please the fancier and keeper of live stock than the superb example given away through our agency to-day. The total expense of these almanacs to Messrs. Spratts will, as readers will see for themselves, be very heavy, while some idea of their world-wide popularity may be gathered when we state that applications for them are received from the remotest corners of the earth, and that each year hundreds of people are employed in their production and circulation.

We ask every reader of CAGE BIRDS to make certain of securing their almanac with this issue, and to forward their acknowledgments of its beauty and utility to the firm at their head office, 124, Fenchurch Street, London, E.C.

I was delighted to get your book on "Aviaries, Bird-rooms, and Cages," which proved as attractive as instructive. I am just as much pleased with CAGE BIRDS as ever before, and particularly enjoy the Rev. C. D. Farrar's articles.—F. G. B. ROTH (New York).

I have won at Nowport, I. of W. Show, in the A.O.V. class with a cock Greenfinch for the last six years, and I have been in the money every time, writes Mr. W. White (Cowes). One year, when I was squeezed out, I was awarded an extra 3rd. Is this a record to win at the same show for six years running, under different judges, in a mixed class, and get in the money each year with a Greenfinch?

Members of the Scottish British Bird and Mule Club please note, writes Mr. W. Neilson, secretary of the Broxburn and Dis. C.B.S., that a slight error occurs in our show schedule as regards the medals. The numbers should read thus: Classes 23, 24, and 25 one medal; 27 and 28, one; 29 and 30, one; 31 and 32, one; 33 and 34, one; 35 and 36, one; 37, 38, and 39, one; and 41 and 42 one, making eight medals in all.

A Concert.

Metropolitan bird-lovers should not overlook the Dulwich and Peckham C.B.S. concert on Tuesday, December 15th, writes Mr. W. Hodson, the hon. secretary. Our worthy chairman, Mr. Tringham, has arranged a splendid programme, including many well known artistes. We specially invite ladies to be present. Mr. J. W. Ramsden has kindly consented to take the chair and distribute the prizes. The concert will be held in the hall attached to the "Montpelier," the headquarters of the society, Choumert Road, Peckham. There is every convenience, cloakrooms, etc., and the entrance is entirely separate from the hotel. The committee will be delighted to see all fanciers on this occasion. A large number of letters have reached me from well-known exhibitors, congratulating the society on their late show, the manner in which the exhibits arrived home, and the prompt settlement of their accounts.

I am very pleased with the results of my advertisement in CAGE BIRDS, having had several good sales through same, writes Mr. H. Sweetman (Stoke Newington).

OBITUARY

Mr. A. J. RED (Chester).

I regret to inform you, writes Mr. H. Storm, hon. treasurer of the Chester and Dis. C.B.S., of the death of our honorary secretary, Mr. A. J. Red, which took place suddenly on Sunday, December 6th. His death has come as a great shock to the fanciers of this district, by whom he was greatly respected, and we shall feel his loss and miss his genial presence. We offer to Mrs. Red and family our deepest sympathy in their bereavement. The committee have decided to cancel the show fixed for December 9th in consequence.

A Sad Loss.

A dastardly act was perpetrated last week-end by someone at present unknown, by which that well-known Coventry fancier, Mr. T. Gilbert, has been involved in a sad loss. He sent to Long Eaton Show last Saturday and Monday 5 exhibits, viz., a nearly Clear Goldfinch-Canary Mule, the Nottingham, etc., winner, a Goldfinch-Redpoll Hybrid, an even-marked Yellow Norwich, and two even-marked Buff Norwich. They were packed for the return journey on the Monday night and taken to the railway dray, we are informed, and never seen again. The lot are stolen—at least, that is the only conclusion those concerned can come to at the moment. The officials of Long Eaton Show much deplore the catastraphe, and offer five pounds reward for information leading to the recovery of the birds. Their announcement will be found in our show advertisement columns. The Fancy will join us in an expression of hearty sympathy with Mr. Gilbert in his misfortune. We hope the more-or-less mysterious occurrence will be got to the bottom of, and any responsible party brought to book.

Next Week.

SUPERB XMAS NUMBER.

With very Beautiful Coloured Plate, Art Calendar, and many additional attractions.

Readers

Should order their Copies at once.

Advertisers

Should send in their announcements to reach us on Tuesday next certain, and note the splendid Xmas Offer made them on this page.

Seize this tempting opportunity. Sales in our Special Numbers are always record ones.

I had 52 replies to my last advertisement, writes Mr. Morris (Ryde); thanks to CAGE BIRDS.

To my last advertisement in CAGE BIRDS, writes Mr. W. Bell (Sheffield), I had 24 replies within four days.

I was highly satisfied, writes Mr. Joseph Bean (Chapel Allerton), with my last advertisement in CAGE BIRDS.

We were placed in a difficult position through the indisposition, which is to be much regretted, of Mr. Greeves, writes Mr. R. Roll, secretary, Norwich Show. We are under a great indebtedness to Mr. F. W. Barnett, who came at such short notice to help us out. This action is very much appreciated by the Norwich fanciers, and so far as I am personally concerned it will not be forgotten. We are all very sorry about Mr. Greeves' indisposition, and trust he will soon regain his usual health.

Another Record for Gateshead.

Just as we go to press the following details of the entry at Gateshead come to hand:—Norwich 224, Cinnamons 47, Crests and Crestbreds 162, Scotch Fancy 28, Yorkshires 166, Borders 188, A.V. pairs 11, Selling 84, Mules 55, British 187, Foreign 43, various 19—well over 1,200 entries, another record.—T. TAYLOR, secretary.

Echoes from Lanark Show.

That the management was well pleased; that perfect harmony reigns in the association; that secretary Clark appreciates his committee's assistance; that he said so; that Blackwood breeders were there in force; that many specials went to Kirkmuirhill; that Biggar had his share; that they were all welcome; that one or two old breeders of the Fancy were there, notably Willie Paton (Carlake), his friend Geordie Reid, and Lowrie Jackson (Kirkmuirhill), all looking hale and hearty, and loving their hobby as much as ever; that a mild sensation arose in the Scotch Fancy section; that an exhibit in one of the classes there was under the influence of whisky; that its fellow Canaries in the class were shocked at such conduct; that the judge was also shocked and gave it a low place in the "tickets" as a punishment; that its owner, being afraid of its catching a cold, it already having a touch of asthma, gave it a drop or two of whisky in its water; that poor Greenie succumbed to its potent influence, but fully recovered towards the afternoon, highly ashamed of itself, on seeing the value of the card hanging on the cage, and always being well up in the tickets, and value for it (Greenie is a fair model of a Scotch Fancy), the bird has resolved to abstain entirely; that its owner, who says he had given it too much in error, was as much disappointed as Greenie; that the "joke" was highly relished by those in the "know"; that the show was a grand success, and the association is to be congratulated.—SCOTCH FANCY.

Sweet are the Uses of Advertisement.

Many a hearty laugh arose at the recent Horticultural Hall Show out of the dodge resorted to by CAGE BIRDS to secure an advertisement inside the hall. Denied ordinary channels, we sent to the show a trusty servant, arrayed in a lovely bald head, on which was painted back and front an exhortation to read this journal. His appearance created a considerable sensation. It certainly was very amusing to watch him discreetly parading the aisles, stopping every now and again to scratch his head in amazement at the birds he saw on the benches. The removal of his hat always coincided with amused smiles from those in his vicinity, the onlookers appearing to be immensely tickled at the notion or nearly all of them, that is.

Foreign Bird Keeping for Amateurs.

By Mrs. E. WARREN VERNON.

At the outset permit me to say that the majority of foreign birds are no more expensive to buy or more difficult to keep in good health than the everlastingly-popular Canary. Take as an example the Waxbill tribe. Amongst these are to be found some of the smallest and most beautiful of birds, hardy to a degree, simple to keep, prolific breeders, and in many instances just as fine singers as one could possibly desire. Added to these good qualities is their low price, 2s. 6d. per pair being in most cases the usual figure at which healthy specimens can be obtained.

Some Aviary Inmates.

I have now in my possession, to mention the kinds most commonly met with, the following species, all living entirely out of doors in an aviary, of which I shall give particulars in a moment: two pairs of Cordon Bleus, which at the time of writing are sitting (and as an example of their prolificness I may here mention that one hen last year laid no less than 19 eggs), two pairs of Orange-Breasted Zebra Waxbills, which I recommend as the loveliest and most charming of the commoner Waxbills (these also are building, and, I may say, cost me only 2s. 6d. per pair), several pairs of Avadavats, sometimes called Tiger Finches, always pleasing to the eye, and songsters of no mean ability, and one pair of Green Avadavats.

The last-mentioned are more strikingly garbed than their commoner namesake, the delicate green and their handsomely barred sides making them most attractive. My pair are, at the time of writing, busy sitting. They have a neatly constructed, oval-shaped nest, composed of hay and lined with feathers, a small aperature being the only break in the neatly-woven structure. Through this aperture the bright eye and small red beak of the little lady may be seen. She never offers to leave her duties even when my bird man and I pass close beside her daily; indeed, this fearlessness seems characteristic of all the above-mentioned species, and is, I think, the reason they are so rapidly tamed. I should recommend one or two pairs of each kind as a start for a beginner.

Fitting and Furnishing an Aviary.

I advise an outdoor aviary, but where this is impossible an excellent substitute can be made by having a large cage placed in a sunny window, a box cage for choice, as a guard against draughts. The cage can be much more easily kept clean if painted or enamelled inside, including the sand tray.

Get some small twiggy branches as perches, as the feet of the birds are very small, and you will observe that they invariably choose the slightest twigs to perch on. All they require for winter shelter are some husks or reed nests, hung high, where you will find they will roost at night times.

On the Feeding of Foreigners.

Their staple food should be Indian millet, but they should also have a little red, common white, and spray millet. They are also partial to maw seed, of which they should have a little. An essential, if the birds are to be kept in good health, is sand, and a plentiful supply of grit. Bird keepers should always bear in mind that by keeping birds in cages they are depriving the birds of one aid to digestion, namely, flight; so they must not fail to provide an abundance of another aid, namely, good grit. The birds greatly relish grass seed, and, failing any other source of supply, a handful of the sweepings of a hay loft will be eagerly picked over and every seed eaten.

Ants and ants' eggs are also much enjoyed and should be given fresh if thus procurable. I get mine myself, by collecting a whole ant mound (earth and all), of which I give the birds a trowelful at a time. Ants and their eggs are very soon cleared up, and if your cage is in a room there is little fear of the ants escaping, provided you don't put in too big a helping at a time. Now and then, as a treat, a little crumbled sponge cake on a piece of cuttlefish hung up for them to pock at may be given, and also a handful of grass for them to play with. This method of treatment, together with the daily tub, will enable your birds to thrive and do well.

Making and Fixing a Window Aviary.

In spring, say about May, failing an outdoor aviary, you can (if you have given your birds plenty of fresh air on all the sunny winter days) turn them out into the window aviary.

Any handy man can make this. Get some thin splats, say 1in. by 1in., and make a skeleton box with them. The dimensions of it must be according to the window you intend to utilise for your aviary. Take as an example a window 5ft. by 3ft. You had better use the lower sash only. Your window aviary can be 2ft. 6in. by 3ft., and, say, 2ft. long. A greater length is not advisable, as the weight would be too great for the screws by which the aviary is to be fastened. The uprights on the side you intend for next the window should be left about 3in. higher than the flight and 2in. below for screwing to the window frame. The whole should be covered with quarter-inch mesh wire netting, a door of suitable dimensions being made on the window side of the flight.

Fix your cage up to this flight, and let your birds out into it. Also put a pot plant in for shade, and also their bath, and if their husks and nests are hung in the flight the birds will in all probability nest and breed. You must choose a warm day to put them out, as a raw east wind would most likely give them a bad chill.

During the birds' moult I find that a little Parrish's Chemical Food in their water helps them greatly—only put in sufficient to colour the water. During this most trying period draughts are the worst danger.

The size of the cage will, of course, vary according to the number of birds you keep, but a very useful size is 2ft. by 18in. high by 12in. broad. The wires should be ¼in. apart, the inside feeders and the drinking vessels being of the fountain type to avoid pollution of the water.

Waxbills appreciate lettuce and chickweed, in fact, most green stuff. I grow in a sunny corner Canary seed and millet, which I give when it is in the ear, and green. If you have a plant infested with green fly, put it into their cage, and they will clear every one. Besides being beneficial to the plant, this provides a diet for the birds which is a great help to them, especially during the breeding season.

A Satisfactory Type of Aviary.

Regarding aviaries proper, the most satisfactory type, to my mind, is one with an all-wood sleeping compartment and a ½in. mesh wire netting flight. If you can manage it you will add greatly to its appearance, and to the comfort of your birds, if you board the roof and then tile it. This course keeps the compartment cool in summer and warm in winter.

The aviary should be placed where it faces south, and is sheltered from the east. A good-sized window to open outwards is of vital importance to keep the place fresh and sweet. This must, however, be protected on the inside by a wire netting guard to cover the whole window, and should be made of the same meshed wire as the flight. By running a perch along the width of this about 2in. away from it, the guard can be utilised for hanging on the feeders and drinking fountains.

Put in some twiggy branches for perches and lay a good coat of gravel on the floor. I advise making the floor of concrete. Run a fillet of the cement about three inches up the side of both sleeping compartment and flight; this will prove an effective means of stopping mice and rats. As an additional safeguard against the escape of the inmates it is as well to have a wire door and guard outside the outer door. This wire door can then be shut before one opens the door of the sleeping compartment, and should any of the birds fly out, it will be only into the "guard."

The door into the flight should be of matchboards, fitted with a pigeon hole and shutter. The flights should have a grass border, with a rough square of earth left in the centre. If it is placed against a wall a fruit tree may be planted with advantage against it. Logs, husks, reed nests, etc., of any kind, should be hung up, and will form snug nesting and sleeping places, should the birds prefer the open.

In an aviary similar to the one above described, I keep, in addition to the Waxbills already mentioned, Gouldian Finches, Diamond Sparrows, Pin-tailed Nonpareils, and Singing Finches, all thriving and amiable.

THE WAXWING, ONE OF OUR MOST BEAUTIFUL BIRDS.

Sketched from the specimen exhibited at the City of Glasgow Show by Mr. John Brown, Edinboro).

IN THE COURTS.

A Cardiff Man Fined

The Cardiff deputy-stipendiary (Mr. E. Milner Jones) had before him on November 26th Charles Buson Inson, of Arthur-street, and his sixteen-year-old son, Charles, summoned for having on November 7th certain Starlings in captivity, and inflicting unnecessary suffering by unreasonably omitting to kill the birds. Mr. F. W. Ensor (from the town-clerk's office) conducted the prosecution. Proceedings had been taken on the initiative of Inspector Bingham. Davies deposed that he saw defendants in the vicinity of the Waterloo tips, off Newport Road. They approached a flock of Starlings, and defendant, who carried a gun, fired, and the birds that fell he picked up and handed to Charles. The latter produced from his pocket seven Starlings, four of which were alive, and a dead Sparrow. The living birds were shockingly mutilated. Inspector Bingham said it appeared to be a great cruelty. His Worship discharged the boy. The father he fined 40s., including costs, or fourteen days, for "carelessness and gross cruelty."

Another Man Cautioned.

James Brain, Habershon Street, was summoned for having in his possession on the 7th inst. "a certain wild bird, to wit, a Gull," which had been recently killed, contrary to the Wild Birds' Protection (City and County Borough of Cardiff) Order, 1908. This was the first prosecution of the kind, and his Worship dismissed the summons with a caution.

Cruelty to a Parrot.

"Birds in captivity should be treated as kindly as children," declared the South-Western (London) magistrate on November 23th, when fining John Howard, of High Street, Putney, £2 for leaving a Parrot without food or water for a week. Howard stated he had owned the Parrot for thirty years, and a veterinary surgeon added that Parrots sometimes lived to be 100.

GREAT HORTON (Good Intent) O.S.

Views on In-Breeding.

A paper on Inbreeding was given by Mr. W. Blakey before the members and friends on November 28th. Mr. Geo. Riley (president) in the chair. The subject, he hoped, would be interesting to those present, as it was to him. It was a subject that was open to a great deal of discussion, and if some of our big exhibitors andbreeders would only give us their ideas, it would prove more interesting still. Inbreeding was a word that at present startled and frightened novices, for the simple reason that they did not understand (or should he say they misunderstood?). To breed winners, or a succession of winners one was bound to inbreed. Of that he was sure; but one would have to work systematically, and in time he would be sure to succeed. But he advised his listeners to avoid breeding with any unhealthy specimens, as by so doing they were fixing disease upon disease, which would lead to a bad end. Mr. Blakey was asked if inbreeding in any way had a weakening influence on the stock? He replied, no; and, for proof, instanced cattle and wild birds and fowls, which did a lot of inbreeding. They seemed hardy enough, he was sure. Did he advise pairing brother and sister together? He had tried them and found that from such pairs he sometimes had hens that were barren, which, he thought, showed that these pairs were too nearly related to produce good results. He advised the building up of one's own strain, so that one might be certain how he was pairing for breeding, as by so doing he would save a lot of valuable time. Would he pair father and daughter? he was next asked. Yes, because the daughter would only have half the blood of the father, whereas brother and sister would have equal, and be much of a sameness. By inbreeding one fastened points and quality; for instance, speed in a horse, single or double combs in fowls, spangles and crests, markings and colour in Canaries, etc. If one inquired of a fancy stock breeder, he would find that they always stuck to their own stock for breeding purposes, which showed that there was more in inbreeding than appeared on the surface. Mr. Blakey was then asked if he believed in double-buffing or double-yellowing? He said, yes; and only pair the young from same, and one would be surprised at the bloom produced. He cautioned those present to be careful about introducing fresh blood on the cock side; he also thought he got size from the cock. A hearty vote of thanks was passed to Mr. Blakey for his instructive lecture, and was replied to by him in well chosen words, which brought an enjoyable evening to a close.—HARRY SCHOFIELD, Hon. The Starling: Its Habits, Appearance and Management.

By H. GIBSONE.

The Starling is one of the few British birds which seem to brighten up the dreariness of a town. Of course by this I do not mean to imply that it is only a town bird, and does not know the country at all; on the contrary, it is as much at home in the ploughed lands and green fields as on the dingy house-tops of a smoky city.

Some Characteristics.

No person living in a town or village can help noticing the lively and energetic movements of this bird, as he sits on the chimney pots or perhaps at the end of some gable, with the feathers of his throat thrown out as though he were going to burst out with the curious sort of song he utters, at the same time moving his wings with that peculiar nack he has got, which makes him appear as though he beats time to the notes he utters.

If this performance is after a shower of rain, and the sun is peeping through the clouds, when the freshness of everything seems to lend charm, then one sees the Starling at its best. The bird is well-known to a good many people by its habit of sitting on the backs of sheep in search of ticks, or foraging in search of beetles or the like with others of its kin, in ploughed fields.

The plumage of this species is apparently of a sombre shade, but on closer inspection it will be found to be of a beautiful metallic colour, which seems in perfect harmony with the nature of the bird.

Starlings at Home.

Starlings are of a very conservative turn of mind in regard to their nesting habits; that is to say, they will retain possession of the nesting site in which to rear their family for several years in succession. The situation generally chosen by these birds is a hole in a tree or house, or a crevice in a church tower or gable. They do not stint themselves with regard to the materials with which they build the nest. Hay, roots, straw, and grass, feathers, rags, and paper, are some of the things they employ. These, when formed into a nest make a very untidy home for the future occupants. The Starling lays from four to six eggs of a beautiful light blue tinge, the texture of the egg being rather rough.

The young Starling has a very large gape, and seemingly a correspondingly large appetite; that is, judging from the amount of beetles, snails, grubs, etc., which the old ones exert themselves to bring them. They are very affectionate towards their young and work in hearty co-operation with each other in the heavy domestic duties which fall upon them as soon as the eggs are hatched.

Procuring and Training Them.

In my opinion this is the right time to start to tame them for cage life; or a better time, perhaps, is when they are just able to fly. It is as well as get your Starlings out of a nest which is isolated, as they are much quicker and more on the alert than those which live in a nest in the Starling colonies, and consequently are apt to be lazy, owing to their having a leader and sentinels to do all the thinking for them.

If by any chance you are not able to procure a young one, but at the same time have the opportunity of getting an old bird, do so, for it is not by any means difficult to tame one of them. An acquaintance of mine after having shot an old bird in the wing succeeded quite well in subduing it, so as to make a desirable pet of it.

The birds should be fed on quite sloppy food at first, such as crumbs and milk. But later on a more substantial food should be substituted; for instance, meat or any other odd bits, varied with a little of its wild diet as far as possible for a delicacy.

Only One Master Needed.

The bird should not be allowed to have a dozen masters; that is, if you intend to be the owner, and take an intelligent interest in your bird. At first nobody should be allowed to attend to its wants but yourself. It should also get used to your voice, and whatever is done, let it be done gently, so as not to make noise enough to seriously upset the bird. Then, with a little patience, as is necessary in the case of all wild birds, they will begin a lasting friendship with you.

Teaching to mimic and say things is not quite so easily done as it is said. The bird is most forgetful, and no matter how many times you may call or repeat a tune to it, it seems to know nothing of it the next day. But this notwithstanding, go on persevering, and one of these mornings you will come down to be greeted with the very tune or call you have been whistling day after day. Then, indeed is the battle won, but only then. The best time for this operation of teaching is after the bird has finished a good meal, when it is more inclined to be musical, if so I may call its note. As the bird gets older, it will be found very advisable to clip its wings, unless it can be relied upon not to go astray, which it will probably do at one time or another of its life.

At Liberty in the House.

These birds should be allowed a large and airy cage in which to live, if one intends to keep them in confinement. But on the other hand if you are not going to keep your bird in a cage, you will still want one of some sort, only smaller for it to go into at night or in times of danger.

There are many pitfalls in the way of an unconfined bird. One of the greatest is the fire and perhaps the least cruel thing to do is to teach it the necessary lesson at once, by holding it close to the fire and letting it get hot. If this measure is not resorted to, one of these days the pet may be found to have rushed into the fire, and sustained injuries sufficiently serious in some cases as to necessitate its being put to death.

Many other dangers there are, which the alertness of the owner alone can avert, and sometimes even this will not always help the situation. The cage should be made to be the bird's harbour of refuge in time of peril; one should not fail to impress this on the bird. Be sure to keep the cage clean, and plenty of fresh food should be supplied.

Always provide the bird with a bath; this is not always done, but for all that it is a most essential thing. If you watch by a pool of water, that has been left by the rain, it will surprise you to see the number of birds that come at irregular intervals for their dip, or may be at the time of your arrival preening their feathers.

With these instructions before one it should not be found so difficult as at first it seems to train this interesting bird. Bear the following saying in your mind when you commence your task "If you don't succeed at first try again," and you will be sure to triumph in the end.

Management of Scotch Fancy and Belgian Canaries.

By THOMAS SMITH.

The end of July naturally enough brings on an apathy in the attention which Canaries receive. This ought to be guarded against at this period, as old and young birds are prone to break down; therefore the entire stock should be carefully inspected last thing in the evenings and first thing in the mornings, so that those getting out of condition may be attended to at once.

Ordinary grass which is in seed is a capital food, and is easy to obtain in the suburbs of towns and in country places. Sulphate of iron should be put into the drinking water glass every alternate day.

To get the birds through the moult smartly and before the weather is cold is of great importance. It fits them for the the Show bench, it prepares the surplus stock for an early sale, and puts them into condition for standing the winter, besides putting the breeder or owner in possession of something reliable for the next season's breeding operations.

I have noticed that a bird which has moulted quickly and well usually proves a good breeder; it is an indication that the bird has a sound constitution. For the reasons I have mentioned no attempt should be made to retard birds entering the moult.

The Red Mite Nuisance.

Red mites, if not kept in check, multiply rapidly, and prove a decided hindrance to the moult. They disturb the birds nightly, drawing blood, and depriving them of rest. The best means of destroying them is by using Jeyes' disinfectant freely, and by keeping the cages clean. The bird-room should never be without disinfectants of some kind, and whenever they begin to lose strength they should be renewed. Their use keeps down infectious trouble, which means maintaining the health of the inmates of the aviary. If the power of disinfectants were generally known, they would be more in evidence than they are.

Importance of Sound Limbs.

Belgian and Scotch Fancy Canaries must of necessity be sound in body and limb; so much depends upon the birds being able to show themselves. The existence of a corn in a foot might mar a bird's chance of winning. Exhibition birds like Race Horses have to be kept in the very best of condition. Much can be done by the owner at this time of the year. The birds should not be attended to hurriedly, but the greatest care should be exercised, and where anything appears to be out of order it should at once be attended to. Fanciers are apt to pay attention to their promising birds—which, in its place, is quite proper—and to neglect the less promising. The others should not be overlooked, but, on the contrary, should have the strictest attention. By doing so the breeder's chances of success the next season will be greatly improved. Besides, with the Scotch Fancy and Belgian Canaries, a winner sometimes arises where least expected. A bird which has been soft and mopey, after it gets through the moult may pull together and beat others which had been considered far ahead of it in quality.

It should always be remembered that if surplus stock is to be sold to advantage, the birds must be in good condition. I strongly advocate attention all the year round. By so doing many a bird's life is saved, and a maimed bird may turn out a strong, vigorous member of the flock. It is easy to discern between a well-kept stock and birds that are left pretty much to themselves.

Surplus Stock.

In a successful season and where room is wanted a breeder often disposes of surplus stock. Many a breeder has succeeded in picking up in this way and at such times birds which have turned out to be the foundation of a winning strain. This is a hint worthy of note, especially when one is visiting.

Overcrowding should be avoided as it has many dangers. Where the accommodation is insufficient the stock should be reduced rather than incur risk. Some breeders rear a lot of common birds, in addition to their Scotch Fancy and Belgian Canaries, and moult them as well. In certain cases it would pay a successful breeder to sell out his feeders cheap and make more room for the higher class of birds, and when the fancies come to be reduced buy in feeders at the beginning of the year.

Late Breeders.

Late breeders are to be found in every aviary. I have had fertile eggs from my hens when I did not want them—when both of the old birds were in rags. In such a case it is a great advantage to have a pair or two of feeders which did not start breeding until far on in the breeding season. They can then stand the effort entailed in late rearing.

Winners have been hatched well on into August, but all breeders prefer early hatching. A good deal depends, however, upon the kind of weather which prevails in the opening months of the breeding season. Cold backward weather naturally leads to late hatching and rearing. If at all possible Scotch Fancy and Belgian Canaries should be spared all risks attendant upon the late upbringing of a brood.

What to do with Idle Pairs.

Idle pairs (I mean by this birds that have not up to this point done anything in the way of breeding) as a last resource might be separated, and each given a fresh partner. The chances then are that a couple of nests of young will be secured. It will also serve to indicate whether or not they should be kept for the following season.

I do not advocate the putting away of birds that may not have bred, if of pure blood. They should have another trial. Remember, birds that do not breed well one season may breed successfully during another. Fanciers are inclined to be far too hasty in condemning birds that have not done exactly what they wanted them to do, and are frequently rash at the end of the breeding season. Breeders should do nothing quickly in the matter of stock. There is scope here for judicious thinking and for the weighing up of points.

Groenfood should be in a ripe condition and may be given even to birds that have ceased to breed. Ripe chickweed is wholesome, provided it is fresh. Care should be taken to remove all tainted green food. Cages should be kept sweet and clean throughout the year and particularly in July and August when summer heat prevails.

Several Things.

July and August are the favourite months for holidays. Many a plan is tried to tide over this much prized period in life. No matter where life is spent a change is beneficial and should be made the most of. A run here and there is a doubtful method. Here is where the hobby pinches. The house is usually shut up and many are hard put to it to get the stock attended to. It is impossible to lay down hard and fast lines, and each breeder has to work out his own salvation in this respect. An experienced caretaker in the breeder's absence is essential. Losses easily occur, and these quickly undo part of the year's work. Neighbouring fanciers who go at different periods for holidays are able to oblige one another.

In bright, warm weather, old and young birds should have a moderate use of the bath in early morning. It helps them to throw their old feathers, and assists the fresh feathers to grow. Quassia chips should be put into the water to destroy the red mites, which are very numerous in warm weather.

In hot weather windows are put up or down to admit cool air. In such circumstances, should a bird get out of the cage, it is apt to escape, never to be seen again. The window, therefore, should be covered by wire.

BUCKHAVEN.

First annual show held in the Free Gardeners' Hall, November 21. The Hall is undoubtedly one of the best in Fife, and the Association is to be congratulated on the ideal management. This was their first venture, and we found everything in its place, and everyone up to their various duties. The comforts of the exhibits were well provided for They were staged along the warmest side of the hall. The cage bird section is well looked after, with the popular and energetic President, Mr. David Baird, at the helm. He had everything well in hand. In Mr. Lawrie they have a secretary who, with a little more experience, will be hard to beat; he was most obliging, and quiet, and had all the arrangements well in hand. In the Scotch Fancy section, the entry was rather a poor one. We would urge those who still breed them to encourage societies who give them a large classification. They were well handled by Mr. Lisshe (Thornton). The remainder of the classes were judged by Mr. Patterson (Chirnside); both their awards were well received. Norwich were not so keenly shown, but there were one or two well-known winners present. Both British and foreign Goldfinches were good, and nearly every British Bullfinch was a champion.

WEST MALLING.

The fourth annual show (open to a radius of 6 miles) was held at the Hollies, Malt House, on Nov. 24 and 25. The show-room was well lighted, free from draughts, and the birds in our section were quite separate from those of the other sections. West Malling spells enthusiasm and progress, not as applied to big undertakings of the meteoric order, but to the steady nursing of fanciers locally, with the result that the society grows and competition gets keener every year. Our section totalled 102 exhibits, and the birds that won, and in most cases the losers, were of outstanding merit. An unfortunate circumstance marred an otherwise successful venture. The indefatigable chairman, Mr. J. J. Hayward, was, for the second consecutive year, unable, through sudden illness, to share in the joy of his labours. We wish him a speedy recovery. All arrangements were in apple-pie order. The secretary, Mr. Henry Martin, and his assistant, Mr. Roland Martin, were very methodical, and Mr. Hood attended to the wants of the caged birds. Mr. McGreath made the awards, which appeared to give every satisfaction.

LEICESTER C.B.S.

A most successful table show was held on Nov. 25th. A good number turned up and the competition was very keen. The entries totalled 20. Judge, Mr. T. H. Ride.

1, hc, Tyler; 2, Curtis; 3, Hartshorn; 4, Heighton; vhc, Stevens; c, Harrison. A judging competition took place in connection with the above class, five members taking part; the nearest to the above awards were as follows: 1, Smith; 2, Christian; 3, Warmington; 4, Freer; 5, Claypole. Only novices were eligible to take part in the above competition.—J. A. TYLER, Sec.

BURTON-ON-TRENT.

Second annual open show held December 9th, in the "Stafford-shire Knot" Auction Rooms. The show was opened by the Mayoress (Mrs. E. Tresise), in a few well-chosen words, and we were pleased to hear that this lady is a keen fancier of foreign birds. The management was ideal, everything being utterly arranged, the staging, too, being a nice height. Norwich made a capital display. The Yorkshire classes were not quite up to the average, but the A.V. class was composed of some very fine Crests, also a few fine Borders, but these have not a fair chance in such a class. Mules and Hybrids were a very nice lot, Mr. T. J. Ward's noted Redpoll Bullie again being on the top. The British and Foreign birds were quite a show in themselves. Mr. Hadley was very busy among these, supplying their wants. He staged a very fine team himself. Messrs. Hadley and Kirkland carried out the secretarial duties to perfection, being ably assisted by a hard working Committee, composed of His Worship the Mayor (president), Dr Dockerty (chairman), Messrs R. Coltman (vice-chairman), S. A. Dicken, A. Ford, H. Hathaway, J. H. Lee, H. Hawkins, S. J. Gopsill, J. England, W. Elliott, A. Wood, A. Halliday, T. J. Siers, and S. Hawkes. Mr. J. H. Roe, judged all Canaries and Mules, and Mr. R. J. Howe, the British and foreign birds.

BIRMINGHAM.

Annual Show of the City of Birmingham C.B.S. was held on Dec. 2nd and 3rd in the Crown Hotel. Entries came up well, and competition was very keen, particularly in the Yorkshire section, where all the birds in the cards were well-known winners. Mr. J. B. de Maillett, the new secretary, was indefatigable in his efforts, and he was well supported by stewards, who evidently had the business well in hand. We noticed Messrs. Eckersley, Smith, Collier, Jones, Maillett, and several others giving the exhibits every attention, and the secretary had taken upon him the feeding of the necessaries. The birds and the foreign birds. In the Norwich classes birds of great merit were staged by Messrs. Eckersley, Jeffs, Jones, Tams, and Dipple, and in Yorkshires Messrs. Burke, Wallis, Paddock, Long, Dykes, and Mole staged birds of grand type and quality. The show closed at 9 p.m. on the second day, and exactly an hour later all the exhibits had been packed and handed to the railway servants. This was smart work considering there were over 500 birds. Mr. J. H. Rea judged.

HARTLEPOOLS.

The 4th annual show, held in the Christ Church Hall on Dec. 5th. Unfortunately entries showed a falling-off as compared with those of recent shows in this district, but although short in numbers the quality of the exhibits all through was excellent and many well-known winners were on view. The cup for best team of three birds shown by a member was won by the secretary, Mr. H. Williams, he also winning Hyde's special. Special for best bird in show was won by the winning buff Yorkshire. In Mr. Williams this society has a hard-working and enthusiastic secretary, and his only complaint was that he had not had half enough to do. The committee were also an energetic and capable body. Mr. E. Brunskill placed the tickets.

MANNINGHAM.

The Manningham C.B.S. annual open show was held on Dec. 3rd in the Drummond Road Council School, Manningham, Bradford. The entry was not quite so large as expected, the total in the 26 classes provided reaching 378, an average per class of nearly over 14. Two classes were declared void in consequence of not receiving the regulation five entries, and two classes were half prize money, only containing seven entries each. The novice Yorkshires were a nice lot, and plenty of them, 141 birds being staged in the six classes, an average of 23. Sectional specials for most points were secured by Messrs. W. H. Shackleton, Bailey and Swanger, Crabtree, Wilson, Ogden Bros., Cantenden, Wilcock, Hammond, Clegg, Kaye, Beaumont. Best Novice bird was won by Mr. E. Clegg, and best Novice hen in Yorks. classes by Mr. Beaumont. Messrs. Bailey and Swanger secured the medal for best fed bird mounted on Ramsden's peppers. Messrs. F. Townsend and Shaw Bros. were the top scorers in CAGE BIRDS competition for the amateurs of Yorkshire. Mr. R. Carr was the official judge elected by the Yorkshire Union, and he was assisted by Mr. T. Tetley, the awards of both meeting with entire approval. The management left nothing undone in the matter of the arrangements. In Mr. F. Western they have a very efficient and popular secretary, who was well backed up by Mr. Robinson (president), Mr. J. Dennison (vice president), Mr. Dent (treasurer), with Messrs. Smith, Varley, and others as stewards. Mr. W. Holroyd rendered good service as assistant secretary. The room is a very large and lofty one and well supplied with light, altogether very suitable for a cage bird show. There was a capital attendance, and time passed very pleasantly along.

LOWESTOFT AND DISTRICT C.B.S.

The 2nd annual members' show was held Oct. 29th, at the Public Hall, London Road. Mr. W. E. Greeves (Wrentham) judged, and his awards seemed to give general satisfaction. The entry came up very well for a second attempt, 293 birds being staged; the quality of the exhibits was splendid, and no doubt several of them will be heard of again before the show season finishes. Everything went off A1 under the management of Mr. W. Lang, jun. (secretary), Mr. A. Cooper (chairman), and a good working lot of stewards, including Messrs. Bagshaw, Blackburn, Catchpole, Fitt, Hart, Hatch, Kirk, Lay, Munford, Smith, and Wigg. The silver challenge cup presented by Mrs. R. Leach for most points in Norwich plain-head classes was won by Mr. F. Rackham, the same exhibitor winning Sandiford's medal and several other specials. Mr. H. Hart won the silver medal for best Crest in show with a beautiful Crest, which was claimed at catalogue price, £2 10s. The sales amounted to £7 16s., and the show was financially a great success.

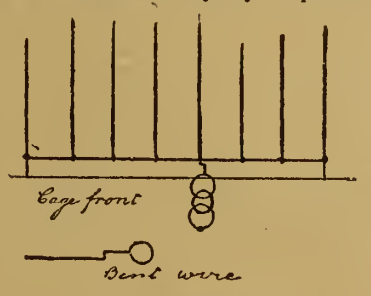
Wimbledon Show report credits me with winning v.h.c. in the large softbill British bird class with my "Shrike"; it should have been by "Thrush."—J. Cooke (Alton)

Plymouth Show report, in the members' class, writes Mr. W. Gouldson (Devonport), ro my Blackbird should have read: 1st and special, and not v.h.c., as in catalogue.

I was indeed suprised and delighted on looking through Cage Birds this week to find such a good portrait of my Dutch Frill, and should very much like to see classes for them better supported at shows, as we have it on good authority that there are plenty of these birds in this country, and I should like to see the owners bring them out and support the shows. —A. E. Brooks (Cambridge).

CAGE BIRDS "COMES OUT ON TOP!"

THESE two photographs show the humorous manner in which 'Cage Birds' obtained an advertisement at the recent Horticultural Hall Show, and the person who so successfully carried out the scheme.



ILLUSTRATED IDEAS

Under this heading we shall illustrate weekly some ideas useful to the bird-keeper. Readers are invited to send us particulars of any novel and practical appliance of use in our hobby, either in cage, bird room or aviary, with a rough sketch of same where possible. Every "Illustrated Idea" used in this column will entitle the sender thereof to a postal order for two shillings and sixpence.

DOOR FASTENER FOR YORKSHIRE SHOW CAGE.

Sent by A, Booth, 12, Victoria Street, Allerton Bywater, near Castleford, Yorks

I onclose sketch of a fastener for a Yorkshiro show-cage—a piece of ordinary cage wire bent in the shape skotch shows and soldered to cage-door. You get a small screw picture ring and screw it into cage just under door (vide sketch). Then you get a split ring to go through the loop of the wire that is soldered to the cage-door. When the door is shut down, and the split ring inserted in the loop of the wire through tho picture ring, it is fast and impossiblo for anybody to open with-

No. 265.
IMPROVED DOORS FOR CAGE FRONTS.

Sent by A. Sanders, 81, Balmoral Street, Gorton, Manchester.

I onclose sketch of a wire front, which if made to instructions is one of the neatest. My improvement is in the egg drawer door and cage-door, both of which are made to slide up and down. Instructions how to make the egg drawer door. First of all I use ¼-in. punch bars. I cut two pieces with five or six holes, (in whichever you please), leaving about ⅜in. of tho bar beyond the end holes, as shown in No. 1. Then I drill a hole outside each of the end holes about 3-16in. from centre to centre. This I do by means of a small bobbin drill. You now have eight holes in your bar, as shown in No. 2. You now count threo holes from tho end of each bar and file a slot, v shape, till you cut down into the hole, as shown in No. 3. You can now bend your bars in with your fingers, which at the same time closes the slots up. You must now solder these corners to strengthen them, and run your drill through again, as the holes get closed up when tho bars are bent. This will form a nice bay, projecting out about half-inch; shown in No. 4. You are now ready to solder your wires in, leaving the two end holes for sliding purposes. Leave your two centre wires a bit longer than the others, and bend them round what shape you like, when they will serve to keep the egg drawer in. Readers who make their own fronts will find that this is a great improvement.—A. Sanders.

The Hetton-le-Hole and Dis. C.B.S., writes Mr. A. J. Notley, the secretary, intend holding an open show on January 9th in conjunction with their annual members' show. We are providing 18 open classes with 2s. 6d. cash specials in each class. Mr. E. Brunskill will judge.

I have had a little fad for birds from boyhood days in the Mother country, writes Mr. John K. Storey (St. John, New Brunswick), when I used to catch the Grey Linnets with bird lime made from the holly bark We have a Grey Linnet here, with red breast. I have one now I intend crossing with Canaries. But our winters are so cold that almost all the birds migrate to a warmer climate, and we have few song birds here. Good wishes to Cage Birds.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

DOUBTS AND DIFFICULTIES SOLVED BY SPECIALISTS.

Queries will be answered under the following Conditions:—

(1)—All questions must be clearly written in ink (or typewritten) on one side only of paper, and must conclude with either the correct name of querist, or a pseudonym, or initials.

(2)—The proper name and address in full of querist must always be written on a separate sheet of paper and enclosed with the query. In no case must the address appear on the query.

(3)—Queries intended for different specialists must not be written on the same sheet of paper.

(4)—Queries must not include or be included in orders for books, instructions re advertisements, or any other matter for publication.

(5)—The department to which the queries refer must be stated in bold letters on the left-hand corner of the query.

(6)—If an answer in the same week's issue is desired, queries must be posted to reach us by Monday's first post at latest. Queries will be dealt with in the order in which they are received, and only as space permits. The earlier queries are received the better attention they are likely to have.

(7)—Queries relating to illnesses of birds, except enquiries as to cause of death (for which see Post Mortems) will be answered by return of post on receipt of a postal order for sixpence and an addressed stamped envelope. Queries of an ordinary nature will be answered by post, if desired, on receipt of a postal order for one shilling and a stamped addressed envelope.

(8)—All who require letters of complaint written to advertisers must state grounds for doing so clearly and fully, and enclose a fee of sixpence to pay postage expenses, &c., otherwise their letters will not receive attention.

(9)—All queries must be addressed the Editor, "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet Street, London, E.C. Only queries so sent will be answered. Postcards are not admissible.

THE following gentlemen represent CAGE BIRDS staff of ADVISORY EXPERTS. Queries must in no case be addressed to any of them individually, but to the Editor.

CANARY QUERIES.

Answered by CLAUDE ST. JOHN.

By Fits and Starts.

E.U.—Your Canary which only sings by fits and starts, as it were, and is constantly losing feathers, it is pretty certain, is exposed to draughts or gets a chill in some way, which is the prelude to its silent intervals. It is also fed incorrectly. Feed on plain Canary seed only as a staple, and give separately half a teaspoonful of summer rape twice a week, a few grains of hemp about as often, a small teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake, or the egg-food you mention, once a week, and a small spray of green-food every second day as long as it can be obtained free from frost. You may also give occasionally half a teaspoonful of the mixed seeds you name in place of one or other of the above extras, but this is not really necessary. Keep the cage strewn with clean gritty sand, and see the bird is quite free from draughts at all times. In the drinking water give twenty drops of chemical food every second day for a fortnight, and on the alternate days four drops of tincture of steel. Then stop for a week, and if the moulting has not quite ceased then, begin again and repeat the same for another fortnight.

A Slow Recovery.

C.N.M.—The hen would have got on better by having the cod liver oil emulsion earlier, but, as I said before, the wheeziness may last some time. Let the seed diet remain at what you now have it, viz., Canary only, as staple, with a little rape twice a week. Give half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake, with two drops of cod liver oil emulsion and two of sherry mixed in it three times a week. If you can get watercress free from frost give a small spray each day when you are not giving sponge cake. This will prevent the constipation. If you cannot obtain this, you must give a pinch of Epsom salts in the drinking water as often as is necessary to prevent constipation. Instead of the previous medicines try the following decoction given three times a week for a month. Put a small teaspoonful of linseed, a chlorate-of-potash lozenge, a piece of gum arabic, and Spanish liquorice, each the size of a pea, into a small teacup, fill up with boiling water, stir until gum is dissolved, cover over, and allow it to stand until cold. Strain through muslin, and give in the drinker in place of pure water, adding five drops of syrup of squills to what you put in the drinker. A mealworm a day for a short time would be very beneficial to this bird if you have any handy

Puffs Out Its Feathers.

D. Middleton.—If the bird only crouches down and puffs out its feathers when anyone goes near I should suspect there was nothing at all the matter with it, but that the change from the room you speak of to the kitchen where, I presume, the bird always sees people moving about, has rendered it so tame and confiding that when it puffs out its feathers as you go near it, it is merely inviting you to play with it. If this surmise is correct, and you were to put your finger gently against the perch end when the bird crouched down at you, it would probably peck and fight it. Instead of giving hemp and rape as you do, give just a few grains of the former two days each week only, half a teaspoonful of the rape on two other days, and on two other days half a teaspoonful of egg-food. Give a spray of green-food every second day. Keep it free from draught, and in a fairly regular temperature. If you think the above surmise is incorrect, try the effect of four drops of tincture of steel in the drinking water every second day for a week, with thirty drops of chemical food on the intervening days.

Made Excellent Progress.

D.A. (Broxburn).—Thanks for reporting progress of Norwich. Am glad to hear it has done so well As regards further treatment you may give the bird another two weeks' treatment similar to what I advised before for the first and second weeks, and in the same order, but with this little difference: Instead of giving the egg-food or sponge cake with sherry and oil every second day, give it only twice a week, and during the first week give only two drops of tincture of steel in the drinking water instead of five. At the end of the fortnight discontinue all further treatment, and put the bird on the ordinary diet frequently advised here for stock birds, viz., good plain Canary seed only as a staple, and give separately half a teaspoonful of summer rape twice a week; on two other days give a few grains of hemp, and twice a week a small teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake or egg-food. A small spray of green-food may be given every second day as long as it is obtainable quite free from frost. For a few weeks you may add twenty drops of chemical food to its drinking water twice a week, but if no relapse occurs stop other drugs and medicines, and discontinue this in a few weeks' time.

Resting and Panting.

P.M.—As the trouble has not stopped the bird singing I imagine it is not very serious yet. It may be nothing more serious than an overfed condition, but your brief note does not help me much, as I can only advise in a general way. First see the bird is not exposed to any draught or great variations of heat, such as might occur from its cage hanging near a lamp or gas jet when alight, and see it is not infested with red mites. Keep cage perfectly clean and strewn with fresh gritty sand. Then for one week limit its diet to plain Canary seed only, with half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake moistened with two or three drops of sherry twice during the week. Give a spray of green-food, free from frost, every second day. Let this form the sole food for the week. In the drinking water give every second day during the same time as much Epsom salts as will cover a sixpence. If the panting is better at the end of the week continue the same diet, but stop the salts, and give instead five drops of aromatic sulphuric acid every second day for the next week. Then begin again and repeat the two weeks' treatment in the same order. But should the panting be as bad at the end of the first week, add one drop of cod liver oil emulsion to the sponge cake, and give it every second day for a fortnight, and for the same length of time add twenty drops of whiskey, ten of glycerine, and two of oil of eucalyptus well shaken together to the drinking water every second day, and on the alternate days twenty drops of chemical food.

Mealworms Again.

"Enquirer."—1. For details about breeding see reply to "C. B. Morgan," in last week's issue. 2. A mixture of bran and thirds is much better than using all fine meal. Equal parts of bran and mixed meal, the latter composed of equal parts of thirds, common flour, and barley meal, is very good. See also note in the reply referred to about the food used in one experiment. 3. Yes, certainly, I expect they require a certain amount of air to live and thrive, but if you fill the box only about half full of the various materials used, the occasional opening of the box to see how things are going on, take out worms, of the supply food, etc., will supply all the airing that is really necessary. 4. The metamorphoses of the mealworms begin with eggs which are laid by the beetles. They are: egg, larvæ, which is the familiar mealworm, and changes its skin several times during its growth to the full-fed stage; pupæ, beetle. The beetles lay the eggs to provide the next brood, and then die. 5. The only feeding they require is the meal and bran put into the box you keep them in. The bran and meal is their food, so you must not let the supply of this become exhausted in the box.

Loose and Ruffled.

B.T.G.—There must be something wrong with your food or water, as the trouble points in that direction. As a staple diet give good sound canary seed only, and separately, in addition, half a teaspoonful of summer rape twice a week, and three times a week half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake with three drops of sherry and one drop of cod liver oil emulsion well mixed in it. Give these alternately, and fill up the odd days by giving a small spray of green food if you can procure it quite free from frost. Limit the diet solely to these items for a month. In the drinking water give ten drops of glycerine, five of dandelion juice, and as much Epsom salts as will cover a sixpence each day for three consecutive days, and for the remainder of that week give five drops of aromatic sulphuric acid every other day in the water. For the next fortnight give twelve drops of chemical food every second day, and on the intervening days four drops of tincture of steel. If you have any doubt about the purity of your water supply give only water that has been boiled to the bird, and see its supply is clean and fresh daily.

Dietetics.

C.G.E.—It depends upon circumstances whether it is best to give Canaries their canary and rape seeds mixed or separately. The most economical plan is to give all seeds separately in all cases, as this prevents the birds throwing out and wasting several kinds of seed in order to pick out a particular variety they are partial to. But this method is not always convenient, especially when one has perhaps only one or two singing birds kept in small cages, as the multiplicity of seed vessels is somewhat of a nuisance. In such cases I do not object to the canary and rape being given as a mixture in the one seed vessel, and all other seeds can be given as required in the egg drawer, or even on the floor of the cage. Where a larger stock of birds are kept and are to be used for breeding, it is always best to give canary seed only in the hoppers for a regular staple, and give all the others in the egg drawer as before mentioned. As to the other seeds to be given, and quantities, also proportion of rape to canary in a mixture, you will see details given almost every week in these columns. Briefly, when only canary is given in the hopper, half a teaspoonful of rape about twice a week, a few grains only of hemp on two other days, and a half teaspoonful of egg food or crushed sponge cake twice a week, with a spray of green food daily in summer and two or three times a week in winter when it is free from frost, is all that is really necessary to form a good wholesome diet in all ordinary cases. As a rule it will be found that the plainer the diet the healthier the stock will be, so all other changes and variation of diet are much better reserved for special cases or particular needs. When the canary and rape is mixed together the best proportion for English breeds is three of canary to one of rape; for Rollers the proportion should be two of canary to one of rape. Of course when this mixture is used as a staple the separate supply of rape is withheld.

Consanguinity, etc.

W.I.G.C.—1. No; it is not advisable to breed in-and-in so closely as the mating of brother and sister from the same nest whenever it can be avoided; and in those very exceptional cases where it is done, because it cannot easily be avoided, or for any very special purpose, it should be made an absolutely rigid condition that both the birds so mated are thoroughly sound and healthy, and are not themselves the product of in-bred stock. Given these latter conditions one such mating might not produce any great deterioration, but it is always advisable when inbreeding to keep the relationship much wider apart than a full-blooded brother and sister cross. Matings with cousins, or uncles, or aunts, with an occasional half-blood cross—such as mother to son, or vice versa—for special objects is quite near enough. 2. It is very unusual for a bird to have a bare patch on the breast just below the beak. As a matter of fact no feathers really grow in that position, so I imagine your bird must either be very scantily feathered that the plumage is not sufficiently profuse to cover the bird's body, or perhaps it is so thin and attenuated as to cause the breast to protrude through the feather tracts. In the latter case give it a small piece of bread and milk three times a week and a pinch of hemp twice a week, and in the drinking water twenty drops of chemical food every third day for a month. If you discover from where the feathers are really missing write again, and describe the appearance of the skin, and say how you feed the bird.

Two in Distress.

Arundel.—The two birds you say are the only ones affected have most likely been in a draught or in a colder part of the shed than the rest; otherwise they are a couple of those chilly bodies which cannot get along in comfort without a fire. They are two such as would succeed best in a room where a fire is kept, provided the heat is equable day and night, or fairly so. Give each of these birds an extra pinch of rape twice a week, or a pinch of coarse oatmeal or rolled oats instead, and on two other days a half teaspoonful of hemp each, and the same quantity of egg food once or twice a week. A mealworm each day would be very helpful, or, failing that, a small cube of fat boiled bacon between the wires. Give green food only in the most limited quantities, and see it is perfectly free from frost and condensed fog. If you wash to heat the shed, which I should scarcely advise if the above treatment works an improvement in the two birds in question, as long as the others keep well and lively, the hot pipe arrangement such as you refer to would do very well, provided also the furnace or the heating lamp is outside, or so placed that the fumes from the burning lamp cannot enter the shed. If you do begin to heat it you must not forget that the temperature should be kept fairly equable night and day. To apply heat during the day, and leave the temperature to take care of itself at night, would be infinitely worse than no heat at all.

How to do it.

G.H.M.—If I wanted to be funny I would reply to your query how to shell white millet by saying throw it down before a group of hungry Weavers. Personally I never knew of anything that could perform the operation one-half so speedily as this simple method. But I expect you want the kernels and not the husks, which is all you would get in the above method, so I am sorry I cannot tell you how you could shell it, or strip it of the husk. Neither do I know any machine, or dealer, which does it, or could supply it ready done. If you were not particular about having the kernel ground to flour, I should say your best plan would be to run the seed through a small grinding mill—a coffee mill would do—and then sift the flour from the husks. Scotch pinhead meal is simply coarsely ground oatmeal. In the days of yore I remember the powers that were, in our culinary department, used to buy it under the name of "coarse oatmeal," or "rough oatmeal," which were probably convenient terms to distinguish it from that which was finely ground.

Wants a Tonic.

T.A.D.—You worked the bird a little too hard last year for one thing, if you allowed him to help in the rearing of all his sixteen sons and daughters; and since the moult he has probably been laying on more fat than is good for him. In any case you must not expect him to begin singing for some weeks to come, as it is very doubtful whether he will begin again until the spring. For present treatment continue to feed as you are now doing for a staple, but give in addition a few grains of hemp twice a week, and half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake with three or four drops of sherry in it three times a week. Give this on different days and alternately. Give a small spray of green food every second or third day as long as you can procure it free from frost. In the drinking water give as much Epsom salts as will cover a sixpence and five drops of dandelion juice every second day for a week, and after this give twenty drops of chemical food every second day for a fortnight, and on the alternate days during this period give four drops of tincture of steel. See that he has a supply of gritty sand, and is free from draughts, and keep him in a comfortable temperature, but not necessarily a high one—from forty-five to fifty degrees is quite enough.

To Bring on Song.

H. Meredith.—Your young birds should have been trying over their notes by now if they are really cocks, unless the old cock went off song early before they had much opportunity of hearing him sing. If you want them on song quickly cage them up separately, keep them in a comfortable temperature, not necessarily very warm, but just away from any chilly feeling; see they are quite free from draught, and in a fairly equable place. Keep the cage clean, free from red mites, and nicely strewn with clean gritty sand. Feed on a staple of plain canary seed only, and give separately twice a week half a teaspoonful of summer rape, on two other days a few grains of hemp, and three times a week half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake with three drops of sherry mixed in it, and a small pinch of gold of pleasure seed sprinkled over it. Give all these extras alternately, so that a different one is given each day. Give four drops of tincture of steel in the water twice a week. This should quickly bring them into full vigorous song, when you must discontinue the steel, sherry, and gold of pleasure, and cut down the sponge cake to once a week.

Roller Not Moulted.

J. G. S. Roller.—If the bird is apparently in good health and spirits leave well alone, as you can do no good by trying to force on a moult under such circumstances. The bird may be a very late-hatched one, having moulted last spring; in which case it will doubtlessly repeat the performance in three months hence. You do not say whether the bird shows any signs of illness or not, so I presume it is not seriously ill. By-the-bye, I doubt whether you read all your efforts to enforce a moult in our paper. I am quite certain I never advised anyone to give a bird soaked mustard, either in seed or any other form. Feed the bird on a staple mixture of two parts canary to one part summer rape, and give separately a few grains of niger twice a week, and twice a week half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake, which you may vary occasionally by giving a small piece of bread soaked in milk, squeezed nearly dry, and sprinkled with soft sugar. Two or three times a week give a small spray of green food, but guard against giving anything frosted. Keep the cage nicely strewn with clean gritty sand, and see the water supply is pure and fresh. Keep bird free from draughts, and then I do not think you need worry at all about its not moulting as long as it keeps bright and active.

Brevities.

Showing Rollers (Rollers).—If I understand your query right, you wish to enter your birds in singing contests under the patronage of a Roller Club. The only one I know that would suit your purpose is the British Roller Canary Club, established in London. The secretary's address is: Mr. J. W. Norris, 31, Scylla-road, Peckham Rye, London, S.E. Of course, you could join being at a distance, even if you were not able to attend the meetings. The secretary, no doubt, will tell you how to proceed.

BRITISH BIRDS, MULES AND HYBRIDS.

Feeding and Mating Goldfinches

H.H.S.E.—1. The Finch mixture you name is a very good make, but I do not recommend its regular use. Feed, rather, on the following lines: This is the seed mixture I am using at present for my own Goldies: Teazle four parts, Canary and hemp three parts each, linseed one part, safflower, summer rape and charlock a half-part each. In addition I have two other mixtures, of which I give a small teaspoonful daily—one, one day, the other the next day, and so on. They are (1) niger and hemp two parts each, and maw one part; (2) thistle three parts, dandelion and sesame two parts each, lettuce and cornflower one part each. All are mixed by measure. I also, of course, give the various wild seeds beloved by the Goldie, but which, of course, it is now too late for you to gather. 2. A young yellow Norwich hen, if big and with a bold head and chest, is very difficult to beat as the mate for a Goldfinch. They mate in exactly the same way as Canaries. Let the couple get used to one another before actual operations are due to commence. 3. I do not know of such a work, but you can get the coloured plates from CAGE BIRDS' office; address a letter to the manager, stating your wants.

A Siberian Hawfinch.

A. Bigg.—The Siberian Hawfinch cannot be distinguished from the British Hawfinch with any certainty, therefore the question whether it should compete in an A.O.S. British class, and for a British bird special, resolves itself into a nice point of morals. I myself the other week gave a Hawfinch, which I knew for a certainty was imported from Germany, the special for best British bird in the show. It won the same easily, too. Probably I also gave prizes to Siskins which came to us from the "Fatherland." There are many other species, too, with which the judge is quite helpless. If their owners choose to exhibit imported specimens in British classes, he can only take them on their merits. There is no means of detecting them. It simply amounts to this, therefore: Anyone can show a Siberian Hawfinch in British classes providing his conscience does not prick him over it, and cause him loss of sleep.

Nuthatch for Exhibition.

Novice.—Evidently you are not a regular reader of my columns, for it is not many weeks ago since I dealt with this matter There is no regulation size and pattern of show cage for a Nuthatch. A box-pattern cage, about 15 or 16 in. long by 11 high by 9 wide, would answer well, with a piece of bark (as flat as possible) fixed to the back so that the bird cannot get behind it, and water and food vessels which fit inside, preferably swing-in from the front. The inside and wires should be enamelled white. In the stock cage the Virginian cork (or bark) should be semi-circular in form, and arranged so that a "tube" is left at the back, down which the Nuthatch may pop when so disposed. An entrance hole should be arranged at the top (not over large), and another near the bottom. I strongly advise you to have two pieces of cork (or "bark," as some term it) and change them fairly frequently, thoroughly scalding the one last used with boiling water, or stoving it for a time in a fairly warm oven. This is necessary to keep down insect pests. The bird is very fond of bathing, and should be allowed to freely. Its main food should be a good quality of insectivorous mixture, such as is supplied to small soft-bill birds, moistened with grated raw carrot, or finely-chopped lettuce, or other green-food. Several very good "soft foods" will be found advertised in our columns. Suitable live-foods must also be given, according to season, and a few small nuts (cracked, if necessary) and sunflower and hemp seeds. One particular favourite I had, possessed a wonderful appetite, and very varied tastes. He liked (in addition to the above things) hard-boiled eggs, bits of cake, currants and things, all sorts of nuts, mealworms, live nuts' eggs, wasp grub, gentles, flies and tiny beetles, and many kinds of fruit, peeled grapes being a "speciality."

Six at Once.

W. J. Salmon.—Your questions are too many (three at one time is understood to be the limit), and cover too wide a field to be satisfactorily answered in query columns. You need to read up a book on British birds; why not get the "British Bird Manual"? The feeding of (3) Goldfinches, (4) Linnets, and (5) Goldfinch Mules is dealt with in answers to "H.H.S.E.," "Novice, Hinckley," and "Gosh" this week. 2. Give this bird a course of dandelion juice (taraxacum), from the chemist, until bowels are being freely moved, then change to whiskey for a few days. Dose of both would be half a teaspoonful in two tablespoonfuls of drinking water. (6) Give the young Goldies taraxacum also; but afterwards dissolve in the drinking water as much crystals of citrate of iron (get one ounce from chemist) as will just cover a threepenny-bit. (7) Probably old age is chiefly responsible for the Mule's trouble. Of course, no medicine can make it young again, or provide it with new lungs and other internal organs. The failure to moult has no doubt aggravated matters. Try as medicine three or four drops of chlorodyne (not more) stirred into two tablespoonfuls of drinking water daily. Keep the bird in a warm atmosphere.

Feeding Mules.

Gosh.—You might have stated what kind of Mules yours are. Still, the feeding of these Canary crosses is practically the same; all require a little "richer" seed diet than that usually given a Canary. If you go on the following lines so far as the general feeding is concerned, your birds should thrive admirably. I feed my own Mules in the same way. The box pattern cage (especially that known as the Finch stock cage) is unquestionably the best. A good seed mixture at this season of the year is:—Canary three parts, teazle two parts, hemp one part, charlock and summer rape half-part each, maw and linseed quarter-part each. In the hot weather reduce the hemp and linseed and increase the teazle. Stop them altogether, as a regular thing, during summer, and begin again with them when the moult is nicely advanced. Any of the special Finch or wild-seed mixtures advertised in our columns will make a good and acceptable change, given twice or so a week. A little sunflower seed twice or thrice a week would also be sure to be appreciated; crack it if necessary. Any of the usual green foods may be given—flowering groundsel (not coarse leaves), chickweed, shepherd's-purse, dandelion, lettuce, watercress, etc. The three first-mentioned may be given practically ad libitum. All Mules are very fond of shepherd's-purse and chickweed.

Linnets for Song and Exhibition.

Novice, Hinckley.—Pity readers do not keep scrap books, and cut out answers likely to be useful. Practically once a fortnight on an average I get requests how to feed either Linnets or Goldfinches or Thrushes, which entails much repetition. Colour-food is generally given to Linnets and other seed-eaters amongst crushed seed; unless the birds are got on to soft-food, and sometimes it is not easy to do this. You should read the chapter on the Linnet in the "British Bird Manual," price 1s. 1d., from CAGE BIRDS' office. The Linnet is best fed on the following lines; at least, this is how I feed my own, with the best of results, both as regards song, moulting and exhibition. A good stock seed mixture is: Canary three pints, teazle two pints, summer rape, charlock, and linseed one pint each. In the winter, if the birds are in a cold room, and during the moult, one pint of hemp should be added to the stock mixture. A feed of maw and niger, and a good wild seed mixture can be given frequently (varied) by way of a change. Let them have a little green-food, especially rape seedlings, in the winter, and ripe seeding shepherd's-purse, chickweed, plantain and groundsel freely in the summer. Many good makers put up a special Linnet (or Finch) mixture in packets, and a feed of this occasionally makes an acceptable variation from the ordinary stock mixture. As regards bringing them on to song and in condition quickly after the moult, the great "secret" is to give them plenty of best old hemp, and crack it lightly, so that they feed well of it. Also put in the "side-pan" daily, a teaspoonful of the following mixture: Two ounces each of gold of pleasure, mustard (the golden-yellow seed), niger, sesame, and thistle, one ounce each of dandelion, maw, cornflower and lettuce. It is the finest "wild seed mixture," or "Tit Bit," or "Refresher" (call it what you will) that I know, and there is no waste—except that Goldies, for one bird, do not eat the mustard, though Linnets, etc., delight in it.

Brevities.

Muling (Greenie, Glasgow).—You will have to let me know the sexes of the birds mentioned before I can advise you. If you put up Hybrid pairs, then you will need Canary hens to batch the eggs and feed the young. You must have each cock bird in a separate breeding cage. Assuming your birds to be five cocks, it is difficult to see how you can utilise them all and keep to three cages only.

Blackcap Warbler (John Pye).—It is only a week or so ago that I dealt very fully with treatment of the Blackcap Warbler, and, of course, it is impossible to repeat the same answer after so short a lapse of time. Please refer back to it. The food you mention I believe to be an excellent one. But remember that the Blackcap must have plenty of ripe fruit also.

A Goldfinch (Goldie).—You will find the feeding dealt with in the reply to "H.H.S.E." this week. If the bird is kept in a heated living room, it certainly must not be hung out of doors in cold weather; no bird will stand that. Don't put it out at all until it becomes steady. If really been two months in captivity, the bird can be considered quite "safe," given average luck.

Linnet Going Bare (Wally).—The most likely solution is that the bird has never got free from the red-mites. One of the best possible methods of cleansing him would be to get someone experienced to wash him, using a carbolic soap. You should not give hemp as a regular thing. If the skin looks "scurfy," you could try anointing the place gently twice daily with a little sulphur ointment, from chemist. Pleased to hear paper has proved so helpful.

Black-headed Siskin-Canary Hybrid (Homer).—This cross is rare, because it is seldom tried for in England, as the progeny are not eligible to compete in Siskin Mule classes. An example was shown a few years back at several shows, however, but caused a lot of grumbling amongst the exhibitors. It would not be a difficult cross to get, I am sure. Your bird might be worth 15s. or 20/-; it depends, however, on sex and quality. Your query ought really to have been addressed to our Mr. Page.

"Thistle" Seed (N.R.).—The seed you send is that of a certain kind of foreign thistle, but is not the correct thistle seed to give to birds. I can quite believe that your birds will not eat it; possibly it is lucky for you they don't, as other readers have written me saying their birds turned queer after they commenced to use it. The proper (English) thistle seed is about a third the size, and very light grey in colour, with a smooth (not ribbed) surface. It is dear, in comparison, but cheaper in reality.

Ailing Jay (Mrs. A. Smith).—Your feeding is not good enough for so large a bird. You must give more meat (cooked, not raw) and dead mice, Sparrows, blackbeetles, mealworms, etc., as obtainable; while table scraps (gravy, greens, etc.) should be mixed among the stock food, and a hard-boiled egg now and again. Weakness causes the fits, without a doubt, and in better feeding probably lies the cure. Dip its head into cold water when an attack comes on, then place the bird in a warm spot (say in a small basket, covered at top) near the fire, or on the hob.

A Couple (C.G.S.).—1. Only an issue or so ago I went fully into the feeding of Hawfinches—plenty of sunflower is the chief thing in the seed line. Linnets, see reply to "Novice, Hinckley," this week; Goldfinches see reply to "H.H.S.E." Bramble-finches, give the same as the Linnets, but add a little hemp always, and a little sunflower and safflower. You should get the "British Bird Manual" from this office. 2. The surest and best way is to pair cock Finch to hen Canary. It is a good plan to let couples fly together for a time before breeding commences.

A Judge's Awards (Local Show).—Am afraid I should get a week's notice (and deserve it) if I used these columns for the purpose of criticising a fellow judge's awards. Besides, other judges often think I myself am a "hass"; of course, I never (well, hardly ever) think they are dittoes. Take it philosophically.

FOREIGN BIRDS.

Answered by WESLEY T. PAGE, F.Z.S., M.B.N.H.S.

Sexing Young Budgerigars.

Parrot.—(1) Young Budgerigars of both sexes have the ceres blue and tail after the moult it is not possible to distinguish the sexes by this method. Usually by a careful observation of the young the sexes can be picked out, by their demeanour towards one another. Note.—Adult female Budgerigars when out of breeding condition have the cere distinctly bluish. (2) No, though I do not hold with the principle of keeping such gregarious species solitary; nevertheless, singly they do as well as most other species, and soon become attached to their attendants; I have known of several talking Budgerigars, which have been so treated. By all means let it have the piece of looking-glass, or anything else, not harmful, that interests it and keeps it occupied.

What Parrot?

M. Harris.—From your description the bird is a Quaker Parrakeet; accounts of several talking birds have been recorded in our pages during the past twelvo months. Such are not numerous, and the majority merely recognise you with a sort of "yapping." Its value is about 10/- at most; that is for a non-talker. Newly imported birds are often offered for half that amount. If your bird is as named above (your description does not fit any other species) it is much smaller than an Amazon, and has a longish tail. Diet:. A seed mixture of Canary, oats, wheat, hemp, and sunflower seeds in equal parts, with ripe fruit, greenfood, plain biscuit, nuts, and cuttlefish, grit, and water for drinking and bathing ad lib.

Grey Parrot in Poor Feather.

Cumberland.—Talented as your bird is I would not accept it at a gift; a bird that has been fed as yours nearly always, sooner or later, becomes featherless or nearly so, with a continually irritated skin. Give for the next two months sufficient Parrish's Chemical Food in drinking water to make it the colour of pale port wine. Stop the table scraps, bit of everything, and tea slop diet at once. Possibly the bird may sulk a little, but you can get over the difficulty by having a little of something wholesome by you, and give the bird a little at intervals. Of course you must not let it want for food, but the sooner you can wean it from its present diet on to a wholesome one the better for the bird. Instead of sopping anything in tea, dip it in the Chemical Food water, just in and out, and the bird will soon become reconciled to the change. Do not limit the seed mixture; keep a continuous supply in the cage. Diet: All the following are permissible—sponge or madeira cake in limited quantities, plain biscuits, nuts, ripe fruit ad lib., boiled potato (dry), unbuttered toast, just moistened with the Chemical Food water, cuttlefish, grit, green food, and seed mixture. Use following seed mixture in equal parts—Canary seed, oats, wheat, dari, rice in the husk, hemp and sunflower seed; well mix and you will find this both cheap and wholesome. Every other day for a week soak half a teaspoonful of Dinneford's Magnesia into a piece of sponge cake, and when partially dry supply to the bird.

Amazon Continually Moulting.

D. Bray.—I should say you have an immature bird. Bathe or spray it, with a fine sprayer two or three times weekly with quassia solution, and the parasites should speedily disappear. You must keep it carefully out of draughts till dry. The quassia will also serve the purpose of making its plumage distasteful to the bird if it should be pulling its feathers out. Put it on a course of Parrish's Chemical Food, using sufficient to make the drinking water the colour of pale port wine. Twice a week or every other day supply a little boiled maize (boil it till you can squeeze it to a pulp between the fingers); all water should be strained off before supplying to the bird. It only keeps fresh one day remember, and the food tin must be scalded out for each occasion. I much prefer the following mixture:—Canary seed, oats, wheat, dari, maize, hemp and sunflower seeds in equal parts; well mix and keep a supply continually in the cage. Continue to give ripe fruit, nuts, plain biscuits, etc., but do not give tea, coffee, or milk slops, table scraps, or any kind of animal food. Amazons are not as teachable as Greys; nevertheless most will talk, and mimic to some extent. Keep it in your midst, talk to it continually, and it will ultimately respond. It is evident that it was not a talking bird when you obtained it or it would have uttered something before this.

Faking Budgerigars.

Done Brown.—It is of course possible to fake as you suggest, but I doubt the possibility of its remaining so for such a period; such faking would cause irritation, and the bird, I should say, would soon scratch it away with its toes. Personally, I have little belief in faking; and the "game is not worth the candle," with such cheap birds as Green Budgerigars. Besides, such tactics would soon make the particular dealer famous, and he would be generally avoided. I presume you are aware that during the winter months, that is when not breeding, the cere of females becomes decidedly bluish, and that is probably the case with yours. You ought to be able to determine this easily by their demeanour one to the other. All young Budgerigars, with but few exceptions, have their ceres blue till they become mature. Keep the bird merely as an experiment, and note if its cere becomes brown in the spring or early summer; at the periods when seasonal or partial seasonal changes are taking place, most species of birds are more or less mopy and indisposed. At such times a dose of Dinneford's Magnesia, and a course of Parrish's Chemical Food are a material aid in keeping them vigorous.

Grey Parrot with Fits.

Miss C. M. H.—These attacks are usually preceded by restlessness, etc.; when such is noticed give a dose of 3 grains of Bromide of Potassium, dissolving same in a little syrup. Remove the bird's water, and do not replace till the above has been consumed. After an attack a dose may be given; if at any time the bird becomes abnormally excited or restless, you should give it a dose of the bromide. I should give it a dose of Dinneford's Magnesia (one teaspoonful to one ounce of water), once a week so long as the bowels do not become watery loose. When giving the magnesia, remove the drinking water, and do not replace till the magnesia has been consumed, or till the next day. I should only give the whisky when you see the bird badly needs a stimulant; it would be far better to give Parrish's Chemical Food in the drinking water regularly for a time (make it the colour of pale port wine), except on the days you give either of the above remedies. Your diet is satisfactory, save for the seed mixture, which I advise as follows:—Equal parts by measure, Canary seed, oats, wheat, dari, hemp, and sunflower seeds, well mix and keep up a regular supply. I take it, you are not giving slops, table scraps, or animal food; if you are, cease it at once. It is a pity you did not apply sooner, as of course the delay increases the difficulty. For a time remove the grating from cage bottom and keep cage tray covered with about an inch of sawdust; a little grit can be mixed with the seed mixture for the time being. If the above treatment should not check the attacks, or lessen their severity, repeat query at once.

Brevities.

What Bird? (W. Buker).—Your additional information came to hand just as we were going to press; I will name your bird in next issue.

Macaw in Moult (Mrs. Neal).—You must continue the treatment already advised; but I cannot hold out much hope of improvement if it is given table scraps, and a bit of everything. Diet as under, and in conjunction with the treatment already advised, it should gradually recover; but the renewing of its plumage will not be rapid. Seed mixture: Maize, oats, hemp, Canary, wheat, and sunflower seeds in equal parts; well mix and keep a supply continually in cage; also give ripe fruit, boiled potato (dry), plain biscuit, cuttlefish and grit, with water ad lib, containing Chemical Food, as already advised.

What Bird is it? (J. Purchase).—You have one of the Cape Buntings, but which species I cannot determine without a little research, for which there is not time before going to press; but I will give you full particulars next week.

Procuring Diamond Doves (W. Shore, jun.).—Have not an unrelated pair for disposal, but if you consult our advertisement columns and write those making a speciality of Australian species, you will get what you want. Their present value is about 15/- per pair. Budgerigars will not harm the adult Doves, but I have found them merciless to the young Squabs, mutilating them shockingly, and very few young will be reared if the pretty but mischievous Budgerigar is kept with them. They should do well in your aviary and breed freely—there should be a seed pan on the floor. Doves are not everyone's fancy, but this charming and diminutive bird is more largely kept than you imagine. Their coo is pleasing rather than otherwise. Personally I consider them charming and beautiful. Glad to note you have found this column helpful.

GENERAL.

Answered by the Editor.

Clapham and Dist. C.B.A. (S. H. W. Baker).—Your club notice came a day too late; we had gone to press when it arrived.

Squirrels (A. Temperley).—What made you think we sold squirrels? There are dealers in your city advertising in our columns, who would no doubt be glad to supply you. Give one of them a call.

Wire Fronts (G. Edwards).—We have frequently to explain that the law of libel stands in the way of the publication of letters such as yours. It seems to be a question of what you did—and what you did not—order. If you care to comply with rule 7, we will write the advertiser on your behalf.

Lost at Selkirk (Silent Onlooker).—We cannot publish letters if the writer does not send name and address as a guarantee of good faith. You appear to have omitted yours. Perhaps you will send same along to us.

Ferns (W. J. Salmon).—We have no information or should be glad to oblige; should advise you to write to one of the papers devoted to gardening.

For Beer (Anxious).—It is illegal for any game to be played for stakes in a public-house, whether it be "for beer only," as you put it, or merely for trouser buttons. That is the law. The pastime of "board rings" is not objected to in many centres; but it must never be played for anything other than "love."

Cutting (A. Sawer).—Many thanks.

Photo (D. H. Tedstone).—We are much obliged to you, and shall hope to print the excellent photograph in the near future.

Photo (John Ainsworth).—We could not possibly reproduce the photo you send us. Being so very indistinct, it is not suitable. Cannot you manage to send us a better and clearer one? We hope so.

REVIEW OF SCHEDULES.

EDMONTON.

Annual members' show held in the Town Hall, December 3rd. So far as entries and quality are concerned, it was a grand success. Mr. A. Burgess is the general secretary, but the caged bird section was under the able supervision of Mr. S. Williams, F.Z.S. He was most enthusiastic and painstaking. Councillor C. Sorrell, the chairman stuck at it until all was plain sailing; and the committee were most assiduous in their efforts to secure the comfort of all. The quality, especially, was A1. The spl for best Canary went to a rattling yellow Yorks., shown by Mr. H. Sweetman. Mr. A. J. Marley sent a grand team of British, securing special for best with his goldie, and 2nd special with an equally grand Greenfinch. Mr. S. Williams put down a fine team of foreigners, annexing special for a lovely pair of Scarlet Tanagers. Mr. Geo. Gardner judged.

NOR. BUFF (5): 1, Hayden, good shape, head, and back, nice under-colour and quality; 2, Saunders, fine shape again; 3, res, Titchner, lovely quality; vhc, Mrs. Burrows. YELL. (17): 1, spl, Marley, bonny bird, rare body, silky feather, rich level colour; 2, res, vhc, hc, Titchner, leader, short typical variegated hen, lovely head, close after winner; 3, c, Pamphilon, level and rich coloured, silky-feathered bird. CREST OR CB. (10): 1, 3, vhc, hc, Brown, leader wing mkd. D.C., neat, nice formation, well staged; 2, res, Irving, former green C.B., fine body, nice head, well lashed. YORKS. HORTICULTURAL HALL.

MIGRATORY (9): Hot lot; 1, spl, 2, 4, hc, Maxwell, a splendid team, his noted Black Redstart leading, and taking the special for the best British bird in the show, very dense breast and capital carriage, fine size and bloom; Yellow Wagtail, the champion of many shows, teeming with colour, steady as a rock, and a grand Redstart, taking third pince, in lovely order, jet black throat showing very little frosting; 3, R. J. Howe, Blue headed Wagtail, rare blue crown and white eye marks, rich body colour, perfect feather and nicely put down; vhc, Dewhurst, Chiffchaff, very tame and in nice feather; c, Baker, Sedgewarbler, sweet little chap, has rubbed a few feathers off over beak, which possibly put him back. A.O.S. INSECTIV. (7): 1, Cook, Great Grey Shrike, steady as a rock, clear white breast, jet black eye mark, rare size and well staged; 2, Maxwell, Wryneck, gem, rich breast and plenty of lacing, fine size, shown in Mr. M's noted style; 3, Francis, Fieldfare, topper, bonny size and colour, perfect feather, steady as a rock; 4, hc, R. J. Howe, Missel Thrush, another rich coloured bird of rare size and shape, spots very distinct; vhc, c, Dewhurst, Greater Spotted Woodpecker and Missel Thrush, but nicely shown and in good order. RARE FEATHERED (5), An interesting class: 1, Hakes, pure White Blackbird, with a fine crocus bill, in perfect feather and very steady; 2, Smith and Son, Cinnamon Greenfinch, taking bird, good size and good feather; 3, Wyse, Pied Linnet, sweet exhibit, showing a large proportion of white, nicely staged; 4, Lamb, Cinnamon Redpoll, very attractive little chap, fine bloom and feather; vhc, Mrs. Warren Vernon, nice Pied Hen Bullfi, very tame, nicely marked. CONTINENTAL (7): 1, Cook, Nutcracker, now an old winner, looking very fit; 2, Frost, said to be a Caucasian Woodpecker, very similar to the ben Greater Spotted, but a sort of variety between the Green and Greater Spotted for size, similarly marked to the latter; 3, Robbins, pretty pair Bearded Tits, nicely staged, and in the pink of condition.

The Foreign Classes.

BUDGERIGARS, ETC. (9): 1, Maxwell, black-checked Lovebird, very rare, and in superb condition, grandly staged; 2, 3, Mrs. Miller, Guiana Lovebirds, very uncommon, of a palish bright grass-green colour, and a nice pair of rosy or peach-faced Lovebirds, both in excellent condition; 4, Watts, good pair of red-faced Lovebirds; vhc, Cook, fine pair of green Budgerigars. Madagascar and blue-winged Lovebirds were also exhibited in this class. PARRAKEETS (11): 1, 3, Maxwell, black-throated Lorrikeet, very rare, its first appearance, very beautiful, in exquisite condition, and one of the finest elegant Parrakeets we ever remember to have seen; it is many years since one of these chaste and beautiful birds graced the show bench; 2, Millsum, black-winged Lory, another grand exhibit, and first appearance, richly clad, but the colour is more subdued and chastely blended than is common with the Loriidæ; vhc, bc, c, Mrs. K. L. Miller, Sun Conure, beautiful exhibit, bright yell., washed with fiery orange on sides of face, with the larger wing feathers and tail green, if not a first appearance, has not been exhibited for a long period; many-coloured Parrakeets, and a very brilliant Swainson's Lorrikeet. Also exhibited, good specimens of white-eared Conure, Barnard's and Pennant Parrakeets, varied Lorrikeet, and a good Grand Eclectus Parrot, unfortunately in its wrong class. PARROTS, ETC. (9): 1, Miller, Hawk-headed Caique, very uncommon, in fine condition, this fine species has the power to raise the elongated feathers of the nape in the form of a frill, and is then beautiful indeed; 2, Cook, nice pair of red-vented Parrots; 3, Mrs. C. Cooper, good black-headed Caique; 4, Tyson, very fine grey Parrot; vhc, Mrs. K. L. Miller, red-vented Parrot. COMMON WAXBILLS (6): 1, 2, 3, 4, F. Howe, green Avadavat, one of the best ever exhibited, plumage sleek, tight, and evenly marked; 2 golden-breasted Waxbills, 3 St. Helena Waxbills, 4 Spice Finches, all in exquisite condition; vhc, Townsend, Zebra Waxbills; hc, c, R Tyson, grey Waxbill. This class for common species was disappointing as to the number of entries; if exhibitors do not support such, they cannot complain if show managers fail to cater for them. A.O.S. WAXBILLS, ETC (9): 1, hc, c, Mrs. K. L. Miller, Painted Finch, very uncommon and beautiful, Crimson Finches and Melba Finch, in the order named; 2, 3, Maxwell, violet-eared Waxbills and Melba Finches, very beautiful, in faultless condition, some thought their positions might have been reversed; 4, Cook, good Vinaceous Firefinch; vhc, Townsend, richly-coloured Crimson Finch; also exhibited an exquisite specimen of the chastely beautiful Sydney Waxbill. GRASSFINCHES, ETC. (6): 1, 2, Maxwell, exquisite specimen of the rare Gaboon Weaver, probably a first appearance; Painted Finches, in good feather and colour; Mrs. E. Galloway, perfect pair of scaly-crowned Finches; vhc, Mrs. M. B. Hodgkins, well-coloured pair of Pintail Nonpariels; good specimen of Parrot Finches and Paradise Whydahs also exhibited. GROSBEAKS, ETC. (14): 1, Mrs. E. Galloway, black-faced Serin, undoubtedly the most beautiful of all the Serin tribe, in exquisite condition, repeating its victory of last year; 2, 3, Townsend, Cape Rock Bunting, fine condition, and Gorgeted Finch; 4, Maxwell, Cuba Finch, very tight, sleek and bright in colour; vhc, Cook, Nonpareil Bunting, in splendid feather; hc, F. Howe, green Cardinal, very fine, probably colour-fed; also exhibited, Olive Cuba Finches, lavender-backed Finch, hooded Siskin and pileated Bunting. Tanagers (15): 1, 2, 4, hc, Maxwell, red-throated Tanager, exquisite condition, very rare, deep blue, with throat of ruddy chestnut; black-throated Tanager, very rare and beautiful beyond description, general colouring irridescent green, varieg. on the upper surface with black, throat black, chest and upper breast golden-chestnut, the green forehead and side of body glistening with silieru-lustre that cannot be described, emerald-spotted Tanager, also very uncommon, though it has been on view at the Zoo for several years; maroon Tanager, beautiful but well-known species, a grand team, in faultless condition, and well staged, the first three are, we believe, all new to the show bench; 3, Pickles, well-known maroon Tanager, absolutely faultless, winner of over a dozen lots during the last and present seasons; vhc (2), hc, Townsend, Archbishop Magpie, and the veteran white-capped Tanagers; vhc, Mrs. K. L. Miller; hc, Dewhurst, Superb Tanagers; Mr. R. J. Watts exhibited (unfortunately in wrong class) an interesting Bullbul as an Olivaceous Tanager, as already stated it is very probably the Olive Bullbul (Iole virescens), a grand class, worth a long journey to see. SUGAR BIRDS, ETC. (7): 1, 4, S. M. Townsend, black-head Sugar Birds, grand pair, in faultless condition, and a gold-fronted green Bullbul; 2, Millsum, black-headed Sugar Bird, tight and sleek; 3, Mrs. E. Galloway, blue Sugar Bird, beautiful male of this well-known species; vhc, T. Miller, Malabar green Bullbul; hc, Mrs. B. W. Hodgkin, gold-fronted green Bullbul; a red-whiskered Bullbul in rather rough condition also exhibited, a beautiful class, but not so large as usual. A.O.S. (17): 1, 3, vhc, hc, Maxwell, Mexican Trogan, beautiful and rare species, a first appearance, one of the most beautiful of its genus, many of which outrival the Birds of Paradise, Loriidæ, etc., for gorgeous plumage, but this specimen seen under the aspect of summer's sun, is beautiful indeed, a unique exhibit, 3 well-known King Bird of Paradise, in exquisite condition, its plumage having lost none of its brilliancy by a moult in this country; vhc, rufous-bellied Niltava, in exquisite condition, the intensity of its colouring certainly not surpassed by the two or three that have preceded it on the bench; hc, blue-winged Siva, another lovely exhibit, very tight and sleek, truly a grand team; 2, Townsend, giant Barbet, a first appearance, we believe not so brilliant as some of its relatives, but was exhibited in the very finest condition, a rare and interesting species; 4, Millsum, white-spotted Laughing Thrushes, another unique exhibit, not yet fully steady, having rubbed their head plumage, an interesting and beautiful exhibit; vhc, Capt. Perreau, Plumbeous Redstart, another very rare and interesting exhibit, this season being its first appearance on the bench, its plumage is plumbeous-blue, with tail of a bright chestnut hue, the caudal appendage being in a perpetual motion; vhc, Mrs. E. W. Vernon, an exquisite green Jay, in faultless condition; hc, Brazilian green Jay; c, Puck, Indian Shama; c, Mrs. E. Galloway, Dyal Bird; also exhibited amber-shouldered Troupial, rosy Pastor, sulphur-breasted Toucan, etc.; a large and interesting class, attracting much attention by reason of the unique character of many of its exhibits. This was truly a unique gathering of foreign birds, containing more rare and first-time exhibits than has been the case for some years. SPECIALS—F.B.C. SILVER MEDALS: Mr. Millsum, black-winged Lory, but having won the silver medal at Swindon, he is not eligible, and the medal passes to Mr. T. Miller for his Hawk-headed Caique; Mrs. K. L. Miller, painted Finch; Mr. S. M. Townsend, black-headed Sugar Bird. Half-guinea by Mr. W. T. Page, in Class 154, F. Howe, green Amnduvande. In Class 158, W. H. Pickles, maroon Tanager.

PWLLGWAUN, PONTYPRIDD.

This show was held December 9th in the New Town Hall. The exhibits were well arranged on the concert platform, and made a nice display. The quality in most of the classes was of the best, and the competition keen, the Mules and Hybrids being particularly so. In the latter class was found the winner of the special for best bird in show, a really grand Bramblefinch-Chaffinch, put down in fine form, and much admired. The prize cards were quickly put up, and the exhibits had the best of care and attention. Messrs. Eborne and Price were the joint hon. secretaries, and did their work well. Mr. J. H. Payne made the awards.

NEW STEVENSTON AND DIS. O.S.

A very successful show was held on December 5th in Robbs Hall. This being their first venture, every member did his best to make it a success. Notwithstanding a very disappointing breeding season the number of birds staged turned out very well. Close on 150 birds were staged, and judged by two sterling fanciers in Mr. George Marlin (Hamilton), who did the Norwich and British birds, and Mr. Hunter (Wishaw), who did the Scotch Fancies. The show was well patronised by visitors and friends although the day was rather stormy. By another year we will have two silver cups for competition (one for Fancies, and one for Norwich). Fanciers within a five-mile radius are invited to join.

INNERLEITHEN.

Annual show held in the Drill Hall, Dec. 5, and the cage bird section was well up in quality to that of former years. Mr. J. Blackie captured the B.F.C. medal and cup, with a grand buff cock Border. The cup for best young bird was secured by Mr. Pringle's foul buff cock bird, a good all round specimen. Mr. J. Thomson judged the Borders, and Mr. J. W. Bruce all the other classes, and their awards on the whole were well received. The caged birds were staged in a very comfortable room by themselves, and were beautifully arranged. The committee are to be congratulated on the splendid attention they gave their charges. Mr. Imrie makes an ideal secretary, and he had everything in apple pie order, being ably assisted by his committee.

KILMARNOCK.

The Kilmarnock O.C.B.S. held their annual competition and exhibition on December 4th and 5th, in the Art Gallery Halls, London Road, one of the best halls for the purpose in the west of Scotland. It is commodious and comfortable, and has plenty of light from the top, and is absolutely free from draughts. All the exhibits could be viewed with comfort, which fact is to be appreciated, considering there were over 500 birds staged. Kilmarnock fanciers know how to stage their birds, and this fact alone will make this show in time one of the biggest and best in the west. Amongst those we noticed taking an active part in making this show the success it undoubtedly was, was that good old fancier, Mr. James Johnstone, president of the club. He is a model fancier, whom all the young generation would do well to copy. The committee comprise such well-known fanciers as Messrs. Noble, Smellie, Watson, Adamson, Calderwood, Cram, Hutchison, Alston, Muir, McCaw, and others, all of whom we congratulate on the business-like way in which they fulfilled their tasks. The secretary, Mr. James B. Y. Murdoch, is a model official, whose tact and courtesy earned for him the respect and admiration of all who came in contact with him. The following gentlemen adjudicated in the various sections, and their awards met with general approval:—Scotch fancy section, Messrs. Wm. Webster (Grenock) and D. Holden (Muirkirk); Crests, Mr. John McLay (Kirkintilloch); Norwich Plainheads, Mr. Alex. McFarlane (Crossmyloof); Border fancies, Mr. Thos. McCredie (Dumfries); British and foreign birds, Mr. Peter Pettigrew (Glasgow).

CANTERBURY.

The best entry which Canterbury has had for some years was grouped in the Corn Exchange on December 9th and 10th, the occasion being the thirty-eighth show of the Canterbury F.S. Norwich were the strongest section, unflighted classes being the largest ever seen here. The quality was also remarkably good, birds of most excellent type being to the fore. The cup for best shown by a member of an East Kent society was won by a lovely unflighted yellow shown by Mr. Jones, the popular secretary of the Margate Society. Yorkshires, although not so numerous, were an exceedingly nice lot, whilst the Mules and British made a most attractive and high-class display. All the arrangements were ably carried out by the following committee, of which Mr. Councillor Whittaker is chairman, and that enterprising cage bird fancier, Mr. F. J. Gibbs, vice-chairman:—Messrs. W. T. Fowler, A. Attwood, C. Fox, D. Easton, A. Webb, G. Harris, A. J. Brock, J. Johnston, C. Collard, W. H. Eastman, R. Eastman, S. Taylor, J. Dalton, W. J. Goldsmith, R. Paterson, H. E. Taylor, and E. Cook. Mr. J. W. Sargeant, the secretary, is a most energetic and courteous official, and is quite the right man in the right place. Mr. C. A. House judged.

The Critique.

NOR. YELL. (9): 1, spl, Meades, grand shape and style, beautiful colour, nice quality; 2, 3, Gibbs, a brace of gems, wonderful type, very silky, and fine in feather, but both a bit awkward with their wings; what a pity! 3rd, wins Sandiford's special; 4, Bellamy, grand stamp of bird, but soiled; vhc, Ellis; hc, Kilby; c, Mills. BUFF (10): 1, Ellis, lovely colour and quality, good shape and style; 2, Stewart, very fine in shape and feather, needed tubbing, a bonny bird; 3, Taylor, grand body shape, beautiful feather and colour; 4, Gibbs, very smart in body, shade narrow in head; vhc, Bellamy; hc, Patterson; c, Williams. TKD. YELL. (6): 1, 3, 4, Gibbs, fine bold deep-chested three-pointed bird of rare colour and quality, and two lovely neck ticked birds, the 3rd excelling in tightness and smoothness of feather; vhc, Castle; hc, Williams; c, Ellis. BUFF (7): 1, spl, Meades, very handsome three-pointed bird of rare shape and quality; 2, hc, Taylor, head ticked, not one of the largest, but full of quality and colour, and good shape; 4, Castle, head and neck ticked, nice shape and feather; vhc, Bellamy; c, Ellis. HEN CL. (9): 1, Patterson, very short, neat, chubby buff, a lovely little lady; 2, 4, Gibbs, grand shaped yellow of beautiful quality, and another good shaped one, not so level; 3, Taylor, grand quality buff of nice colour, nice shape and style; vhc, Mrs. Elliott; hc, Howard; c, Williams. TKD. (6): 1, spl, Gibbs, variegated yellow of grand shape, good chest and back, rare colour and nice feather; 3, Mills, four-pointed buff, capital shape, nice colour and feather; 4, Ellis, very short cobby variegated yellow, nice quality; vhc, Patterson; hc, Elliott; 965, Gibbs, was wrong-classed by Mr. House, the tick being invisible, and high up in the thigh; the schedule read, "Clear of invisible Tick," and "Ticked or unevenly marked." UNFLIG. (20): 1, 3, spl, cup, Jones, a magnificent yellow, not one of the largest, but a gem for shape, colour, and feather; 2, vhc, Taylor, another yellow, larger and bolder, grand shape and style, hardly so tight; 4, Mills, very nice feathered buff of good shape and colour; hc, Meades; c, Patterson. HEN (16): 1, Mrs. Woods, magnificent variegated yellow, wonderful quality and colour, very short and chubby; 2, Ellis, four-pointed buff, very stout, short, and cobby, rare feather and style; 3, vhc, Patterson, yellow, of lovely quality and colour, shows herself well; 4, Meades, the best in the class for shape and style, but in soft moult, a lovely hen; hc, Hedges; c, Taylor. CREST OR C.B. BRED, 1908 (4): 2, 3, 4, Taylor, just a nice little team of Crests; vhc, Darby. YORKS. YELL. (9): 1, spl, 4, Gibbs, a beauty, stands well up to his work and shows well, grand shape and feather; 2, 3, Austen, hardly the length, but grand shape and carriage; 3rd, capital shape and style, bit open at thigh; vhc, Reeve; hc, Lockett; c, Brooks. BUFF (4): 2, 4, Gibbs, nice smart, shapely bird of most excellent feather and carriage; 4th, grand feather and style, not so slim; 3, Gales, very neat, capital feather and carriage. TKD. YELL. (3): 1, 3, Gibbs, neck and wing ticked, and a neck ticked, two stylish, showy birds of nice shape and quality; 2, Reeve, heavily-marked, of wonderful shape and style, nice feather; 4, Rudman, very smart thigh ticked, hardly so tight in feather; vhc, Johnson; hc, Lockett; c, Brooks. BUFF (5): 2, Sales, very nice four-pointed, capital shape and quality of feather; 3, 4, Gibbs, two more shapely ticked birds, hardly so close in feather, but plenty of style; vhc, Johnson. HEN, CL (9): 1, Lockett, lovely buff, rare shape and style, grandly feathered, handles well; 2, Sales, fine slim yellow, very showy, nice wings and tail; 3, Austen, long and shapely, nice feathered yellow; 4, c, Gibbs, good stamp of buff, not in such nice feattle; vhc, Johnston; hc, Brooks. TKD. (8): 1, Reeve, very neat wing ticked, fine head, grand wings and tail, very stylish and close feathered; 2, 4, Gibbs, beautiful slim, racy, eye ticked buff, of lovely quality, and a nice cinnamon-marked yellow, which was not in such good form; vhc, Brooks; hc, Abbott; c, Green. BRED 1908 (5): 1, 2, Gibbs, neck and wing-marked yellow and a clear yellow, two finely-drawn racy birds of capital style and feather, leader has the best legs; 3, Reeve, good shape and feather, shows well; 4, Lockett, good-shaped bird, not so tight in feather; vhc, c, Lewis and Co.; hc, Abbott. LANARK.

Upper Ward, Lanarkshire, Ornithological Association held their annual show and competition in Shand's Hall on Dec. 5th. There was a really fine turnout of Scotch Fancies, Border, and Norwich Canaries, also of British and Foreign, there being 28 classes in all, with a grand total of entries of 262, in point of numbers the same as last year. Quality was strong all over. Office-bearers: President, Mr. James Selkirk; vice, Mr. D. Watson; secretary, Mr. John Clark; treasurer, Mr. James Black; committee, Messrs. McFadyen, McQuarrie, Reilly, Watson, Swanson, Park, Dickson, Boswell, Burrett, Water, Waye, Johnstone, Somerville, McLean, Reid, Lawson, J. Brownlie, Jackson. The judge for Scot. Fcy., Nor., Brit. and For. birds was Mr. J. F. Dewar (Edinburgh), for Bord. Mr. Golan Hislop (Stirling). This association has had a long and prosperous reign, bordering on 50 years, and some of the old strain of fanciers and breeders were present to-day. Secretary Clark is a host of himself, and a thorough master of his duties. The hall is second to none for show purposes, being well lighted from the roof and entirely free from draught. The weather conditions were bad, there being a continuous downpour of rain all day long, which told against the number of visitors; but for all that the show was well patronised. The judges got through their task in good time, their awards being fairly well received. Mr. J. Burnside won special for most points in the Scot. Fcy. section by the narrow majority of one, having a total of 27, Mr. Geo. Reid being the runner-up and also winner of spl for best young bird. Mr. Jas. Chalmers was the winner of spl in the Scot. Fcy. section. The B.F.C.C. medal winner was Mr. Geo. Somerville. In the Norwich section for best Crest and C.B. Mr. A. McFayden won three specials and was also winner of special for most points. Special for best British was won by Mr. A. Shankly.

FROME.

First show of the Frome C.B.S. held December 3rd, in the Central Mart, a capital room for a bird show, being well lighted and quite free from draughts. For a first venture the society must be congratulated on the numbers and quality of the exhibits, and we should not be surprised to see this show grow into one of our best fixtures. Certainly if good management and enthusiasm will ensure this end, this result should be attained. The exhibits were well staged and had the very best of attention from a good body of fanciers, which constituted the committee of whom Mr. J. Tottle is the esteemed chairman. Mr. W. Minty makes a first-class hon. sec., and had the work well in hand; he was very courteous and obliging. Mr. J. H. Payne made the awards. Messrs. Evins Bros., won special for best Canary in show; Mr. J. Tottle that for most points in Canary classes; Mr. J. Houghton that for most points in Norwich; Mr. T. Keegan that for most points in Yorkshires; and Mr. J. Tottle that for best bird exhibited by a member.

PARTICK AND DISTRICT C.B.C.

Tenth annual show held in the Trades Hall, November 7th. The president is Mr. D. Graham, and the secretary, Mr. John Henderson. The judges were Messrs. J. Jeans (Falkirk), and M. Craig (Glasgow). The entries were in excess of last year's, some grand birds being staged in the Pinkheads and Borders. The cup and gold medal for best young bird was won by Mr. Andrew Miller for the third year in succession, with a fine clear yellow hen Pinkhead; Mr. A. Walker won the cup for second best young bird with a very nice yellow green Border; gold medal for most points over show (given by the president), was also won by Mr. Miller. The British section was much in advance of former year's, some well known winners at open shows being staged. There was a large turn out of the general public.

WALTHAM ABBEY.

The annual show of the Waltham Abbey and Dist. F.S. was a decided success. It was held in the Town Hall on Dec. 5th, under the most favourable auspices as regards the building and accommodation. The chief drawback was the light, which at one time, owing to the heavy atmosphere, was very bad. Mr. W. D. Ward, the hon. secretary, as an excellent organiser, and well sustained his reputation. The committee are a splendid body of fanciers, and include the following:—Lady G. Colvin, Messrs. Bulgin, Clark, Edwards, Judd, Simpson, Townsend, Aldridge, Archer, Chapman, Fitch, Rogers, Sewell, Williams, Bolton, Booker, Clark, Jackson, Searle, Traylen, and Waspe. Lady Colvin and her family take a lively and practical interest in the society and its shows, and her ladyship was present in the show for a considerable time. The cup was won by a Crest-bred, shown by Mr. H. Bulgin. Mr. Geo. Gardner judged. The entry was in excess of last year's.

HAWICK O.S.

Hawick O.S. held their annual show on December 8th. The exhibition, which was confined to a five-mile radius, took place in Burns's Auction Rooms, which were kindly lent to the society free of charge by Mr. Burns. Entries turned up admirably, and quality was well to the fore. Messrs. Arnot and Jameson won the B.F.C.C. medal, with a buff uneven Border, this being its first public appearance. As this society is one of the oldest which our Border towns can boast of, there are hopes of its again being the show of all. The chairman is Mr. J. Arnot; committee: Messrs. Laidlaw, Dodds, Dick, Jamieson, Burns, Heskith, Nichol, etc. The society in Mr. H. Amos possess a courteous and obliging secretary.

ULSTER.

Ulster O.A. held their annual show in the Avenue Hall Belfast, on December 4, and 5th. Mr. Robert Trimble, the hon. sec., had the birds well staged, and he was ably assisted by Messrs Carson, Gray, South, Gilmore, Neill, Smyth, M'Connell, Leasy, and Fleuling. The Scotch Fancies were a grand lot, the clear, yellow, and buff hens were two gems, and well deserved the first prize card. Yorkshires turned up well, both in numbers and quality. Norwich also were a grand lot, the unflg. yellow, which won the cup for best young bird being a gem. Mr. Arnott (Sauchie), judged the Scotch and A.O.V. classes, and Mr. Mundell (Bradford), the Yorks. and Norwich.

FALMOUTH.

The Falmouth and Dist. C.B.S. are to be heartily congratulated on the success of their third annual show, held in the Polytechnic Hall, Dec. 4th. The entries in the open classes showed an increase of about 50 over last year's, and the quality also was in advance. The same applies to the members' classes. The hall is a good one, being lofty and quite free from draughts, and has the advantage of a top light. The exhibits were nicely staged and had the best of attention from a good committee of ardent fanciers under the superintendence of the show manager, Mr. W. J. Medlin, of Belgian Canary fame. One of the features of the schedule was the provision of a special for best in each class. Mr. T. Burton, the hon. secretary, was a host in himself, was well on top of his work, and added courtesy and urbanity to his energy and tact. The awards were made by Mr. J. H. Payne.

KETTERING.

The 14th annual show was held in the Rifle Band Club Harmonic Room, on November 21st and 22nd. The caged birds proved that the fancy has made great strides. The entry, both in number and quality, was considerably above the average. The show was the best ever held. Mr. A. West made a most obliging secretary, and was assisted by the following gentlemen:—Messrs. J. Goodwin, A. Martin, W. Fairey, T. Johnson, and H. Ingram. The show was visited by a large number. Mr. A. Brown judged Canaries, and Mr. R. J. Howe the British and foreign birds, and their awards met with every satisfaction.

CORRESPONDENCE.

WHAT WAS ITS RIGHT CLASS?

Sir,—I entered at the Horticultural Hall Show in class 152, which reads: "All species of Parrakeets, other than Budgerigars, including Kings and Broadtails, Lorikeets and Lories," what I took to be a Red-sided Eclectus Lorie, and was surprised to see that it was "wrong classed." I should esteem it a favour if the judge, Mr. Finn, would name the bird and also what class it should have been entered in?

W. Smith.

RAILWAY DELAYS.

Sir,—My case of birds from Dulwich O.S. Show last week did not leave Paddington Station until the 1 p.m. train the following day (13 hours after the show closed), and reached Plymouth at 6.35, too late for that day's delivery. My case from the Horticultural Hall this week was despatched from Waterloo at 3.30 p.m., and reached Plymouth at 8.35. Now, in both cases, had the birds not been fetched from the station, you can imagine the condition they would have been in by the following day. I consider this a serious question for the exhibitor, and a case about which the C.B.U. might with advantage obtain an explanation from the railway companies.

FORWARDING EXHIBITS FROM SHOW TO SHOW.

Sir,—After reading Mr. C. E. Brown's letter in your last week's issue, I thought I could not let it pass without tendering him my sympathy, having had a similar experience with my exhibits, which should have been forwarded from Bournemouth Show to Frome. Only mine never got to the show, but were delivered here to me, with the show label reversed. Judge of my surprise when the railway official handed me my case of birds at the time the judging was on at Frome, so too late to forward them on. I should advise all show secretaries to abolish the reversible labels, and adopt the double tear off label, and then exhibits could not go wrong in transit. This explains the reason of my exhibits being absent at Frome, after taking three thirds at Bournemouth. I shall be careful in future of having exhibits forwarded.

A FAMILY AFFAIR.

Sir,—I quite endorse the remarks of Mr. Ellwood re "A Family Affair." But there is another side which exhibitors may lose sight of. Judge will be placing cards at some show, and give a friend (not a relative) three or four firsts, and as many seconds and thirds, just to fill his cup of happiness. Friend judging show a week or two after; along comes relative of previous judge. Of course, one good turn deserves another, and he slips his exhibit well up in the money. And so the game of see-saw goes on. Perhaps Mr. Ellwood and I will be classed in the "disappointed" list of exhibitors. Speaking for myself, I am only disappointed when I do not get justice.

G. Meekley.

Sir,—Seeing the letter in your last issue under the heading of "A Family Affair," I quite appreciate the feeling expressed therein. At our recent show a brother of the judge of the fur section, who was doing the penning and staging, told me that if his brother had not been judging he would have made some entries in that section, but he would not do so as it would raise a suspicion of favoritism. If a man exhibits at a show where a relative is judging, it provides some ground for other competitors at the show to be suspicious, even if everything should be above-board. I have been to a number of shows recently, and, like others, have had my "knock-downs," at which I say nothing—I take them in good faith. I am quite aware that exhibits have stood cardless where they should have been high up in the class, and the judge is not always to blame for this, as possibly he has 20 or more in the class which makes it extremely difficult to place the winners, and he has a big task. What does annoy me is that if you point your bird out to some of the judges and ask where it fails, they seem to overlook the fact that the breeder or exhibitor possibly understands something about them, as well as themselves, in finding out faults. I do not know whether others will agree with me, but I am of opinion that societies should engage a different judge as frequently as possible; for if a judge is seeing the same birds week after week through the show season, he must know them well before many shows are over, and this is bad. I should like to see every judge give up breeding and dealing in the variety he professes to judge, for this reason: When he takes up judging he should know everything he requires with regard to standards, etc., and if he owns or sells birds of that particular variety (a case of this kind may occur), a purchaser comes along and buys a bird for £5 from him, and the buyer sends it out under him. The judge must recognise that bird as the one he has sold. Would he, after selling at £5, leave it out, even if it should be much inferior to others in the class? This is a more illustration, which is quite feasible. It would, I suggest, be far better if judges did not purchase or sell. I have a few friends just commencing as exhibitors, and I think you will agree with me that it is the novices we want to encourage and help forward, so that they take a keen interest in the fancy.

THE HORTICULTURAL HALL SHOW

Sir,—I sent two exhibits to the Horticultural Hall Show last week for the Crest and Crest-bred classes, enclosed in a well-made wooden carrying case, painted black, with a strong, fixed leather strap and a brass handle. Imagine my surprise when, on applying for same on the Saturday night at 10 o'clock, I was offered my exhibits minus the case, and was coolly informed "it can't be found." I wrote to the secretaries explaining the matter, but have had no acknowledgment. The birds are now suffering from colds through having only paper covering on their cold journey home. I will undertake to relieve the possessor who has taken it (I can scarcely believe inadvertently), from unduly distressing himself, by paying carriage myself if it is returned to my address. S. G. Quelch.

LEICESTER HAND-IN-HAND SHOW

Sir,—I note last week you had a complaint as to non-receipt of prize money at our late show; also your footnote to our usual promptitude in paying same. The facts are that I paid the whole of it out in the time I guaranteed, and wrote you to notify same, and, if any mistake, asking exhibitors to write me at once. I received a postcard from your correspondent a few days after, asking for card, but not mentioning prize money. This I sent on; as I told him I sent them with prize money but that, as I had apparently overlooked it, I enclosed him another. I then had another letter from him, stating he had not received any prize money. On referring to my book, and seeing it was crossed off as sent, I naturally claimed the right to wait a few days to see if I could trace it. But I got another abusive letter, threatening to write to some of our members, also to the C.B.U. secretary, and to Cage Birds over the matter. But I held his receipt for the 2s. 6d. before his letter was in type. Let this dishearten and sorry novice learn civility in his correspondence. I don't think there is another show which can claim a better record for quick payment of prize money this last nine years than the one with which I am connected.

JUDGE-BAITING EXTRAORDINARY.

Sir,—As another visitor to the show in question, I should like to point out to "Cede Nullis," who answered "Querist's" letter in your last issue, that fanciers do not take it as a sign of pluck for an exhibitor to offer to bet the judge 20 to 1 on such an occasion, but as ignorance and bombast, and the judge showed his good taste and common sense by treating it with the contempt it deserved. As to having the positions of the birds reversed the following week by a specialist judge, what does "Cede Nullis" consider the judge at the Horticultural Hall, who placed them the same as the judge did at the suburban show in question? As to the judge's reason for placing the birds as he did, I am sure his reasons were most convincing to almost everyone present; should think that "Cede Nullis" and the exhibitor were the only two who were not convinced. I should not have mentioned a word about the eight-guinea cup, if I had been "Cede Nullis," for all the fancy to turn up the report of the "premier and most popular" societies' show, and find out who this bad loser is; and I do not think the exhibitor will thank him for it. It is through such exhibitors as the one in question that the fancy loses such a lot of young blood, as at the show held in connection with a North London society a short time ago. I went there on the Friday evening with two friends, but we were so disgusted with the way this same exhibitor was carrying on that we did not stop long. One of my friends remarked to me that he was surprised at me for thinking of taking up the Fancy as a hobby, this being my intention, and I have been going to as many shows as I can to pick up all the knowledge I can from them. I have not lost heart yet, as I find that where there is one such exhibitor there are scores of fanciers. In conclusion let me say that I am surprised "Cede Nullis" did not show his pluck and sign his name; or does he want a leader? If so, let him follow

THE SEXING OF LESSER REDPOLLS.

Sir,—Possibly I ought to have stated that the red-breasted hen Redpoll was a freak, as the bird had a white head and white feathers about the body. Everyone took it to be a cock until it laid eggs. Novices can safely take Mr. Weston's advice, that every Redpoll with one or more red feathers on the breast, is a sure cock. But some fanciers desire to get eggs from hen Redpolls, and these are what I described in my letter.

J. H. Verrall.

WHEN IS A NOVICE NOT A NOVICE?

Sir,—When does the novice term expire? I am a novice in the fancy and this is my first year of exhibiting. I have noticed in the shows recently that some fanciers have won above three firsts and still go on exhibiting in the novice classes. I know of an exhibitor in the open section who sent his birds to a show not long ago in his wife's name, putting same in the novice classes. Now, what chance have we novices if we have to compete against such men as these? We might just as well keep our birds at home. We cannot get to know how our birds stand, whether they are fit to send out or not. It looks to me a money-losing game as it is at present. We are termed "The backbone of the fancy," but if this is going to be carried on, our backbone will soon be broken if we still continue to compete against the old stagers who term themselves novices. I shall be very pleased if you will publish this.

THE YORKSHIRE BOWL AT BRISTOL F.A. 1907 SHOW.

Sir,—The letter from Messrs. Shearn and Owen, which you published two weeks ago, was considered at our last meeting, and it was agreed that I should lay the facts before readers. The show was held on December 4th and 5th, 1907. Some unforeseen changes in the conditions of my employment immediately afterwards prevented my doing much show work until after Christmas. This accounts for Messrs. Shearn and Owen's sneer about inability to cope with my business, and they are welcome to any satisfaction they got out of it. On December 28th you published in Cage Birds some letter doubting the qualification of Messrs. Shearn and Owen to compete for our Yorkshire Bowl (the class was open to birds bred by exhibitor), and my attention was called to it by some member of our committee, with a request that the Bowl and prize-money stand over until next meeting of committee. My recollection of the matter is this: The Bowl Class is only open to birds bred by exhibitor, and it was alleged that Messrs. Shearn and Owen's bird, awarded first, was bred by one of those gentlemen, sold by him to the other, and shown by that other in his own name, singly, at many shows, the last time being at Cardiff, only one week before our own show. The inference was that the partnership was created to compete for our Bowl. I did not feel called upon to summon the committee to a special meeting, but brought it before the next meeting, on Jan. 27th, when I was instructed to ask Messrs. Shearn and Owen to submit their partnership agreement for inspection. This I did next day. On Feb. 7th they wrote me a letter containing five quarto sheets, the greater part of which consists of abuse aimed in general at certain unnamed jealous fanciers. It is true they offered some references as to character, but, as I pointed out in my letter in reply on Feb. 11th, no enquiry of that kind could prove that the Rule governing the class had been complied with, and I suggested that the best way to defeat the objects of the "rodents" of whom they spoke, would be to produce the evidence for which we asked. To that letter, written nearly ten months ago, they have never yet sent any reply. Out of consideration to Messrs. Shearn and Owen's passionate desire for strict accuracy, may I amend my previous statement thus?—that all claims against the Bristol Fanciers' Association, in support of which evidence has been produced, have always been met in full.

G. T. H. Maggs.

[From Messrs. Shearn and Owen's letter, dated Feb. 7th, 1908, of which Mr. Maggs speaks, we append an extract. In opening, they say that they intend to act honourably in the matter, and hope to receive the same treatment from the Bristol committee. They express surprise that the said committee should take notice of anonymous letters which appear in the Press. They state that they had not replied because no definite charge was made against them. They then go on:—

"Another reason is that we consider anything that appears in public print, to which the writer or writers are too ignorant or ashamed to attach their own signature, beneath our notice. We consider such as mean contemptible, frogmouthed scandalmongers, who are menacers to the societies to which they may be connected; we think they are a menace to the ornithological world. Such people in our estimation are uneducated, fanatical, spluttering rodents, gnawing at any and everything that is good and useful, and when they discover there is nothing to satisfy their avariciousness they, like hideous gorillas, laugh to think they have been able to do some fellow fancier an injury. We think that it behoves such people to gaze into the mirror of reflection and see what miserable, hideous, mean, contemptible lumps of humanity they consist of, and we further believe that to such a class of people as these may be attributed the spleenish, spiteful, cowardly practice that has been perpetrated in our midst of the poisoning and theft of valuable exhibits. . . . To this scandalous business we vigorously protest. We think that the time has now arrived when an effort should be made to eradicate this foul, low pest from the ornithological world. We are sure it would be a happy release to all societies to be rid of such as the Cardiffian and other gangs of scandalmongers and thieves. Now, Sir, we challenge any person, or persons, to charge us with fraudulent or unfair practices. We have done no one an injustice, either by word or deed other than they deserve. We consider ourselves honourable sportsmen; we do not exhibit our specimens merely for the paltry prize money, as it may be clearly seen we could have won a great deal more if we so desired this season. But we glory in the fact that we have knocked some of them off their high perch, and by falling they have scraped their hair off and deranged their brains, and we understand there are a great many sore heads. . .—Shearn and Owen."

BEWITCHING BIRD BABIES.

Zebra Finches Breeding in Captivity.

Sir,—I know that Zebra Finches are the easiest of all foreign birds to breed in an outside aviary, or in a cage by themselves; but I do not think it is quite such a common thing to get them to nest and rear their young in a cage (only 4ft. long, 2ft. wide, and 3ft. to 4ft. high) with other kinds of birds, including an Indigo Bunting, and a Grenadier Weaver. My little Zebra seemed a bit lonely, so I bought him a mate, just for company. At the beginning of May I found, to my astonishment, that the hen hardly ever left her nest, so I knew something must be going on. I was so afraid of disturbing them that I never once saw the eggs. After a time I heard squeaks, and I was happy; but not till quite three weeks after they were hatched did two fine babies leave the nest. Four more were hatched at the end of June, and four more in August. I have bred many Canaries and Mules, but never any foreignors before, and many things struck me. During incubation, and until the young were old enough to come out, the nest was never left for a single minute. Sometimes the father would peep in and say, "Now then, dear, out you go for a little run and a cup of tea. I'll look after the little ones." More often the mother would stand at the entrance, catch her husband's eye, and ask him to do duty for a few minutes. This was why no other bird dared molest the nest in any way. Not till the babies were fully fledged were they left for a moment, and then only sheer necessity (so she said) made Judy fly to her husband to make him tidy and give him a bit of nagging. "You know how my time is taken up now; you really might keep yourself decent. Now, put your head down, do!" He knew better than to resist, so with eyes shut up tight, head on one side, and an agonised expression on his face, he submitted to a drastic and not over-gentle toilet. It did not take many minutes, but was very successful. This rearing of ten young Zebra Finches (or rather nine, as one died when about six weeks old) was not the least trouble to me, and practically no extra expense. They were fed entirely on cuttlefish, bone, and orange, spray and white millet in the order mentioned. They got through enormous quantities of cuttlefish. I used to break it up into small pieces for them. Not at all nourishing this, I should have thought; but the little birds were in splendid condition. When they were all out of the nest, before I had parted with any, it was charming to see the parents and the nine children crowding to my fingers for a fresh supply of this fascinating food. When the second brood (Jack and Jill, Romeo and Juliet) were still too young to feed themselves entirely, the father and mother went to nest again, and the children often squeaked for their dinner in vain. So Flora, one of the first brood, herself little more than a child, undertook to supply their wants, and proved a devoted little foster-mother. The comical way in which the young ones ask to be fed, their wonderful pluckiness even when still in their grey baby frocks, which prevented any bullying from the other birds, and the fussiness and ridiculous noise in the cage all through the summer, were a constant source of pleasure and amusement to me.

PRIZE MONEY AT LISKEARD SHOW

SIR,—At Liskeard (Cornwall) Show in October, I was awarded third prize, but have not yet received any prize money, nor heard the reason why it has not been sent. I have written to Secretary, but received no reply. Now, if their show was not a success, I don't consider they are going the right way to make it one.

NEW SOCIETY FOR EARLESTOWN LANCASHIRE.

SIR, —At a meeting of fanciers held in the Co-operative Hall, Earlestown, on Thursday Dec. 3rd, it was decided to form a society, to be called the Earlestown and District Cage Bird Society. All interested fanciers in the district are earnestly invited to join.

CATCHING LINNETS IN A STUBBLE FIELD.

SIR,—In reply to "Annoyed," the nets he is using are too narrow and too short for Linnet catching. The wild bird seldom drops direct to the brace-bird, but beyond, or flies across the nets. The best way to try and catch a few is to set nets in the middle of a stubble field, on a day when there is a thick, misty fog, so thick that he can scarcely see the nets when at the end of the pull line. At this period of the year it is best for call birds not to be singers—only to call out when birds fly near. One or two pegged down birds are useful. All the stubble under the nets must be pulled up, so that the nets do not stick up and frighten the birds.

A CAGE BIRD UNION MATTER.

SIR,—Your correspondent "Union" in last week's paper raises a point which has been dealt with before, viz., as to whether a member of an affiliated society of the Cage Bird Union, as well as of a non-affiliated society, is eligible to exhibit at both shows. The Union does not debar an exhibitor from showing at any shows run by a society of which he happens to be a member; so that a person who is a member of a society that is affiliated to the Union, and who is also a member of a non-affiliated society, is entitled to exhibit in the open classes at the non-licensed show.

GEO. W. F. LYTHGOE, Sec. C.B.U.

SIR,—I should like to ask Mr. Lythgoe, the hon. secretary of the Cage Bird Union, a question, and it is in respect to exhibitors that have been suspended by district committees from exhibiting at any of the shows held under Cage Bird Union rules. Can the Cage Bird Union, by their present rules, stop any exhibitor sending his birds to a show under his wife's or his children's names? I think that this ought to be clear. I should like to know what communication show secretaries get concerning the said exhibitor. Is it not to accept any entries from that address? If not, it ought to be. What do we find happens as soon as some exhibitors are suspended? His wife buys his stock, and things go on as well as ever. A splendid way out of it! Are they his birds? Certainly not. Does he take them to the station? Oh, yes, for his wife. He will do anything to help his wife; in fact, he could not see her carrying such a big box. He does no more than that—except, perhaps, laugh!

EQUITY.

VETERAN JUDGES AT THE PALACE SHOW.

SIR,—In answer to Mr. Ramsden's letter, as Joint Secretary of the N.B.B. and M.C., I wish to point out to him, and all our friends, that we have no judges' list existing, but we have a rule which says: "That no application for the club's medals and support will be considered unless the judge is a member of the club"; and therefore we are sorry that Mr. Sam Cook, by his resignation from our club, has placed it beyond our power—much as we appreciate him as a competent judge of British birds—to award our medals for classes which he is judging. The only alternative would have been for him to have rejoined our club. I would also remind Mr. Ramsden of our rule: "That at the annual general meeting held on the Saturday of Crystal Palace February Show, then and there the rules shall be revised if necessary."

A. PLUMBRIDGE, Hon. Sec.

SIR,—I regret to have to announce that my endeavours to bring about an amicable arrangement, under which Mr. S. Cook could judge his usual classes at the above show, under the N.B.B. and M.C. patronage, has ended in a complete failure. I have received the following letter from Mr. Plumbridge:—

December 5th, 1908.

DEAR SIR,—In reply to your letter of the 30th November, I am rather surprised at your suggestion that our rules should be waived in order that our old friend, Mr. S. Cook, should judge at the Crystal Palace Show, coming as it does from an old and experienced club man as yourself, who must know that rules made cannot be so lightly set aside. It would be useless to call a special committee meeting, as our rules can only be altered at the annual general meeting, held in February at the Crystal Palace. Therefore, my committee have no power at present to conform to your wish, but the matter shall come before our next meeting at the end of the month.

(Signed) A. PLUMBRIDGE.

I have also received a letter from Mr. Sam Cook, of which the following is an extract:—"I know the rules re judges are as stated, and as the N.B.B. and M.C. members desire to compete for the club's specials in all the classes, which they could not do if I was now appointed, and, further, as I am sensible of the fact that my appointment (if made) would not be unanimous, I shall adhere to my decision of the 16th- ult." (to retire)." As time will not permit of further delay in getting the schedule to Press, I am reluctantly compelled to consider the matter ended.

J. W. RAMSDEN, Show Manager.

HYBRIDS AT ORMSKIRK SHOW.

SIR,—At Ormskirk show, on Nov. 28th, I exhibited a Greenie-Bullie Hybrid in a class which read, "Any Variety Mule." On reaching the show-room on the Saturday night, I was very much surprised to find the Hybrid with a wrong class ticket on him. I asked for the judge (Mr. Houlton), wishing to ascertain his reasons for wrong classing him, but found he had left earlier. Might I ask Mr. Houlton if he has any objection to giving his reasons for wrong classing the Hybrid?

THE ANTICS OF POLLY.

SIR,—One fine day pretty Polly set the household in commotion. She had made good her escape from the dining room of her owners and had flown high up into a tree. Perhaps she felt she was monarch of all she surveyed; for a time, there was quite a stir in looking for Polly. At last she told them she was "Pretty Polly, pretty dear." She was coaxed and coaxed again to descend. But no; she quietly said she was never so happy in all her life. At last the gardener procured a ladder, and knowing Polly to have a weakness for strawberries, and they being in season, some were held up to tempt the wayward bird. She soon made a move downwards, saying, "Oh, Polly likes strawberries very much." In a short time she was in her cage. There was no end to Polly's mischief. Often during family prayers she would join in the responses —"Amen," more often than not, and quite too soon, as though she wished to hasten her masters. Her mistress would then look at Polly reprovingly and down would go Polly's head, only to be raised when no eye was upon her, repeating again a loud and long "Amen." One could see this state of things could not last. She was now placed in the conservatory. One day 'ere she was removed she caused the company dining no little surprise. A gentleman visitor was being helped once too often for Polly, so she screamed out, "I think you have had quite sufficient."

BIRDLIFE.

AN APPEAL.

SIR,—A fortnight ago a paragraph appeared in "Twitterings" concerning an appeal that was being made towards the defence of the poor, unfortunate woman arrested for the Salisbury crime, who is the sister of an East Dulwich British-bird fancier. Perhaps a few particulars may be added: The fancier and his brothers are working men; the sister arrested is a widow, with no father, and she is charged with murdering her 12-year-old cripple son. During the preliminary inquiry and the inquest, not a breath of scandal has been uttered against the woman's character, and everyone has agreed that she was an indulgent and loving mother, who had battled against adversity on behalf of an invalid husband, and since, for her fatherless cripple-boy, Teddy. The brothers, who have all along believed her innocent,, are doing everything possible for the defence of their sister. She has, at their instance, been well defended by a local solicitor, and their desire is that her case may be ably and fairly presented. The inquest lasted eight days, and the magisterial inquiry about the same period; these protracted proceedings have run away with a lot of the resources at hand, and now, as the case is committed to the Assizes, an outside appeal is being made to assist them, by a former Mayor of Salisbury—Councillor Frank Baker, of Sturminster, Victoria-road, Salisbury. Though the brother has not a lengthy connection with the Fancy, he has shown a fairly good knowledge of bird-keeping, and his name is not unknown amongst successful exhibitors round London; he is a member of at least one specialist club, and also a member of the Dulwich and Peckham, Lewisham, and Clapham C.B. Societies. Already several good fanciers have extended a helping hand, including Mr. Maxwell, of Brixton, and when these facts are generally known there may be others who would like to support a genuine appeal, and forward a mite to this end direct to Mr. Baker.

EAST DULWICH.

C.B.U. MEMBERS AND NON-UNION SHOWS.

SIR,—I have noticed a good deal of writing on the question of exhibitors, members of the C.B.U., exhibiting at non licenced shows. Mr. Lythgoe, Secretary of the C.B.U., asked for names of exhibitors who do exhibit at non-Union shows. He asks for names just for the pleasure of asking, I suppose. Mr. Lythgoe has been given names and addresses, and yet he does not move in the matter. Not only does Mr. Lythgoe know of these exhibitors, but others connected with the C.B.U. have also been informed, but no notice has yet been taken of the matter. I suppose the C.B.U. have two different rules, one for a certain party, and one for an outside party. Let us have one C.B.U. to deal with—all exhibitors alike. Now, Mr. Lythgoe, look up your letters re the C.B.U. written you last month, and take the exhibitor reported to you then.

H. M. R.

ALLEGED YELLOWHAMMER-SISKIN HYBRID AT NORWICH.

SIR,—I was the winner of third and fourth prizes in the class where this so-called Hybrid stood second, and in answer to "A Visitor," I beg to say I was at the show in the evening of November 28th, and was greatly surprised at this exhibit, not being "wrong classed." My attention was called to the St. Helena Seedeater in Class 64, and by comparing this bird with the alleged "wonder," I concluded they were both of the same kind. I was not lacking in courage, but was afraid that if I tendered the protest with my arms full of courage, but no fee, the protest would have been a farce. I am only a working man with seven children, so have not many half-sovereigns to speculate with, hence my reason for not protesting. Perhaps Mr. J. F. Hills will kindly give us his opinion now, as after comparing this wonderful bird with the foreigner, he should be able to say if the bird was as catalogued, or not. I hope the winners of the vhe. in this class, and other visitors at the show will let us know their opinions. In your report, your reporter says: "Guess Again." I have been guessing all the week, and have arrived at the following conclusions: It is most discouraging to exhibitors who, like myself, are amateurs, and who launch out into the open class, to be beaten by champion exhibitors with birds which apparently should be wrong- classed.

W. H. N.

SIR,—Respecting the hubbub about the Hybrid which I showed at Norwich, Mr "Visitor" seems to be rather upset, and, of course, I do not know if he is a Hybrid breeder. When I was asked the question at Norwich show, I told the company present that I bought the bird from a gentleman, and on his word (which I took to be the truth). He told me that he bred it from a Yellow-Hammer and Siskin, and I showed the bird for this, as I was informed it was bred. The gentleman that I bought it from is still alive. I am not a Hybrid breeder. As for naming the bird "Canterbury Pilgrim," it seems a funny name to me to call a bird. I once saw Canterbury Pilgrim win the Oaks at Epsom, but I did not know birds took the name of horses. If anyone living can produce a bird like mine I will give £10 to any charity they choose. As to the two birds (the one in the Foreign Class) being compared, my bird has clear orange breast, and the other bird had black spot on the breast. Another thing, I can assure you, it sings from morning till night, and it has part of the Siskin notes.

J. HOWARD.

LLANELLY SHOW AND A MISSING BIRD.

SIR,—In reply to Mr. Jones's outpour upon me for penning the letter that appeared in your letter of a few weeks ago, when I wrote that letter I had not the slightest intention to injure the above society. It was the farthest from my mind. If I cannot do good to them, I will not do harm, unless I am called to battle; then I will use my best endeavour to come "up side" with my opponent. Mr. Jones has certainly called me to action; nevertheless, seeing that it is not only Mr. J. that will suffer, but his committee as a whole, I will simply deal with the matter in as few words as possible. But if he is not satisfied, then I shall be prepared to go further. In the first place, his letter is full of fabrications. It was also written with a view of causing Mr. Beard, if possible, to bring an action against me. But I fear that if he is not very careful he will heap coals upon his own head. He states that I sent a wire asking if Mr. Beard was in the show. Readers please note! My wire was worded as follows: "Private, is Beard, Llandrindod, in the show." Now, although his wire was marked "private," and should have been treated as such, Mr. Jones has chosen to make it public through the press. May I ask Mr. J. if it was not a fact that it was known in the show that I had replied, and what the wire contained? At this point let me express my regret to Mr. Beard that his name is brought up in the press; but there is no suspicion cast upon him as far as I am personally concerned. As I expressed in my letter to Mr. Beard at the time, the object of the wire was to know if he was present, seeing that he intimated in a letter to me a few days prior to the show that he intended going. Had the reply come back as quickly as it might have done, I should have wired him personally, Mr. B. being a member of the W.C.B. Club, and travelling on a portion of the line my birds travelled over. But I did not get a reply until nearly 4.30 p.m., when, according to our local time-table, he would have left the show. Since then, I find that Mr. Beard could leave Llanelly after that time, but not for Brecon. I hope the above will satisfy readers that no slur is cast upon Mr. Beard; on the other hand, he is an honest, good fancier. Returning to Mr. Jones's letter, he states that Mr. Longden opened my case. I hold a letter from Mr. Longden, and in that he states that he was present. Your Secretary states that he thought a certain committeeman opened it. Then you state a wire was sent at once. The wire was handed in at Llanelly at 11.58, and arrived at Brecon office 12.23. Does Mr. Jones mean to say that the judge had not commenced before that time? This bird was in Class I. Will Mr. Jones tell us why they were not prepared to back me up when I wrote and told them that the railway company said that the bird was delivered to the show and signed for? I told the committee that I should fight the case if they were prepared to back me up. No reply has come to hand. Will Mr. J. also tell us why he did not reply to Mr. Brown's letter last January, when he wrote to the press, after reading of my loss, in which he referred to his bird being stolen or missing from the same place the year before? What compensation did they give him? Perhaps the same as they did me. After paying carriage and wires respecting a bird that came to me in mistake, I got a letter with prize-money, and saying, "Will forward other expenses later." These have not come to hand as yet. I suppose that this is what Mr. J. considers "doing unto others," etc'. I will leave your readers to judge for themselves who is the injured party.

D. H. TEDSTONE.

SIR,—Having noticed in CAGE BIRDS, Dec 5th, a letter from Mr. Beard, in answer to Mr. D. R. Jones's letter of Nov. 28th, who, Mr. Beard, do you expect to apologise to you, the Llanelly Society or Mr. Tedstone? I should rather feel inclined to say Mr. Tedstone, as he is the gentleman who took the liberty of using your name. The reply I received from Mr. Tedstone, re the empty cage received at our show, reads as follows: "If F. Beard, Llandrindod, is in show Tedstone." Having to hand the copy of his reply, I enclose same to the Editor as proof that neither did Mr. Mr. D. R. Jones or the Llanelly Society take the liberty of using Mr. Beard's name.

J. SIMON.

(We print Mr. Simon's letter precisely as sent to us, though reference to the telegram (which he encloses) received by the Llanelly Society from Mr. Tedstone, shows the full text to be: "Private inquire if F. Beard, Llandridod, is in show; Tedstone."—EDITOR.)

SIR,—I cannot see what the telegram had to do with Mr. Beard's character. I will give Mr. Tedstone credit that he did not for a moment connect Mr. Beard with the missing bird; but he did not explain himself sufficiently in the wire. I had the pleasure of meeting Mr. Beard at the Llanelly Show. Why Mr. Beard talks of placing the matter in other hands I do not understand; also he wants an apology from someone. If I am included, I have only to say that I do not apologise, for the simple reason that there is nothing to apologise for. In reply to Mr. Mills, I always thought that all correspondence was left to the individual judgment of the readers of CAGE BIRDS. I am pleased to hear the good things he has to say of Mr. Tedstone. I am sure no one was more sorry for Mr. Tedstone at the loss of his birds than the Llanelly Society. But that is not the point at issue. We deny that the bird arrived at the show, and having the good name of the society at heart, I resented the matter cropping up now, a few weeks before the holding of our annual show. Wishing to fully explain the circumstances to the readers of CAGE BIRDS was the sole reason of my letter.

D. R. JONES, Chairman, Llanelly C.B.S.

Several letters unavoidably held over.

You have provided fanciers with another real treat this week, your coloured plate, "Extremes in Colour," being a most charming picture. I shall certainly have it framed, as it will make a nice companion plate to the original drawing which I was lucky enough to win in CAGE BIRDS Essay Competition early this year.—J. B. WATERMAN (Dulwich).

COVENTRY.

The 28th annual show of the Coventry O.S. was held on December 5th in the large room of the Sydenham Palace, a really grand room for a bird show, being splendidly lighted, and absolutely free from draught. The management was again A1, the awards being quickly put up, and the exhibits had the best of care and attention from a good body of thorough fanciers, who seemed to revel in their work, as might be expected, when we find amongst the show stewards such as Messrs. Tipping, Tanley, Wilkes, Treadwell, Reasby, Paddock, Calcott, Rowley, Aston, Butler, Lissaman, Swift, W. Lucas, Shaddock and Edwards. Mr. T. Gilbert was president, and Messrs. F. W. Harris and G. Turrell vice-presidents. Other names on the Committee of Management which occur to us were those of the genial George Lawrence, Messrs. Adkins, Corrall, A. J. Lucas, Barratt, Davies, and Chillingsworth. The quality in most of the classes was tip-top, many of the winners being fit to hold their own in any company. It is not often one sees a class of Canary Mules of six entries, and three of these Canary Bullfinches. Mr. George Peters, the hon. sec., of whose geniality and hard work it would be difficult to speak too highly, had everything in smooth working order, and was most courteous to all. Mr. J. H. Payne made the awards.

STIRLING AND DISTRICT O.S.

Annual club show held November 21st, in the Lesser Albert Hall, one of the finest in Scotland for a bird show. The entries showed an increase over the previous year's, and the show was well patronised. The sec., Mr. G. Hislop, and his committee had everything in good order long before the judged appeared. The judge for Scotch Fancies and Norwich was Mr. W. Muirhead (Bonnybridge), and the judge for Borders and British was Mr. D. J. Gardner (Bathgate). The special for best British bird was won by an Albino Thrush, and the opinions of the British bird exhibitors were a treat to hear.

WINCHESTER.

A most successful show with a record entry was held in the Corn Exchange, December 3rd. The birds were staged in a nice room, with a good light, and nicely decorated with ferns and palms. The quality of the exhibits throughout was good, many previous winners putting in appearance. With Mr. H. F. Savage as the capable Hon. Secretary, and Messrs. Gamble and Russell as stewards, everything was in order. After the judging a good lunch was provided. Mr. W. R. Miles judged, and seemed to give general satisfaction.

NOR. YELL.: 1, spl, 2, Schneider, former a bouncer, rare size, type and quality, 2nd another grand bird; 3, Mortara, very hot-coloured bird, nice type; vhc, hc, Schneider; vhc, hc, Mortara. COCKERMOUTH.

Annual show, held in The Tweed Mill, on December 4th and 5th. The venue is admirably suited for a show, being large and lofty. The society is to be congratulated on its excellent band of officials. In Mr. George Oglethorpe (Chairman) and Mr. J. Simon (Secretary), the society has a pair of officials whose equal it would be hard to find. The Committee all worked like Trojans, and seemed to take the really hard work allotted to them as though they liked it. With a staff such as this it is no wonder everything went smoothly and well. The judges got to work in good time, and assisted by the good light, were able to get done quickly. Catalogues with printed awards were on sale before five o'clock on the Friday; this in itself proved the staff's efficiency. There was a record entry, something like 300 birds, giving the judge a good day's work. The Border Fancies, as was natural for a Cumberland show, were very strong, both in quality and numbers, and would no doubt have been much stronger had it not been for the counter attraction at Altrincham, which kept most of the Lancashire and Cheshire birds away. In the Members' Sections some really good birds were staged. Mr. S. Hadwin (Liverpool) judged, and his awards gave every satisfaction.

JEDBURGH.

Annual exhibition, held in the Home Mission Hall, on Dec. 3rd, and confined to 20 miles radius. Entries on the whole were good in quality but rather few in numbers. The committee were indefatiguble in their efforts to make the show a success, their care for the exhibits being excellent. The secretary, Mr. Storrie, proved himself equal to the occasion. The hall is a very suitable one for a cage bird show. The exhibition was well patronized and we expect to hear that it was a financial success. Mr. J. W. Bruce judged all varieties, and his awards on the whole were well received.

HIGHGATE.

The members of the Highgate and Hampstead C.B.S. are to be congratulated upon the success of their first winter show, which was held at the Spencer Hall, Dartmouth Park Hill, on Nov. 28th. Entries totalled up fairly well, and the quality, especially in the novice section, was very strong. The best bird in the champion section was a very typical yellow Lancashire Plainhead belonging to the veteran Mr. Shakespeare, and the best in the novices, a very handsome wing marked Crest, shown by Mr. Penny, which also secured the special for the best unflig. bird in the section, an honour which in the champions fell to a rare quality, short feathered yellow Norwich, shown by Mr. Reynolds, the late secretary. All the arrangements were well carried out, the hall being tastefully decorated with foliage and plants. The committee, to whom much credit is due for running the show in so effective a manner, is composed of Messrs. G. Gardner (chairman), W. Ward (vice), C. Andrews, J. Street, W. Shakespeare, R. Coventry, W. Knight, W. Cooper, A. Yardley, B. Eastoe, G. T. Pile, J. Hyde, C. Penny, F. C. Barnes, A. Fisher (treasurer), and Messrs. G. H. Neal and W. Rawlinson, the capable and energetic hon. secretaries. Mr. C. A. House judged.

CHAMPIONS.—NOR., YELL. (2): 1, Easterling's and best unflig. spls, Reynolds, grand type, rich deep colour, well shown; 2, Bell, nice shape and colour, not tightened up. BUFF (4): 1, 2, 3, spl, Bell, very nice shapely team of good colour; vhc, spl, Reynolds. VARIEG. YELL. (2): 1, Bell, very nice coloured, ticked headed; 2, Reynolds. BUFF (4): 1, Reynolds, very neat and showy cap and wing marked; 2, 3, vhc, Bell. HEN (4): 1, 2, spl, best Norwich, Reynolds, very neat typical yellow and a buff; 3, vhc, Bell. In Yorkshires, Crests, Crest-breds, Borders, Lizards, Lancashires, and Mules, Mr. W. Shakespeare was the only exhibitor and took all the class prizes, spl for the section, spl best champion with his yellow Lancashire, spl best Border in show, and spl best 3rd prize bird in show. NOVICE NOR. YELL. (7): 1, Walmsley, very nice clean cut bird of good shape and style; 2, Hyde, very shapely and nice colour, but wild; 3, Knight, very smart in style, nice quality, but just a shade soft; vhc, spl, Neal; hc, spl, Martin; c, Mrs. Wood. BUFF (12): 1, spl, vhc, Neal, very neat and close in feather, short and compact in body, nice colour; 2, Martin, grand bodied bird of good colour; 3, Johnson, beautiful quality of feather, nice type, pale in colour; hc, Hyde; c, Mrs. Wood. VARIEG. YELL. (12): 1, 3, and 2 spls, Neal, eye, head and wing marked, of grand colour and quality, takes Easterling's spl, 3rd grand quality bird but longer, takes Ramsden's spl; 2, Avery, eye and vent marked, very sweet bird, of lovely quality and grand type; vhc, Mrs. Giddy; hc, spl, Johnson; c, Walmsley. BUFF (11): 1, spl best bird shown by a lady, Mrs. Wood, eye and wing marked, one of the best, if not the best, headed birds in the show, lovely colour, grand quality, but shown a wee bit too fat; 2, Walmsley, grand body and style, very close feather, thigh ticked; 3, Johnson, head ticked, good shape and feather; vhc, Knight; hc, Miss Giddy; c, Pile. HENS: The class of the section, 17, and some rare grand birds, too; 1, spl, best in section, hc, Pile, very short and compact, close-fitting silky feather, and a grand coloured jacket; 2, spl, vhc, Neal, charming buff, lovely type, very close in feather, splendid feather; 3, Mrs. Woods, head marked buff, rare chubby-bodied bird, splendid feather and nicely shown; c, spl, Knight. YORKS. YELL (11): 1, Knight, neat head, slim body, nice style; 2, spl, vhc, spl, Fisher, two well feathered showy birds, neat heads, hardly so slim; 3, Turner, grand shape, colour and feather, but would not stand; hc, spl, Mrs. Giddy; c, spl, Winter. BUFF (11): 1, spl, 3, spl, and spl, best in section, Turner, very long, slim, stylish bird full of nerve, 3rd, grand body properties, not so clever with his wings; 2, Knight, lovely feather and style, splendid colour; vhc, Ward; hc, Mrs. Giddy; c, Neal. VARIEG. YELL. (6): 1, 3, Knight, very slim and grand quality; 2, Fisher, nice length and shape; vhc, Mrs. Giddy; hc, spl, Winter; c, Bush. BUFF (7): 1, 3, Knight, eye and wing marked, nice shape and style, neat feather; 2, Winter, nice head and very showy; vhc, Abrams; hc, c, Bush. HENS (17): 1, Bush, very finely made, slim, close feathered buff; 2, Knight, long, slim yellow of grand style, needed tucking; 3, Turner, sweet head and neck, yellow, a lovely little bird, but lost its chance because the soap had been left on; vhc, c, Fidler; hc, Abrams. CRESTS (7): In this class the printer got juggling with the numbers, and as a consequence the whole of the catalogue numbers were out of place; we did our best to ascertain the relative numbers and names, and believe we have them correct; 1, 2, vhc, and five spls, Penny, 1st lovely wing marked, very densely feathered, capital radiation and droop, only needing a master hand to put it down; 2nd, very neat shapely grey; 3rd, Gill, very faintly grizzled, good but horned; hc, spl, Mrs. Woods; c, spl, Ward. C.B. (7): 1, 2, 3, Penny, very nice team, well shaped and densely feathered skulls; vhc, Neal; hc, G.H.; c, Ward. BORDERS (2): 1, 2, Pile, two neat yellows. A.O.V. (3): 1, 2, 3, Dickson, trio of Green Germans. ROLLERS (10): 1, 2, 3, and three spls, Dickson; vhc, Orton. MULES (5): 1, 2, spl, best Mule in show, Mrs. Giddy, very nicely marked, rich coloured, close feathered buff Linnet, and a buff Goldie of rare colour and quality, both darks; 3, vhc, Pile; vhc, spl, Hyde; two birds were shown in this class by Mr. Tomas as Greenfinch-Canarics, we examined them most carefully, but could not distinguish the slightest signs of the cross, they being in our opinion the produce of German Canaries; Mr. Tomas assured us as to the absolute authenticity of their pedigree, and if his version is correct, they are two wonderful birds. BRIT. GOLDIE: (5): 1, 2, and two spls, Pile, two beautiful rich coloured birds of grand shape and feather; 3, Street, nicely marked, good feather; vhc, Mrs. Giddy; hc, Hyde. BULLIE (4): 1, 2, Mrs. Giddy, two lovely coloured birds, large well-cut caps, nice back and bars; 3, Knight, capital shape, nice colour, not so steady; vhc, Street. Grecnie (6): 1, vhc, Mrs. Giddy, grand flights and tail, very close in feather, nice size; 2, hc, Pile, neat and compact in feather, nice wings and tail; 3, Neal, good shape, size, and colour, hardly so steady; c, Knight. LINNET (4): 1, 2, Pile, two grand coloured, well marked, nice quality birds; 3, Johnson; hc, Mrs. Giddy. SISKIN, ETC.: (5): 1, Street, very bonny Siskin, grand colour, well marked, nice feather; 2, 3, Pile, rich coloured, neatly marked Twite, and Redpoll; vhc, Mrs. Giddy; hc, Knight. A.O.S. FINCH (2): 1, Pile, Hawfinch; 2, Mrs. Giddy, Bramblefinch. BUNTING (1): 1, Pile, well marked yellow. BLACKBIRD, ETC.: 1, spl, best Brit., Pile, grand coloured Blackbird, good bill and cere. HENS (3): 1, 2, Pile, splendid Greenie and Bullie; 2, 3, Knight, another nice Bullie. FOR. FINCH (1): 1, Pile, very pretty pair of Ribbon Finches. A.O.S. (2): 1, spl, Pile, beautifully marked, rare feathered Cordon Bleu; 2, Mrs. Giddy, large, good coloured pair of yellow Budgerigars. SELL. (15/-) (8): 1, spl, Fisher; 2, Knight; 3, Street; vhc, Rawlinson; hc, Penny, Martin; c, Johnson. (20/-) (2): 1, Knight; 2, Johnson. PAIRS (35/-) (6): 1, 2, Knight, 3, hc, Penny; vhc, Fisher; c, Martin.

EBBW VALE.

Held December 2nd, in the Market Hall. An average entry faced the judge. Yorks. and Norwich were good classes, and the British were very level in merit. A number of shows (a couple in the district) were held same day; no doubt this accounted for some three or four classes being cancelled. The hall is an ideal show room, there being a grand top light. The secretary, str. R. Anthony, and committee had all things in good order, and cages were up in a very little time. Mr. T. H. Melmith judged.

YORKS. CL. ETC.: 1, Martin, nice level coat, well moulded, fine stand, well staged; 3, Parlitt, stands well; 4, Tippings; res, Bevan; vhc, Cook; hc, Perry. BUFF: 1, spl, Perry, grand bird, true Yorkie, good in head, neck and wings, easy win; 3, c, Parlitt, leader another nice one; 4, Martin, good leather; res, Bevan; vhc, Cook; hc, Tippings. FORRES.

The 22nd show held in the Mechanics' Institute December 5th. The hall is an excellent one, very cosy, with a good top light, the staging—single tier system—was admirably arranged, and a comfortable temperature was maintained throughout. The committee had everything in order in good time, and enabled the judge to start promptly. The secretary, Mr. Cumming, is most obliging, and handled the reins with a masterly hand; he is an excellent official. He was ably assisted by Mr. K. Maclean. Forres are famous for two features above all others—their wonderful display of British birds, and the number of "men in blue" on patrol in the show. The former raised one's enthusiasm; the latter kept it within bounds. There used to be here a splendid exhibition of cinnamons and Scotch Fancies, and we were surprised to find not a single specimen of the former, and but a solitary specimen of the latter. All the Norwich classes contained birds of exceptional merit. Mr. Taylor (Greenock) judged, and gave general satisfaction.

SCOTS. (1): Todd, Inverness winner, looking splendid, grand exhibit, needs no comment. NOR. PAIR, 1908 (2): 1, Petrie, nice Nor., good type and colour, short flights, yell. best of two; 2, Cooney, nice yell. variegated and cl. buff, yell. good type and head. NON-FED CL. ETC. YELL. CK. WHITTINGTON MOOR C.B.S.

First show held on Nov. 28. Although the entries came up badly the quality of the exhibits was exceedingly good. The secretary, Mr. A. Atkin, although new to his work, goes about his duties as if he were an experienced hand. The treasurer, Mr. Smith, is a willing man and very courteous, which is a sure way to success. The chairman, Mr. D. Hulley, is to be congratulated upon the success of the show; he is a true fancier, and one always ready to help. The president, Mr. J. T. Roe, also gave a willing hand, and the committee worked hard. The judging was over early.

WALTHAMSTOW.

Owing to the unsatisfactory state of the finances after the big open event in January last, the Walthamstow F.A. this season decided to promote a members' show only, and this was held in the Public Baths on December 3rd. Entries were not so numerous as the executive expected, but some remarkably grand birds were staged, many of them being noted winners. The arrangements were well carried out by the committee, and Mr. A. B. Forse made a capable and courteous secretary. Mr J. Rohson judged.

UNITED METROPOLITAN.

The combined show of the South Metropolitan and Civil Service F.A., which was held in the Avondale Hall, Clapham, on December 3rd and 4th, was, we regret to say, far from being a success so far as the number of entries was concerned, and we fear there will be little beyond the honour of winning for the successful exhibitors, as after all the expenses are paid and 10 per cent. is taken by the two Associations promoting the show, the balance (if there is any) is to be divided between the successful exhibitors. The show was well managed, and everything done in good order by the following excellent committee:—Messrs. H. G. Ager, G. J. Bott, H. A. Bluke, G. W. Milledge, J. Russell, G. Smalley, and S. G. Walton, with the indefatigable Mr. A. Watson, of the C.S.F.A., as secretary. Mr. Easterling judged, and gave general satisfaction.

NOR. (5): 1, 2, 3, two spls, Thursby, very nice team of good quality birds of good colour and shape, 1st eye ticked yellow, 2nd neat buff, a little model, which we liked much, 3rd another buff. HEN (2): 1, 2, Thursby, good shapely yellow and buff. YORKS (11): 1, Forster, very neat, stylish, shapely yellow of nice feather; 2, spl, 3, hc, Horsey, heavy marked yellow, very useful stock bird, 3rd neat yellow of good shape and feather; res, vhc, Watson; c, Russell. HEN (9): 1, c, two spls, one best in show, Watson, very nice coloured, stylish yellow hen; 2, 3, Horsey, very smart ticked headed bird, and a clear, which would have looked better had it been tubbed; res, hc, spl, Russell; hc, Forster. A.O.V.: One entry only, Barton, and that absent. MULE (2): 1, 2, Thursby, good, big, shapely, nicely marked dark buff Goldie, and a varieg. buff Goldie. FINCH (4): 1, 3, Thursby, good coloured, well marked Goldie, and a very pretty hen Bullie; 2, Allen, showy, well feathered, smartly marked Chaffinch; res, Pickin. A.O.S. CUPAR.

The 21st annual exhibition and competition of the Cupar and Dist. O.S. was held in the Corn Exchange, on December 5th. It is to be regretted the cage bird section was a failure; but it would be well for the management to take into consideration the advisability of separating the caged birds from the poultry, etc., sections, as the entry for the latter was a huge success, and took up practically the whole of the floor space. The caged birds were staged on the platform. The management consists of a most able and obliging band of practical fanciers, viz., Messrs. A. Allan (President), T. Gibson and J. Watson (Vice-Presidents). Mr. C. C. Edmond, jun., makes an efficient, courteous and practical secretary and treasurer; he had all the arrangements well in hand, and everything in apple-pie order. The committee consists of Messrs. Robertson, R. Drysdale, Welch, Dalrymple, Speed, J. Drysdale, Martin, Edmond, W. Donaldson, jun., R. Donaldson, Cairns, Ruddiman, Cunningham and Randall. After having issued such an attractive prize list, to have to cancel so many classes must have been very discouraging. The show was held under the patronage of the Scottish B.B. and M.C., and this was the means of bringing out some very outstanding birds. The Scotch and Border Fancy Canary classes were all cancelled. The judges were: For Norwich, Mr. C. Campbell (Glasgow); for Mules and Hybrids, British and Foreign birds, Mr. J. Goodfellow (Edinburgh); and their awards were well received. The show was well patronised by the general public during the day.

BARNET.

A very nice collection of birds was got together at the show of the Barnet F.S., at the Town Hall, on December 3rd. Last year some amount of discussion took place because a Golden Pheasant was awarded special for the best bird in show. On this occasion the same bird stood cardless, Mr. House, the judge, maintaining that it was not a cage bird. The birds were nicely staged in a room by themselves, and well looked after by the committee. Mr. King (the chairman), Mr. Pendleton (the treasurer), and Mr. Chandler (the secretary) are a trio of most energetic and obliging officials, and they worked hard to further the interests of the show.

BURY.

Annual show of the Bury and Dis. C.B.S. held in the Textile Hall on Nov. 27th and 28th. In addition to the usual members' show there was an open Roller contest, both sections being augmented by a flower show. The entries in all classes numbered nearly 250, those in the members' classes constituting a record. The showrooms were tastefully decorated with the plants and flowers entered in the floral section. The opening ceremony was performed by Dr. J. W. Cook, M.D., and the chair was taken by the president, the Rev. R. P. Hudson. The Chairman, who is an ardent enthusiast in the culture of birds, said he noted a decided improvement in the quality of the exhibits, and said that many were worthy of inclusion in the best company. Dr. Cook, in declaring the show open, concurred in all the president had said, and though not a practical fancier himself, was certainly in sympathy with the society's efforts, which, he said, were deserving of much practical support. Mr. Greenwood, the society's chairman, thanked Dr. Cook for his kindness in performing the opening ceremony, and later surprised the doctor by making him the recipient of a handsome bird and cage, as a memento. Dr. Cook expressed his gratification at the pleasant surprise. The chairman then handed to Mr. W. P. Turton (Bispham), late secretary of the society, an enlarged framed photograph of the committee as a small token of the members' esteem and appreciation of the valuable services rendered by him to the society while secretary. Mr. Turton expressed his gratitude, and, after a vote of thanks to the chairman, the programme was completed. Mr. G. Wareing, a Bury member, was successful in winning the silver cup presented by Mr. F. A. Lester, of London, for best young bird wearing the 1908 ring. We heartily congratulate Mr. Wareing on his achievement. Every satisfaction appears to have been given by the judges, Messrs. W. Bowyer, and J. Netherwood. The show was well patronised on both days, and the officials have every reason to feel gratified at the result.

ORMSKIRK.

Held at the Buck i' the Vine Hotel, Nov. 28th. One open class for Linnets included. Nearly 150 birds turned up, and the quality throughout would have done credit to any open show. Each section contained noted winners in open competition up and down the country. Canary Mules were led by a good 6-point Buff Varieg. Gold Can. Britishers were very good indeed, and most of the members had a hand in the winnings, Mr. T. H. Tiffin winning special for best Hard Bill with a really fine cage moulted Bullfinch. A very rare almost pure White Sparrow attracted much attention. This was taken from a Sparrow's nest in the district in the summer, and reared and made a great pet of. It takes the perches perfectly. The birds were well staged in the large assembly room adjoining the hotel, and Mr. T. H. Tiffin, the hon. secretary, and his staff had everything in order and up to date. Prize cards with owners' names written on were promptly placed on the cages, and visitors could at once see who had won. Mr. Chas. Houlton judged, and we heard no adverse comments.

SOUTH MANCHESTER C.B.S.

Table show of Norwich Canaries held at headquarters December 1st. Only seven birds were staged. Mr. Coulson (Manchester) judged, and gave every satisfaction.

1, c, Thornley, 1st nat. col. buff, good big bouncing ck., fine stock birds; c, unflig.; 2, 4, Robinson, 2nd unflg. yell., will make into a grand show bird, pressed winner hand; 4th, varieg., very nice; 3, vhc, hc, Myers, 3rd 1kd. buff, lovely quality, feather light as a Java's; vhc, nice unflig buff ck.; hc, unflig. buff, good bird. JNO. C. SPILSBURY, Secretary.

Nests of Birds, Poultry, etc., should be regularly sprinkled with KEATING'S POWDER, especially when hens are sitting. Don't forget to do this just previous to the eggs hatching, to destroy the Red Mite. It kills all insects, harmless to everything else.

HARROGATE.

The 5th annual function of the Harrogate C.H.S. took place on Dec. 5th. The Central Academy was the venue; it is of good size, capital light, and well ventilated. It commends itself very strongly as most suitable. The show was under the patronage of the Y.C.C., O.N.F.C., Y.C.H.B., and M.C. The schedule boasted was of a most capital description; 22/- per class was offered, besides points' specials, extra specials, etc. Entries "rolled" up excellently, making a grand total of 422, exceeding last year's by over 100. Mr. J. C. Barnes (Sheffield) was the appointed judge. This being only a one-day's show, and there being a huge entry, the committee acted wisely in appointing Mr. W. A. Cowgill as an assistant judge. Mr. Barnes took the open Yorkshires and Norwich, and Mr. Cowgill the Novices and British classes. The president is H. Fleming, Esq., J.P., and the vice presidents Messrs. W. H. Thorpe, Togden, H. Schunck, and H. J. Mason, a quintette of most liberal supporters. The committee consists of capital and well known officials, who all did their utmost to keep the ball rolling. The following gentlemen also deserve praise for the exertions put forth:—Messrs. Duncan, Hewson, Bennison, Brown, Gregg, Head, Ireland, Walker, and Carline. The stewards were Messrs. D. Duncan, junr., and C. Thornton, who know exactly the working of a show. Staging was executed in good style on trestles at just a convenient height; every bird could be observed with ease. Those responsible for this neat arrangement are to be highly complimented. The hon. secretary and treasurer is Mr. G. H. Barnwell, who makes a very practical official and had every item at his fingers' tips; he is quick and courteous. Yorkshires made a fine display, some toppers being on view. Norwich, too, were a captivating collection, colour, type and quality predominating right through the section. The Mules and British birds were grand. Hyde's special went to Mr. J. H. Walker (Novice), a smart and stylish buff Yorks, doing the needful; Ramsden's medal fell to Mr. J. Mottram; special for best shown by a member in open, was the Goldie owned by Mr. D. Duncan, Junr., the second going to Mr. G. H. Barnwell. The judging was over in good time, and prize cards were displayed promptly. The refreshment stall was an innovation appreciated both by old and young. The show opened well to time. The judges had their work cut out, in separating the birds, but their placings were well received.

MUSSELBURGH.

The first show was held in Mcdonald's Hall on Nov. 26th. This hall is very suitable for a cage bird show, being well lighted from the roof and free from draughts. We found the committee had everything well in hand. The president, Mr. Pearson, was present all day, and worked hard to make the exhibits comfortable, being backed up by a hard-working committee. The secretary, Mr. Kay, had everything well in hand, and feels confident he will have double the number of members by this time next year. The entries came up well; 280 for a first show is something to feel proud of, and the quality in the Norwich and Border sections was of a high-class order. In the British bird section a very nice Hawfinch won special, and a real mimic of a Starling, who headed his class, kept the visitors in wonderment. Mr. Patterson (Chirnside) judged Scotch Fancies and Borders, and Mr. Chalmers (Kirkintilloch) all others, and their awards gave entire satisfaction.

SANQUHAR.

Annual show held in the Public School December 5th. The entry in the cage bird section was better than for a large number of years, and the quality of the exhibits was excellent, especially in the Border Fancy ticked hens class. The Norwich section was also good. The caged birds were never better suited for light, the room in which they were staged being an ideal one for light. The success of the show is in a great measure due to the energetic and untiring efforts of the joint secretaries, Messrs. Moffat and Carruthers, who left nothing to be desired in the way of arrangements, these being carried out admirably. They were supported by an able and willing committee. Mr. T. McCredie with nine birds carried off five 1st and four 2nd prizes, and also pressed hard for the B.F.C.C. medal. Mr. D. Holden (Muirkirk) judged

HEYWOOD AND DISTRICT C.B.S.

Second annual show held November 28th, when 87 birds were staged. Messrs. F. W. Nelson (Stockport), and J. Law (Rochdale), placed the cards. The show was the best the society have held, both in the number of entries and of visitors. Mr. J. W. Howarth won the Society's special for best bird, and Mr. R. Schofield, special for most points. Each class received a special.

ALTRINCHAM.

The fifth annual one-day show was held December 5th, in the British Schools—a splendid room for light all round; everywhere the birds could easily be seen, with a good light in the cages as they stood. Mr. Tom Harrison handles the secretarial reins with all the business tact necessary, and the rest of the officials and committee attended to their various duties promptly. Close upon 500 entries turned up. Yorkshires in four open classes produced 45 entries. Norwich open had 63 in six classes. By some mischance or other a couple of birds with fed flights appeared in the unlighted yellow class; it must have been a mistake in caging for the show. The Green Club patronage was responsible for the grand total of 54 in the four Yorks. Green classes, and 59 in the four Norwich Greens. Borders were excellent—an entry of 80 in four classes is something to be proud of, and competition was of the keenest. Lucky were those who got into the tickets, many excellent specimens having to stand down. British birds were not very numerous, but some rare and excellent birds turned up. The members' Yorkshires were a good lot, but the Norwich were really capital, and Mr. Unwin put down a grand lot here, and won the Ross challenge cup for the best members' team. A splendid lot of special prizes, in addition to four money prizes, made the show well worth one's while sending entries to. In Yorks. Green Yellow hens the third prize bird began singing for all it was worth, much to the amusement of some of the Liverpool visitors and others who congregated around. It had not the good manners to keep quiet long enough, or it might have gone away with its honours without those present knowing anything of its powers of song. It was evidently rejoicing over its success, and could no longer contain itself. Mr. Battye judged all Yorkshires, Norwich, and members', and Mr. Houlton the Norwich Greens, Borders, Hybrids, British, Foreign, and selling bird classes.

HILLFOOT O.S.

This year the competition in the caged-bird section was open, and the response given in the entries fully justified the new departure. The entries, although practically local, were of a very high standard, and ticket birds were well up on each other. Mr. Gollan Hyslop (Stirling) judged, and his awards met with general satisfaction. Borders were to the fore with a record entry, British being a good second. The foreign birds seemed to take the eyes of the visitors who patronised the show, and local interest in the fancy must be awakening, and good results are expected in future. Selling-class birds were in big demand, and a good few birds changed hands. Mr. H. Wilson won the handsome silver cup for most points. The runner-up was Mr. J. Stewart. Mr. A. Somerville, the energetic secretary, had the knack of keeping cool and collected, and got through his business in a business-like style. The cage bird steward was Mr. Andrew Hunter, who paid full attention to his feathered friends.

XMAS NUMBER NEXT WEEK.

GRIMSBY.

The Grimsby C.B.S., in conjunction with the Poultry Society, held their annual exhibition on December 3rd. The King's Hall, in which the exhibits were staged, is of good size, nice light, near to the station, and centrally situated. The function was under the C.B.U. rules, and the schedule issued was of nice classification. The entry was not so good as one would liked to have seen; still, superb quality was on view. Had the society run their show exclusively for cage birds better entries would possibly have resulted. The Norwich were a choice collection, and contained many well-known winning specimens. In the novice section some notable stagers were staged. Yorkshires were few in number, but excellent in quality. Amongst the novice birds one could have selected a few quite capable of running well in the upper circles. The thanks of the society are tendered to Messrs. Harland, Clews, Townsend, H. E. Emerson, and R. Nightingale for their support in the gift class. The Mules and British contained some choice ones. The special for best British was won by Mr. H. Medley, with his noted Redstart; Hyde's went to Messrs. Moore and Son; Ramsden's to Mr. A. Wilson. The president is Councillor Tickler; the vice-presidents are Councillors Tate and C. D. Sykes, a trio of capital supporters. The chairman, Mr. W. Clews, is the right man in the right place, he being a good leader. The vice-chairman is Mr. A. Townsend, who acts as understudy in a capable manner. The committee consist of well-known and enthusiastic fanciers in Messrs. Nightingale, F. Emerson, Clapham, Beels, Burrell, Tune, Clarke, Perkins, and Johnson, all of whom put forth exertions of a praiseworthy order. Mr. H. E. Emerson, the hon. sec., is a genuine official, always ready to help, and courteous in the highest degree. Staging was nicely done, considering it was a mixed show. Mr. J. C. Barnes (Sheffield) made the awards, which gave every satisfaction.

DENNY AND DUNIPACE.

The 13th annual show was held on Nov. 28th in the Public Hall. Entries, unfortunately, did not come up to expectations. Border Fancies formed the pick of the show. Mr. G. Campbell (Glasgow) judged all classes and gave general satisfaction. Mr. Frances proved a capable and obliging secretary, and had a committee of genuine hard workers. The light was bad, especially where the Britishers were staged. During the day there was a big attendance of visitors.

Canary Breeding for Beginners - - Post Free 7d.

By Claude St. John.

A practical, up-to date guide to the cult of Canary breeding, designed specially for the use of the beginner in the hobby. It contains many helpful illustrations, and deals very fully, and in an easily-understandable manner, with the choice, sexing and mating of the birds, feeding for condition, the cages and their fittings, the bird-room, egg-food, nest-building, rearing and moulting the young, colour feeding, training for show, and all the details and difficulties likely to confront the breeder.

CLUB REPORTS.

QUEENSBURY C.B.S.

On December 1st Mr. R. E. Helliwell (Halifax) gave a washing exhibition in the Baptist School. There was a good turn-up of fanciers, who were all delighted with the way in which Mr. Helliwell put the birds through the tub, and also with his novel drying cage, which is quite original, and a very neat affair. A vote of thanks, after a few hints on the selection of a breeding stock, brought the meeting to a close.—WILTON JAGGER, Secretary.

FALKIRK AND DISTRICT C.B.S.

Meeting held in the Oddfellows' Hall recently for the purpose of electing office-bearers. Result:—President, Mr. Robert Dickson; treasurer, Mr. Robert Rennie; secretary, Mr. William Clubb, 34, Cockburn street; committee, Messrs. Hugh Moreland, William Walker, John Moreland, Thomas Wallace, William Scaife, Joseph Binnie, Alexander Eadie, Robert Herd, James Marshall, Harry Taylor, John Millar, and Robert Hamilton; auditors, Messrs. J. Marshall and R. Hamilton. The society is now open for the enrolment of new members. All communication should be sent to me at 14, Cockburn-street.—W. CLUBB, Secretary.

LANCASHIRE C.A.

Meeting held at Littleborough on November 28th, when a large number of members were present. Mr. J. Naden took the chair. A little general business was got over in nice time, so as to allow us to have a look round at the birds again. Our next meeting is fixed for Rochdale on December 12th, when we hope to see a record number of members, as it is also the date of the Rochdale O.C. Back-end Show. We shall then see some of our favourites on exhibition. I am given to understand there will be a good number of birds present. Points gained at Littleborough:—Champion Section: Adams, 19; Garner, 16; and Lowe, 9. Novice Section: Fish, 14; Crossley, 9; and Brooke, 6.—WM. ADAMS, Hon. Sec.

HIGHGATE, HAMPSTEAD AND DISTRICT C.B.S.

At our recent show much help was rendered by Miss Waknrow, Mrs. Giddy, Mrs. Wood, and also from Messrs. Knight, Fisher, Pile, Street, Hyde, Andrews, Rawlinson and Johnson. Mrs. Giddy came out on top with most points for the £5 5s. cup, Mr. J. T. Pile second, and Mr. W. Knight third. Mr. W. Reynolds took the teapot for best unflighted bird in the champion section, with a nice yellow. Mr. Shakespear took the special for best bird in champion section, with a grand Lancashire, Mr. Penny, with a grand young Crest, taking five specials, teapot for best unflighted in novice section, and four others—2 for best birds in Novice section, and one for best Crest in Show, and one for best Crest in Novice section. Visitors came up in good numbers. The floral decorations were kindly undertaken by Mr. A. Knight.—G. H. NEAL, Hon. Sec.

LANCASHIRE AND LIZARD F.A.

A well-attended meeting was held at Littleborough on November 28th, in connection with the bird show. Members were present from Oldham, Middleton, Hazel Grove, Stockport, Denton, Glossop, Rawtenstall, etc. A large amount of business was gone through, one item being the deciding of the winner of special for best Lizard at Nottingham, same to be a member of the association. Mr. J. Hampshire (Oldham) turned out to be the winner by unanimous assent. A hearty vote of thanks to our esteemed chairman, Mr. J. Garner, brought the meeting to a close. The next meeting will be held at Glossop, the place of meeting to be announced later in Fancy Press. Result of cup and medal competition for members at Littleborough Show, November 28th:—Lancashires, Champion: J. Garner, 16 points; Novice: J. J. Brookes, 6 points. Lizards, Champion: J. Dewsnap, 26 points: J. Rukin, 19; J. Hampshire, 18; and W. P. Barnes, 14: Lizards, Novice: J. Dickinson, 10 points.—J. RUKIN, Hon. Sec.

ENGLISH AND WELSH B.F.C.C.

Annual general meeting held at Liverpool Show, Nov. 7th, Mr. J. S. Clinch (Liverpool) in the chair. The resignation of Mr. D. Jenkins (Swansea) was accepted. The question of the suspension of members was left over until the final decision of the C.B.U. International Contest, 1909: An application was read from the Swansea Society, asking to have the International Contest held there next year. It was decided to ask, through the Fancy Press, for applications for next year's contest. Applications must come from the southern division only. The applications are to be in the hands of the Secretary by the end of February, 1909. Two judges and 16 classes will be required, and it is expected that the Show Committee will treat these classes generously in the way of specials. The Manchester district asked to be transferred to the southern division next year, under the title of the Cheshire district. The members of this district are to be consulted before a final decision is come to. The "Ticked Question" was discussed, but on the Secretary pointing out that our classes mostly read clear or lightly ticked, the question was found not to affect us. The motion that we do not give our patronage to shows having the patronage of the B.F.C.C. was well gone into. Several members argued for and against the proposal. The Secretary pointed out that he always advised show committees to apply for the patronage of both Border Societies, as by this means the classes were better filled. Finally it was decided: "That at our patronage shows only judges resident in England or Wales shall be appointed." Uniform cages: A motion was brought forward to ask the B.F.C.C. to join us in adopting a uniform show cage. This was lost. The motion that plain canary seed only be used on bottoms of show cages was carried. This notice is to be put on specials' cards for next year. The Secretary reported that about £4 had been promised towards the season's specials, and hoped that all members who had not promised anything would do so at once, so that the finances of the Society could be put straight this year. Votes of thanks to the Chairman and Secretary closed a most interesting meeting.—S. HADWIN, Secretary.

THE NEW BEEF TEA.

In Fluid Ju-Vis (the New Beef Tea), you get about double value for money as compared with the usual Fluid Beef Extracts. Fluid Ju-Vis is equally nutritious, being prepared solely from Beef, with valuable vegetable additions. It makes delicious rich gravies, or a Cup of Strong Beef Tea for a penny. Try it. — 6½d. bottles of all grocers.

THE SHOW SEASON IS PASSING QUICKLY.

Do not let your chance slip by

If you want to secure a life-like picture of your exhibition birds.

For the present show season we have made such arrangements as will enable any exhibitor in the country to have his birds portrayed either upon the front cover or in the inner pages of CAGE BIRDS. Mr. H. Norman, the premier artist of the Fancy, intends visiting a number of large provincial cage-bird shows, where his services will be freely available (by arrangement with us) for the purpose of sketching prize winners of every variety. A list of such shows, with the dates, is herewith appended.

How to Give Your Instructions.

Orders for the sketching of exhibits should be placed at once with our Manager, at 154, Fleet Street, London, E.C., who will be very pleased to communicate terms, etc. The original drawing will be given to you after it has been reproduced. Exhibitors can place their orders for sketching birds conditionally upon their winning a prize. Should they be unsuccessful, the order will be treated as not having been given.

REMEMBER: The Show this week is Gateshead, Dec. 11 and 12.

Write us at once to sketch your winners there; or, after you know you have won, write or wire Mr. Norman, c/o the show, or interview him in the show hall.

In addition to the shows given underneath, our artist will be attending all London fixtures appearing in our Show Dates Fixed column, including, of course, the Great National Crystal Palace Show, which we hope to illustrate on just as extensive a scale this year as we have in the past, and, if possible, more fully than ever before.

Here is the list of shows referred to above:—
December 11 and 12.—Gateshead.
December 31st.—Edinboro' (Scottish National).

THE YOUNG NATURALIST.

Prizes of 1s. and two of 6d. each will be given each week for the best three anecdotes about birds written on postcards. Competitors must be children under sixteen years of age, and must state from where stories are taken.

Two stars indicate the Winning Contribution; one star the runners up.

Going Halves.

On one occasion when visiting the Zoological Gardens I observed a little incident which may be worth mentioning. A large white Cockatoo, and much smaller Green Parrot inhabited the same cage. When I gave them a nut, the Parrot took it, but instead of endeavouring to crack it, immediately handed it over to the Cockatoo, whose more powerful mandibles at once mastered it, and the contents were fairly divided between the two.—Sent by Elliott Lilley (age 11), 84, Station Road, Gorsty Hill, near, Halesowen.

*The Pretty Starling.

The Starling is a very pretty and interesting bird. With great patience he may be taught to talk and whistle tunes quite correctly, if you get a young bird out of the nest and rear it. Last spring I found a nest of four young ones in an old building, so I took one home with me; I think it was about a fortnight old. It turned out to be a cock bird and a very nice one, too. It used to fly about the house, perch on our heads, and follow us about. It used to delight in having a bath in a basin of water, which was given every morning.—Sent by J. Shepherd (age 14), 11, Buckley Brook Street, Rochdale.

*A Cheerful Canary.

I have a pretty little bird;
Its colour is like lemon curd.
It has a pretty little cage,
And it is just two years of age.
I go each morning to feed it,
And this seems the time it needs it.
Every week when it gets its bath,
It flaps its wings and seems to laugh.
This little bird so very cheery

BRADFORD EAST O.S.

A judging competition was held on Nov. 17th, there being ten competitors. They tried to place the birds in the same position as Mr. W. A. Cowgill had done. The result ended in a tie for first place between Mr. J. Northrop and Mr. J. Farrar, who divided the first and second prizes between them, the third prize being won by Mr. G. R. Rushworth. In the Gift Class, which contained eight birds, the awards were as follows: 1st, Stables; 2nd, Wilkinson Bros.; 3rd, Warner; 4th, Stobart; vhc, Walker; hc, Rushworth; c, Gelder. All the birds in the Gift Class were put up for sale by Mr. J. Northrop, and realised a nice round sum for the Rose Bowl, which will be competed for at the annual show on January 30th. A pair class was also arranged, and thirteen pairs of Yorkshires were staged, the awards being as follows: 1st, Briggs; 2nd, White; 3rd, Farrar; 4th, Laycock; vhc, Greenwood; hc, Stables; c, Hill. This was a splendid class, some good pairs being exhibited. The two special prizes were won by Messrs. Briggs and White. There was a splendid turn-up of members and friends, the room being well filled.—H. HILL, Hon. Sec.

UNDER THE WHITE ROSE.

THE whist drive and dance, promoted by the C.M.Y.C.C. in aid of their prize fund, was fairly successful, that is, in regard to numbers. The affair itself was splendid, and passed off without a hitch, all those present enjoying themselves immensely. By eight o'clock the whist drive started and kept merrily on until close upon 11 o'clock, twenty-four games being played during that time. The "booby" prize winner was presented with a rolling pin and a pair of socks. The winning lady made a nice, neat speech, wishing success to the club. The winning gent was Mr. H. H. Towers. After distribution of the prizes, the evening was given over to dancing, and the management are to be congratulated upon their success. Fanciers present, however, missed the genial face of the secretary of the club, whose business has taken him away from home for some considerable time, his place being temporarily filled by Mr. H. H. Towers.

MANNINGHAM and Harrogate Societies each held their open shows on Saturday last, December 5th, and each had provided the same number of classes, viz., twenty-six, the first-named receiving 373 entries and the latter 404. At Manningham the novice section filled very well, and some real good birds were to be seen. The services of Mr. T. Tetley were secured to assist Mr. R. Carr in the placing of the cards. At Harrogate, Mr. J. C. Barnes was engaged as judge, and had as his assistant Mr. W. A. Cowgill, the former taking all open classes, and the latter novice and selling. All birds were homeward bound in good time, and ought to have reached home easily on Saturday night.

ON December 1st, Mr. J. Hartley gave a splendid washing exhibition before the members and friends of the Bradford East O.S., and to say that he staggered the novices would be putting it mildly. James put four birds through in the short space of fourteen minutes, and delighted the audience with his free and easy style of handling them during the process. He used three bowls of water, one for washing, and two for rinsing purposes, and white Windsor soap. After washing he dried them with cotton cloths, then rolled them up and laid them before the fire for about twenty minutes. Then they were put in a cage with perches cleaned and paper in cage bottom, and were not long before they looked as spruce as possible, ready to be put down on the show bench. Mr. W. Laycock proposed and Mr. G. R. Rushworth seconded a hearty vote of thanks to Mr. Hartley for his services.

BETWEEN now and the end of December a lot of societies will be holding members' shows, and in most cases will close their competitions for the year's prizes. By what I hear, cup shows are not to be in it for interest. The Gt. Horton Good Intent hold their closing show to-day (Saturday), and have Mr. H. Sutcliffe (the junior partner in the firm of Sutcliffe and Son), as judge, and he is expected to have a stiff task. Bradford East have Mr. J. Bailey to judge their last show of the season on December 15th, and hope to have a large entry. The Wakefield Society has had some splendid members' shows this year, and the enthusiasm has gone up by leaps and bounds. Their year's competitions close for the various cups and medals on December 26th, at which show Mr. W. A. Cowgill will officiate, and as no less than six competitors are well in the running for first place, a bumping entry is expected.

THE debate at the Bradford City O.S. headquarters, which was opened by Mr. Chittenden on Saturday evening last on the subject of shortening the time taken up by the shows held under the Yorkshire Union, was not so well attended, considering the seriousness of the subject. Mr. Chittenden laid the scheme before those assembled and invited criticism. The scheme is briefly this: that two societies hold shows on the same day, but the classification is such that no class is provided for at both shows held on any date, but so arranged that one show, say, provides clear yellows, ticked buffs, uneven marked yellows, buffs hens, etc., then the other will provide clear buffs, ticked yellows, uneven marked buffs, yellow hens; and so on throughout the classification. The discussion was of a very interesting character, and could have gone on for an indefinite period, but the president, Mr. Fortman, had to closure it on account of time. It is hoped that another chance will come for thrashing out the subject.

"STRAIGHT 'UN."

Increase of Goldfinches.

These beautiful birds, which were once so near extinction in this country, are increasing rapidly in certain districts. No doubt the Wild Birds' Protection Act is the chief cause. In the West of England one hears of them everywhere, and if only they are allowed to nest in security, they will soon become as common as other Finches. When they are at liberty we have no more beautiful birds than the Goldfinches, and to see a flock of them among the thistle heads upon a bright day in September is a sight to be remembered; it fixes the attention of anyone fond of wild life, and of beautiful birds in a state of freedom.

WILD BIRD LIFE.

December Notes—Bird Tracks.

All the leaves have fallen now and we have quite a thick carpet of them in the woods and along the footpaths bordered by hedgerows. Although winter is with us we have had very little real wintry weather, so food for the wild birds is still fairly plentiful, and many of the tuneful ones have time to spare, to cheer us with snatches of song, as they perch in groups upon the higher branches of the elms. The Thrushes and Starlings are the chief performers, but we have a few occasional notes from some precocious Blackbird. The music is very different to that of the spring. It consists of a series of chattering, twittering notes with very little attempt at solo performance—so unlike the wild, passionate melody of the early Summer months, when the spirit of rivalry swells the throat of each feathered champion. When one considers that we are now in the month of December, it is most delightful to hear bird music of any kind. Where one lives in a spot which one might rightly call a bird tract or bird highway, it is most interesting to watch the flocks of various sizes flying over in the early morning to the feeding grounds and back again at dusk. The morning flocks pass over in quite a short space of time, following each other in quick succession, almost as one company, commencing before it is actually daylight. But in the evening it is different; the first group will pass quite early in the afternoon and continue at irregular intervals until almost dark, a few belated Rooks generally bringing up the rear. These bird tracts are quite common; more so than one would imagine. If birds fly from one wood to another across open country, it is generally in one direction regardless of the wind. They gather in woods, cross the highways to the corners of the orchard, and from thence down the hedgerow. Not only do small birds travel along these recognised tracts, but Pigeons, Rooks, Fieldfares, etc., can be noted to do exactly the same day after day, while wildfowl are as regular as clockwork, and the observant sportsman can tell to a few yards where the ducks will pass at flighting time.

One for the Gull.

It is said that the Blackheaded Gull is one of the most beneficial of birds to agriculture, as where these congregate and feed on the land, roots and crops are sure to be benefited, and are never an entire failure through the ravages of insects.

Differences in Hawks.

As a rule in a pair of Hawks, the female is considerably larger than the male, which is contrary to the usual form of birds. This difference is no doubt a provision of nature to supply the young with food, as the larger and stronger bird would do most of the foraging.

The Robin's Local Names.

Most of our common birds have local names quite different to the accepted one, and of all names none appear to fit the Robin better than that of "redbreast." Another local name is "ruddock." The former name, although so appropriate, is, after all, only a common name for our familiar Robin.

The Depredatory Cuckoo.

Some careful calculations have recently been made, said Mr. W. Bickerton, F.Z.S., in a lecture before the Royal Photographic Society with regard to the nest-stealing propensities of the Cuckoo. The nest this bird most favours is that of the Hedge Sparrow. Out of some three hundred nests in which a Cuckoo's egg was found, 74 belonged to the Hedge Sparrow, 65 to the Robin, 62 to the Reed Warbler, 49 to the Meadow Pipit, and 47 to the Garden Warbler.

Tree Sparrows in Winter.

Our Sparrow population is increased by the migration from the Continent of his congener the Tree Sparrow. These journey across the sea from the northern parts of Europe, and during hard winters small flocks of them may be seen in the South East counties, consorting with the House Sparrows frequenting the farms and outbuildings. They are distinguishable by a smarter, more alert appearance, a chestnut coloured head, and triangular patch on the cheeks. During some seasons a few stay and breed here. Although a certain number are no doubt resident, the fact of a small colony establishing themselves for a single season in a district where before they were only known as winter visitors, is proof of this assertion.

we are now engaged in the preparation of the next volume.

Every advertiser in this Standard work of reference reaps a rich reward. Year after year the same breeders and traders are represented in its pages proving its unparalleled value for advertising purposes.

CAGE BIRDS ANNUAL

gives you a whole year's publicity at the smallest possible cost. This will make the seventh year of issue and every year's production is pronounced to be a long way ahead of its predecessors.

Every prominent breeder and exhibitor should make certain of seeing his name and address in this Annual. How often do you as a breeder want to know another breeder's address and without the Annual what a trouble it is to find it! The list of fanciers annually advertising themselves in this valuable handbook is no small index to its usefulness. If hitherto your advertisement has not appeared in it, make up your mind at once to place an order right away in it.

The breeding season for 1909 promises to be an exceptionally successful one. Special efforts will be made to extend the sale of the Annual amongst novices and contemplating purchasers.

Here is the full advertisement tariff for "CAGE BIRDS ANNUAL" 1909.

DEPOSIT SYSTEM.

We are not responsible for the statements made in advertisements, nor for the bona-fides of either buyers or sellers. In all transactions the adoption of our Deposit System should be insisted upon.

IMPORTANT.

SEND THE FULL COMMISSION.—If the full commission does not accompany the deposit, the vendor will not be notified of its receipt until the amount deficient, plus the extra postage incurred, has been paid to us.

HOW TO REMIT.—Under no circumstances will Cheques or Post-dated Money Orders be accepted as deposits. Uncrossed Postal Orders must be sent and the numbers taken for safety.

RULES.

1.—PROCEDURE.—The intending purchaser should send to this office the amount of the purchase (our deposit fee included), and at the same time he should communicate with the seller, stating what it is he requires sent on approval. We acknowledge receipt of the deposit to both parties. In all cases the depositor should give his name and address, and also that of the vendor, and must write same clearly and distinctly.

2.—END OF TRANSACTION.—The deposit is retained by us until we hear from both parties that the transaction has been completed. If a sale has been effected, we hand the amount deposited to the seller. If a sale has not been effected, we return the amount to the depositor. The transaction must be conducted by the parties themselves. We merely hold the deposit.

3.—AMOUNT OF COMMISSION.—The fee is 6d. for each £1, or fraction of £1, and it must be sent at same time as the deposit.

4.—IMPORTANT POINTS.—The depositor must decide within forty-eight hours of the receipt of the goods whether he will keep or return the same, unless, that is, some other period of approval (of which we must be advised) is agreed upon by both parties. The depositor must at the same time notify us of the fact that he has returned the goods. If the goods are not returned within the said forty-eight hours, we reserve the right to send the deposit to the seller after the expiration of that period. And should the seller fail within three days to notify us of the receipt of his goods back again, the transaction will be treated as ended, and the deposit be returned to the depositor.

5.—A SATISFACTORY PURCHASE.—When a transaction has been completed to the satisfaction of both depositor and seller, both parties must at once return the deposit receipts as a guarantee of its completion. The depositor must at the same time instruct us to pay over the deposit to the seller.

6.—GOODS ALREADY SOLD.—If the goods are sold before our deposit note reaches the seller, or, if for any other reason he declines to do business, he must at once return the deposit note to us. Failing its receipt, we reserve the right to return the deposit to the sender after the expiration of three days.

7.—FRESH TRANSACTION.—In case no sale be effected, a deposit is available for purposes of a fresh transaction, provided another deposit fee be paid.

8.—GOODS IN TRANSIT.—Goods in transit are at the seller's risk, and any damage or loss sustained on the journey must be borne by the seller. But goods not approved of must be properly packed and returned by the same means as were used in sending the same.

9.—PAYMENT OF CARRIAGE.—The payment of carriage must be a matter for arrangement between the vendor and depositor. We do not undertake to settle disputes affecting questions of carriage. But in the absence of other arrangements the purchaser is liable for the carriage of the goods, and if the goods are sent on approval and returned, each party pays the carriage one way.

UNDISPLAYED.—Three Words a Penny up to eighteen words. One Halfpenny per Word for each word over eighteen. MINIMUM, 12 words, 4d.

IMPORTANT NOTE.—Two or more Advertisements coming from the same advertiser, even if sent in different names, are reckoned together, and, after the first eighteen words, are charged at two words a penny, but no single advertisement, even if accompanied by others, will be charged at less than the minimum price, viz., Fourpence.

Headlines or Footlines 6d., 9d., 1/-, 1/6 according to size.

Postal Orders must be sent as far as possible. All moneys should be made payable to F. CARL.

The Proprietor reserves the right to refuse any advertisement, or to cancel any advertisement ordered for a series, at any time, without assigning any reason for so doing.

Advertisements close Tuesdays first post in each week, and should be sent to the Advertisement Manager, CAGE BIRDS, 154, Fleet Street, London. Terms for Display Advertisements on application.

Telford." "Burry Port, December 1st.—Sir,—Bird arrived in pink of condition. Thanks for honest dealings.—Yours, H. Williams." "Percy Main, December 3rd.—Sir,—Birds give every satisfaction. Thanks for promptness.—Yours, T. Couchman." "Nellfield-place, Head of Muir, Denny, November 30th.—Sir—7 Goldfinches arrived safely in fine perfect condition, and I am highly satisfied with them, and consider you ought to be encouraged, as I am certain I could not get better value for the money no where else. I took four 1sts, four specials, one 2nd, two 3rds, two 4ths, and two 5th prizes on Saturday at our show.—Yours, H. Parker." "Toronto Cottage, Medstead Station, December 5th.—Sir,—I received to-day another bird in place of the one which died. How very good of you to give me so pleasant a surprise. I am indeed very much obliged to you; it is most unexpected and generous. They are lovely birds; the first one is quite well, and glad to-day of a companion again.—Yours, Sophie Whale." "The Square, Carshalton, December 8th.—Sir,—Snow Buntings duly arrived, and I am very pleased with they; they are beauties for the money.—Yours, A. Pearman." "19, Sarah-street, Keighley, December 9th.—Sir,—Many thanks for hen Bullfinch received safe to-day, and am pleased to say I am highly satisfied with it.—Yours, T. Tyson." "Stanley, nr. Crook, December 9th.—Sir,—Goldfinches and Linnet arrived safe; well satisfied, all sung same night.—Yours, R. Campbell." "Fell Brow, Kendal, December 9th.—Sir,—Received Linnets and Goldfinch, and am very well pleased with them. I bought a dozen off another dealer, and had 10 hens and three cocks.—Yours, J. Gibson." "2, Churchill-place, Broughty Ferry, December 9th.—Sir,—Finch arrived safe; should moult out very well. Many thanks for prompt attention.—Yours, Rbt. Whitton." "Broxburn, Dec. 11th.—Sir,—Bird arrived safe, and in pink of condition; I am well pleased to have instructed Editor to pay you deposit. Yours, W. McLaren." "12, Bembling Old Row, near Armfield Plain. Dec. 11th.—Sir,—Send 6 more Linnets; the last Linnets are extra good, singing splendidly, in fact an old 40 years' fancier saw them, and said nobody could wish for better birds.—Yours, R. McKenna." "8, Arnside Road, St. Leonard's-on-Sea, Dec. 14th. —Sir,—Birds duly to hand; many thanks for sending as requested. The birds are splendid specimens of their kind for the money, and I certainly know who to deal with for value, also doing things as requested, which I find some dealers absolutely refuse to do.—Yours, T. Walters." Call and see me, and I will show you packs full of similar letters to above; all in their Government stamped envelopes. They show you who is the man to patronise, do they not? See Appliance, also Roller Canary column, for further advertisements.

RO HL'S CHAMPION ROLLERS
have again shown their high quality during the present show season. Birds bred from this famous strain were awarded at the late Horticultural Hall Show 1st, 2nd, 3rd, and 4th prizes; also 1st prize in the champion class. I am now offering a few first-class birds of this particular strain from £2 10/- upwards, according to tours. A grand lot of Hartz Mountain Rollers, in sweet, beautiful song, sing at any time, from 8/6 to 20/- each. Every bird is thoroughly tested before leaving my premises, and satisfaction is guaranteed. Song cages, registered, as adopted by the B.R.C.C., 4/- each. Sole agent for Queck's celebrated tutor organs for Roller Canaries. Catalogues free on application.—400, Edgware-rd., W.

CARRIAGE PAID.
I send all my Rollers carriage paid, and on seven days' approval at my risk, and guarantee every customer satisfaction. I have undoubtedly the best quality birds you have every heard sing. Note the following prices for genuine songsters (not cross-bred dummies):—Genuine trained St. Andreasberg Rollers, cocks in full song by day and artificial light, with long hollow rolls, water-bubble runs, harp, bell, gong notes, etc., 7/6, 8/6, 10/-, 12/6 each; a few extra good contest birds, pure Seifert song, 15/-, 17/6, 20/- each; hens same strain, 2/6, 3/6, 4/6 each. If you require a noisy bird I can supply you at the right price; my Hartz Rollers are the marvels of cheapness, cocks in full, loud, free song by day and gaslight, with good changes of song—real, live musical boxes—5/3, 5/9 each; a few extra good, picked birds, 6/3, 6/9 each; matched pairs for breeding songsters, 7/6, 8/6, 9/6, pair; neat travelling cages for journey, 3d. each extra. See page 469 for unsolicited testimonials, originals of which, with thousands of others, are open for inspection. There is no humbug or bluff here; every bird sent carriage paid on seven days' approval at my risk.—Miss E. L. Storey, Practical Bird Specialist, Crowle, Doncaster.

SEIFERT ROLLERS
The Best Value
in Great Britain to-day.

Note prices to suit all pockets and all requirements. Full week's approval, cash or deposit with editor, I don't mind in the least, which, as they cannot be touched according to price elsewhere. Direct importations for prompt cash and a thorough knowledge of the Birds and Foreign Markets alone makes my value possible.

These extra specials are 15/-, 20/-, 30/- and 40/- each. Also note the following for pure German Birds, and not the common Belgians now being sold as such. I give you for 7/6 and 8/6 better quality than is often offered with senseless names at double the price and more.

Trained Cocks, 7/6, 8/6, 9/6, 12/6, Hens, same strain, 3/6, 4/6, 5/6 and 7/6 each. Pairs, 10/6, 15/-. Hartz Cocks, Singing, 4/6, 5/-, 5/6 each. Selected, with better notes, 6/6. Hens, 1/6, 2/6 each. Pairs, 5/9, 6/6, 8/6. Matched for Breeding good songsters.

W. RUDD, THE Bird Specialist, NORWICH.

JAMES LYON'S ROLLERS.
A few of the prizes my birds have won in keenest open competitions, 1st cup British Roller Canary Club, champion competition, 1st, cup, 3rd, 4th, Leeds, 2nd, 3rd, Crystal Palace, 2nd, extra 2nd, 3rd, 5th British Roller Canary Club show; 2nd Bolton, and many other prizes at leading shows young birds from above for sale, prices, cocks from 15/-; hens from 5/-.—237a, Whalley Old-rd., Blackburn.

Schulze's 'Champion' Strain
Hartz Mountain cock Canaries, trained under Nightingales, Woodlarks, Titlarks, etc., have long, purring rolls, sweet, silvery trills, deep, waterbubble runs, double harp, gong, flute, and bell changes, including the celebrated jug jug note, which is only to be heard in this strain. They are acknowledged by competent judges to be the best procurable. Twenty-seventh year of importation, and still the demand increases. Only 10/-, 12/6, and 15/- each; premier Bandmasters, 21/-. Each bird is fully guaranteed. We allow three days' approval on receipt of postal order or cheque. There is no need to use the deposit system with us; straightforward dealing and honourable treatment to all, whether prince or peasant. Satisfaction or money back immediately. Our stores are always open for inspection, and are admitted by hygienic authorities as near perfection as it is possible to be. Patronised personally by various Royalty.—Augustus Zache and Co., Bird Importers, 218, Great Portland-st., London, W.

XMAS AND NEW YEAR'S PRESENTS.
SANDIFORD'S

Patronised by Judges Bexson, Battye, Payne, Vardy, Roe, Irons, Barnes; all Crystal Palace judges. No swindling here. Just read these testimonials. All come over 200 and 300 miles away, and £20 given anyone if not real. Can be seen any time. "Mr. Patterson, Cork, Ireland.—Sir,—Glad to tell you Roller you sent me won the All-Ireland Roller singing contest here." "Mr. W. Burl, London, October 25th, 1908.—Sir,—Hartz cock arrived safe and started singing directly unpacked and sang ever since." "Mr. Bagot, Glenny, Duhlin.—Sir,—I am well pleased with Roller. He has sang continually ever since he came, day and night." "Mr. J. Campbell, Dublin.—Thanks for promptitude in sending Roller and cage within a couple of days from sending you the order. The bird was in Dublin singing for all he was worth." "Mr. D. McCorquadall, Greenock, Scotland.—Received Roller and cage all safe. He was singing half an hour after he arrived, and best singer I ever had. Cage is a suitable one, and cheap." "Mr. Knight, Kilmarnock, October, 1908.—Hartz cock arrived all right, and a beautiful bird, and a champion singer. I got a Goldfinch from you which lived 11 years. These are only a few I have picked from long distances; have thousands others. I guarantee to give you every satisfaction; so order at once.

If you want some Testimonials, send to me, and I will send you some just as received this week,

HAVE YOU NOTICED

in my advertisements of the Leipzig Rollers I do not merely say they are as good as can be obtained elsewhere, but I distinctly say they are better? And to prove this to your own satisfaction I ask you to have one from me and one from elsewhere at any higher price. Test them side by side for a week, and keep the one which suits you best. I shall be perfectly satisfied with the result. I claim to be the largest retailer of Rollers in the Kingdom, and at the present moment have over one thousand Roller cocks in stock, all in full song day and gaslight, with long bollow and double rolls, sweet silvery trills, waterbubble runs, soft roulades, hollow bell rolls, harp, gong, and flute notes, and jug-jug of Nightingale, etc., and are warranted entirely free from any Titlark or other harsh notes; price 6/6 and 7/6 each. Special Bandmasters, which excel in the deep bass rolls and hollow bell rolls, and are a cascade of ever-flowing melody, 10/- and 12/6 each. I also have a limited number of pure Seifert contest musters. These are gems of the purest water, and guaranteed fit to win contests; price 15/-, 17/6, and 21/- each. Ordinary loud, free-singing Hartz cocks, in full, vigorous song, 4/6 each, seven 28/-. Hartz hens, 2/6 couple. These Hartz cocks are exactly the same as advertised by unscrupulous dealers as Hartz Mountain Rollers at fancy prices. All Rollers sold by me are imported direct from Leipzig, and all stamped on wing "Hans Welter Leipzig." I am the only dealer who imports this strain, and no other dealer can get one of these birds unless he purchases from me. The following few letters, which are guaranteed genuine and unsolicited, say more for my Rollers than I could ever say myself:—"28, Cottonst., Westleigh, Leigh, December 2nd.—Sir,—Bandmaster arrived in pink of condition. He was singing ten minutes after unpacking, and gives every satisfaction. I am sure no better bird could be purchased for the money (12/6).—Yours, G. Ellison." "Heap Wellington, Salop, December 4th.—Sir,—Received two Canaries, and am very highly pleased with them, and must thank you for straight forward dealing.—Yours, J. Williams." "2, Lutonst., Blaenllechan, December 4th,—Sir,—Roller arrived safe, and was singing on the table when postcard came. I am quite satisfied, and shall want more.—Yours, J. Shirley." "71, Castle-st., Sanguhar, December 8th.—Sir,—Pair Rollers arrived safe. I am perfectly satisfied with them.—Yours, W. Broadfoot." "Hill-st., Elworth, near Sandbach, December 7th.—Sir,—Please send following. I hope the Roller will be as good as the one I had from you about four years ago, as he is still singing as well as ever.—Yurs, W. Lee." "57, High-st., Glyn-Neath, December 9.—Sir,—Received Hartz cock safe, and am highly pleased with it; in fact, he is a gem, and started singing as soon as unpacked. Please send another.—Yours, D. Thomas." "15, Hill Row, Pentwyn, Foehriw, December 10th.—Sir,—Roller safely to hand on Wednesday. It started singing splendidly, and at time of writing is in splendid form. You may pick up your money, as I am perfectly satisfied, and shall shortly send for another Bandmaster.—Yours, W. Gwynne." "18, Montague-st., London, December 11th.—Sir,—Bandmaster you sent is most satisfactory. The lady is very pleased with it, as besides being a good singer it is a strong and healthy bird.—Yours (Miss) H. Misley." "270, Victoria Buildings, Hillstown, Bolsover, December 11th.—Sir,—Received special Bandmaster, and am very pleased with him.—Yours, J. King." "Mount-st., Mullingar, Ireland, December 11th.—Sir,—Received Leipzig Roller, and am proud to say he is a living musical box. It's a pleasure to come into contact with such an honourable man, who does not mislead fanciers concerning birds he has for disposal.—Yours, J. Fluggard." "London-rd., Alderley Edge, November 30th.—Sir,—I thank you for the marvel you have sent me (Bandmaster at 10/-), for he is a marvel. I never heard one like him. On coming home my wife said, 'You are hard to please, but I think you will be satisfied this time.' He excels all I have heard, and will recommend you for more. Please send me another. Yours, G. Birkin." On December 11th Mr. Birkin again writes: "Sir,—Second Roller arrived safe on Friday, and gives satisfaction in every way. He has just the song I wanted, and I thank you very much for sending such a good bird. I shall get you more orders, as I am sure your birds are far better than any others I have heard.—Yours, G. Birkin." "27, Cambrian-place, Carmarthen, December 14th.—Sir,—I have instructed editor to hand over deposit for Roller. I am well pleased with bird. Thanking you for such a nice songster.—Yours, W. Evans." "Blaengarn.—Sir,—Roller has given every satisfaction; he is singing very nicely, and is free from any objectionable notes. Thanks for promptness.—Yours, E. Jones." "34, Castle-st., Stranraer, December 14th.—Sir,—Received Roller safe, and am highly pleased with him. He is a tip-topper, and sang immediately it was opened. Please send Hartz cock by return. P.O. enclosed.—Yours, J. Raeside." It's plain proof that my Rollers must be better than others, otherwise I should not receive so many testimonials every day; but you can easily prove it to your own satisfaction, as I send all on full week's trial, entirely at my own risk, either on receipt of cash or CAGE BIRDS deposit system, and unless bird proves fully satisfactory every penny of your money is refunded. All are safely and warmly packed, with seed and water, in special travelling cages, free of extra cost, and sent out same day as order is received, so intending purchasers of Rollers for Christmas and New Year gifts may rely upon getting their birds to time if ordered from me. Postcards sent before birds in all cases. See British Birds and Appliance columns for further adults.

THE IRISH NON-SUCH.

Ogden Bros. is the firm that has bred and sold Fleming all his stock birds, that have bred all his noted winners, including ticked Yellow cock, special for best Yorkshire in show at Belfast, also Yellow hen, special for best in show Dublin, over all the cocks; acknowledged by Yorkshire judges to be a real stormer, having refused 10 guineas for her. This is the first time we have advertised a testimonial, although we hold scores of similar testimonials; winners bred from our pairs. We do not believe in showing our customers up to the world who they are buying off, and would not have done now if the owner had not pressed us to do so. We have a few pairs to dispose of, exactly the same way bred; certain to breed winners. Those who want to breed their own winners send to the rellable strain that produces winners every year. Our pairs are not matched haphazard, just cock and hen, but thoroughly studied and paired to produce the best living; stamped address for particulars.—Dudley-hill, Bradford.

AMBLER'S CHAMPION YORKSHIRES

are again bang at the top, winning at Morecamhe five 1sts, four 2nds, three 3rds, two challenge cups, special for best Yorkshire, special for second best Yorkshire, and special for best bird throughout show, again at Preston, winning five 1sts, two 2nds, 3rd, and vhe with nine entries, proving, without a doubt, our strain to be the best in the fancy. We have for sale a few real clinkers that can win in the keenest competition, also few for small shows. In stock birds we have the finest lot ever seen in a bird-room; plenty of length, full of style, showing nice hit of shoulder; just the sort to breed champions; a sound investment for fanciers wishi g to be successful. For over 20 years we have bred and sold some of the biggest champions that have been on the show hench. Approval; stamp particulars.—Messrs. Amblers, late of Bradford, 138, Westminster-rd., Morecambe.

Having had a successful season and having won nearly 200 cash prizes in keenest competition, I have all my stock, except own breeders to dispose of, including most of my winners; and those requiring high-class stock at lowest possible prices will do well to pay me a visit during the Christmas Holidays. I have the best collection of high-class birds in Bradford, which can be proved by inspecting my stock and comparing them with other advertisers.

Just one testimonial out of scores similar received this last few days: From Market Street, Woodstock. Dec. 14, 1908.—Pair of Yorkshires arrived safely, and I am well satisfied with them, and think them fine birds for the money. I shall always send to you in future, and also recommend you to others.—C. Buckingham to L. Dykes. And for further proof see report of Stamford and Tamworth Shows, etc. Please Note:—All birds sent out by me are cold room bred and kept, and all guaranteed healthy and tight feathered, and possessing that bit of breed so much admired on the show bench; and every bird sent out clean and in the best of condition; no sickly or wheezing rubbish here. Champion stylish Yorkshire cocks at 5/6, 6/6, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6, 15/- each. Grand typical racy hens at 4/-, 5/-, 6/6, 8/6, 10/6 each. Finest Talking Parrots. I only deal in Parrots that will make first-class talkers; no rubbish. I am willing at all time to send my Parrots on four week's trial and three months' talking guarantee. Why? Because all my Parrots are young, strong, and reliable. My lifetime has been spent among Grey Parrots, both at home and abroad. I guarantee every customer every satisfaction. Grey Parrots are my special fancy. I have trained them, know their wants, and can give every purchaser a bird that will please him in every way. I can supply grey talkers, not thinkers, that will say almost anything, at reasonable prices. Before you purchase a grey or green Parrot, send for my Booklet, entitled "Talking Parrots." All my birds are sent on four weeks' trial, at my risk. Send postcard for catalogue.—Mrs Forster, Princes Park Aviaries, Violet Street, Liverpool.

PARROT PROBLEM

solved. For full proofs send postcard at once for my large book, "Parrot Prattle," now containing 168 pages. This is the most wonderful book ever offered free of all charge to all Parrot fanciers. (This "Parrot Prattle" is registered copyright, and all infringers and imitators will be proceeded against). It contains hundreds of testimonials from all parts with full names and addresses, many interesting facts, and gives valuable advice and hints to all Parrot buyers. Full details of our original system of selling Parrots on four week's trial, at our risk, which we were the first to introduce. We sell Parrots of all descriptions on four weeks' trial, at our risk, before settlement. Cheapest and best in the Kingdom, and any Parrot sold by us, and not giving full satisfaction, will be exchanged any time within twelve months. Remember we lead and others try to follow. Write to other dealers as well as us, and judge for yourselves. Lists of Parrots for sale and above book post free on receipt of postcard

CLUB REPORTS.

EDINBURGH N.C. AND M.B.S.

Annual meeting held at Rooms, 142, High Street. The following officers were elected:—Hon. vice-president, Mr. L. J. Arrighi; president, Mr. R. Craig; vice-president, Mr. W. Anderson; secretary and treasurer, Mr. W. Holton, 30, Blackwood Crescent, Edinburgh; committee, Messrs. R. Martin, S. Buglass, and A. Watson.—W. HOLTON, Hon. Sec.

HYDE AND DISTICT C.B.S.

A sucessful meeting was held December 11th, at the St. George's Schools. We made four new members. We had a very nice table show of British birds. Mr. T. Cambridge came out winner with a splendid Goldie, Mr. R. Hargreaves being 2nd and 3rd with a Field Bunting and a Linnet respectively. Our next meeting will be held at St. George's Schools on January 8th at 8, when we bope to have even a better attendance.—H. BARRACLOUGH, Sec.

CARLISLE C.B.S.

Open meeting held December 3rd, before a good number of members and local fanciers in Viaduct Hotel. Mr. Brunskill, of Darlington, gave us an insight into the working of table shows, and showed how these helped a society during the close season, providing each could curb any jealous spirit that might arise in connection with same. He also advised having short addresses and washing exhibitions by the old fanciers. At the close it was proposed by Mr. McGuffie, seconded by Mr. Davidson, that the thanks of the meeting be given Mr. Brunskill.—W. H. WRIGHT, Hon. Sec.

FEDERATION OF CAGE BIRD SOCIETIES.

ASHTON-UNDER-LYNE CENTRE.

The final show at which competition took place for the above society's cup was held at Stockport on December 3rd and 4th. The team selected by the home society secured 40 points, Hazel Grove 36, Ashton 31, Oldham 28, bringing the total points to Stockport 143, Hazel Grove 143, Ashton 129, Oldham 128. There is therefore a tie for possession, and at the meeting held on December 3rd it was decided to call a general meeting to be held at Ashton on January 9th, when this subject will be dealt with, and also the classification.—A. ACKROYD, Sec.

LEYTON AND DISTRICT C.B.A.

About 70 members met at headquarters on December 7th for the distribution of the cups, prizes, and specials won at the annual show held November 14th. Mr. F. Williamson occupied the chair. The chairman called upon Mr. J. S. Clarke to distribute the prizes. Mr. Clarke said he was afraid the members would be saying they were having too much J. S. C. (cries of "No," and "We do not see enough of you"); but, all the same, he was always glad to be of any help in any shape or form to the association. In distributing the cups, etc., Mr. Clarke had a few appropriate and encouraging words for each one, especially the novices. Mr. Farmer won the champion cup, Mr. Marley the amateur, Mr. Ovenden the novice, Mr. S. Griffen the British bird, and Mr. South the Mule cups. After all the prizes, etc., had been presented, Mr. Clarke said it would be interesting if the cup winners and others would give the history of their winning birds, and proposed that Mr. Griffen start by telling us all about his lovely Starling. This he did, and several members followed, including Messrs. Cooper, Ovenden, Farmer, Carr, and B. F. Forse, and a most interesting, instructive, and enjoyable evening was spent.—J. A. BARTLETT.

LEITH JUBILEE O.S

Monthly meeting held Dec. 7th, Mr. McEachern presiding over a fairly good attendance. Mr. Petrie moved that the annual membership fee be raised from 6s. to 8s., and also that instead of having no meeting in New Year's week, as is usual, the society should meet on Monday, Jan. 4th, for the purpose of discussing more fully the said advance and enrolling new members. All old members are requested to attend and bring a new member with them.—JAS. SINCLAIR, Sec.

SHEFFIELD AND DISTRICT C.B.S.

Annual meeting took place recently, when there was a very good muster of members. The following officials were elected:—Mr. A. Bradshaw (president); Mr. T. Hemmings (vice-president); Mr. W. Oxley (treasurer); Messrs. Lindsay and Bingham, 202, King James Street (secretaries); Messrs. J. G. Cowley and J. Thorpe (auditors); with the following committee: Messrs. W. H. Spencer, J. Memmott, T. Tow, G. Binge, W. H. Champion, J. Crookes, P. Walsh, B. Thorpe, T. Bishop, J. T. Furness, J. Rodgers, and W. Booth. Several important alterations in the rules were made, the most important being in regard to the radius limit for membership; this was increased from 10 to 20 miles, this being done to bring in several important centres, including Worksop, Chesterfield, Staveley, and several other places. Another alteration was that at any members' show any member taking more than one prize in a class shall be allowed to take all prize money won by him. A suggestion was also placed before the meeting to make the members' shows more attractive and to draw in a larger number of members than before, which when carried into effect will make this society one of the most successful in the country. The secretaries will be pleased to forward a programme containing the rules of the society and all particulars re members' shows, etc., on receipt of postcard.—LINDSAY AND BINGHAM, Hon. Secs.

HIGHGATE AND DISTRICT C.B.S.

Meeting held at headquarters, Spencer Hall, Dartmouth Park Hill, N.W., Dec. 10th. Mr. G. Gardner, who took the chair, read a letter from our late secretary, Mr. W. Reynold, which brought forth loud applause. Names were again handed in for nomination for membership. The secretary said that it had come to his knowledge that a member had violated Rule 9 and had exhibited birds other than his own personal property, and therefore moved that the prize money and special won by him at annual show be held back until same had been investigated by the committee at a special meeting called for the purpose. This was carried, after which the many specials and prize monies won were distributed. The secretary expressed his regret that there were one or two unpleasant incidents during the show, such as the dropping of a number in catalogue and the late arrival of two exhibits from Mr. C. G. Martin. For the satisfaction of Mr. Martin and those present, he might say he had talked it over with those of the committee that were in the show before the departure of Mr. House, the judge, and it was decided to ask Mr. House to judge these two classes and give the extra prize in those classes that the birds were entitled to, which accounted for the extra highly commended card in class 65. He advised the earlier closing of date for receiving entries, as four days were not enough. The chairman proposed that this meeting tender its best thanks to, and heartily approves of the way in which the secretaries and committee had worked to make the show the success it was. Mr. C. J. Martin seconded, and the motion was given with musical honours.—G. H. NEAL, Hon. Sec.

WEST BROMWICH & DIST. C.B.S.

Washing competition held at headquarters, Dartmouth Hotel, West Bromwich, on December 8th. Mr. Geo. Key, chairman, acted as judge. Mr. Collier was the first competitor with a Yorkshire, and it only took him four minutes to go through the ordeal, of which it appeared that he had had some experience. Mr. Cooper was next with a Norwich, and he went through very satisfactorily, he also only taking four minutes. Mr. Key asked for the next for a wash, and there did not seem to be any response. We do not know whether they were shy, or whether they were afraid to perform in company, as there was a very good muster of fanciers and friends, some of whom are intending members. Mr. Key was asked if he would show us his style of washing. He then took one of Mr. Green's birds (of which he had brought several for the novices to practice on), and said: Take the bird in the left hand, then with the sponge or brush (whichever you prefer), quickly dress the bird down the way of the feathers with water a few times until he gets used to it. Then place the wing out over the hall of the thumb, when you can see that it gets properly washed. Turn the bird over, and do likewise underneath the wing, a place where some of the fanciers never think of washing. Then, with the bird in the same position, wash the tail; it being placed down your wrist, you can easily sponge it without any fear of damaging the feathers. Then you come, he said, to one of the most important parts of the bird where the dirt shows more prominently, and that is the neck. Be sure you do not hold the bird too tight, but tight enough to prevent it from getting out of your hands. A very particular point about this, as with others, was that one should be careful not to brush or sponge the bird any other way but the way of the feathers. Mr. Key said: Be sure you are well prepared with drying cloths; get them well aired and warm, and you will have no fear of the birds having the shivers. Put them into cold cloths. After the bird was put into the cloth, he was only 3½ minutes. Mr. Key then took the second bird, and so made a few more remarks. When you have gone through the process of the first bowl pass on to the second likewise, and go over the bird again to get all the soap out of the feathers, and then the third. Our chairman was only three minutes over this bird, and said the quicker you get them washed the quicker they get over it. Mr. Key persuaded some of the members present to try their hands at a wash. Mr. Beck took a bird of Mr. Green's which was very dirty. It took him 5½ minutes. Mr. Viles was next; it took four minutes for him to get through. Mr. Norris was somewhat awkward in the handling, as it was his first attempt, but he got through in 3½ minutes. While the last of the birds were getting dry we transacted a little business, and a hearty vote of thanks to Mr. Green, and another to Mr. Key, were then carried. Mr. Collier won a close race with Mr. Cooper, both taking four minutes, he only winning in the way of handling; both birds looked in pink of condition. Mr. Norris was placed third, and was commended upon its being his first attempt. Mr. Viles was 4th, and Mr. Beck 5th. Mr. Collier then kindly announced his intention of presenting the fancy cage, which he won on this occasion as a special to the member exhibiting the best Norwich hen in open competition at the next open show. The meeting broke up after a very interesting evening.—DUFFIELD AND JENNINGS, Hon. Secs.

NORTHERN CREST CLUB.

Annual show held on Dec. 11th and 12th, in conjunction with the Gateshead Society. There were some wonderful birds staged. The "King of Kings" won the Northern Crest Club cup and gold medal for best young Crest bred and exhibited by a member. "The Duchess" won the N.C.C. cup and gold medal for best young Crest-bred bred and exhibited by a member. I wish their respective owners, Messrs. Armstrong and Bewick, good luck with their champions. The following members were winners of medals, viz.:—Gold medal in Crest and Crest-bred section, Messrs. Dobson and Son with their "Stargate Stars"; silver medal, Messrs. T. Taylor, T. Almond, Armstrong, Dobson and Son, J. G. Hutchinson, W. Mole; and Mr. T. N. Heslop won Mr. Goulden's medal in Novice section with a very nice grey Crest. Points' specials winners: 1, Dobson and Son; 2, Robt. Armstrong; 3, J. G. Hutchinson; 4, R. S. Bewick.—J. G. HUTCHINSON, Hon. Sec.

LEWISHAM AND DISTRICT C.B.S.

A very successful smoking concert was held at headquarters, the Roebuck Hotel, Lewisham, on Dec. 1st. The arrangements were in the hands of Mr. E. S. Lugg (chairman). Mr. T. Kinnear, one of the society's vice-presidents, took the chair. The programme was contributed to by Miss Freeman and by Messrs. Wood, Terry, Butler, James Faux, Putner and Putner, Junr., who kept the audience well amused with their songs and recitations. Mr. Terry accompanied. During the interval the secretary gave a brief account of the society's progress and its present position, and the chairman then presented the special prizes to the lucky winners. Mr. Botting won 10s. given by Major Coates (president), 4s. presented by the society, 2 British show cages by Mr. Austin, breeding cage by Mr. Lugg, 2s. 6d. by Mr. Stead, and 2s. 6d. by Mr. Jordan. Messrs. Pilcher and Faux won 2s. 6d. given by the secretary, 4s. by the society, and 2 packets seed and 1st. Hartz Mountain bread given by Messrs. Hyde. Mr. Scott won the bound volume given by the Amalgamated Press, 4s. given by the society, Yorkshire show cage by Mr. Lugg, packet seed and 1st. H.M. bread by Messrs. Hyde. Mr. Jordan won 2s. 6d. given by Mr. Phillips, 4s. by the society, 5s. by Mr. White, special by W. T. Kinnear, Esq., penknife by Messrs. Pearson. Mr. White won 4s. given by the society and 2s. 6d. by Mr. Bellinger, packet H.M. bread by Messrs. Hyde. Mr. Fisher won half peck canary seed given by Mr. C. Sier. Mr. Lugg won 3lb. dog and 3lb. puppy cakes given by Messrs. Hyde. Mr. Phillips won penknife given by Messrs. Pearson. A vote of thanks to the chairman concluded the evening.—H. THOS. LUCAS, Hon. Sec.

WEST LONDON F.A.

The members held their annual dinner at the Bush Hotel on December 10th, when there was a large number of members and friends present, the financial result being also good. The chairman was Mr. W. H. Mugford, and amongst those present were Mr., Mrs., and Miss Turner, Mr. and Mrs. Lack, Mr. and Mrs. Lethbridge, Messrs. Angear, Jonas, Lewis, W. J. and H. H. Gibbons, W. A. Shepherd and friends, Podd, Godfrey, Stokes, and Crust. After an excellent repast, served by Mr. Luckling, the chairman proposed the customary toasts, which were heartily received. In proposing that of "The West London Fanciers' Association," Mr. Turner mentioned that the society had been in existence for upwards of three years, and was the oldest in West London. Mr. Warren responded, and endorsed Mr. Turner's statements, adding that he was one of the founders; all other societies looked upon the W.L.F.A. as the mother society. Mr. Shepherd proposed the toast of "The Kindred Societies," and stated that he was pleased to see so many different cage bird societies in different parts, and that they were well attended, as it kept the members from visiting other places that would be of no good to them. Mr. Lack suitably responded. A very good entertainment was provided by the committee. Mr. G. Rathbone's singing was much appreciated, and his rendering of "At a Covent Garden Ball" was very laughable. Miss Baker sang some sweet ballads. Mr. Reed obliged with several Irish songs, and was heartily applauded. The special item was "Mystic," the well-known London illusionist, who "mystified" the members with conjuring tricks and sleights of hand. "Mystic" was ably assisted by Miss Audrey Norton. The whole of the arrangements were supervised by the committee, Messrs. T. Crust, A. J. Lack, and H. H. Gibbons.—J. DEWHURST, Hon. Sec.

GLASGOW SOUTHERN C.A.

Annual meeting held December 7th in the lesser anti-room of the Grand National Halls, Gorbals. In the absence of the president (Mr. Bullions), Mr. R. Jolliffe occupied the chair. The secretary (Mr. Fleming) having read his report as treasurer, which was of a very satisfactory nature, it was seen that after all expenses there remained a balance in bank to carry on the business of the association for the ensuing year. The election of office-bearers for the ensuing year was then proceeded with. Cameron Corbett, Esq., M.P., was re-elected hon. president; Andrew Motherwell, Esq., J.P., vice-president; president, Mr. McLellan; vice president, Mr. John Renwick; secretary and treasurer, Mr. James Fleming; auditors, Messrs. Turnbull and John Orr; committee, Messrs. McLaren and Brooke. This being all the business for the past year, Mr. Jolliffe vacated the chair, which was occupied by Mr. McLellan, who thanked the members for the honour conferred upon him in electing him as their chairman, and while in the chair he would discharge his duties to the best of his ability and in the interests of the association. The secretary, Mr. Fleming, having read over the rules of the association, a motion was tabled by Mr. McQuillan, "That amateurs or novices, being members of the association, be allowed to compete in novice classes in any outside show; and that in doing so they would in no wise be infringing the rules of association, and that the rules be so altered so as to meet any case of the kind in future." An amendment was proposed, "That the rules be allowed to remain as they were." Only three supported the amendment, the motion being carried by a large majority. The secretary stated that the show this year had proved a big success in every way. The sales of birds reached the handsome sum of £53, and the quality of the exhibits were much in advance of last year's. On the motion of Mr. Jolliffe, it was agreed "that the secretary write the hon. president, Cameron Corbett, Esq., M.P., congratulating him on his convalescence after his recent severe illness, wishing him a complete and early recovery." The secretary having thanked the members for their confidence in again reelecting him as their secretary and treasurer, a vote of thanks to the chairman brought the meeting to a close.—SCOTCH FANCY.

The most delightful and appropriate Postcards on the Market for Bird Lovers are those published by "Cage Birds."

THE SHOWS.

FLECKNEY.

Tenth annual show held December 12th in the large club room of the "Old Crown Inn." The secretaries, Messrs. Deacon and Mattock, had the arrangements nicely carried out, and the exhibits in the caged bird section were especially well looked after. There were only two classes here, but the quality therein was tip-top. Mr. W. H. Sylvester judged.

CAN. OR MULE (6): 1, spl, vhc, Seal; 2, Freer; 3, Garner; res, hc, Smalley. BRIT. (0): 1, res, vhc, Freer; 2, 3, Smalley; hc, Seal.

MORLEY AND DISTRICT C.B.S.

Second old bird show, held December 5th. There was a good attendance of the public, and about fifty birds were staged. Mr. R. Garnett (Sheffield) judged, and gave every satisfaction. RUTHIN.

An interesting show was held on December 10th at the Market Hall. The caged bird section was a most successful feature, and the classes filled well. The secretary, Mr. J. M. Williams, had the arrangements admirably in hand. The general manager of our section was Mr. W. Pierce Williams, "the life and soul of the whole thing," to whom is due much of the credit for the success of the exhibition. Mr. H. Tams judged.

STANDBURN.

The Standburn O.S. held their second annual show in the Public Hall, December 12th. The entries were exactly double the number of last year's, numbering altogether 158 (in cage-bird classes). Standburn is rather an out-of-the-way place, being at least one mile from any railway station, and in the face of this the society is to be congratulated on their success. The hall is not a large one, but is just a nice size for a show of the kind, and had a cosy appearance when the birds were all staged. The cage birds were judged by Mr. M'Watt (Bonnybridge), and he seemed to please everybody. Mr. Stevenson makes a splendid secretary, and although this is his first year of office, he went about his duties like an old hand. The committee consisted of Messrs. Hynds, W. Stevenson, Aitchison, Taylor, Shields, Wright, Gentleman, M'Lean, along with Mr. J. Aitchison (president), Mr. A. Gardner (vice-president), and Mr. R. M'Andrews (treasurer). All contributed to the success of the show.

GLOUCESTER SOUTHEND F.C.

First annual show was held at the Robinhood Hotel, on December 12th. There were seven classes provided for cage birds. The entries came up well, and the quality was of the best, many well-known winners being on view. Mr. W. Kilminster, the hon. secretary, assisted by Mr. S. Lindsey, had everything in order, and beautifully arranged. The Canaries were provided with the best part of the room, free from draught, and a good light. Messrs. Bond Bros. (Bristol) captured the gold medal for best bird in show (given by Mr. J. Long) with a lovely Cornish Chough, looking in the pink of condition. Mr. G. Gwilliam placed the cards, and gave every satisfaction.

EDINBURGH (OPEN) O.S.

Fifty-fifth annual exhibition under the auspices of the Edinburgh O. (open) S., was held in the Artillery Hall, Grindlay Street, on December 10th and 12th. The entries numbered 340, an average of 13 per class. The quality too was in advance of that at the preceding shows of the season. The cream of the Fancy, old and young, joined in the contest, and the competition was exceptionally keen. The cup for the cocks was won by Mr. Thornton, and that for hens was secured by Mr. Brown. Judges for the Scotch Fancies were Messrs. P. Wright (Greenock), J. A. Stewart (Glasgow), J. Carson (Dalkeith) and J. Arnot (Sauchie), and their awards gave every satisfaction. Mr. Kean (Edinburgh), handled the Belgians, and made the best of the material at his disposal. The management was in most capable hands, namely, president, Mr. McLeman; and secretary, Mr. Wm. Thornton, junior, son of the popular judge; the latter gentleman's conduct of the business was highly appreciated; and the success achieved was in a large measure due to his tact and efforts.

ST. ALBANS.

The St. Albans F.S. held its show in the Drill Hall on December 16th. Considering that the first prize was only 6s. a very good entry was obtained. A dense fog enveloped the district during the morning which delayed the delivery of a number of the exhibits, and also added to the difficulties of judging, it being absolutely impossible to distinguish between colours part of the time. Messrs. Moody and Sparrow, the hon. secs., had all the arrangements well in band, and very capable and courteous officials they proved themselves, and their efforts were most ably seconded by the committee. Mr. C. A. House judged.

BOOTLE AND DISTRICT C.B.S.

Annual members' show, held December 5tb, in tbe St. Matthew's Parocbial Hall, this being an ideal hall for the purpose. There were no fewer than 140 classes, and very few were cancelled. Tbe Yorkshires were a grand lot, and worth going a long way to see. There were some grand specimens put down by Messrs. Lobb, McNulty, and Worrall. Tbe same migbt be said of the Cinnamon Marks and Yorks. Greens; of the latter especially. The bird sbown by Mr. Rohinson was of grand type, colour, and condition. The Norwich were poor in numbers, but quality was good. Tbe British we thought rather disappointing. There were some grand birds in tbe novice classes that could bave held tbeir own in the champion classes. The winners of tbe points specials in champion classes were:—1, S. McNulty; 2, J. Lobb; 3, A. Home; 4, J. H. Worrall; 5, T. Larkin; 6, H. Wilkinson; 7, J. Latbam; 8, McLean; 9, H. Wilkinson; 10, Wm. Roscoe; 11, S. Blaza; 12, C. McDermitt. Novice points specials:—1, Lockley; 2, G. Bell; 3, T. Canderland; 4, Smith; 5, Plunkett; 6, Robinson; 7, Button; 8, Harding; 9, Holden. Mr. Lobb won special for most points classes 1 to 8; Mr. Robinson for best Green fed on a certain seed. Mr. Bell won the special for best Cl. Yell. on novice bench. Mr. S. McNulty won the Gunter Challenge Cup for most points, tbis being the second time of asking; it was a close shave, Mr. Lobb just losing by a head. The chairman, Mr. J. Lobb, and committee were a bard-working lot of officials. The secretary, Mr. J. Foster, worked well, having tickets up promptly and everything in apple-pie order. Judging was in the hands of Messrs. W. G. Bull (Bristol) and Alf. Wellings (Prescot), whose awards seemed well received.

I did not receive a schedule for Gateshead Show, writes Mr. Robert Willison (Barrow-in-Furness), and I considered my name had been long enough in the books without my sending for one. So my Scotch Fancies did not compete there.—(We expect this would be an inadvertent oversight on the part of the Gateshead officials.—EDITOR.)

DOVE HOLES F.S.

Second annual show, held in the Schoolrooms, on December 12th, and, assisted by fine weather, tbe many visitors paid marked attention to the cage bird section. There was a good classification, and the birds were excellently staged and well looked after, which makes it the more regrettable that, seeing the attractive prize money and specials offered, there was not a larger entry. However, the courteous and energetic secretary, Mr. W. Millner, and a strong committee of real fanciers, had every reason to be pleased with the quality of the exbibits, and to anticipate still better things next year. Tbe awards were made by Mr. W. M. Marsden.

ST. HELENS.

The St. Helens O.S. held its fourth annual exhibition on Dec. 10, 11, and 12. This year the society launched out on new lines, and these unfortunately do not seem to have met with success. The entries showed a sad drop in numbers from last year (which constituted the record). The birds which did put in an appearance, however, were of very high quality, a fact which will be readily understood on glancing at the names of the prize-winners. The Town Hall, in which the exhibition was held, is an exceptionally fine place, very suitable in every way. The committee and officials did their level best for the exhibits, under the circumstances, which were well calculated to depress them. The secretary, Mr. A. Goodall, by all accounts seems to have acted in at least one matter with a lack of discretion, and exhibitions of personal feeling are not calculated to benefit a society. The other officials were: Chairman, Mr. J. Hesketh; Vice-Chairman, Mr. J. Lomax; Hon. Treas., Mr. Geo. Scott. Committee: Messrs. J. T. Mills, J. Bonney, J. Fillingham, J. F. Lea, A. Grice, R. Parry, A. H. Rogers, R. Gibbie, A. Sherlock, W. H. Dickenson, T. Barrow, S. Dillaway, T. Barton, S. Chestworth, T. Vose, J. Gaskell, T. Lloyd, G. Myers, E. Glover, W. Jackson, and R. Mustard. Alderman Dixon-Nuttall, who was accompanied by Dr. F. J. Knowles and Mr. Goodall, hon. secretary, said he had great pleasure in being present to open the exhibition. In referring particularly to British birds, he appealed to people to save their scraps and feed the little visitors in the winter time, remarking that they would be well repaid for their trouble, and the country would be all the brighter and happier for such little acts of kindness. Dr. Knowles proposed a vote of thanks to Alderman Dixon-Nuttall, and on behalf of the society presented him with a beautiful Norwich Canary and cage. The judges were Messrs. H. W. Battye (Canaries) and J. F. Hills (Brit. and For.), and their awards on the whole were very well received.

(Our Invaluable "Breeding Room Register.") - - - 7d.

A well-known fancier has said of it:—"It makes bird-breeding easy." This book is one no breeder of birds can possibly afford to be without. It simplifies the operations in the bird-room and makes it possible for everyone, even the veriest novice, to breed his birds as they should be bred—keep account of their strong and weak points. It contains both Pedigree, Breeding, Young Bird and Show Registers of simple and unique character, in addition to useful account pages, and many invaluable "Hints for Emergencies."

BROMSGROVE.

This show was held on December 16th in the Drill Hall. Owing to a big entry in the other sections the caged birds had to be staged at a great height; otherwise they made a very nice display. Quality was well to the fore in the majority of the classes. Mr. Frank Jeffrey makes an ideal secretary in every way, and had everything well in hand. We must not forget to mention the name of Mr. Rose, the vice-chairman, who worked like a' Trojan, putting up extra staging on the morning of the show. Mr. J. H. Payne made the awards, his decisions giving entire satisfaction.

LEEDS ROLLER CANARY CLUB.

The third annual show was held on Dec. 11th and 12th in the Temperance Society's Rooms, 16, New York Street. These rooms are the best the society have had, and are splendid for a show. Entries came up rather poorly, numbering only 77, and there was a lot of comment on some of the leading exhibitors in the south not sending any birds. Some alteration will have to be made in the way medals and cup are won; if these shows are to continue, it should be on the same principle as the competition was last season.

Leeds club members are at sea as to why they have not had the pleasure of hearing the London birds. Can shows like Leeds be carried on successfully if the entries are not forthcoming? Some members say it was too soon after the B.R.C.C. Club Show, and that this was the cause of the entry being so small. Be that as it may, something must be done in the future. This can be done by giving cups and medals and special prizes on the points system, to count up at the end of the contest season, thus encouraging all fanciers to exhibit at all contests, and not, as now, the last contest of the season to suffer through lack of entries. There may be other suggestions which will come from other clubs. It is to be hoped that the best suggestions will prevail, and that next year's contests will be held on different lines. Perhaps the B.R.C.C. could reserve a portion of their specials for the end of the season. Was the point system of last year a failure or not? This is not a "wail," but an appeal for a better system. Visitors turned up from Blackburn, Bolton, Bury, and other parts of Lancashire, others from Worksop, Grimsby, York, Middlesbrough, Bridlington, etc., not forgetting an "exodus" from Wakefield. Judges, T. W. Walton (Armley), young birds and open classes, and F. Oldroyd (Wakefield), Amateur and Novice classes.

Mr. Oldroyd's Classes.

AMATEUR (17): 1, medal, White, winner in the amateur at the B.R.C.C. BREEDING: 1, Garton; 2, Caunt; 3, Alton.

LEIGHTON BUZZARD.

Cage birds had only a small classification at this fixture on December 15th, and as the C.B.U. rules were not in force the entry was not a large one; still a few very nice birds turned up, and there was close competition, especially in the Norwich and British. All the arrangements were well carried out by the committee, and Messrs. A. and W. Page made a couple of most praiseworthy secretaries. Mr. C. A. House judged.

NOR. Seedsmen to H.M. the King, LONDON.

Near 150 Years Old.

Some gratifying success has lately attended the efforts of the Yorkshire Naturalists' Union to discourage people with guns from testing their prowess on rare wild birds; and one man who shot a white Swallow and another who shot a Buzzard have been made to understand—by the magistrates—that this form of stupidity may be expensive. A white Swallow is of sufficient rarity to be of great use in affording information to those who observe bird migration.

A correspondent sends us the following cutting from the Isle of Wight County Press:—An elm tree, felled in Borthwood Copse, was being sawn asunder in Messrs. Sharp's yard the other day, and while the operation was in progress an old knot-hole was cleaned for the purpose of removing foreign matter. After a lot of dirt had been removed the workmen came to what seemed like a bird's nest. It proved to be the nest of a Tomtit, and contained four eggs. The nest was absolutely complete, and two of the eggs were intact; the other two were probably broken during the operation of removing them. It is thought that the tree was quite 150 years old. The nest had evidently been built in this old knot-hole, which had subsequently been grown over.

WIMBLEDON C.B.S.

Meeting held at 6, The Broadway, on December 7th. Mr. W. H. Stoakley presided, and there were between 40 and 50 members present, including a good number of ladies. Before the ordinary business commenced, the chairman said he had an extremely pleasant announcement to make, that was that Mr. H. Smith, their secretary, had greatly added to the reputation of the society by winning the Yorkshire Canary Champion Cup at the show held at the Horticultural Hall; whilst Mr. Randall, another of their members, had won, for the second year in succession, the cup for Roller Canaries. He thought it a very great distinction for the society that two of their members should have won such coveted trophies. Mr. Smith returned thanks, and then gave a report with reference to the cage bird show recently held by the society at Queen's Hall, and said that, after studying the figures, he thought they would agree with him that it was the most successful show ever held in Wimbledon. They had not had a single letter of complaint, but, on the contrary, many letters of thanks. As compared with the previous show, they had 120 exhibitors, against 93, 525 entries against 468, which latter figures included 80 birds entered for the purpose of being sold by auction. As to the finances, he estimated a balance on the right side of £1 3s. 8d. The chairman said it was a luxury almost unknown in the history of such shows held in the town, to have a balance on the right side. Mr. Smith, with his usual modesty, had mentioned almost everybody as assisting towards the sucess achieved, but had never mentioned that he (Mr. Smith) was the person chiefly responsible for that success. Seven names were given in for membership, and then a very interesting bird-washing exhibition was given by Mr. J. Burton. Following this there was a judging competition of Yorkshires, points being gained as follows:—Mrs. Allen 9, Messrs. Dyke, Taylor and Wright 6, Mr. Brown 5, Messrs. Jordan and Adams 4, Mr. Lupton 3, Mr. Hare 2, and Mr. Baker 1. A very hearty vote of thanks was accorded Mr. Burton for giving the bird-washing exhibition.

TWITTERINGS.

Mr. C. Pickup writes that his new address is 22, Daisy Street, Gt. Horton, Bradford.

I won 3rd and h.c. in the Softbill class at Sale Show, writes Mr. H. Fairclough (Blackburn).

Mr. C. A. Honso will judge the caged bird section of the Lingfield Show, which is to be held on January 20th.

I have sold my noted winning Linnet Mule the Scottish "Redskin" to Mr. J. D. Leigh, of Warrington, writes Mr. Wm. Hamilton (Hamilton).

Kindly thank all exhibitors who gave us such generous support, writes Mr. W. Pierce Williams, the hon. general manager of the Ruthin Show.

Owing to our next meeting date falling on the Christmas holidays, there will be no meeting held this month.—S. Hadwin, secretary, Green Canary Association.

By a printer's error the advertisement of Mr. T. Craighill (Yates Street, Rhodes), was last week inadvertently published under the heading of "Norwich" instead of Yorkshires.

Report of Perth Show, local colour-fed class, credits me with 1st, 2nd, and 3rd, though I had no entries in that class. Mr. Wilkins (Tony Pandy), was first.—J. Parkinson (Tony-Pandy).

All prize money won at the recent St. Helen's Show, writes Mr. A. Goodall, the hon. secretary, will be paid out from judge's slip, as there are several printer's errors in catalogue.

I was very pleased with Messrs. Spratts' calendar, with its beautiful illustrations. I like this one better than any I've had before, which is saying a good deal.—C. J. Dauncey (Nailsworth).

Kindly note my change of address from Gorton, writes Mr. Henry Smith (of Smith and Dickinson), to 88, Arkwright Town, Calow, Chesterfield. I should be glad to meet any fanciers in the district.

At Gateshead Show I was surprised to see my bird standing with 1st prize card on it in Border Fancy Novice Class, writes Mr. M. Fuller (Newsham), but catalogue gives first to R. Wilson instead of to me.

We have taken over the hon. secretaryship of the Halesowen F. and F.S., write Messrs. Chapman and Budge. We have decided to hold our 7th open show on January 21st next, when we are giving 14 classes for cage birds.

The Llanelly and Dis. C.B.S., writes a local correspondent, have this year as their secretary a good worker in the Fancy, and one who should be well backed up by his committee and exhibitors generally for the forthcoming show, on January 5th.

Kindly thank all who wrote in answer to my advertisement in Cage Birds, writes Mr. G. Rosser (Brixham). I could only reply to those who enclosed a stamp. I had no less than 56 replies in all, which speaks well for your journal. My thanks to Cage Birds.

Report of Coventry O.S. credited Mr. Hall with winning 1st and 3rd prizes in the yellow hen class, writes Mr. Wm. Hale (Leicester). It should read Hale, as I took those awards. The same error occurred at Hinckley Show, where I also took 1st prize.

We regret to hear that Mr. H. K. Picard, of Hampstead, a member of the L. and P.O.S. committee and an exhibitor of Yorkshires, has recently sustained a severe loss by the death of his father, and he will have the sympathy of fanciers in his trouble.

We have received an advertisement, with nine-pence enclosed, but neither the name nor address of sender is given. It relates to an exchange of a pair of Norwich for a Siberian Goldfinch; also to Mules. Will the sender please communicate with us?

Kindly notify, writes Mr. F. Wyse, my change of address to 9, Grantham Place, Park Lane, London, W. You will be interested to know that as a result of the recent notice of my electric drying cage in "Twitterings" I received over fifty letters concerning the same.

The stock of Yorkshires belonging to that well-known and successful Midland exhibitor, Mr. A. Harris (Rugby), has just been purchased by that enterprising Norwich bird specialist, Mr. W. Rudd. The birds have been doing a lot of winning at the shows this season.

I was rather surprised on opening Cage Birds last Friday to see the report of Canterbury Show in that issue, as it was held only on the previous Wednesday; a smart bit of work. In the any variety natural colour class, I won first with a Belgian Canary.—R. J. Baker (Chichester).

A very neat and convenient folding-card price-list reaches us from Mr. E. E. Pass, of Annesley Road, Hucknall Torkard. It comprises all manner of cages, travelling cases, and appliances generally, at very reasonable prices. A copy will be sent to any reader, post-free, on application.

I must congratulate you on the coloured plate in Cage Birds. The journal is the best paper for advertising in, as I have had an order from abroad for 100 birds through your valuable paper with continued results. I wish Cage Birds every success, as I think it a grand paper.—Wm. Lloyn (Pendlebury).

I have to acknowledge receipt of the framed plate of Yorkshires, Cage Birds special prize, which I won at our late show. I am very pleased indeed with it. How happy I should be with a brace of birds like those in the picture! I think the artist, Mr. Norman, the best delineator of the feathered tribe we have.—H. E. Parrott (Weybridge).

I had a lot of answers to my advertisement in Cage Birds, re my Mules, but only two sent stamps for reply, writes Mr. R. Law (Southport). I sold all the Mules, thanks to Cage Birds.

What a wonderful circulation Cage Birds has! During the last month I have sold 40 birds (sent several to Scotland, and to all parts of England and Wales). This speaks splendidly for Cage Birds as an advertising medium.—C. E. Brown (Kingsweston).

It is with great delight I notice the advance of that beautiful bird, the Yorkshire Canary, in the Midlands, writes "Rughyito." Some few years since you could scarcely find any other variety but the Norwich. But now the tide has turned, and the Yorkshire (or should I say the King of the Fancy?) is going to have its share of honours on the show bench in this part of the country.

Everything went off satisfactorily in connection with our show. I am pleased to say, writes Mr. A. Wilkins, hon. secretary of the Leeds C.B.S., all birds being cleared out by 8.15 p.m. on the Saturday. Several letters have come to hand thanking us for prompt return, and the splendid condition of birds when received, after being on the rails nearly 24 hours they looking none the worse for their long journeys.

As I am retiring from the Fancy this season for private reasons, writes Mr. H. Thos. Lucas, hon. secretary of the Lewisham and Dis. C.B.S., I am severing my connection with the society after annual general meeting, to be held on January 5th next. At the same time I wish Lewisham Society every success, and trust its members will give my successor their full support and assistance in his duties. I take this opportunity of thanking them for all help rendered by them to me.

An error has crept into our prize list, writes Mr. Jas. Winter, hon. secretary of the Scottish National C.B.S. Will you kindly correct same. Class 92 is for Greenfinch and Canary Mules (dark), yellow or buff, not for Goldfinch as in prize list. Intending exhibitors in the Belgian section will please note that a class for young birds (Belgians) has been added since the publication of prize lists; entries for this class to be made under No. 50a, and that the Belgian section is under the patronage of the U.K.B.C.A.

The Budgerigars I advertised in Cage Birds last week have been disposed of, the replies being too numerous for me to answer individually.—Chas. Marsh (Cambridge).

"British Birds" (shilling monthly magazine) for December contains several valuable and interesting articles. Mr. P. H. Bahr, M.A. F.Z.S., etc., writes on "The Nesting of the Scaup-duck in Scotland," the value of the text being augmented by some good illustrations. "On the Song of the Wood-Warbler" is the title given to Mr. H. W. Mapleton's subject, while Mr. R. M. Barrington's notes and the illustration on the Pallas's Grasshopper-Warbler in Ireland should prove valuable. Other good features make the issue very readable.

We have received from Messrs. S. James and Co., 189, Sirdar Road, Wood Green, London, N., a copy of a very useful and well-thought-out pocket diary for 1909, called "The Fanciers' Diary." This is a publication especially adapted for the use of fanciers, containing an engagements' diary, cash columns, and a quantity of leaves for temporary notes, also a daily wants' dictionary (copyright). It is beautifully bound in leather, gilt edges, round corners, with pencil at back and makes a very suitable present to give a brother fancier. The price is 1s.; superior edition in French morocco, with card and stamp pockets, price 2s. 6d. Readers of Cage Birds are given the opportunity of securing a copy for 7d.

At the first meeting of the session of the British Ornithologists' Union, some noteworthy additions were made to the list of our British birds, which Mr. J. L. Bonhote brought to the notice of members. The most interesting was perhaps Pallas's Grasshopper Warbler (Locustella certhiola), sent by Mr. R. H. Barrington. This bird, an immature example, was picked up dead at the Rockabill Lighthouse, County Dublin, on September 28th. It is an Eastern Asiatic species and appears to have occurred only once previously in Europe, when a specimen was procured by the late Herr Gathe in Heligoland on August 13th, 1858. Dr. C. B. Ticehurst exhibited a specimen of the Northern Willow Warbler (Phylloscopus trochilus Eversmanni), obtained from one of the South Coast lighthouses. This little bird is scarcely distinguishable from the common Willow Warbler, but appears to be a bird of passage with us hitherto unsuspected.

IMPORTANT HOLIDAY NOTICE.

ADVERTISERS, SECRETARIES and CONTRIBUTORS generally should bear in mind that ALL MATTER intended to appear in NEXT WEEK'S NUMBER OF "CAGE BIRDS," must reach our offices not later than MONDAY NEXT, DECEMBER 21st. Owing to the date the Xmas holidays fall on this year, it is imperative that this be STRICTLY ADHERED TO. Matter arriving after Monday's post cannot possibly be dealt with that week. "CAGE BIRDS" will be on sale Thursday morning, December 24th.—EDITOR.

I have resigned from the Dulwich and Peckham C.B.S., writes Mr. N. A. Meredith (Peckham). Please accept my thanks for coloured plate of Yorkshire Canaries in last Double Number.

The eagle at Dirnanean, says a daily contemporary, is dead. This noble bird has been in its cage for the last 37 years. As an eaglet it was taken from its nest at Caen Lochan, Glenisla, and since had been a prisoner, well fed and well taken care of.

Under the Wild Birds Protection Act(made applicable to the county of London), all persons are prohibited from killing or taking wild birds on Sundays, during certain months, in Soho, Bermondsey, Wapping, and Whitechapel. Only on Sundays, mind you. On Mondays you may stalk the Whitethroat, the Kingfisher, and the Little Grebe among the vales and down the brooks of Soho. On Thursdays you are free to pursue the strong-winged Grouse on the Wapping Moors. On Saturdays you may lie in wait for Wild Duck on the meres of Whitechapel.

We have been successful in securing the Park Chapel Sunday Schools in which to hold our open show on January 30th, when Mr. A. Hirst will judge, writes Mr. H. Hill, secretary of the Bradford East O.S. The room is an ideal one for a show, being loftly, well lighted, and free from draughts; in fact, it is one of the finest rooms in Bradford and district. It is also very near the various railways that run into Bradford, and is within a minute's walk of the trams. Having received the Y.C.C. and Y.C.M.C. patronage, and seeing a host of specials are promised, along with the silver rose bowl for the Unflighted classes, we are encouraged to look forward to a most successful show. The committee are determined to leave no stone unturned in their efforts, and have already gone to the expense of providing new trestles and staging of a suitable height, so that the exhibits can be seen by all without the necessity of handling. Special attention will be paid to all exhibits coming by rail, and the arrangements for same will take somewhat of a novel form, the ante-rooms in the school being so arranged that they can be got away to meet the early trains without disturbing the other exhibits. We hope exhibitors from far and near will help us in our efforts, not only to make the show a success financially, but to try and establish a precedent for other societies as well as our own to work to in the future.

Nests of Birds, Poultry, etc., should be regularly sprinkled with KEATING'S POWDER, especially when hens are sitting. Don't forget to do this just previous to the eggs hatching, to destroy the Red Mite. It kills all insects, harmless to everything else.

Those Printers!

In grappling with the names of strange birds, printers frequently come to the ground, but it is not often we meet such amusing instances as occur in the catalogue of a recent show. "Golden-fronted Chloropsis" is safely negotiated; but then come "Ruebens" Finch, "Spicers," "Gordon Blews," and Indian "Flames" (the latter being in reality Shama).

A Big Bag.

At a meeting of Mendlesham (Suffolk) Sparrow Club, it was stated that during this year 4,918 old birds, 2,807 young birds, and 3,914 eggs had been destroyed, a total of 11,639. The local farmers pay a voluntary rate, based on acreage, from which payments are made for birds and eggs destroyed. The year's operations left the club with a small balance in hand.

Sorrow in "Club Row."

The Bethnal Green Borough Council has issued a notice prohibiting street-trading on Sundays after 11.30 a.m. This prohibition includes "Club Row" (Sclater St.), probably the largest market for singing birds in the Kingdom. Street-traders in this particular district complain that their trade does not commence till about midday. Few of their patrons arrive on the scene before then, and brisk trading goes on until about 4 p.m. To protest against the action of the Borough Council a meeting has been convened at the Town Hall, Bethnal Green.

A Diamond Wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. William Bentley (sen.), of Nottingham Road, Alfreton recently attained the Diamond Jubilee of their wedding. We offer them hearty congratulations upon having spent together 60 happy years—sentiments which will be re-echoed by all fanciers. Mr. Bentley was born at Basford, near Nottingham, on November 25th, 1824. Mrs. Bentley is by one year the senior of her husband. They were married at Ashover on November 27th, 1848, where Mr. Bentley's father and mother were married. They have had five children, nineteen grandchildren, and three great-grandchildren, of whom all the latter and five of the former are living. Though they have reached such a great age both Mr. and Mrs. Bentley are in possession of all their faculties, while Mrs. Bentley performs the bulk of her household duties. The old gentleman has all the enthusiasm of a younger fancier, and in his old age derives much pleasure from his birds, which are his favourite hobby. He is an enthusiastic reader of Cage Birds. Mr. and Mrs. Bentley have many friends.

TWO CHRISTMAS . . COMPETITIONS.

OUR FRONTISPIECE.

A Chance for Birdie Artists.

Our Frontispiece this week is designed to be coloured. We offer a prize of half-a-guinea (10/6) for the best attempt at colouring the same which reaches us from one of our readers on or before Monday, January 4th next. The medium to be employed is left to the discretion of the competitor. The finished attempt should be packed flat, or rolled in a tube, wherever possible.

OUR CONUNDRUMS.

For all to Answer.

Half-a-crown will be paid to the reader who sends us the best answer on a post-card to any of the appended questions (that is four half-crowns in all).

We ask competitors to adhere strictly to the following simple rules:—

1.—Answers must be written clearly on post cards only with name and address at bottom and number of query at top.

2.—Each answer must be written on a separate post card.

3.—Answers must be written on one side of the post card only.

4.—All answers must be received by Monday's post, December 28th.

We should like competitors to understand that length of answer of itself will not count; nor will mere brevity. The point and pithiness of the answer and its general helpfulness to novices are the main things to be considered.

The Questions.

1. Which is the best breed of Canary for the beginner—and why?

2. Should legitimate "preparation for show" include the renewal of a few objectionable feathers?

3. Is it desirable that exhibition British birds should be colour-fed?

4. Which is best, an outdoor or an indoor birdroom—and why?

In both competitions entries are accepted only on the understanding that the Editor's decision shall be final.

L.P.O.S. Annual Dinner.

The members and friends of the L. and P.O.S. are to meet together for dinner and harmony during the first week in the New Year, writes Mr. H. E. Tringham. Full particulars will be announced later.

Young Starlings (?) in December.

The other day, the younger son of Mr. Bowcock, of Pinchbeck, near Spalding, fancied he heard some young birds chirping in a tree in Mr. Steven's garden. He procured a ladder, mounted the tree, and there discovered in a nest several young Starlings ready to fly. (Pity the "nest" was not fully described.—Editor.)

Sparrows Rescued by a Dog.

In Fountain Court, Temple, London, the last season, a Sparrow's nest is said to have fallen from one of the trees overhanging the pond. As the nest floated in the water it was noticed that it contained two nearly fledged Sparrows, who continued to chirrup and open their mouths for food. Several people attempted to reach the nest with sticks but failed, and a young man with a fox terrier dog appeared and directed the animal to fetch the nest. The order was obeyed, and the nest was brought safely to the edge of the pond, where the dog surrendered his booty. The nest was placed in the tree again, the young birds being apparently little the worse for their adventure.

Another Chance.

We were utterly unable to cope with the phenomenal demand for last week's issue of Cage Birds. It was "out of print" the day after publication, despite the large increase we made in the printing order. It is a matter of regret to us that so many would-be purchasers could not obtain copies, but those who desire to possess the lovely 12-page almanac in colours which we were enabled to issue with it by arrangement with Messrs. Spratt's Patent, Ltd., have the chance of obtaining it by purchasing the Christmas number of "The Poultry World," on sale at all newsagents to-day, price one penny. It is an exceptionally attractive special issue, and Messrs. Spratts have kindly extended the same privilege to its readers as they did last week to the readers of our own journal. Their fine calendar will this week be found in the pages of what has come to be recognised as the most readable progressive, and up-to-date journal for poultry keepers in the world. Prove this for yourself by buying the Christmas number to-day, price one penny. Ask for the "Poultry World."

The Memoirs of Molly.

By B. J. POUNSETT.

Being the eventful history of a Heron—a most uncommon pet—related in an interesting way by its appreciative owner.

I am prompted to endeavour to convey to the multitude of CAGE BIRDS readers an idea of some of the memories I have of an old bird friend of my boyhood days. At the time to which I refer, my father had an extensive garden, and was in the "first flight" as a fancier and exhibitor of several varieties of pigeons. If ever the true fancier-spirit was in any man it was—and is now—in my respected father, and that same spirit and a love of all animals and birds has fixed itself on his sons (and "we are seven"). From our earliest days we were always encouraged in our "fancy" leanings. Whether it was a humble dormouse which one of us brought home, a bird in a cage, or "bunnies" in their hutches, we were sent on the right road as to the care of our pets.

How We Came by "Molly."

Brought up as I was in the midst of "Fancy" surroundings, some of my earliest recollections are connected with the pets which at one time or the other came under my notice at home. Of all these, however, there was nothing in the bird line to equal the doings, or take the place of, a Grey Heron (Ardea cinerea).

"What an uncommon bird for a pet!" I can fancy some one saying. So it was; and it was all the more interesting to watch the gradual taming of this handsome bird. My father became possessed of "Molly"—a name we gave her after the bird's common name of "mollhern"—in a peculiar manner. It was during a very severe winter, and Herons were not then as common on the Upper Thames as at the present time, and numbers were driven to the river for food, as the water around their more frequent visiting places was frozen over for weeks.

The bird was knocked down and injured by a barge tow-line in the darkness of a December night, and was captured by some of the "bargees" and conveyed into the town in a sack. The bird was exceedingly vicious, and those who know the formidable nature of a Heron's beak and the force with which it can strike, will readily understand that one would not find the examination of a wounded Heron an easy matter. The bird was brought to my father, who, naturally, hardly wanted such a "pet"; but rather than hand it over to the mercies of the gentry who were then in possession, he bought the Heron for a "consideration" of beer, and intended to liberate it when it had recovered from its injuries, the worst of which was a broken wing, which my father set.

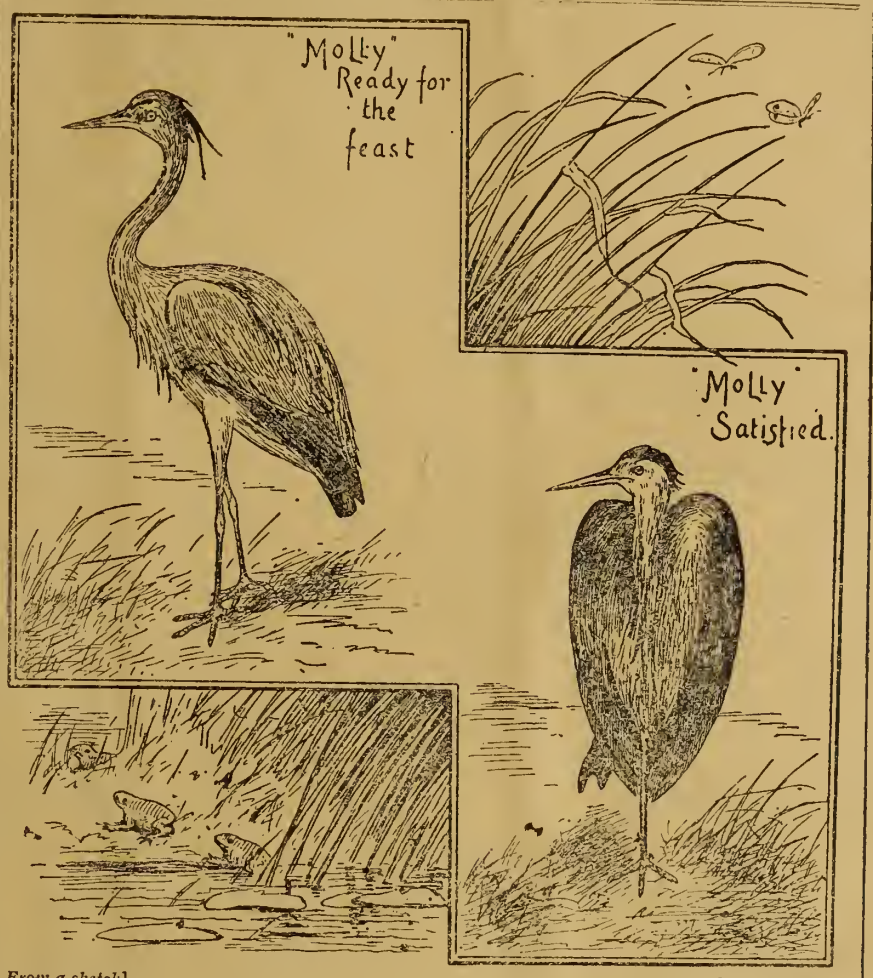
The Bird at Home.

"Molly" was relegated to an outhouse and for some time we hardly dared go near her. As she sat in the corner, with bayonet-like bill ready to attack all and sundry, she naturally made one pause before getting close to her.

Feeding was not a difficult matter at first, as it was the open season for Thames fish, and plenty of local anglers handed over some of their smaller catches to fill "Molly's" larder. The bird refused to feed whilst under observation for the first few days, but as the supplies of small roach and dace placed for her each day disappeared, we knew that she was attending to her wants alright in our absence. The fractured wing mended capitally, and at length her stand-off demeanour became less marked, and she would take her fish whilst many eyes were on her. This feeding time gained for "Molly" quite a local notoriety. Many a boy, aye, and man too, used to bring in fish for her, but all expected to be allowed to see the old bird take the meal. This was but a short-lived pleasure, however, for in an incredibly short time half-a-dozen good-sized fish could be polished off.

No Need for Cage or Aviary.

One day "Molly" got out and was seen shambling about the garden, to the great discomfiture of a couple of dogs and sundry cats. We expected every minute to have to say a forced "good-bye" to our Heron, but she failed to use her wings and the sight of a fisherman's bait-can brought her back to her house.



After this the bird was given her liberty in the yard and garden, her primary flights having been slightly clipped; and from that time she became more and more docile. She gradually adopted a more friendly spirit towards our dogs and cats, and the canine and feline gentry seemed ever ready to make friends with the bird. She became so extraordinarily tame that many people came to see her, and she had a great admirer in a famous Royal Academician. "Molly" was very pleased to be allowed in the kitchen, and it was a sight to see her in front of the fire with a heavy Clumber spaniel on one side and two "dare-devil" terriers on the other, as well as the cat. Her every movement was of interest, and she became one of the quaintest pets I have ever seen.

"Molly" lived on for several years, and seemed perfectly happy with her lot. She got rather feeble towards the end of her days, however, and died, singularly to say, as the result of an injury to her already damaged wing.

A Feeding Problem Solved.

During the "close season" for Thames fish, feeding the Heron was at first a troublesome matter. We had to rely on offal from the fishmonger, which she did not readily take to after plump roach, dace and gudgeon. The trouble was got over, however, in a rather peculiar way. One morning one of my brothers was cutting up a raw sheep's paunch for the dogs and tossed a piece for fun to the old bird, who was standing near on one leg, as much as to say, "Where do I come in?" She seized the meat and swallowed it, and from that day the difficulty of replenishing "Molly's" larder until fishing time came round was solved.

After its first month or so in captivity the bird kept in beautiful feather, and her presence in the garden, and, above all, her tameness and indeed her artfulness, were a source of pleasurable surprise to a great many people. She presented a noble picture of bird-life, standing stately on her willow stump on the rockery, and her somewhat harsh cry of "crank, crank" on recognising those she knew (especially if there was a fish-can in the picture) was well-known. In fact, "Molly" was quite a local celebrity.

Characteristics of the Heron.

The long and slender legs, and the long, straight, sub-conical beak are distinguishing features of this handsome species. Other marked features are the crest of lengthy blackish feathers depending from the back of the head, the white forehead and cheeks, the soft grey hue of the plumage of the upper-parts, tail and wings, the black primaries, and the long white feathers covering the chest, above which the front of the neck is white, marked with elongated bluish-grey spots, the under parts being greyish-white with black streaks. The total length of the Heron measured about three feet.

Frequenters of quiet reaches of rivers and smaller streams may see this "master fisher" in its wild state, standing alone and silent, knee-deep in the water, watching patiently for a passing fish, or frog (for these are equally relished with fish), with head drawn back, and ready to strike with unerring and well directed aim at a moment's notice. In the days of falconry the Heron was strictly preserved in Britain, but to-day the bird in most parts is left to look after itself, although there are several Heronries still in England, where the birds are more or less protected.

In recent years many are the Herons I have seen passing over the meadows with their seemingly laboured flight, and my thoughts have always reverted to the old home and "Molly" on her stump adding an unusual charm to a generally attractive rockery.

BRITISH BIRD MANUAL.

Published in two parts.

Either Part, PRICE, 1/1 POST FREE.

Each part contains a beautiful and life-like coloured plate and numerous black and white illustrations of birds and cages. Written and illustrated by that practical fancier, Mr H. Norman, these books contain full and up-to-date information on the keeping of British Birds; and all Fanciers, whether Novices or Old Hands, will find in them extremely valuable hints and instructions.

A postal order for 1/1 for one part, or 2/- for the complete manual, will bring them to you by return of post. Send to

The Amusing Experience of a Hybrid Breeder.

In a certain small town in Lancashire there lives a very enthusiastic fancier who aspires to Clear Mules and Goldie-Bullie Hybrids, and who has tried for a number of years, but with no result. So he determined that 1908 would be a huge success, or give up disgusted. Now it so happened that he had a very nice Goldie and a Bullie hen, which had been put together all the winter. Breeding time arrived. Now to do or die, quoth John. So, in a nice corner of the bird room, nicely netted off, he puts Mr. Goldie and Mrs. Bullie together, and in due course Bullie builds a lovely nest. The hopes of John run high; he can see a Palace winner in the near future. Noticing one night that Lady Bullie was "heapy," he told his wife that his ambition was almost realised. John had to go to work in the early morning, so, calling his wife (who took no interest in birds), he gave her the following instructions:—"Tomorrow morning I want thee to be up early in the bird room. Keep thy eye on Bullie, for she's going to lay, and I want thee to get possession of that egg as soon as possible. When thou gets it, put it in this saucer, with sawdust, and place it in middle and cover it up, and be sure to put it carefully away under lock and key until I come fra' work." Morning came; John goes to his work, and Mrs. J. to keep guard on Mrs. Bullie. After watching for two hours, not daring to move hand or foot, Mrs. J. gets terribly excited, for sure enough Bullie is getting very uneasy, and eventually leaves the nest. With eyes sparkling and heart beating Mrs. J. rushes in to get that precious egg. Bullie rushes about the place, wondering what the deuce is the matter. Mrs. J. does not stop to tell her, but takes the "golden egg" from its beautiful nest and does with it as her lord and master has directed. She followed John's instructions to the letter, and that beautiful and long-sought egg has come at last, and is safely under lock and key. Mrs. J. goes about her work all day with a light heart; she pictures the happy smile on her husband's face when he learns the joyful news. The long day comes to a close, and John is seen coming across the field. Out rushes Mrs. J. to tell him the wonderful news. John's face is wreathed in smiles. All the fanciers heard that night about John's luck. Said John to his wife: "Thou's a clever lass to get that egg as thou's done, seeing as thou doesn't understand birds. But I shall pay thee well for it. Now then, lass, fetch t' egg, and let me gaze on it." Mrs. J. very carefully goes for the saucer, and walks slowly back fearing she will trip and break it. At last the precious thing is place on the table. John's eyes fairly water when he sees the covering of sawdust over that priceless egg. He loses no time; in a moment it is between his finger and thumb. Mrs. J. busies herself taking tea things from the table. But what is this? John's face is turning deadly white. His limbs shake and his voice, usually so calm, roars like a foghorn. Mrs. J., in alarm, drops the teapot, to the obvious annoyance of the cat, who gets a hot bath, and makes a fearful cry about it. "What is the matter, John," the wife gasps out; "is the egg broke?" "Broke be blowed," shouts John. "A steel hammer wouldn't break it. What joke is this? I want to see Bullie's egg." "That's it," shouts Mrs. J., in reply. "Thou's got wrang egg; this is pot egg," fairly yells the distracted John. Then upstairs he rushes, knocking table over in his flight, and taking stairs four at a time. Once in the bird room, he looks into Bullie's nest, and discovers the shell of the precious egg, sticking in bits all over the nest. John sits down and wipes the cold sweat from his brow. His hopes, like that egg, are shattered and broken. Mrs. J. tries to comfort him, saying: "I shall look well after her to-morrow." But to-morrow comes, and other days follow, but Bullie seems disinclined to lay again. Possibly she thinks they made too much fuss of her first. Now you have only to mention to John that you have a good Bullie hen for sale, and he will unloose the dog on you. That night when John lay in uneasy sleep Mrs. J. tells that her husband was maundering on about an egg in the hand being worth 50 in the nest, and saying it was always

ODDS ON BULLIE.

The Yorkshire Canary: Its Faults & Their Remedies.

By SAMUEL DEAN.

In this paper, which was read during the past season to the members and friends of the Manchester and Northern Counties Society, the Secretary of the Yorkshire Union of C.B.S. deals in a lucid and interesting manner with faults found in the Yorkshire Canary, and methods of remedying them.

Upon your worthy secretary, Mr. Lythgoe, asking me to come over and give you a paper on the now very popular variety of Canary, the Yorkshire, I gladly consented to do so, but as the time drew near I began to wonder why I did. It is a very easy matter to make such a promise, but quite another to fulfil the engagement before the members of a Society with such a reputation as the Manchester and Northern Counties O.S.; but having made the promise, I had perforce to come, and having come must do my best to give as much information as possible on the subject upon which you wish me to address you.

Yorkshires Outside the West Riding.

About twelve months ago I had the pleasure of spending a week-end amongst the birdy men of Manchester, during which time I visited about a dozen rooms and in several of them was very much struck by the high-class Yorkshires. They were much better than what I had expected, having always been given to understand that good Yorkshires in any quantity were not to be found outside the West Riding of Yorkshire.

So much has been written in the Fancy Press during the last few years upon the various subjects in connection with our hobby, that it is now a difficult matter to get up any subject to prove interesting enough to the average fancier, and as the methods of keeping, breeding, etc., have been pretty well played out, I must needs turn my attention into another channel, and the one I have chosen will, to my mind, prove as interesting and instructive as anything I can think of, viz., "The Yorkshire Canary: Its faults and their remedies." In doing this, it is my intention to work to the standards as laid down by the Yorkshire Canary Club and the Yorkshire Union, by taking each item contained therein separately, present to you the faults usually found in connection with such item, give my opinion upon the ways and means of eradicating them, and express to you my opinion upon the origin of such faults, so as to assist you in bringing about their removal.

Not an Original Breed.

In the first place, the Yorkshire is not an original breed of Canary, but simply a mongrel (a very elegant one, certainly), and can be produced in a few years from a Belgian, a Lancashire, and a Norwich. It is from the happy union between three such different types as these that we are able to secure a bird of such grace and beauty as the Yorkshire, and such a favourite as it has proved to be.

Of course, it is not now necessary for a breeder to go back to the very beginning, as so many good birds "ready-made" can be procured, and at much less cost than if he went so far back as I have mentioned. It is only for the sake of showing where the points, good and bad, find their origin that I refer to it.

To return to the standard; this is divided into six different headings: shape, size, position, feather, colour, and condition.

Flat, Snakey, and Browed Heads.

The section for shape is subdivided into seven parts, and it is upon these I intend to proceed. "Head, small and round, skull narrow." The principal faults of the head are the flat, the snaky, and the browed. The flat head is a difficult one to improve, and is generally to be found on a square-built bird. The way to improve the head is to secure as a mate a Yorkshire having what I may term the old-fashioned Norwich type of head, one that is nice and round and as high as possible in the skull; such heads are usually found on the full-chested cobby type of birds, and if care is taken in the selection, good results may accrue in a very short time.

The snaky head is not a very bad one to deal with, but is at times accompanied by a far worse fault—a circular-shaped body—and is, in fact, more like the head of a Scotch fancy Canary, from which it is probably descended. The bird to be used in pairing up with one that has this fault should have as high a forehead as it is possible to get, and such should not by any means be paired up to birds whose heads run horizontally from the beak.

The browed bird is probably descended from the Lancashire Canary, which was imported into Yorkshire at the time that the craze for size held full sway. Browed heads are always broad, and have a slight inclination to be flat, the feather being a trifle long; in fact, it is very rare that browing is seen on a bird that is short in feather, thus proving the presence of Lancashire blood. This defect requires treating in much the same way as the flat head, but in addition here, care has to be taken that the bird used is not too strong in body, but has just a suspicion of the snaky type, in both head and body this being preferable.

Another fault in connection with the head is that usually called "horned," this meaning that the ear feathers are too long, so as to jut out at the back of the head, as though they had been brushed back; which, of course, greatly spoils the symmetrical outline of the head and neck. This fault is found in connection with browing, and requires pretty much the same treatment.

Neck and Shoulder Faults.

Next, in the standard, we read: "Neck, moderately long, straight." Here we have not much room for fault. The principal one is the hollow or thin neck, and is generally found in the bird which possesses a bit of "breed," and which, therefore, does not fulfil the standard requirements—"straight"—as such birds are apt to hold their heads in a slightly forward position, which is consequent upon the amount of Belgian blood coursing through their veins. Such birds require for their mates those of the bull-necked style, i.e., with necks as thick as their shoulders.

Proceeding, the standard states: "Shoulders: narrow, rounded, well filled." The narrow shoulders proceed from the Belgian, and the rounded and well-filled shoulders from the Norwich. Here we have plenty of scope for work; if we try and get the shoulders narrow, we are apt to get too much of the breed, and our birds begin to get "spouty." On the other hand, we try to get round and well-filled shoulders, with the result that we err in quite the opposite direction, and get them too broad, and more like the Norwich type.

The Back and its Faults.

Next, we read: "Back, long, straight, well filled, wings long and evenly carried." Here we have a lot of faults to contend against—cracked or gutter backs, flat backs, short back, circled back, bad wing carriage, short flights, and other minor faults.

The cracked or gutter back is somewhat similar to the fault of spouty shoulders, and many times both are to be found on the same bird. It is probably the result of a bad-backed Belgian having been used at some time or other in trying for good position. The crack is in the soft feathers exactly above the centre of the wings; this fault is greatly accentuated when a bird gets into good condition and is continually flapping its wings. The flat-backed bird requires the same style of mate, one that is very round in back and shoulders. Care must be taken, however, that too much thickness is not brought into the strain.

The back should be long, tapering away from the shoulders gradually, and not, as some are, nearly all of one thickness down to root of tail, dropping suddenly narrow to tail, reminding one of a wooden ball with feathers stuck in horizontally.

Bad to Deal With.

Circled backs are bad to deal with. This fault denotes the presence of a drop of "Scotch" blood (not whisky), and is accompanied, as a rule, by the snaky head and drooping tail (but the birds are generally very well filled in at back). A bird possessing this fault should be paired to one that stands perfectly stiff. If one can be secured with an inclination to imitate Jenny Wren, by lifting its tail up between its wings, so much the better, as this will often save a year or two's disappointment. Care must be taken for some time after this fault had apparently been bred out, as it comes up unexpectedly, even years after any signs of it have been seen.

Bad carriage of wings is one of the worst faults a Yorkshire bird can have, and I am pleased to say is not by a long way so prevalent as it was some five or six years ago. It is usually to be seen at its worst in a bird that has very long flights; and this for the simple reason that the longer the flights, the more chance they have of getting over each other. What is required here to improve wing carriage is a bird in which you can see the soft body feathers between the wings all the way down. Many of these are to be found, particularly in hens, and are much to be preferred to the crossed-winged specimen.

Short flights completely spoil the appearance of Yorkshires, especially in the case of those where the flight feathers finish with a rounded end, giving them the look of having completed their growth. What is wanted is that shooty, "still growing" appearance.

A Failing Not Easily Remedied.

"Breast, round and smooth, the body long and tapering to a neat waist," is what we read next; and oh! what a great amount of trouble, and what heartaches, have those first four words caused! Breast, round and smooth; how many times have we thought we had a winner, long, slim, narrow-bodied, when lo! as soon as it has got through the moult we find to our sorrow that it is a tassler round the breast, and is promptly relegated to the ordinary stock.

How to get the nice, round breast on to a long, slim, wedge-shaped body is one of the toughest jobs a breeder has to work upon. Nice breasts are to be found in plenty, but usually upon the birds that are a bit on the strong side, and one's only plan is to pair together the best one can get, and trust to being able some time to produce a winner.

"Body long and tapering to a neat waist." Length of body is greatly to be desired, tapering nicely away to the waist, and tail. A short, chubby, broad-waisted body is not a Yorkshire type. What you want is a bird with a body which, whether it be looked at from the back, the side, or from underneath, always presents to the eye a gradual tapering away from the shoulders—not as some are, which, when looked at from underneath, are broader across the body at the thighs than across the shoulders; and others, it will be found, from the thighs to the root of tail chop off very suddenly, spoiling completely the outline of the bird.

Bird Catching for Amateurs.

By H. J. HAWES.

Being the concluding instalment of a Paper read before the members and friends of the L. & P.O.S., and dealing with some methods of bird-catching adapted to the use of amateurs.

Now, having completed our outfit, say we take train (or cycle or walk as the case may be) to our intended hunting-ground. The time of year is, we will say, April; we imagine ourselves sixteen miles out of London. As we go down this road we pass the village green, and then come to a cottage, which stands by a five-barred gate opening into an avenue of elm trees. Hark! There is one—"Toll, loll, loll, chickweedo." Your bird, which is tied up under cover, may then answer him, "Toll, loll, loll, kiss me dear," and away they go.

Chaffinch "Pegging."

The Chaffinch is seen about to strike at the "dummy" set under the limed twigs, the decoy bird being on the ground beside the gate post. In actual use the cage containing the latter bird would be covered over with a dark cloth.

During this preliminary battle you must whip out your lime twig, fix the bird you desire in a favourable position, and then fix your dummy so as to catch his eyes.

Now stick your twig or twigs over your dummy, so that when your sport strikes at it he will not fail to hit your twig. You now put your call or decoy bird somewhere in a secluded spot, if possible, but not necessarily so; and the battle royal begins. "Toll, loll, loll, loll, chickweedo," says the one in the tree. "Toll, loll, loll, loll, kiss me dear," answers your bird. The one in the tree may lay in song in another way; your bird may also lay the same way. The one in the tree now with his hen has his green jealous blood up, for he thinks that the intruder is after his wife, and at this moment he spots the dummy bird stuck under your lime twig, and so on the spur of the moment (when most stupid acts are committed) seeks to avenge himself on the intruder. He swoops down in the attack—bang, as though he would knock his little self to bits.

Limed Twigs amongst Thistles, Dock, etc.

A call bird is set close by the limed twigs, and in the drawing bait is seen strewn on the ground.

Does he stick at the dummy? No, alas! Before he can reach that object your twigs are over his wings, and he is a captive. Now is the time for you to "hop the twig," for you must run like a horse, or you will surely lose your prize; as it is, you may only just touch his wing with your lime twig.

There is another method whereby a braced bird is pegged to the ground and surrounded by limed bristles from a broom; on the birds coming to attack the captive Chaffinch, they also get the benefit of their own jealousy. (What a moral for some of us!)

Now I leave the Chaffinch, and will deal with the Bullfinch and Goldfinch. These birds fall victims to bird-lime in a very different way, as it is their stomach which brings about their downfall. To get the Bullfinch, the best way is to watch for their run, which is usually near a ditch or where nettles and dock seed abound; also black and other berries.

You may here find a good bushy clump of dock, so you must strip the bottom growth off, and then have some little bristles with a needle fastened at one end, so that you can stick them into the stem of the dock. You then set you call bird near, or under the baited bristles. The Bullfinch will hear the call of the decoy bird, and drop down when he sees her feed. This proves to be his downfall, for as soon as he alights he is bound to fall foul of one or the other of your limed twigs, and you do the rest—the rest standing for a good deal.

The Latest Form of Spring Net Trap.

For the sake of clearness, the netting is not shown. The spring in action resembles the familiar "break-back" mouse-trap. The bait is attached to the cork, and the pull given it by the bird releases the net, which flies over and makes it a prisoner.

We all know this, to our sorrow, when we have got a gem, as we think, and try to save him for the next year's Palace show how surprised we are on going one morning to find him "on the other shore." Although I must confess I have been a victim to this disappointment, I am clearly convinced that it has a great deal to do with the first treatment dealt out to the Bullfinch.

Parrots for Pleasure & Profit.

By C. P. ARTHUR.

Being full instructions on the Caging and Treatment in health and disease of the Grey, Amazon, and other Popular Parrots.

The Hon. and Rev. F. G. Dutton says: "I have come to the conclusion that as a pet for a cage bird, for my experience is confined to cages, as I have no aviary, the best Parrot is a Jardine's Parrot, the next, a Double-fronted Amazon, and the third, a Grey." For such an authority to place the Double-fronted before the Grey, must certainly count a great deal in its favour. But I simply state facts, and that is, I have spent a great deal of time and trouble with Double-fronts, and never got one to learn a word.

A Familiar, Old-fashioned Type of Bird Trap.

Festive and Yellow-fronted Amazons.

The former is a large handsome bird, with a frontlet or red over the bill, and a blue stripe over the eye. It may be distinguished by its bright red back between the wings. It measures about 15 inches in length, is noisy, and seldom learns to talk.

These birds are not so frequently imported, and are rather scarce in this country. Probably, if one could get a young specimen hand-reared from the nest, it would make a good talker; but I daresay they are wild-caught birds that we get sent over, and consequently too old to learn very readily.

The Yellow-Fronted Amazon is another Parrot that we seldom see. It is similar to the Blue-fronted, but has a yellow forehead, instead of a blue one. I once bought one said to be a talker, but although I kept it for over six months, its talking never got beyond calling out "Murder!" so loud that it could be heard all over the neighbourhood. The food and treatment for this are the same as for the other Amazons.

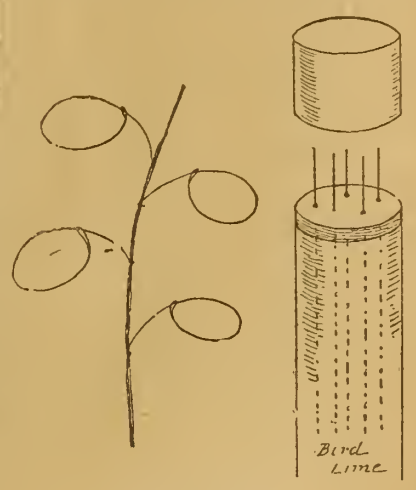
The Mealy Amazon.

The Mealy Amazon is a very large bird, much larger, in fact, than the Blue-fronted, and measures nearly 20 inches in length. Its colour is green, being darker on the back than on the under parts.

The name "mealy" is given to it on account of the mealy or frosted look of its feathers. It becomes very tame, and is a fairly good talker. But it shrieks dreadfully, and is altogether too noisy for most people.

The birds are scarce in England, although the Zoological Society had one as far back as 1863.

The Yellow-naped Amazon.



These birds resemble the Blue-front, except on the head, where they are green, the nape alone being yellow. It is not nearly so noisy as the Mealy Amazon, or many of the Blue-fronts, and is, besides, a really desirable bird, becoming very tame, and making an excellent talker.

Unfortunately, however, it is very seldom obtainable. Any dealer who had one would ask from two to three pounds for it as soon as it was imported. Dr. Greene says: "Yellow-naped Amazons differ from each other very considerably in appearance." I have never had an opportunity of comparing several together, so cannot give an opinion. If they do, they are in no way different from most of the Amazons. If you were to take half-a-dozen Blue-fronted Amazons, there would be no two among them alike. Some Yellow-naped Amazons have a great deal of yellow on the face, reaching some distance down the throat, and some have scarcely any yellow at all. Some of them have a large patch of brilliant blue on the forehead, and a large patch of not less brilliant yellow between that and the green at the back of the head, others again having scarcely any yellow on the crown, the blue forehead in their cases merging into the green.

Amazons sometimes suffer with sickness caused by indigestion. The bird works its head about, leans down and vomits undigested seed, accompanied by a watery liquid. When this occurs the best remedy is a little carbonate of soda dissolved in the drinking water. Parrots will often, when trying to show great affection for a person, bring up their seed from the crop into their bill, their idea being to feed the loved one. This must not be mistaken for sickness; it is only an excess of affection. My blue and yellow Macaw, when on my shoulder, wants watching, for if he saw an opportunity he would pop some partly digested sunflower seed into my mouth—a favour he cannot understand my reason for declining.

There are many more species of Amazons, all scarce in the English bird market and not likely to get into the hands of amateurs. But should anyone get hold of one, I should advise him to treat it exactly as I have recommended for Greys, viz., scalded, or rather, boiled maize at first, gradually weaning it on to hemp and Canary seed; a little small grey sunflower seed and a piece of ripe banana daily; also a bit of dry biscuit.

There are some smaller species, two of which I have kept, and I have found them most delightfully tame pets. They are the Red-vented Parrot and the Cuban Amazon.

Two Appliances.

Here are shown an arrangement of horse-hair nooses, and the tin designed to carry the "twigs" and bird-lime.

Canary Breeding in an Outdoor Aviary.

By H. C. BROOKS.

An article which should be of value to all who desire to erect a simple, inexpensive, yet thoroughly satisfactory outdoor birdroom, and of interest to everyone who studies the different conditions under which Canaries can be successfully kept.

I have often wondered why the use of the outdoor aviary is not more frequently advocated in the Fancy Press. For the man with small leisure, and for the man with limited indoor accommodation for his birds, it will be found of great advantage, and will afford a maximum amount of pleasure with a minimum amount of trouble.

Although I do not claim that birds fit for exhibition can be bred in it, I see no reason why a good class of bird should not be so bred (quite equal, in fact, to many which are advertised and sold as "prize-bred") if due care be taken in the selection of stock birds. This is important, and unless sound judgment is brought to bear on it little, if any, progress will be made. I will endeavour in this article to show how the above can be accomplished by anyone who is determined to succeed.

The Construction of the Aviary.

First to be considered is the construction of the aviary. The position of this must, necessarily, in most cases, be governed by circumstances within the fancier's control, but as sheltered a position as possible should be chosen, preference being given to one which would enable the aviary to be built facing the south.

It is mainly a matter of individual taste what style of aviary should be built, but I have endeavoured to show in the accompanying sketches a lean-to one built against a wall.

Sketch No. 1 gives a general view of the front and east end of the aviary. It will be observed that about two-thirds of the front are covered with small mesh wire netting to within one foot of the bottom, which, together with the remainder of the front, is boarded. The east end is also boarded, except that a window is placed therein (shown more clearly in sketch No. 3). A window is necessary to admit of plenty of light, and if the aviary faces the south the full benefit of the early morning sun will be obtained.

Sketch No. 2 shows the west end in which is placed the door. It will be noticed that, except for a pane of glass in the door, the whole of this end is boarded also. The reason why it is better to have glass in the door is to permit of the birds being seen, and thus minimise the risk of any flying out when entering. If desired, the door could be in front, in which case it should be of wire netting on a framework of wood. In this event the whole of the west end could be boarded.

The roof should be made thoroughly water-tight. Cheap match-boarding under corrugated iron would answer very well, but it does not matter so much what the materials are so long as the wet is kept out.

Fitting Up An Aviary.

It should have a floor, and this should be either of concrete or boards. Over the glass in the door and the window should be tacked small mesh wire netting, to prevent the escape of any birds in the event of the glass for any reason becoming broken. The whole should be painted outside, and whitewashed inside, and would then present a smart business-like appearance. In extremely cold or wet weather some further protection should be afforded by covering the wire-netting portion of the front with sacks, or, better still, wooden shutters.

Next to consider is the fitting up of the aviary ready for the reception of its inmates. A good plan is to fasten some boughs (which have first been stripped of their leaves) to the back of the aviary. This, besides providing plenty of perching accommodation, gives a pleasing effect, and has a more natural look than if straight perches only were used. Of course, a few of the latter here and there could be used with advantage.

In addition, one or two good-sized seed hoppers must be provided, and, of course, proper drinking vessels must also be supplied. Both these and the seed hoppers can be bought very reasonably in a variety of patterns. The floor should be covered with sand or coarse saw-dust, but if the latter is used, grit must be supplied in a separate vessel. A large piece of cuttle fish should also be hung up in the aviary.

The Selection of Birds.

Having completed our aviary, it is now necessary to procure suitable birds to inhabit it. If it is desired simply to breed a few brds in, without regard to any particular type or colour, all that one requiries are smart, healthy birds.

But why be satisfied with "common Canaries"? Why not breed one of the popular, present-day varieties—whichever the fancier has a particlar liking for—as it costs no more to keep these than it does the common nondescript birds? The initial outlay on stock may be a little greater if good birds are bought, but more satisfaction will be given, and it will be easier to find a suitable market for the surplus stock. Norwich, Yorkshires, Border, Fancies, Cinnamons, and all types of Greens are good, hardy varieties, and would do well if properly cared for.

We will assume that one or other of the above varieties is decided upon. In breeding in our aviary there should be about three hens to each cock. If too many cocks are used, they will spend most of their time in fighting instead of in attending to their domestic duties.

For such an aviary as I have described, I would suggest commencing with two cocks and six hens. (Of course, if desired, a larger number could be kept, say, three cocks and eight or nine hens, but nothing is gained by having too many.) It would be advisable to purchase these from different sources, say, the cocks from one source, three hens from another, and the remaining three hens from a third source. The object of this is to prevent the birds from becoming too closely related after a season or two's breeding. Of course, both the cocks must be of the same colour, and all the hens of the opposite colour to the cocks, so that if the cocks are yellow, the hens must all be buffs, and vice versa.

It would be well if a third cock were purchased at the commencement, to be kept in reserve, in case either of the others does not behave as he ought. It need hardly be said that all the birds should be perfectly sound and healthy, and preference should be given to those which are unflighted.

When to Purchase Stock.

If suitable birds can be procured which have been bred and reared in an outdoor aviary, they should be purchased about the end of October, when they will probably have finished their moult, and could be at once turned into the aviary; but if cage-bred birds are bought, it is better to wait until the latter part of February or the beginning of March before buying. The hens (if from a cold room) might then be turned into the aviary, but it would be well not to turn the cocks in until it is desired to commence breeding. If the weather is mild this could safely be begun the first week in April, but if not, a little later start should be made.

Previously to turning the cocks in, about nine or ten nest pairs or boxes should be hung up in the aviary, and a plentiful supply of building material supplied. It is well to place the nest boxes in as secluded a position as possible.

Birdie Thieves and Cannibals.

The feeding and general treatment of the birds all the year through should be the same as for those kept in cages, as far as possible, but as this subject has been so frequently written upon, it does not seem necessary to repeat it here. There are, however, a few things to which it would be well to draw attention.

It not infrequently happens that two hens insist upon building in the same nest box. When this is the case it is as well to place another immediately beside it, when very often one of the hens will take to the fresh one. But if this does not answer the purpose, things should be allowed to take their course until after the hens have laid, when one of them must be allowed to sit on the nest and some of the eggs, and the other one taken away for a week or ten days and then returned, when probably she will not further molest the other. If practicable, the remaining eggs should be distributed among any other hens that may be sitting.

Another difficulty to contend with is that occasionally a cock bird will develop a cannibalistic taste, and amuse himself by pulling the youngsters out of the nests, or pecking off their claws and beaks.

The result of this, is that some of the youngsters die, while those which survive such treatment are permanently disfigured. This does not often happen, but if it should, the offending bird must be removed at once, and, if possible, be replaced by another. It is in a case like this that the advantages of having a cock in reserve are appreciated. If a hen should misbehave herself she must be removed.

Concerning Young Birds.

As soon as the young ones leave the nest they should be put into a flight cage (of which the fancier should always possess a few) hung inside the aviary, and supplied with soft food. The parent birds will feed them through the bars until they manage to pick for themselves.

When they can properly feed themselves and crack hard seed, they may be allowed to fly in the aviary, and the exercise thus afforded will be very beneficial to them. If kept in the flight cage too long they will very likely acquire the most objectionable habit of plucking one another, and when once this has started it is most difficult to stop.

If the aviary is so constructed that a portion can be partitioned off for the youngsters, so much the better, but they will not come to much harm if allowed to fly with the old birds.

"CAGE BIRDS," the Leading Bird Journal. 1d. Weekly. From all Newsagents and Bookstalls.
Offices: 154 FLEET ST., LONDON, E.C.

RING OUSELS: BIRDS OF THE MOORS AND FELLS.

"The bush of gorse
"New budded, is his perch; there the grey dawn
"He hails; and there, with parting light, concludes
"His melody."

The advantage of partitioning a portion of the aviary off for the youngsters will be appreciated as soon as they break into moult, if it is intended to colour-feed them, as if they are flying with the parent birds it would be necessary to supply colour food before the later nests are reared, and the result might be that those youngsters which were moulting would not get so much colour food as they ought, owing to the old birds taking it to feed the very young ones with.

The breeding season over, all nest boxes and building material should be removed, and, if colour feeding has been started, a sufficient supply should be given until all the birds are clean moulted.

After the Moult.

As soon as the earliest youngsters have nearly finished moulting, they should be put into the flight cages, and allowed to remain there a few weeks, when they should be released, and another batch put in in their place. This will help to steady them.

If it is desired to dispose of the surplus birds on the completion of the moult, care must be taken not to part with the very best of the season's breeding, as these, or some of them at any rate, will be wanted for the next year's breeding. These which are retained may be allowed to remain in the aviary all the winter. If given a rather liberal fare, and afforded a little extra protection by means of sacks or shutters (spoken of before) during the most severe weather, they will keep quite healthy, and will suffer no ill effects from the exposure.

About the beginning of February the final selection of stock birds for the second year's breeding should be made, and any not required should be sold as speedily as possible, so as to permit of the aviary being thoroughly cleaned before again commencing breeding. This operation must be carried out according as circumstances permit, and if the whole of the birds can be removed it could be thoroughly done, and a fresh coat of whitewash inside be given. Here again the flight cages would come in useful.

For the second year's breeding it would be advisable to discard, say, two or three of the hens used in the first year, and retain in their place the same number of young ones: and one of the most promising young cocks should be selected, and either used in place of one of the old ones, or kept in reserve. He would be in his prime for the following year's breeding.

Introducing Fresh Blood.

Each subsequent year there should be a further discarding of old stock birds, and the addition of fresh ones from the previous year's breeding, always bearing in mind to retain the very best, varying the process occasionally by the introduction of fresh blood from a reliable source, for it is obvious that after a few seasons there must be some relationship among birds bred this way. But if sound judgment has been used in the selection of stock birds no harm will result; but, on the contrary, it will be beneficial in fixing the type.

In introducing fresh blood care must be taken that the birds so introduced do not possess the same faults as your own, but, on the contrary, excel where they fail. If possible, they should be superior in all respects to your own.

If the above system of breeding is followed out for several years (provided the original stock birds were good specimens) a good class of bird is sure to be bred, and although not good enough, perhaps, to win prizes, they ought to find a ready market at a price which would repay the breeder for his outlay, and probably yield him a small profit.

The Robin's Hotel.

Recently, when spending a week-end at the Castle Hotel, Bervie, in Kincardineshire, Mr. A. B. Wyllie, writes in the "Scotsman," the proprietress drew my attention one evening to what seemed a ball of feathers perched on a branch of a tall aralia growing in a corner of the well-lighted entrance-hall of the hotel. She informed me that this was a Robin which had roosted there from July last year to April this year, flying in when gloaming came on and going out when the door was opened in the morning. From April to July this year the bird was absent, but about the middle of July it came back again and took up its former quarters.

Ring Ousels: Birds of the Moors and Fells.

By CHARLES BURROWS.

The handsome members of the Thrush family depicted on the Coloured Plate given away with this issue, are the subject of this practical, and at the same time bright and entertaining, contribution.

We in the Midlands can hardly claim to be as conversant with the wild habits of the Ring Ousel as are our more northern friends; in fact, I only know of two instances of its being seen about here within the last ten years, and one of these was as recently as October last.

Making an Acquaintance.

When cycling to Grimscote, a village some six miles from my home, I saw a fine cock bird perched on a tall privet hedge; and clinging to a large oak tree growing close to where the Ousel sat was a green Woodpecker. This particular place is a perfect paradise for Britishers. It is the track of an old tramway long since left to decay, and there is a deep cutting. Trees and bushes have grown on the banks each side until they have met at the top and formed a complete avenue for a considerable distance. This is the home of the Nightingales and all summer visitors. This bird (the Ring Ousel) reminded me of my old showbird, one I won many prizes with. This same bird is still alive, and in the hands of a very successful exhibitor living in the same town as myself.

The other instance to which I referred was of a young hen caught by batfowlers some six years back, and brought to me with some Blackbirds and Thrushes. When looking over these birds next morning I noticed this one was somewhat different to the others, but very much like the hen Blackbirds, except for the very faintest tinge of white showing through the breast feathers, and this not in the shape of a crescent. There was little or nothing else to distinguish it from a hen Blackbird.

I asked a friend of mine who was well up in a knowledge of British birds to call at my place and look at it. He did so, and advised me to let it go, as it was a hen Blackbird, and every time he called afterwards he said the same. I decided, however, to keep it and moult it out, as I felt certain it was a Ring Ousel. I believe I had a bet on it, so was careful to have my friend call during the bird's moult. The result was that the white mark became a crescent, although a poor one, with the feathers slightly tinged with grey; this last fact made it a hen Ousel, and I was able to sell it for 5s., the purchaser remarking it might be a cock after another moult.

A BUFF NORWICH PLAINHEAD HEN.

This Dainty lady was awarded second prize at the recent Nottingham Show, where she was exhibited by Mr. Robert Hall (Rudyard, Staffs.).

Easily Kept.

I have always obtained my Ring Ousels from Keighley, Yorks, and when fresh-caught they are very wild for a time. I should say it would be almost impossible to show one of these birds in field plumage on this account; but this is no drawback, for if they are properly fed, and given enough room, they moult out splendidly, and each moult improves them.

By proper food, I mean live food, beetles, gentles, and small snails (these they crack like a Thrush). The food left by small Softbills, such as Nightingales, Blackcaps, etc., just moistened up again, does well for Ousels, and saves having to waste it. I consider them strong birds. They will live on a rough diet, such as barley meal and boiled potato, scraps from the table, etc.; but if the bird is wanted for show purposes the live food is indispensable to keep it tight in feather and well up in condition.

Not Exactly a Songster.

No one would keep this bird for the sake of its song, for in my opinion it knocks the Missel Thrush right out for noise. I have kept both species for exhibition purposes, and in each case have found it necessary to remove them from my residence during the spring and summer months to a brickyard, simply because of their shouts. Personally, I should not care if they had sung night and day, but there were the neighbours to consider. One old lady, for instance, strongly objected to the Ousel singing, and requested me to move him away; but it so happened that she kept pigs, and they very seldom had a change of bedding, so at times they did not smell very nice. I said to her when she requested me to move my Ousel that I would be pleased to do so on condition that she removed her pigs. She failed to do this, so my Ousel stopped where he was longer than he would have done if she had moved her bacon. But there were other neighbours, so off to the brickyard he had to go, there to stop until he began to moult.

On the Show Bench.

During the four months he was "brick-making" he lived solely on gentles and beetles, the result being that he moulted out a splendid bird, and was quick about it. He was ready for the Oxford show, and started his show career by winning first in the large British bird class and special for best British in the show. I was well pleased with this and his after-doings.

With Ring Ousels it is no trouble to distinguish the cocks from the hens, the cock bird having the crescent across the breast; it can hardly be called pure white, for with the very best of birds it is inclined to be a dirty white. If the crescent were snow white, set in the dark feathers, the contrast would be more marked.

The breast and throat feathers are edged with grey, which makes them appear to be like scales. This characteristic, like the crescent, is more prominent in some birds than in others. The beak is black with a variable amount of yellow at the base and inside. The legs and feet are black. The general colour of the bird is black, but not a dense black, like a cock Blackbird. The hen is lighter coloured, and instead of having a crescent, the breast is speckled with white.

Their Likes and Dislikes.

We know that Ring Ousels in a wild state consume a lot of berries, such as mountain ash, ivy berries, etc., but if you offer these to caged Ousels which have been used to good food, they will hardly touch them. The same thing applies to Blackcaps and Nightingales. The only fruit my Ring Ousels cared to eat was grapes, and I believe when these birds leave our shores in the early autumn they make a call of two or three weeks' duration in the South of France, and feed largely on the grapes grown there.

The wilder the country the more numerous are the Ousels. They do not frequent cultivated districts except on very rare occasions, and then only in very small numbers.

On the pillar of a large public weighing machine here is painted a Ring Ousel, a copy of my bird, and this is seen by hundreds of wagoners and farm workers from all parts of the country, and it is very rare any of these men have seen similar birds in a wild state.

A Hint on Framing.

I have been favoured by the Editor with an advance plate of a pair of Ring Ousels which accompanies this issue of CAGE BIRDS. I am sure all lovers of British birds will be delighted with it, and I trust it will be the means of enlisting many others in the Fancy. The artist, Mr. Rankin, can rest assured that his efforts on our behalf will be greatly appreciated. There is that about the cock bird which appeals very much to me as being most natural. I predict that a great percentage of the plates will find their way into frames, and perhaps I may suggest to amateurs who frame them for themselves or who have a suitable frame by them to paste the plates on a cardboard mount before framing them. This will prevent them from creasing, which will surely follow if this is not done.

Chapter XXIII.—My Brown's Parrakeets.

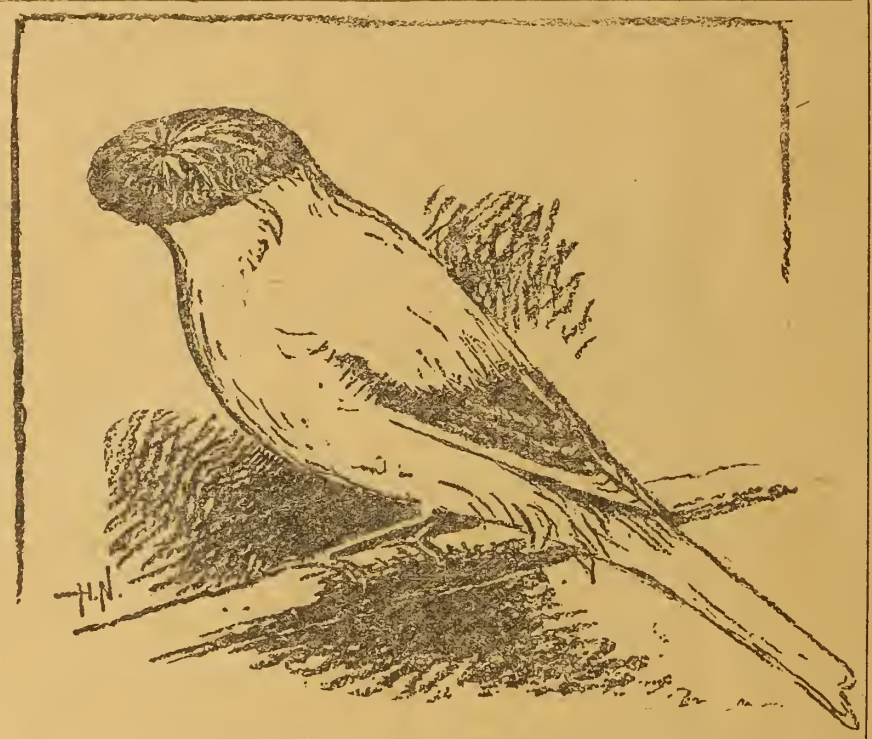
The beautiful Lady Foley used to say—there might be better looking women than herself, but she had not seen them. That exactly describes my opinion of Brown's Parrakeets. The name, I grant you, is not pretty; nay, some folk would call it commonplace, but the bird itself is lovely—though in a quiet way.

I realise as I grow older how little I really know, and how little I have seen of the avicultural world; so that like the hero of Newman's hymn—

"I do not ask to see
The distant scene—one step enough for me."

One day, some years ago, I was fortunate enough to become the happy owner of a cock Brown's Parrakeet. I saw him in a friend's aviary, and I determined that he should be mine by fair means, if possible—otherwise—but why give myself away? I talked "with a sweet mouth," as they say on the Gold Coast. I pointed out the folly of keeping an odd bird; the glaring improbability that a hen would ever come over, and so had my way, and carried the cock home. I was, however, just as far from my goal as ever. I had no more idea than the man in the moon where to get a hen; still, I thought that if anyone could get one, that person was myself! I knew it was no good going out to meet trouble; no use to be like the husband and wife, for example, who are said to have quarrelled and separated at the church door on the day of their wedding because one insisted that their second son should become a Knight of Malta and the other would not agree.

I know that everything is possible in the avicultural world, and that it is generally the unexpected that happens. It was so in my case. I went to London for my holiday about September, and, of course, as in duty bound, spent a 'appy day at the Zoo. I even went and endured the agony of the Parrot House, that veritable aviary "Chamber of Horrors," and I am right glad that I did. Looking idly round the cages ranged along the walls, I presently came to two pairs of Brown's Parrakeets, and listlessly reading the labels above them, I read that they were deposited by the Honourable Walter Rothschild.



How longingly I looked at them! They had only been over about six weeks if I remember right. They looked fairly well and lively, and after a careful survey I felt sure that one cage contained two hens and the other two cocks. Of course, this was all wrong, but, then, we can't always be sure that things are what they seem at the Zoo.

Of course, I knew by experience that it was no good to say anything. Think what you like, but remain silent I have found to be a golden rule. What troubled me more than anything else was how to gain possession of one of those hens. I tried plan No. 1. I wrote to the secretary and asked if it would be possible to buy one. I was told "Certainly not." It was only what I expected; but there was no harm in trying. What was to be done next? I could not, of course, steal one, because—well, as Dan Leno said of something else, "Well, as a matter of fact, the police wouldn't let me."

There was but one other way open. I thought it a forlorn hope, but I would try. Nothing venture nothing have, I argued. I would write to Mr. Rothschild. I knew his reputation for generosity, and see if he would lend me a hen for the season. It was like my confounded impudence; but I was so desperate. I wrote as nice a letter as I could, explaining my difficulties, and asking if he would trust me with a hen. By return of post (although I was a perfect stranger) came back the most courteous letter, saying that I might have a hen as long as I liked, wishing me all possible success, and enclosing a letter to the superintendent asking him to send me the Brown's Parrakeets to choose from.

Who has ever heard of a like bit of generosity—and that to a complete stranger? I can only suppose that Mr. Rothschild had read my avieultural experiences, and thought, maybe, that the hen Brown would be as safe at Micklefield as at the Zoo. I know I shall never forget his kindness. I accepted his offer by telegram, as the Duke of Montpensier did when the Duchess of Galiere offered him a valuable estate in Italy.

A few days later the Browns came to hand, and I rejoiced to see that I had a hen and a young cock. I made doubly sure by introducing them one by one to my bird. The moment the Zoo cock was introduced my bird made him ready to battle, and there would shortly have been a "lovely corpse" on hand. The moment the hen entered his dwelling the cock showed every demonstration of extreme joy, bowing and scraping and warbling in the most agreeable manner.

WING-MARKED DARK CREST.

A Bird successfully Exhibited by Mr. A. Wigginton (Nottingham).

I sent the cock back to the Zoo, and left the happy pair together. It was late autumn, and I had them in a covered-in outdoor aviary all to themselves. Of course, I took care that there should be no nesting that year, as although it was the Australian summer, it was shortly to be our winter, and I meant to run no risks. In this aviary they passed the winter in the very best of health and spirits.

When summer was well advanced I put in a suitable nest-box, specially home-made for Parrakeets, and varying in size according to the birds for which they are intended. The hen was not long before she went on a tour of inspection, warbling and inviting the cock to join her. In these Parrakeet nesting-boxes it is most important to fix a strong, very hard wood bough just under the hole where they enter. I cut out a circular hole from the bottom of the box, and insert and glue in a small wood cash bowl, such as you can buy at any ironmongers, and this forms a perfect receptacle for the eggs. After a week or so, I often found the hen inside the box, and could hear a mysterious gnawing sound going on within. I wondered what was up. Many would say, "Why didn't you look," and I answer, "Because I have a little bit of sense left."

I found out at a later period. You always can find out things in the avicultural world if you only have patience to wait.

The hen had been gnawing the sides of the box into fine shavings to line the bowl. I put a big bit of cuttlefish loose near one of the branches most frequented by the Browns, and was gratified to see the hen constantly gnawing it with keen relish. This, I knew, augured well for eggs.

As time went on, she spent more and more time in the nest; until at last she stayed in all day long. When this happened, I felt, like David did concerning the green pastures and the waters of comfort. It seemed to remind me of the "solid joys and lasting treasures" that the hymn says, "None but Zion's children know."

How eagerly I used to watch the cock. From time to time he would pay stealthy visits, as he thought, to the nest-box, and after a preliminary call the hen would gradually draw herself up by the beak to the nest hole, and then with a contented gurgle allow the cock to feed her. Then there would be a few murmured endearments; "Good-night, dear," and back would pop the hen to her sweet treasures. For three weeks I possessed my soul in more or less patience; and then by anxious listening I could hear a tiny squeak inside the box, and I knew that I was the happy possessor of the first little Brown that, as the Ancient Mariner said:

Had ever burst into that silent sea.

For a few days I heard little squeaking and scuffling, and then there came an ominous silence. I could hear nothing, though I tried to think I could. Then one morning I found Mrs. Brown sitting outside on a bough, and I knew that there was failure. And yet was it failure? It must be remembered that a failure in a deliberate experiment in life is often more fruitful than a continued success. People as a rule are so cautious, and it is, of course, highly disagreeable to run a risk and to pay the penalty; but I always think of these words:

'Tis better to have loved and lost,
Than never to have loved at all!"

and I consoled myself with the thought that I had done what nobody else had succeeded in doing; I had bred a hen Brown's Parrakeet.

True, its life had been short; still, it had lived; and I remembered how Jowett, the high priest of worldly wisdom, had laid down as a maxim: "Never resign." I never felt less like resigning than when I picked that little bird's discoloured body out of the box. There was only one baby and two clear eggs, which were about the size of a dove's, and very rounded at the ends.

For a week or ten days nothing happened. There was much warbling on the part of the cock, and he can warble very sweetly, and much begging for food on the part of the hen. Then once more she entered the box, and the old process was repeated. Weeks passed wearily by, and once more I heard the little voices within. Day after day they grew stronger and stronger, and the visits of the parents became more and more constant. Then when about sixteen days had passed I was horrified to see the parents neglecting the box. And again there was that ominous silence. My feelings were what are termed indiscribable. I wanted to look, but dared not; although I almost knew that disaster had once more overtaken me. At last my nose told me what my eyes could not see. My poor little friends were manifestly "decomposing," and I noticed an anxious blue bottle fly settling at the entrance.

This determined me. I took down the box, opened the lid, and looked inside. Piteous to tell, there were three of the finest young Parrakeets I ever saw for this age, about three weeks old, and beginning to feather nicely. I could even tell that there were two cocks and a hen by their varying size; but alas! they were as dead as doornails, though quite fat. Evidently the parents, for some reason best known to themselves, had ceased to feed. It was no good crying over spilt milk. All the tears in the world would not bring these babies back to life; but I own I could have cried. I was told that I looked as miserable as if I had lost one of my dearest relations! That alas! was the end of my breeding operations. I had done what nobody else had ever done. I had reared Brown's Parrakeets to three weeks old.

A few weeks later I noticed the cock a little bit thick. I thought it only a passing ailment, but alas! a morning or two later I found him lying dead on the ground, though plump and in lovely feather. I think it must have had a fit.

I wrote and told Mr. Rothschild of my sad loss, and informed him that I was sending the hen back to the Zoo. I saw her the next year that I was up, and I think she recognised me. Now, alas! she has gone, and there are no longer any Brown's at Regent's Park.

Brown's are very expensive birds. I gave about £8 for my odd cock, and I don't know what Mr. Rothschild will have given for his two pairs. They are very easy birds to provide for. All they want is Canary-seed, cuttlefish bone, and a constant supply of green food and a small grass lawn.

I will briefly describe Brown's Parrakeets. The cock is a glorious fellow, with a beautiful, black velvety crown and cheeks, soft brown eyes, and a snow white bib. His breast is a very pale saffron, perfectly laced with grey on every feather, a dash of red on the upper part of the breast, and a crimson rump, tail lovely, Oxford blue, back black, each feather evenly laced with pale primrose, flights a fine Oxford blue, feet greyish, beak white.

The hen has a small round effeminate head, with a velvet black crown, but her chin is not so pure as her mate's; her breast is primrose, but very faintly laced; wings not so deep blue, rump pinkish, and the lacing on the back much more pale and open in marking. It is good to tell the sexes if you have a true pair, and the voice is another infallible guide. The cock has a soft, melodious warble, and a call that sounds something like "kinky kink, kinky kink" in crescendo. The young, so far as I could judge, are marked like the old birds, only the black was rather rusty in colour. They are perfectly hardy. Mine never had any heat, and were out of doors in all weathers.

I should not like to trust the cock with any other male Parrakeet, but then he is no exception to the rule. All cock Parrakeets are untrustworthy. Their habits remind me of an Australian horse dealer, who, speaking of the fighting qualities of certain fox terriers, said: "They fly at each other's throats, and then they hold on quite quietly—just like a prayer meeting!" The cock Brown's is rather like a fierce Radical "seeking whom he may devour."

And now I will draw to a close, lest I weary you, for Boswell is careful to tell that it was a "dull county magistrate" who irritated the Doctor by a long and tedious account of four convicts he had sent to transportation, and drew down upon himself the dreadful response, "I heartily wish, sir, that I were a fifth!"

The Feeding and Moulting of Goldfinches in Captivity.

By F. G. JOHNSON.

Amongst the many popular members of the Finch family, the fascinating, sprightly Goldfinch unquestionably stands first in the estimation of bird-lovers. In this article a practical fancier details the methods he has found successful in keeping the Goldfinch in Captivity.

A sweet song, charming manners, and elegant dress have combined to make the Goldfinch the most popular British cage bird. Each year sees a number of recruits added to the already large army of lovers of this sprightly bird, with the consequence that the species has suffered a serious declension in numbers, and has only been saved from extinction in these islands by the prohibition of bird-catching in certain districts. More is needed in this direction, however, and the "close season" might with advantage be extended to the end of September, thus allowing the Greypates (i.e., young Goldfinches) to get stronger. But a diatribe is not my object in this essay, my purpose being rather to deal with the management of Goldfinches in captivity.

Some Points.

Presuming a winner in embryo is the bird wanted, the blaze is the first point to "take the eye." This should be large, square-cut, and of a deep crimson colour. The sides and chest should also be nicely tanned, and the "whites" not too dark.

Other things being equal, the stout bird is generally preferred to the slim one, therefore a good chest is a desideratum. Fanciers should also see that the wings do not cross, and that they are nicely buttoned on the tips. Many new-caught birds lack these markings, especially if caught late in the year. This is, no doubt, caused through the tips of the feathers breaking off, and birds with apparently poor buttons before the moult may be all that can be desired in this respect after the moult.

Having picked your Goldfinch, if he is not already on hard seed, let him have a diet of crushed hemp and inga seed. This should be given in an egg-pot, which fits under the door of the cage. Continue giving this for two or three days, and if the bird does not go puffy the hemp seed should be merely cracked for another day or two, and the quantity of inga seed lessened. A seed-box containing one part of Canary seed, one part of teazel seed, and two parts of hemp seed may also be introduced, with just a sprinkling of inga seed on the top to induce the bird to eat. When the bird is found to be cracking hemp seed, a liberal supply must be allowed and the inga seed dropped.

Found Successful.

This treatment I have found very successful, and the percentage of birds lost since adopting this method has been exceedingly small.

During the winter as a tit-bit, a mixture of inga, dandelion, and maw seeds may be given in finger-tins once or twice a week. This tends to steady birds quickly, as they are very fond of the mixture, and soon get to know the tin it is kept in. Watercress must also be given, but care must be taken to see that it is fresh.

This treatment may be continued until April or May, which will be the time to gather dandelion. The heads of dandelion should be gathered when the faded yellow petals have dropped, leaving a white down not yet opened to be scattered before the wind. Three or four heads may be given twice daily between the wires of the cage. Dandelion can be gathered in plenty until July, when the question arises, "How shall I moult my Goldfinches?" Colour-feeding, I think, spoils the Goldfinch, and the best way is to moult it in an outside aviary.

A Modest Place.

My aviary may not be considered an elaborate affair; it is certainly not a costly one, though it is eminently satisfactory. It is about 8ft. by 3ft. by 7ft.—large enough for about a dozen birds. In the second week in July I turn the birds into the aviary, having previously gathered a goodly supply of grass and other like seeds. These I tie in bundles, and hang about the aviary. At this time, also, a very useful seed is the "goat's-beard," or "go-to-bed-at-noon" flower. This may be found on railway embankments, and is easily recognised by its long, tapering hoads.

To Combat Bullying.

When the birds are first turned into the aviary, a great deal of bullying takes place, and one or two of them seemingly suffer from rough treatment. Such birds should be caught up again, and kept in a cage for two or three days. By this time the other birds will have settled down somewhat, and will have chosen companions for themselves, when the other birds may be turned into the aviary again. They will then get on much better.

About half-a-dozen seed vessels may be placed in position for ordinary seed, and under this treatment the birds will do well for two or three weeks, when a few seeding head of thistles may be gathered. The best variety of thistle for the Goldfinch is the Spear Plume, or Scotch Thistle. As the season advances the heads of these varieties become very plentiful. The best method to adopt is to get a sack and fill with the heads, cutting them off the plants with about six inches of stalk. These should first be spread out on sheets of paper, and then placed in the sun to dry, being afterwards stored for future use.

Giving Wild Seeds.

In the aviary I place a number of wood travelling cages and interlace the thistle stalks. Knapweed is also plentiful at this time, and should be cut so that they may be placed about the aviary in jars. With a good supply of thistles and knapweed placed about the aviary, what a splendid sight it is to see, say, half-a-dozen Goldfinches and two or three Linnets feasting upon this their natural food in an almost natural way. It is at once a recompense for the birds (as they are to be kept in captivity) and a pleasure to the beholder.

Two or three shallow dishes may be utilised for bathing purposes, and should be placed on an elevated platform, as the thistledown soon covers them if they are placed on the floor. Facilities for bathing should be given on each fine day.

A Good Moult.

Under this treatment, then, the birds soon begin to cast their feathers, and by the end of September the birds will be ready to catch up again, and only a very small percentage will be found to suffer in any way from the moult. Providing the birds were steady when turned into the aviary, they soon recover confidence when caged again.

The difference between birds thus moulted and cage-moulted ones is very noticeable. They retain more of their sprightliness, and are much tighter in feather. Of course, I do not say that bad-coloured Goldfinches are made into winners through this method, but seeing it is the most natural way, surely, it is, therefore, the best. Colour and quality are essential for a high-class Goldfinch.

FOREIGN BIRD KEEPING FOR AMATEURS.

By Mrs. E. WARREN VERNON.

Some Tractable and Amusing Pets.

Of the larger and more expensive foreign cage birds (for although an aviary or bird room is a desideratum, one's pet birds are a greater source of pleasure in cages), perhaps the Shama and the Dayal birds are the most tractable.

I have at present two of the latter. In colouring they are very like the Magpie and about the size of a Thrush. They are the most amusing pets, flying on to my hand, and pecking and fighting it just in pure fun.

Their food is simple and easily procurable, and should consist of a good make of soft food, worms, gentles, mealworms, ants, ants' eggs, flies, beetles (especially blackbeetles), and, in fact any insects one can get.

They require a good roomy cage and a large bath as they are energetic bathers. I have all my cages made 2ft. 6in. long, 18in. high, and 12in. broad, with wires top and front ½in. apart, and wood two sides and back. The perches, three in number, should be a little thicker than an ordinary pencil and not quite round. Two glass or galvanised tin feeders complete the cage outfit. The excrement of these soft-billed large birds being more offensive than that of the seed eaters, a deep layer of sawdust or sand should be spread on the sand tray. This must be especially attended to if much insect food is given.

Dayal Birds and Indian Shamas.

The Dayal bird becomes exceedingly tame, and can be let out in the room for a fly round, and can easily be got back into his cage by showing him a mealworm, and then throwing it into his cage. When excited or cross these birds make a curious noise, not unlike a Jay's call, only on a smaller scale. This is often the prelude to their sweet song.

Their cost is on an average about twenty-five shillings.

A more expensive, and at the same time more attractive foreigner, is the Indian Shama. This bird costs about £2. The breast is a rich chocolate red; it has a blue-black head, with white rump and black and white tail. The song, which is continually varied, is made up of short stanzas of most beautifully liquid notes.

An Intelligent Bird.

The one I have shows rare intelligence. It was my custom to have him in my room, always leaving the door of his cage open at night; at daybreak he used to come on to my bed and sing quite softly, varying it with his somewhat pleading call note, until I woke and gave him a mealworm. Although the room was quite dark, and I had to fumble about for the mealworms, he was on my hand directly I secured one.

At the time of writing he is hanging in a conservatory moulting, and I make it a rule that no one shall give him a mealworm until he has sung for it. This he quite understands, and as soon as you approach the tub where the delicacies repose, he begins, and, what is more, goes on until he has had what he wants. His food should be much the same as that recommended for the Dayal. I can thoroughly recommend him as one of the most charming of bird pets.

Words of Advice.

I could, of course, instance hundreds of other desirable cage birds, but those already enumerated should give a beginner an insight into the charming ways of foreigners.

My parting word of advice is: Buy your birds from a reputable dealer, and, if possible, choose your specimens personally. "Out of colour" is no detriment so long as the birds are bright and tight in feather. Don't risk a mopy bird, it may be only moulting, as you will be assured; but it may be the dreaded foe, Septicæmia.

Your Foreign birds with their charming ways, their uncommon love dances, and their hundred and one sweet tricks, will while away for you many an otherwise dull hour, as they have often and often done for me.

A COLUMN FOR FANCIERS.

Appended are brief particulars of some of "Cage Birds" SPECIAL PUBLICATIONS for keepers and lovers of birds, with post free prices.

"THE HYGIENE OF BIRD-KEEPING." - 1/1
By W. Geo. Orkswell, M.D.
A most useful manual, thoroughly treating of modern hygiene in bird-keeping, by the most eminent living authority on the subject.

"SEPTIC FEVER OR CANARY PLAGUE." - 7d.
By R. H. Clarke, M.D.,
A very useful booklet concerning this dread disease. It is the only one published, and should be found in every bird-lover's library. Dr. Clarke has given the subject very special study.

"THE NORWICH PLAINHEAD CANARY." 1½d
By J. H. Payne.
A Lecture reprinted from Cage Birds, delivered by this leading judge and expert before the London and Provincial Ornithological Society, and pronounced by all experts to be a most valuable pamphlet concerning the breeding of the variety.

BREEDING CAGE LABELS, 1d. doz., 7 doz. 6d
A boon to all breeders. Neatly printed in sets of twelve, on perforated gummed paper. They can be torn off, and affixed to the breeding cage in a moment, and prevent all confusion. Useful alike to both small and large breeders of birds.

CARD BREEDING REGISTERS, 1d. each, 4 for 3d., 9 for 6d.
For hanging up in the birdroom. Printed on suitable stiff card, they are ruled to hold a complete record of the breeding results of six pairs of birds; invaluable for future reference, to ensure that knowledge of one's stock essential to accurate breeding.

LIVE BIRD LABELS, 24, 3d.; 50, 6d.; 100, 1/-
For use when despatching live birds on journeys by rail, or to the shows, etc. Printed in red ink and gummed on back. The simplest, neatest, and best on the market.

NOTE PAPER & POSTCARDS, 250 for 2/-; 500 for 2/6.
Until further notice we have decided to supply below cost price artistic Memorandum Forms and stout postcards, with name, address, twelve words of particulars, and blocks of any special variety of bird at half cost for cash. Carriage paid to any address in the U.K. Our latest style of note-head and postcard has been universally admired, and we will gladly send specimens to anyone enclosing stamped addressed envelope.

BLOCKS OF BIRDS, 1/6 each, 5 for 6/-, or 9 for 10/-.
For inserting in advertisements and for printing memorandums blocks of all kinds of birds at above low prices can be supplied. Larger blocks to order at cheapest possible rates. These dainty little blocks immensely enhance the appearance of note paper, postcards, and advertisements.

PICTURE POSTCARDS, 1d. each; set of six, 6d.
The most delightful and appropriate postcards of Canaries, British Birds, and Hybrids on the market, executed in colours by Mr. H. Norman. Ideal for Fanciers' correspondence. All represent exact and correct show types and have accompanying descriptions. State which bird or birds are required, or whether a mixed selection is preferred.
The latest set is entitled, "Pairs Matched for Breeding"; very educational art postcards. Price 3d. set of 8.

ORNAMENTAL PLATES, 1/- & 1/6 each.
The following coloured plates of Cage Birds can be obtained mounted on stiff card and gelatined. This process makes them washable and gives them the handsome appearance and all the durability of framed plates under glass:—Bullfinch, Blackbird and Robin, Border Fancy Canary, Bullfinch Hybrids, Cinnamon Canary, Cinnamon Marked Yorkshires, Foreign Finches, Goldfinch and Bullfinch, Hybrids (popular), Lancashire and Lizards, Mules (popular), Norwich (Yellow), Parrakeets, Yorkshires. Price 1s. each. Crests, Desirable Aliens (Foreign Birds), Larks and Pipits, Norwich (Blaze of Colour), Wagtails and Stonechat. Price 1s. 6d. each.
Also a padded plate of KINGFISHER having all the appearance of a hand painting executed on ivory. A most charming ornament for brackets, occasional tables, etc. Price 1s. All are post free.
Why spend large sums on decorating the house with other pictures?

FANCIERS' PRINTING.

Cages for Fresh-caught Birds.

Supposing one is dealing with fresh-caught birds, the same general rules as to caging and attention should be followed, with this important difference—that one should not keep the birds in very large cages until they have grown fairly steady, and will allow one to inspect them and move the cage about without trying to bash their brains out against the top or back of it.

A cage rather on the small side is far the best for a wild, nervous bird, and very often the only possible means of getting it steady. Once it is nice and steady, treat as any other as regards putting it in the show cage and training, and do not from this stage keep it in a cage with a very deep bottom or with easy hiding nooks. If this is done, there is a great risk of the bird acquiring the habit of dodging into the cage bottom or any other secret nook as soon as one goes to look at it. When this happens to occur, one may safely dispose of any hopes of winning with that bird until the habit is cured—a thing which is much easier said than done.

Always hang the cages low enough to enable you to have a full and complete view all over the cage floor when passing near it, and remove every hiding place to which the bird could retire at will, and in the case of Wrens and such birds as require boxes for sleeping in, always make a point of reserving some especial dainty from their ordinary diet, and supply it as a tit-bit every now and again as you pass the cage or go near it to have a look at the bird. With this class of bird it is indeed almost impossible to get them too tame, for the simple reason that unless they are nearly quite tame, and sociable enough to be always on the look-out for some tit-bit when anyone is near the cage, the chances are that as soon as a strange person approaches they will scurry away into the sleeping-box and obstinately refuse to come out as long as they hear anyone near the cage.

A very similar disadvantage is apt to occur with such birds as Nuthatches, Woodpeckers, etc., which usually have their show cages lined with virgin cork. Absolute tameness in these birds is a key-note of success, but this should also be assisted as far as possible by making the rustic lining of the cages as free from deep crevices as may be without sacrificing too much of its rusticity, which is so well adapted to the fitness of things in the keeping and exhibition of these birds.

Of course, they must have a proper place to retire to, both for the purpose of rest and to escape from too constant and unwelcome attention at shows. It, therefore, resolves itself into a question of relying upon tameness in the birds to insure their being properly judged when shown, as no sane person could expect a judge to do justice to a bird if he merely caught a glimpse of its tail as it disappeared from view into its sanctuary.

The Alien Immigrant.

Coming to the foreign birds, these might also be regarded as a class which stand quite alone from an exhibitor's point of view. Theoretically, they should be subject to the same conditions as our native species, the biggest, brightest coloured, and most distinctly marked specimen of any given species winning with the usual proviso that it is fairly tame and steady.

To a great extent the latter point is too intimately interwoven with all the rest to be separated from it, for unless a bird is tolerably steady it either batters itself about until it has forfeited every claim to good condition and perfect plumage, or darts into the darkest corner of its cage the moment anyone approaches it, refusing to budge an inch or allow itself to be looked at, when the owner is only too well aware that it is perfectly futile to exhibit it.

In practice, however, birds of such a species usually compete together, so that it would often be quite impossible to give rarity due recognition without making the usual rules plastic enough to allow rarity to compensate in some degree for lack of steadiness. But good condition and perfect plumage are of too much importance in a show bird for any rebate to be allowed for these points. Consequently, in preparing them for show the first consideration should be to get them perfectly tame and steady by the same means as given for British birds, and then turn attention to bringing them into the best possible condition and plumage.

It is the best plan to put the taming process first, and to procure the birds a few months before they moult, so that by the time the moult takes place the birds are quite steady, and will not be liable to damage their plumage after it is renewed. The moult will also be ready to follow immediately the taming process is finished, and much valuable time will be saved in getting the birds in good all round show trim, and one will not then have the mortification of seeing a bird that has been moulted and got into splendid condition absolutely ruin its chances for another year whilst being made tame and steady.

Mistaken Kindnesses.

Just now when we hear so much about fresh caught birds and their proper treatment—which, judging by the many varying methods of different fanciers, is by no means a topic about which there is a universal agreement—it may not be out of place to devote some space to the consideration of a few mistaken ideas. The very zeal of certain kindly disposed bird-lovers for the humane treatment of their captives is the cause of their unwittingly submitting their pets to conditions which are nothing short of cruelty.

How Often!

How often in the ordinary walks of life one gets convinced even in dealing with our fellow beings that there is ample justification for the plea that in certain circumstances it is advisable and sometimes absolutely necessary "to be cruel in order to be kind"; but to reverse the order of things and "be kind in order to be cruel," as it were, or to put it in plainer words, "to be cruel whilst intending to be kind," must cause a bitter irony to enter the very soul of the humane but misguided one when the real nature of the kindly meant efforts first becomes apparent. I could write much on the topic, but that the matter would be out of place here.

The First Consideration.

To come to the point: the very first consideration when the birds are caught and conveyed home is the cage in which they are to be placed. Here, too, is where the humanitarian is apt to fail most signally in his efforts to get the birds caged off with the least possible amount of suffering or ill-humour for the birds.

The birds are probably turned loose in a good, large flight cage, with or without some steady old stagers, which are supposed to play the rôle of Mr. Tulkinghorn and give the birdy lookers-on a lesson in deportment, teaching them how to behave in their new sphere. Of course it is done out of pure kindness of heart under the impression that the birds will not miss their liberty so much, and will get more quickly accustomed to caged life. But in the vast majority of cases quite the reverse takes place. In such circumstances the birds are considerably longer in steadying down, and comparatively few become reasonably steady in the first year of confinement, whilst the proportion of specimens which absolutely refuse to "moat off," and either die in the "sulks," or dash themselves to death in the cage if not released, is comparatively high. Probably few which are in the hands of the class of people referred to are compelled to shuffle off the mortal coil. Release probably comes to them after they have battered themselves about and made a distressing exhibition which the owner can stand no longer, but forthwith set them free, and is more convinced than ever of the cruelty of bird-keeping; whereas the greatest cruelty has been in his or her own misguided actions.

No Place Like a Prison!

The much maligned tiny back-cage or singing cage, which in some circumstances well deserves the strictures laid upon it, and the term of "a prison," is without a doubt the best cage for the vast majority of fresh-caught birds.

Now and again one will meet with specimens of birds which are in a sense almost steady from the first, and which will settle down to caged life almost as a matter of course from the very first hour. These, however, are the exceptions which only go to prove the rule, and may likewise be treated exceptionally, and placed in fair-sized cages at once. But for the average specimen one of these little singing cages is really hard to beat for the purpose of seeding off the birds separately and getting them broken in to cage life.

At first they may be kept in a quiet undisturbed spot until they are well on seed and water, which may be a couple of hours or two or three times as many days. But when they are on seed freely, the cages, being so portable, may be placed in dozens of different positions where the birds will have to see folks passing to and fro and moving about frequently

Border Fancy C.C.

The annual general meeting of B.F.C.C. will be held in Corn Exchange Halls, Edinburgh, on Friday, January 1st, 1908, at 11.30 a.m. Business: Minutes of previous meetings; balance sheet, 1908; election of president, committee, and secretary, and treasurer. Good attendance of members requested.—M. Jamieson, hon. secretary.

The Swift-winged Snipe.

This is the season of Snipe-shooting, when the ardent sportsman will sally forth with gun and dog, and return hungry and weary, but quite contented and satisfied, if his bag consists of a brace or two of these elusive birds. The birds are expert at dodging, darting, twisting in the air, nipping round corners, or skimming over a sea wall. One often leaps into the air and darts off on the breeze, being out of sight before the novice can realise that the bird is before him. The birds are not over plentiful, but are well able to take care of themselves.

Feeding the Birds.

Once again the time has arrived for bird lovers to do something to ease the sufferings of the wild creatures which flock round our homesteads at the approach of hard weather. Our gardens and shrubberies are more sheltered than the fields and hedgerows, and somehow, when in distress the wild ones court the haunts of men. Let us do something to warrant their trust. A few crumbs from the table, a handful of meal made into a crumbled mass for the Blackbirds, Thrushes, Robins, etc., and a piece of coarse fat suspended in the nearest tree will entice all the species of Tits to give a gymnastic display within a few hours.

The Pushful Sparrow.

The Sparrow is undoubtedly the most persevering bird we have, and no bird more quickly sums up the situation and takes advantage of any little forgetfulness on the part of the owner of a garden or strip of land. They wait patiently in the morning until the fowls or pigs are fed, going down for their share almost before the attendant has left the spot. Occasionally they make mistakes, as when the other morning one found his way into an aviary. He knew there was good sound seed in there, and determined to have his share, but unfortunately forgot the way out.

King Edward's Pet.

The intimate acquaintance Yankee reporters have with details of the lives of royal and other notable personages is well illustrated by this clipping from a journal published the other side of the "herring pond":—King Edward of England has a Canary of which he is very fond, and he has taught it to rest on his hand. When with his friends, or even with official persons whom he knows familiarly, the King likes to have his Canary with him. Recently he received a visit from the French Ambassador, and took him to his private room. While there a member of the British Government arrived and desired to see the King. Lord Knollys, the ever discreet secretary of His Majesty, took a peep into the room. He then said to the Cabinet Minister: "Don't disturb the King just yet. He is greatly occupied; he has an Ambassador on his right hand and his Canary on his left."

"CAGE BIRDS" CALENDAR FOR 1909.

A few Notes on the Seasonable Pictures.

We venture to think that the pleasing and artistic calendar for the coming year which Mr. Norman has designed and executed, and which is given away with this Christmas number, will find an abiding place on the walls of many a fancier's home. The idea underlying the design seems to us singularly appropriate.

The Seasons.

Spring typifies the hope of the fancier for a successful breeding season, so important to us all, and so vital a point to the exhibitor who has not a "long pocket," and has to depend on his stud to produce his winners. When the proper season arrives, may all our readers have their cock birds singing lustily and their hens in vigorous condition, essentials which presage fertile eggs, a good hatch, and a plentiful crop of youngsters.

Summer introduces us to the sombre-garbed Skylark, faithfully incubating her eggs in the depression in the soil which serves her for a nest, seemingly a rude and comfortless lodging. But this is not so in reality, for the Mother Earth has a warm bosom, and the situation, too, is admirably adapted to the needs of the young.

One of the familiar sights of autumn is the Bullfinch feeding upon its favourite blackberries. Our chubby-bodied, red-breasted little friend is undoubtedly a great eater of fruits and berries, and no doubt devours quantities of buds in season. The beak of the Bullie is of the swollen type associated with so many fruit-eating species. There can be but little question that the autumn feast of black, privet, etc., berries, helps to perfect the charming colour of the bird's breast.

The Java Sparrow is one of the birds which come to us from foreign climes able to stand the rigors of an English winter—snow and ice leave him unaffected, as lively and perky as ever. A bird more uniformly cheerful would be hard to find. If he were not plentiful and so cheap, how much more prized he would be than at present, great favourite though he is.

Breeding this season has ended fairly well, writes Mr. David Bruce, secretary of the Montreal Cage Bird Association. Scotch Fancies have increased by 100 amongst the various members; Yorkshires and Norwich and other varieties by about 200. Quite a number of Mules have been bred also, but they are all dark ones. I must say that readers of Cage Birds here and myself thoroughly enjoyed the articles on the Scotch Fancy Canary, by Mr. Thomas Smith. I see he greatly approves of the dandelion. It is many years since I gave it up, using apple instead. I reared 25 Scotch Fancy Canaries by the middle of June with 5 pairs. Then I rested them, and 7 pairs of Germans gave me about 60, making 85 in all, which means a lot of work.

A Favourite Spot.

Of all the places frequented by wild birds, the orchard must stand first as the favourite. There are always a few to be seen. In the spring the Tits and Bullfinches flit among the pink blossoms, and during summer the beautiful home of the Chaffinch may be found against the lichen-covered branch of some old tree. When autumn ripens the fruit the Starlings and Blackbirds select the best,

The Northern Yorkshire C.C. Challenge Trophy.

The above photograph depicts the challenge cup of the Northern Yorkshire Canary Club, for the best bird bred by a member during the current year. It has to be won twice in succession, or three times in all. At Wallsend Show, where it was competed for last year, it was won by Mr. G. W. Cuthbertson, of Heighington.

FINAL BREEDING RESULTS OF THE SEASON.

Kent County C.B.A.

So far as Dover is concerned the net results have generally been very fair indeed, particularly in Yorkshires; and anyone thinking of taking up this variety need not send to the County of Broad Acres for stock, there being plenty here to suit the most critical and fastidious—birds good in quality, and no doubt to be had at a moderate price. Norwich do not appear to have taken on here, but I hear that two or three of our members in the county have met with fair success. Mr. Jones (Margate), has bred about 60, 40 of which he has on colour food. Mr. H. W. Thompson (Deal), has something over 30. Messrs. Gibbs Taylor, and Patterson (Canterbury), between them have a big lot, but I have no details from either of these gentlemen. Mr. Broad has done remarkably well in Crests and Crestbreds, better, in fact, than ever, and his rooms are a treat to see, he informs me. Well, he deserves it, and it "serves him right, too." The following list of the Dover members' results indicates very keen competition in Yorkshires, and I predict some "prize packets," which will justify my remark as to the purchase of stock. Mr. Abbott has over 20 Yorkies and Borders; Mr. Austen, 36 Yorkshires; Mr. Company about 40, consisting of Yorkies, Norwich, Crests, and Lizards; Mr. Eade, 32 Norwich and a few Mules, including a lightly-marked Buff Linnet-Canary; Mr. Hendry, 36 Yorkies and a few Scotch Fancies; Mr. Heritage, 30 Lizards and a few Mules, including a Goldfinch-Greenfinch, and a Siskin Canary; Mr. Johnson, over 50 Yorkies and 4 Mules, including a lightly variegated Goldfinch-Canary (a Yellow); Mr. Leaver, 45 Yorkies; Mr. Lockett, over 30 Yorkies and 15 Border Fancies; Mr. E. C. Rayner, 41 Yorkies, 4 Mules, and a few Norwich; and last, but not least, Mr. Ward, 25 Mules. 16 Lizards and Sib.-breds.—Geo. Sanderson, hon. secretary, Kent County C.B.A.

Forfar and District C.B.I.S.

The following are the final results of the season's breeding operations. Mr. W. Brown has had a good season with over 30 young and a few nice ones among them. I noticed a promising Yellow hen and a variegated Yellow cock. Mr. J. Cable has finished up with over 40 for the season, and has some very promising ones, including his Clear Yellow hen, 1st and special at our recent young bird show, 2 Yellow cocks, and a Buff cock. Mr. J. Grewar has not done very well this season, having only 13 young ones. Mr. P. Taylor has had a very good season with about 30, some very good youngsters being among them. Mr. J. Bowman has also had a good season, with somewhere about 40; he has a very promising clear Buff and a Yellow variegated. Mr. J. Fraser has got a good few likely birds. I have finished up fairly well myself, having 30 after a very bad start. All the foregoing are as regards Norwich. In Borders, Mr. P. Falconer leads the way, having over 60; he has, I believe, some very promising birds. Mr. D. Lawson has over 40, and has 4 or 5 good ones; Mr. J. Stevenson has over 30, some of which promise to do very well. Mr. J. Stirling has not been so fortunate, having only 20 odd, which, however, includes a very good Yellow variegated hen. Mr. W. Irvine has had a very good season, and Mr. J. Campbell has for his first season over 20, all looking well. Mr. C. Kennedy has a good few, and Mr. W. Doggrel a few Norwich and Mules, some of which are looking well. Mr. J. Laird bred a few Goldie and Canary Mules, and Mr. J. Mathers 2 Linnet-Bullie Hybrids, which promise well.—W. Grewar, hon. secretary of the Forfar and Dis. C.B.I.S.

A White Plover.

Mr. John Pack, of Little London, the defendant in the Plover-catching case heard at the Spalding Sessions last week two days afterwards captured a white Plover between Pinchbeck and Surfleet. The most experienced of the fen Plover catchers have no recollection of a white one being decoyed to their nets before.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

DOUBTS AND DIFFICULTIES SOLVED BY SPECIALISTS.

Queries will be answerod under the following Conditions;—

(1)—All questions must be clearly written in ink (or typewritten) on one side only of paper, and must conclude with either the correct name of querist, or a pseudonym, or initials.

(2)—The proper name and address in full of querist must always be written on a separate sheet of paper and enclosed with the query. In no case must the address appear on the query.

(4)—Queries must not include or be included in orders for books, instructions re advertisements, or any other matter for publication.

(5)—The department to which the queries refer must be stated in bold letters on the left-hand corner of the query.

(6)—If an answer in the same week's issue is desired, queries must be posted to reach us by Monday's first post at latest. Queries will be dealt with in the order in which they are received, and only as space permits. The earlier queries are received the better attention they are likely to have.

(7)—*Queries relating to illnesses of birds, except enquiries as to cause of death (for which see Post Morteme) will be answered by return of post on receipt of a postal order for sixpence and an addressed stamped envelope. NOTE.—If an answer is required concerning the proper mating, etc. of Norwich, Yorkshires, Crests, Cinnamons, Greens, Borders, Lizards, Scotch or any other variety of the Canary family, we shall, should the querist desire us to do so, be pleased to submit his question for answer to some leading specialist of the day on the variety concerned.

CANARY QUERIES.

Losing Feathers Again.

W.M.D.—The Norwich has probably been exposed to some draught, or extreme variations of temperature. See that these points are remedied; keep the bird in a fairly equal, hut not necessarily high temperature, and give in addition to its usual seed diet a small teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake with four drops of sherry and one drop of cod liver oil emulsion well mixed in it every second day for a fortnight. In its drinking water during the same time give it four drops of tincture of steel every second day, and on the alternate days twenty drops of chemical food. Give the steel on the days when you are not giving sponge cake, and if the feathers have ceased dropping out you may discontinue it altogether after the first week, hut continue giving the chemical food for a fortnight in any case.

Result of a Fall.

Boyce.—It is quite likely the shock and injury occasioned hy the fall of the cage was the immediate cause of the hird's ceasing to sing, and then the moult probahly commenced to prevent it re-commencing. But as it now seems hright and healthy there is no reason why it should uot recommence its song at the approach of spring. Feed it on a diet of plain Canary only as a staple, and give separately in addition half a teaspoonful of summer rape twice a week, a few grains of hemp on two other days, and again on two other days half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake, in which, for the next two or three weeks, well mix three drops of sherry. Give all these extras on separate days, and alternately, so that a different one is given each day. Every second or third day give a small spray of green-food as long as it can he procured free from frost. I think it may very probably begin to sing in a few weeks on this treatment alone, without any further medical treatment. If it does not, you may try the effect of twenty drops of whiskey and ten of glycerine in its water for a week or fortnight.

Various.

R.H.—It depends upon several points whether the practice of putting a fire in a cold bedroom twice a week at night will be harmful to Canaries in the room. If the fire is only put in on exceptionally cold evenings, and the room is not made very hot, and the birds are not in a position where they will feel the full effect of the fire, it may not do any serious harm, but if the reverse of these conditions is the case, the effect will probably he to throw the birds into a partial moult from time to time all through the winter and spring months. As a rule, occasionally fires of this nature are only harmful, and it would be better to have none at all, or to have them regularly. If you cannot avoid having fires occasionally, your best plan will be to keep the birds at the farthest end of the room away from the fire whilst it is in, taking all necessary precautions, of course, to avoid placing them in a draught. 2. The effect of the mating you describe will, in ordinary circumstances, be the production of a big majority of heavily variegated birds, a small proportion of ticked or lightly variegated, and an occasional green probably. A clear with plenty of dark flue may turn up as a very exceptional rarity, and would be valuable as a stock bird to keep up the colour of clears. This produce will naturally vary somewhat according to the way the parents have been bred, and the direction in which they may be disposed to influence colour from such breeding. Very glad to hear you have been so successful by following advice given in CAGE BIRDS.

A Feather Eater.

"Dickey Bird."—If you are quite satisfied there are no insects in the cage (red mites, you must remember, are nocturnal in their habits, and only to be found in the daytime by probing their hiding places), your diet must include something of an overheating nature. In addition to the Canary as a staple, give half a teaspoouful, not more, of summer rape twice a week, and on two other days a small piece of bread soaked in milk and a few grains of inga sprinkled over it. Give a spray of watercress, or chickweed, if obtainable, and free from frost, every second or third day. A mealworm, if you have them, each day when you do not give gren food, would be very serviceable. Restrict diet solely to these items for a few weeks. In the drinking water give a crystal of sulphate of soda and six drops of lemon juice every second day for a week, and twice a week for another fortnight afterwards.

Ceased Singing.

Interested.—The change from the spare room to the kitchen has evidently upset the Norwich, and the natural deduction is that the kitchen is either subject to great variations of heat, or the bird has been placed in a position where it gets a draught. The hoarseness is evidence in favour of the latter suggestion. You must see it is placed quite out of reach of any draught, and in a position where it will not get the full benefit of the fire by day, and he correspondingly cold at night. Also see its cage does not hang in a position where it will receive the fumes from a lighted lamp or gas jet. Give a pinch of summer rape twice a week, and a few grains only of hemp on two other days, and three times a week for the next fortnight give half a teaspoonful of egg food or crushed sponge cake, with three drops of sherry mixed in it. If you can get watercress free from frost, give a spray of this every second or third day instead of apple, and give a small cube of fat boiled bacon or pork between the wires for it to peck at. In the drinking water give twenty drops of whisky, ten of glycerine, and half a chlorate of potash lozenge every second day, until the hoarseness is removed. Shake the latter until lozenge is dissolved.

Breathes Heavily.

Beginner.—I should scarcely call a hird in the best of health which breathed so heavily and showed distress towards evening. It is just possihle she may be too fat. As a preliminary treatment try the effect of limiting the diet to plain Canary seed only, with a small teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake twice, for a week, and give a little green food every second day. During the same time give as much Epsom salts as will cover a sixpence, ten drops of glycerine, and twenty of whisky, every second day. If the hird seems hetter at the end of the week, continue the same treatment for another week, and afterwards alternate it with weeks of the usual food and treatment for a month. But in case the hird is not perceptibly better generally at the end of the first week, then continue hy feeding as advised to "Interested" in this issue for a month, and in the drinking water give twenty drops of whisky, ten of glycerine, and two of oil of eucalyptus, well shaken together, every second day for a week. After that substitute twenty drops of Chemical Food every other day for another fortnight. Keep the bird in a comfortahle and even temperature, but do not overheat it, and see that all draughts are religiously avoided.

Blighted Affections.

Another Beginner.—I do not suspect the loss of the bird's mate had anything to do with the cessation of its song. It is far more likely that there is something wrong with your treatment. Try the following treatment for a month. As a staple diet give plain Canary seed only, and twice a week give separately a small pinch of rape seed, and every second day half a teaspoonful of egg food or crushed sponge cake, whichever you use regularly, with two drops of sherry and one drop of cod liver oil emulsion well mixed in it, and on the alternate days hetween giving this give a small spray of watercress, hut see that it is quite free from frost. In the drinking water for the first three days give ten drops of syrup of buckthorn, and after that continue hy giving twenty drops of whisky, ten of glycerine, and five each of syrup of squills, and tincture of lobella, every second day for a week, or a little longer if necessary. On the intervening days give twenty drops of Chemical Food. See that the bird is not exposed to draughts; that the cage is quite free from mite; and that it is kept clean and nicely strewn with gritty sand. If not quite well in a month write again and refer to this reply.

Killed By Enamel.

R. F. J.—You do not say how long a time you allowed the cage to stand after enamelling it before you returned the hird to it which pecked off the enamel with fatal results, hut I expect the time was too short for the enamel to get quite hard and firm. After enamelling the cage should stand in a warm room, or in a current of warm dry air for some days—a week, at the very least, I consider necessary, though, personally, I am not much in favour of enamels at all inside cages. I do not expect the Roller would take any harm by being put in the cage now, as it should be thoroughly dry and hard, and the bird being new to the cage will not have acquired any habit of pecking at the side. Still you will do well to he aware of its behaviour for a few days when it is first introduced, and if it appears to he forming the hahit of pecking at the enamel place a cube of lump sugar or fat boiled bacon in the wire to divert its attention. Nibhling at the sugar or fat will not hurt it in any way.

Talent and Comedy.

"Scotia."—Certainly there is a decided risk in keeping your trained Roller in a room occupied by singing Norwich. You doubtless know the old adage about evil communications corrupting good manners, and bad habits are more quickly learned than good ones. This is especially true of the Roller placed in such circumstances as yours. The harsh, loud song of the Norwich, being in reality the most natural one, is very apt to incite the Roller to imitate it in preference to its own sweet, low melody which, after all, is an artificial one. Much, of course, depends upon the individual. Some birds will retain their acquired melody much longer than others under similar conditions. As regards your other questions, a good staple mixture is two parts Canary to one of summer rape, giving in addition the little extras frequently advised in this column. I do not think much practical good would accrue from removing the bird's seed for an hour or two each day, because it appears to be always eating. Unless it is getting fat and sluggish, I do not expect it eats too much; but if you doubt it, give it a fair-sized spray of green-food daily, or, failing that, add a pinch of Epsom salts to its water twice a week.

Aviary Breeding.

W. Moffatt.—Your aviary would accommodate 50 birds at its full capacity. Therefore, it should be capable of running two cocks and six hens quite easily, and I think this number should he able to run together in it without the least danger of trouble from quarrels, and the young might also he allowed to remain with the parents until the moult, or after the moult if required. If you wished to remove the first round of youngsters at say eight or ten weeks old, you might put in three cocks and nine or ten hens as a breeding stock. If you adhere to the determination to put only one cock, three or at most four hens would still be sufficient to put with him.

Open Beak.

W. Coates.—Keep the hen in a comfortable and even temperature, and avoid all draughts, and do not give cold baths until she is recovered. A tepid hath once or twice a week on mild sunny days may be given. In addition to the diet of Canary and rape give a few grains of hemp two or three times a week, and every second day for a fortnight give half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake with three drops of sherry mixed in it. Every second or third day give a scrap of green food, but see that it is quite free from frost. In the drinking water give twenty drops of whisky, ten of glycerine, and two of oil of eucalyptus, well shaken together, two days in every three for the first week, and every second day for another week afterwards. Give pure water only on the intervening days. A cube of fat hoiled bacon or pork stuck between the wires would also prove beneficial.

Unhealthy Fumes.

"Gaudy."—The product of combustion whether it be of gas, oil, or any other material are undoubtedly most harmful if the birds have to hreathe air vitiated with them, or if they are compelled to live in an atmosphere heated hy the flame for a few hours each evening, and then for the rest of the night and day endure a correspondingly cold air. But in your case I cannot see that the gas stove would have any harmful effect if the fanlight which you say is immediately over the stove is capahle of being opened and is kept open a little way when the stove is burning, to allow the heated and foul air to escape. The other fanlight between the stove and the hirds should also be opened a little to take off any fumes that may disperse beyond the current going through the one over the stove. Altogether your stove seems to he exceptionally well placed to avoid injury to the birds. What you need to be most careful of is that the heat does not create a draught to which the hirds are exposed, and any draught to extinguish the flame and thus cause a serious leakage. Do you really mean that you were using the stove through the hreeding season? If so I should imagine this was quite unnecessary.

Prolonged Moulting.

T. S. Novice.—It is the extremely protracted moult that keeps your hirds from singing. They will not hegin to sing again until the moult is quite finished, probably now not until the weather begins to get mild in spring. You have most likely got them where they are exposed to extremes of temperature, or to some draught. Keep them in a fairly comfortable temperature, not necessarily very high, hut quite free from draughts and equable. Feed them on a mixture of two parts Canary to one part summer rape as a staple. Give a few grains of hemp twice a week, and every second day half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake with three drops of sherry and one drop of cod liver oil emulsion well mixed in it each time. In the drinking water give as much Epsom salts as will cover a sixpence for the first two days, and after that give four drops of tincture of steel every second day for a fortnight, and twenty drops of Chemical Food on the alternate days. Keep the cages nicely strewn with clean, gritty sand, and give a small spray of watercress every second or third day. A fortnight or month of this treatment should make a wonderful improvement in the hirds.

Wants To Know.

W. Stenton.—You are quite right in wishing to huy your seeds separately. The sorts you require for Canaries for regular, or staple use all the year round, are, in the order of quantities required, Canary, summer rape, hemp. For occasional use in small quantities, or at certain seasons, maw, niger, linseed and gold of pleasure. Of the last four a pound, or a quart, whichever system you use for buying, each should suffice for a small stock of hirds for a year. As regards mixing them, see detailed reply to "C. O. S." in last week's issue. If you have a number of hirds to cater for you will find it more economical to give the seeds separately. Give only plain Canary seed in the hoppers for a staple, and give half a teaspoonful of rape per hird separately about twice a week, and a few grains of hemp about as often. Egg food, sponge cake, hread and milk, crushed oats, and many other things which you may see recommended, are useful mainly as tit-bits or luxuries for occasional use, and are not really essential as chief or regular items of diet. The above-named seeds, with a small teaspoonful of egg food once or twice a week, and a spray of green food every second or third day, with an occasional hath and due care to avoid draughts, a clean cage and gritty sand, is sufficient to keep either varieties of Canaries in health and song. With the Roller, however, as you will see in the reply to which you referred, a staple of a mixture of two parts Canary to one part rape may he given.

Pecks Feathers at Night.

No Name.—There can only he one rational cause of your birds acting as you say, and that is having the cages infested with red-mite. Examine cages minutely in all corners, joints of doors, ends of perches, etc., and scrape out any cracks or holes with a pin on to a sheet of white paper. The result will probably be a revelation to you. Thoroughly overhaul the cages, and the position where they stand or hang, including the wall or staging, and give them a good dressing with any of the usual insecticides you favour. For me whilst the birds occupy the cages I prefer the solution of camphor in spirits as frequently prescribed here, and in addition you should add a few drops of essence of quassia to the bathing water for a time. The 1908 bird may only be suffering a little more acutely than the others from the attacks of the mites. Keep it fairly warm, free from draughts, and in addition to giving each cage the same attention as the others to free it of mites, treat it as follows for a fortnight or so. For one day only give as much Epsom salts as will cover a sixpence in its drinking water, and after that half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake with three drops of sherry and one drop of cod liver oil emulsion mixed in it each second day, and in the drinking water four drops of tincture of steel every second day, and on the alternate days twenty drops of chemical food.

A Moult Wanted.

W. H. S.—No, I cannot give you a tonic for putting the birds in moult. When a bird fails to moult at the proper time, and keeps in apparently perfect health, even going so far as laying a clutch of eggs in winter, I should just let matters slide so far as forcing a moult was concerned, and trust to the natural course of events for a remedy. It is just possible these birds may have moulted slowly, so that you did not notice its progress. If you really want to enforce a moult, which I do not advise, placing the birds in a warm position near a fire and keeping the cage covered over, and adding half a teaspoonful of maw seed to the dietary every second day, and a few shreds of saffron to the water on the alternate days during the first week, will succeed in all save the most exceptional cases. But, again, I repeat, I do not advise you to do this. In addition to your staple of plain Canary seed you should give a small pinch of rape separately, twice a week, and once a week a small teaspoonful of egg food. Give green food as you are now doing, and a pinch of Epsom salts in the water once or twice a week will help to prevent a recurrence of the egg laying.

BRITISH BIRDS, MULES AND HYBRIDS.

Muling Matters.

H.H.S.E.—(1) It is like this. Generally the hen Canary is ready to go to nest for the first time before the Goldfinch is "up" in full breeding condition, as Goldies are by nature late hreeders. Hence it follows that the best plan is to keep the hen back as long as necessary (or possible), to give the Goldfinch time. And usually the presence of a male hird serves to set a hen going sooner than she would were she in the cage alone. If the Finch is not ready, only clear (unfertile) eggs can result. This is why most hreeders think it well to separate the couples about the end of January until towards the end of March. If prepared to take the chance of clear eggs first round, then this procedure need not he followed, but the couple can he left together to make a start whenever it pleases her ladyship to do so. She won't fret, however. It is often well into April before a Goldie becomes "rank"; it depends a lot upon circumstances, and also on the hird itself, whether it has hred in captivity before, etc. This answers your question No. 2 as well.

Caging & Feeding Linnet Mule.

Miss W.—Yes; I always recommend the Finch stock cage as the hest type of house-cage, for seed-eaters that I know. Still, I do not mean to say there are not other good patterns. If you desire to hang your Linnet Mule in a window, there is no reason why you should not do so, providing you hang him helow the centre, for more or less draught usually finds its way through there. Get a waggon-shaped cage, as hig as you possibly can (some window cages are far too small), made of plain, tinned wire. If with glass round and enamelled prettily at the bottom, such a cage looks very nice. Your stock mixture would he as follows: Canary and teazle two pints each, summer rape, charlock, and hemp half a pint each, linseed a quarter pint. Give a little maw, wild seed mixture, sunflower, green food (especially shepherd's purse), as tit-bits frequently. Cuttlefish is very good stuff to have always in the cage; far better than sugar.

Cutting Nails of Thrush.

P.B.W.—If you are not used to handling birds, then you would do well to get someone with experience to shorten your Thrush's nails—you don't want to shorten its life as well, of course. There is really no danger if properly done. Anyway, the necessity for sometimes cutting the nails of a hird is not one, I am afraid, that can be avoided. It is quite a simple operation, and need alarm no one who has an average amount of nerve. Simply hold your hird firmly, yet gently, and with a pair of sharp strong scissors (or nail clippers) cut off the superfluous growth. It causes not the slightest pain to a hird, providing you do not cut too close up to the toes, and this you should have no difficulty in determining, in fact you only need remove the curved-in portion that is inconvenieneing the hird (leave say half-an-inch on middle and hack claws, and slightly less on the side claws). The chief point is to keep the hirds from having free play with their wings (hold same close to the body) or they will struggle, and this is likely to lead to a hroken (snapped) wing.

Treatment of Greenfinch.

Yellow Boy.—You must have got hold of a rare good coloured Greenie if he is "more yellow than green." I hope it is not yellow that will "come off in the wash." Of course, there are individual Greenies which do excel in colour, and appear quite a yellowish green tone of colour; they are not common, and are generally rather small hirds. You won't find your Greenies very difficult to cater for, or hard to keep in health; they are robust fellows as a rule. For food the most important item is a daily feed of good, sound (full kernelled) sunflower seed. This can be offered in a separate dish, or placed among the stock mixture. The latter should be made up as follows: Canary and teazle, two pints each; hemp, summer rape, charlock and linseed half a pint each. Wild seed mixture, and some good maker's special packet Finch mixture, can be occasionally offered for a change, and also the other seeds in common use, while sunflower heads (gathered from the garden) full of seed, thistle and hard-heads, seeding chickweed, groundsel and shepherd's purse should be freely given as in season.

The Making of Birdlime.

Novice, A.E.—I have several times given in my column this recipe for making hird-lime. It is not my own—I only tried making it once, and created such a dreadful stench that in the interests of the neighbours I "turned it in"—but was sent some time back by one of our correspondents—still, like him, I prefer netting hirds to liming them. Take one pint of hest raw linseed oil, put into an old quart saucepan, put on the fire and simmer gently for three or four hours. On no account let it hoil; stir every few minutes. No change will he noticed until after the second hour, then it will show froth on top, this being a sign of thickening. It must be given every attention or it will hoil over. When it gets about as thick as treacle take it off the fire and pour into a pan of cold water; stand till cool, then work it up with the hands till it shows no signs of having water in it. This will he found to work on twigs quite easily. It can he taken off when not in use, and used over and over again. If too stiff, mix with it a little of the so-called "treacle." Boiling will thicken it if needed. Made properly this will hold anything from a Wren to a Blackbird. An outhouse is more suitable for the boiling purpose than the kitchen, as the preparation has a very sickly odour.

Showing a Yellowhammer.

Peter McKenzie.—The Yellowhammer you thought was a good colour, may be a good colour after all, for the birds that beat it in this respect possibly had been colour-fed. A 'Hammer is not at its best in colour until it is three years old. The chief colour points of a show Yellowhammer are rich yellow (golden) top of head, cheeks, throat, and breast, especially the two latter, though the breast is usually more or less shaded over (across) with a beautiful warm brown. The back should be a rich deep brown, showing the dark markings (pencilling) distinctly and evenly, also the wing markings. Very important markings are the V-shaped black streaks running along each side of the crown, meeting at the beak, and the somewhat horseshoe-shaped cheek markings. These should both be dense black, thick, and well-defined (clear-cut). The centre of the head-mark should be as clear and bright a yellow as possible (free from black ticking), and round about the cheek-marks should be the same. I may say that the head and throat of the Yellowhammer "clear up," as fanciers say, towards the spring—that is, lose the dark edging to the feathers and so become a purer, brighter yellow. This "clearing-up" process is also hastened by rich feeding (plenty of live ants' eggs, mealworms, and other live insects; also good insectivorous food frequently).

Bird Fever.

Hard Hit.—Well, you may have "bird fever"; the sad series of losses certainly seems to point to it. Still, there is another very serious and destructive complaint, termed avian cholera, which can assume epidemic form, and which I believe can easily be confused with bird fever. It is, I understand, not so difficult to get rid of as the latter; also is peculiarly liable to take a virulent form during the continuance of damp, muggy weather. Whichever it is, I am truly sorry for you. Your only chance lies in very thorough disinfection. You could wash over the place thoroughly (walls as well) with a very strong carbolic disinfectant, going into every crack and crevice, then dig a good dressing of chloride of lime well into the top surface of the soil. After a fortnight or so's interval, dig out the soil, throw it away, and replace with fresh; also then do the place out thoroughly with sanitary washable distemper. Perches, fittings and utensils I should replace with new. The place would probably be safe to use then. If possible to do so, you could also burn sulphur candles in the place. I can't say for sure, for fortunately I have never been troubled with epidemics of any kind—I should proceed on the above lines, I think, if I ever had the misfortune to be.

Blackcap Ailing.

W.E.H.—I think the food is unsuitable for regular use; a Lark mixture is too "stodgy" to suit Blackcap Warblers. You must give one of the mixtures designed specially for use with the smaller, delicate insectivorous birds. Blackcaps also eat (and need) a considerable quantity of ripe fruit daily. Those I have now, devour (in conjunction with my other small Softbills) a quite surprising amount, principally ripe banana, but also "sleepy" (very ripe) sweet pear and apple, figs, dates, peeled grapes, etc. Baked apple (cold, of course) is also esteemed, when well sweetened. Feed how you will, however, I find it is impossible to prevent the average Softbill laying on unnecessary fat, while unsuitable food (containing too much meal) sooner or later results in an internal upset. Constipation (generally severe) is usually a first symptom. The safest and most valuable remedy long experience has taught me to be saline medicine—either Epsom salts, sulphate of soda (Glauber's salts), or fluid magnesia or citrate of magnesia; I have used all with success. I always give a mild dose all round periodically—say, once a week—and I can honestly say that my losses are very few and far between. The dose is as much of the salts or soda as will just cover a shilling dissolved in two good tablespoonfuls of drinking water; or a small teaspoonful in a pint of water; of the magnesia, a small teaspoonful in two tablespoonfuls of water. Give your ailing bird two or three doses (until bowels well opened), and change its food.

Brevities.

Hen Goldfinch (H. A. M.).—You have only to feed your hen Goldfinch on the lines advised last week, and they will come into breeding condition (if healthy, of course) at the proper season.

What Bird? (W. H. S.).—So far as your description goes, I should think the bird must certainly be a cock Reed Bunting. If it eats only canary seed, this will serve to confirm my "think."

Cage Making (Dicky Bird).—Sorry, but cage-making is much too lengthy a matter to deal with in the query columns. We have printed several good articles on the subject, and it is dealt with in "Aviaries, Birdrooms, and Cages," published from CAGE BIRDS Office. The most useful all-round type of breeding cage is, in my opinion, the two-compartment one.

Blackcap (G. Wood).—Sorry your query seems to have been overlooked. The reply to "W. E H." this week exactly fits your own case. The "panting" is generally systematic of stomach troubles. Neither German paste nor pea-meal is fit to use for any bird less hardy (or smaller) than a Thrush or Skylark.

Use of Sawdust (E. J. Brook).—The danger with sawdust lies in when it gets mixed amongst the bird's food—generally because the food-pans are placed too near the bottom of the cage. In the ordinary way, sawdust is quite a safe covering for the cage floors of Softbills, and is, in fact, very widely used for that purpose. The point is, of course, to keep it from getting mixed with the food which is in the food vessels.

"Jacobin Sparrows" (D. F., Midlothian).—Your query was taken for a foreign one. The description you give is undoubtedly that of the Reed Bunting, and you seem to have a true pair. "Jacobin Sparrow" is just a local name for the species (though I never heard it before), the same as is Reed Sparrow.

Goldfinches Ailing (J. W. Saywell).—Feeling a bit "liverish," I should say. Prompt use of dandalion juice (taraxacum) from the chemist would be the likeliest remedy. Give a small teaspoonful in two good tablespoonfuls of drinking water, fresh daily, until bowels are being thoroughly well acted upon. Most captive birds eat too much, unfortunately.

Identity of Bird (G. A.).—I certainly think you have been correctly inlormed, and that the bird is a Ring Ousel, probably a hen (note our coloured plate and article this week). Don't, anyway, continue wondering whether it is a "Blackbird-Thrush Hybrid."

A Sex Problem (W. L. Waterman).—The white does not want to run "up into" the quills, but right back up to the quill. If the Linnet is in good condition and has never attempted to sing, then this is good evidence of its being a hen; if grey rather than brown on the back, and with a heavily-streaked appearance on the breast, the evidence is overwhelming.

The Chaffinch's Head (Bappo).—"How to keep the blue hood on a Chaffinch" is a puzzler of a question. As this blue is assumed only in the Spring (when the bird comes into full nuptial dress), the only answer seems to be: Don't let it moult. Your bird, if in good health, will get blue on the head later on—some captive birds already begin to show it. I prefer to say nothing as to your chances of breeding with the bird and a hen canary. Try, by all means, but it is doubtful whether any young have yet been reared from this mating.

FOREIGN BIRDS.

What Parrot?

"Anon."—I should say you have some species of Amazon; that is if its tail is a short one. If in good condition it should be worth exhibiting. By good condition I mean tight and silken in plumage as well as being bright-eyed and in general good condition. I prefer the following mixture in about equal parts:—Canary seed, maize, oats, wheat, dari, hemp and sunflower seeds. Well mix these and keep a supply continuously in the cage. Also supply ripe fruit, plain biscuit, crust of stale household bread, nuts, greenfood, grit, cuttlefish and water. I should not soak its crusts or biscuits; the bird will do that for itself. Do not give table scraps, tea, coffee or milk slops or any kind of animal food. If the bird has a long tail it is one of the Indian Parrakeets, probably the Plum-head, and the dietary, etc., as given above will suit this species also, with this exception that Canary seeds and oats should be three parts each and the other kinds one part each.

Description of Cockatiel.

"Young Beginner."—This is a pretty and easily kept species, an inhabitant of Australia, and so hardy and indifferent to the inclemencies of our English winter, that it may be kept out of doors in any aviary that would accommodate Pigeons or Doves, always providing the netting is of a small mesh. The upper surface is dark ashy-grey, much paler in the under surface; a belt of white runs from the shoulders across the wings; the face and crest are primrose yellow; and the ear-coverts brick-red. The female lacks the yellow face and crest of the male, these being grey, and only slightly tinged with yellow; the under side of her tail is mottled black, white and yellow, the under-side of the tail of the male being black. Canary and millet seed and a few oats, with green food, grit, cuttlefish and water for drinking and bathing, will suffice to keep this bird in a healthy and vigorous condition.

What Birds, etc.?

Ignoramus.—You have some species of Tyrant, very probably the Sulphuring Tyrant; but your description is barely complete enough for me to be quite sure. Do not feed it entirely upon meat; crush and soak some puppy biscuits, and scald some game meal and give vegetables from your table, while scraps of cooked meat and fat may also be given. Also give any fruit it will take, and as many insects as you can procure. A dozen mealworms a day can very well be given, supplemented with such cockroaches, beetles, smooth caterpillars, grasshoppers, etc., as you can capture according to the season; small frogs, lizards, newts, tadpoles, and such like would all help out the bill of fare. If it sulks at the soft biscuit and game meal mix a little minced meat among it, and the difficulty will soon disappear. The habit of hanging its food against perch or branch is quite common to this genus and all the Kingfisher tribe.

Parrot Pulling its Feathers.

T. Richards.—I incline to the opinion that your bird is troubled with parasites. Bathe it two or three times a week with quassia solution for, say a month, keeping it carefully out of draught till dry. Give it a dose of Dinneford's Magnesia—one teaspoonful in two tablespoonfuls of water—repeating the dose after an interval of three days; in between (and continue for a couple of months), make the drinking water the colour of pale port wine with Parrisb's Chemical Food. Diet as follows:—Seed mixture, Canary seed, hemp, oats, wheat, dari, and sunflower seeds, well mix and keep a continuous supply in the cage. Also supply ripe fruit, plain biscuit, nuts, crusts of household bread, cuttlefish and grit. The above should enable you to give it a varied dietary without any need for going outside same. Do not give tea, coffee, or milk slops, table scraps, or any kind of animal lood. See it is kept out of draught and in a room in which the temperature is not too variable.

Treatment of Bishops.

"Coedgrwnd."—(1) Canary and white millet seeds, also spray millet, green food, grit and water for drinking and bathing ad lib. Give a couple of mealworms daily; in the summer you can give it spiders, beetles, smooth caterpillars and such like, as you are able to capture. They will exist in good condition for a long period on seed alone, but they are the better for a few insects, and more contented; and I am convinced the live food helps them at the critical period of changing colour and tends to increase the richness and silkiness of their resplendent plumage. (2) Bishops are Weavers, the latter being the more correct term. (3) Ribbon, Zebra, Diamond and Serin Finches; Gold-breasted, Grey, St. Helena and Orange-cheek Waxbills; Grey and White Java Sparrows, Silverbills, Spice Birds; Bronze, Black-headed and Tricolour Mannikins; Bengalese, Common and Green Avadavats; Saffron, Grey and Green Singing Finches; Napoleon, Orange, Grendier, and Madagascar Weavers. Diet for all as above. My book on "Foreign Birds for Beginners," would help you, 1/1 post free from CAGE BIRDS Office.

Breeding Budgerigars & Zebras.

B. F. A.—(1) You could not breed Budgerigars and Zebras in one cage; the Zebra Finches would sooner or later get maimed and killed off, though in a garden aviary mishaps would probably be few and far between providing they were not crowded. Give the Zebra Finches an ordinary Canary breeding cage, and sooner or later they will bring you off some young. As regards the Budgerigars, get a box cage of some kind about 2ft. by 1½t. by 1½t. high, having a cocoa-nut husk at each end near the top of cage, put in a couple of branches for them to climb about on, and in due course these too should breed. You would find "Foreign Birds for Beginners," 1/1 post free from CAGE BIRDS Office, very helpful. (2) Zebra Finches—Canary and white millet seeds, spray millet, green food, water and grit. When they are feeding young a little of some good soft food mixture should be given (see advert. columns). Budgerigars—Canary, white and spray millet, a few oats, green food, grit, cuttlefish and water. This species cannot have too much grass in the ear (grass in flower) when it can be procured free from frost. The Zebra Finches are also very fond of it.

What Birds are They?

"Unknown."—(1) Yes, your birds are Black-headed Mannikins or Nuns. (2) This species seldom breeds either in cage or aviary, and I fear there is little prospect of your breeding them in a cage. However, the case is never hopeless; keep them in what is known as "a double-breeder." Remove the central partition, hang a husk at one end, and a deep box at the other (both to be hung up against top of cage). The box must have a round hole (1½ inch) cut out for entrance. Supply hay and grass for nesting material. (3) If any young should be hatched, supply a little of some good soft food mixture (see advert. columns) in addition to the regular diet of seed, greenfood, cuttlefish, grit and water for drinking and bathing.

Amazon With Sharp Claws.

M. E. G.—The claws are evidently overgrown or they would not bleed when you merely took off the points. As the bird is so tame I suggest rubbing them with a piece of stone; it should be but little trouble to remove the extreme sharpness—a bird's toes must not be cut back far enough to make them bleed. When such happens apply a little Friar's Balsam to check the bleeding. A smooth file would perhaps be better than the stone, hold the nail firmly and just draw the file across it two or three times; this should suffice to take away the needle point of the claws. Thanks for your appreciative remarks, glad to note you find CAGE BIRDS useful.

About a Grey Parrot.

W. T. Jenkins.—I should give neither the rice nor milk sop; as it has been used to soft food for a time give it a little boiled maize, but once it is taking sufficient of the seed mixture wean it from this. Many species of Parrots stretch their necks and shake their heads and bring up into their mouth the partly digested food from the crop; then they re-swallow it; this is quite natural, though it is sometimes mistaken for sickness. I cannot really say if this is the case with your bird, but if there is no actual vomit, I should be inclined to think so. However, give one teaspoonful of Dinneford's Magnesia in the drinking water (two tablespoonfuls) for one day; repeat the dose after an interval of three days, and then as required to keep the bowels freely moving; but not sufficiently often to cause the voidings to be watery. While giving the boiled maize, put half a teaspoonful of Parrish's Chemical Food over same, and boil till it is soft enough to allow the grain to be mashed between the fingers; but give it to the bird with the grain whole. Drain off all water and add the Chemical Food. Note.—The boiled maize only keeps fresh one day, and the food vessel should be thoroughly cleaned for each occasion. Try it with the following seed mixture using equal parts of each: Canary seed, oats, wheat, dari, hemp and sunflower seeds. The following are all wholesome—ripe fruit, nuts, green food, plain biscuit, and a dry crust of stale household bread; a little plain unspiced cake may also be given and regular supplies of cuttlefish, grit and water.

PARK & LAKE AVICULTURE

Answered by FRANK FINN, B.A., F.Z.S., M.B.O.U., etc.

Mandarin Ducks (H. Lewis).—Since your mated pair of Mandarins bully the other duck so much, you had certainly better get rid of her, as of course a trio must agree fairly well to be of any use for breeding. Getting another drake might remedy matters; I have known of three pairs living together, but even then one duck would not have anything to do with the drake she ought to have mated with, but was always after one of the mated ones. She did not, however, get bullied; and as your mated pair seem so spiteful, I think you had best try another pair of a different species, Carolinas, for instance, as you suggest—they are almost the only ducks which do not look shabby alongside of Mandarins. I was interested to hear of your success in showing the Mandarins—a 1st and special, a 2nd, three 3rds, and a vhc since the end of October is not so bad for birds which have so little show chances as fancy waterfowl; and I am sorry to bear you have only just cleared expenses. Your exploit is very creditable, as the birds were wild and ragged when bought, as wild-caught Mandarins usually are. I am always saying that there ought to be a show about May for British and foreign cage birds, fancy Waterfowl, Pheasants, and, in fact, all birds which are often kept, except poultry, Pigeons, and Canaries. Many birds which the public hardly ever see except in Zoos and public parks would then be brought before their notice, to the great benefit of the fancy.

POST MORTEMS.

Mr. J. North, 435, Oxford Road, Reading, will examine cage birds for a fee of 1s. 6d. each bird; for a reply direct, 2s. 6d.; analysis, 21s. Subjects for post mortem examination must be sent packed in a box direct to J. North, with fee. Any sent to the office of this paper will be thrown away, and if a fee is enclosed the loss will be the sender's.

Canary (D. Pearson).—Well established case of "bird fever." The place and cages of any birds that remain in your possession must be disinfected with burning sulphur.

GENERAL.

Answered by the Editor.

Cuttings (W. R. Murrell).—Many thanks.

A Letter (W.R.B.).—We can only accept matter subject to editorial discretion as to what part of same shall or shall not be published.

Heating Apparatus (W. S. Negus).—We are trying to trace this, but up to the present have been unable to do so. Your query re squirrels we have sent to our Mr. Finn, who will be pleased to answer same in the query columns next week.

An Advertisement (Signalman).—We can only refer you to the reply given to "G. Edwards" last week. We are much obliged to you for drawing our attention to the matter, and will certainly make enquiries.

Bird lime and bird braces (A Reader).—If cruelty can be proved against you in the use of either bird braces or bird lime, then, of course, you can be prosecuted. The using of these things, however, is not in itself illegal.

Northern Crest Club (J. G. Hutchinson).—We are afraid we cannot accept criticism of, or comments on, the awards at an open show as matter legitimately coming within the scope of a club notice. It might be subject to abuse, we are afraid, if permitted.

Our Advertising Scheme (F. King, and others).—We very much appreciate your kindly remarks, and thank you for taking the trouble to write to us.

Where the Stock Birds came from (M. Fleming, Junr.).—We are very pleased to hear of your success with birds bought from the firm you name, but we could not publish in "Twitterings" such a notice as the one you send unless paid for as an advertisement. Or why not send the firm a testimonial, so that they may use it in our advertisement columns?

A Paper (M. Jamieson).—Thanks very much. We shall be glad to publish the paper as space permits.

A Yorkshire Cock (Dundalk).—It is contrary to our rules to recommend any particular advertiser or advertisers. It would obviously be unfair for us to do so. If you adopt the deposit system, you ought to get satisfaction.

Catching Linnets (C. F. Bailey).—We have no knowledge of the entire prohibition of Linnet catching in Devonshire. As we have frequently to explain, however, the local authorities have power to make by-laws dealing with these matters in their own districts. A request for same, accompanied by a stamped addressed envelope, will bring you a copy of the Act from the Plymouth town clerk or head police officer, and in it the names of all the protected birds in Devonshire will be found, together with the months over which the protection extends.

A Seed Cleaning Machine (F. Whiting).—You put us in a difficult position, for we do not know anything as to your financial resources, and it always involves more or less outlay to push along a patent. If you have confidence in your machine, then you should certainly take steps to protect your idea. You can obtain full particulars of the procedure from the Patent Office, Southampton Buildings, Chancery Lane, London. As to whether you manufacture yourself, or try to get some firm to bring out the machine (paying you, of course, a proportion of the profit), this you must decide for yourself, according to your position at the moment.

Having taken CAGE BIRDS since it was first published, writes Mr. Richard Hunter (Ormskirk), and being an old fancier and judge for over thirty years, who has taken all the leading papers published on birdy matters during that time, I am satisfied that CAGE BIRDS (as I have proved by experience) is the best paper of them all. I am sure that all young fanciers about to embark into the cage bird hobby will find in CAGE BIRDS everything to instruct them to become successful breeders and exhibitors.

CORRESPONDENCE.

A NEW SOCIETY FOR HEBDEN BRIDGE.

SIR,—It has been decided by a few fanciers in this district to form a new Cage Bird Club. A meeting will be held at the "Nutclough Tavern," Hebden Bridge, on Wednesday, December 23rd, at 7.30 p.m., when a good attendance is earnestly desired.

A. PICKLES.

GREENOCK, PORT GLASGOW AND GOUROCK O.S.

SIR,—Our society, the Greenock, Port Glasgow and Gourock Ornithological Society, has been disbanded now for some time, through the dull state of trade, but a few of the fanciers recently met in the Co-operative Hall, Glasgow, for the purpose of reinstating the society. As we have now no funds left, there is nothing for us to start with, so I hope all old members will rally round and give us their support. Any new members wishing to join us might send his name and address to me, or make himself acquainted with any of the members. Annual subscription two shillings and sixpence.

JOHN FORRESTER, Sec.

Clune Brae Head, Port Glasgow.

A SUCCESSFUL REMEDY.

SIR,—I have been a constant reader of CAGE BIRDS for the past three months, and am pleased to say it has been the means of saving one of my birds, a Goldfinch. One morning about nine o'clock I found it sitting moping, with its head under its wing, on the lower perch, breathing as hard as ever it could do. I really thought that by 12 o'clock it would have been dead. I opened CAGE BIRDS to see if I could get any advice, and there I saw that one of your readers had, with Linnets, been very successful with following: Tincture of rhubarb 1oz., tincture of gentian 1oz., one dose, half a teaspoonful in two tablespoonfuls of water. I tried the same for my Goldfinch, with the result that instead of finding it dead, as expected, it was soon breathing much more freely, and hopping about its cage. I shall always put it down that this remedy saved the bird. I may say that just previously I had lost two Canaries, simply through ignorance, but have not lost one since. Please publish this, so that it may be of use to others.

SOME TROUBLES OF A BIRD FANCIER IN THE U.S.A.

SIR,—Leaving England for Los Angelos, California, U.S.A., with my pet birds, consisting of a pair each of Yorkshires and Hartz Mountain Rollers, five Goldfinches, a pair each of Chaffinches, Java Sparrows, and Cutthroats, and an English Linnet, was quite an undertaking. We sailed from Southampton by the s.s. Kaiser Wilhelm II., on October 28th, for New York. After a great deal of trouble, and throwing a few "sops" about, I had permission to keep my birds in my cabin. From the first day out until the day before arrival, we had very bad weather, yet my bird friends enjoyed it very much, not forgetting to scatter their seed over the cabin floor. But the steward being a bird lover, quite enjoyed the predicament. My travelling cage was 3ft. long by 1ft. square, divided into three compartments, one each for the Canaries, Finches, and the foreigners. I had a special bag which I kept for seed, sand, and feeding utensils, etc. I had no trouble whatsover with the customs officials, at New York, but on the streets and at the hotels people would stare at the cage on account of its peculiar shape, and a policeman in Chicago asked me if I was carrying a casket with me. At New York I had to get special permission to carry my birds on the train, as it is against the rules of the N.Y. Central R.R. to allow birds or other live stock on the train, and as it is a matter of days in the train, and not hours, as in this country, I was afraid I would never see my birds alive again. I am enclosing a copy of the permit to carry my birds on the same train as I was travelling by. It is as follows:—

New York,

To Mr. Wood,
(Baggage) New York Central and Hudson R.R.,
Grand Central Station,
New York City.

Dear Sir,—This letter will introduce to you Mr. James A. Douglas, to whom privilege has been allowed to take a cage of Canaries on the baggage car, on train No. 19, at 5.30 to-night. These instructions come from Mr. Story.

Very truly yours,
Thos. Cook and Sons, Ticket Agents.

When we arrived at the station, Mr. Wood met me, and took the birds to be placed on the baggage car. I did not like the idea of parting from them, but as soon as the train started I went to make the acquaintance of the baggage man, Mr. Roberts, who informed me that at New York they threw the cage in as if it were luggage. I went at once to examine the cage, and found the water bottles and feeders "all over the shop," and the birds very much frightened; but, as luck would have it, no damage had been done. The baggage man did all he could to make matters straight, and allowed me to use his hand-basin to wash up in. It was not very long before the birds were at home again. During the night, when we stopped at a station, I went to my birds to see that they were all right, as the baggage man changes with every section. Each crew had to be told all about the hobby in the old land, and how the working people of Europe make such a fancy of birds. They seemed very pleased with the information, and "guessed" and "calculated" that my birds spoke for themselves. We stayed a couple of days in Chicago, and then left for Los Angelos. At the station I passed my birds as scientific instruments, and having a drawing-room on the train it was very easy to hush the coloured porter. Before the train started I tied my birds securely, as I thought, on a shelf; alas and alack! when the train commenced to make speed we rounded a curve, and down came my cage, birds and all. The Linnet was drowned in one of the water tanks, and one of the Goldfinches killed outright. This is my twentieth journey across to this country, and every time I have brought birds with me, but this is my first accident. I shall never attempt to carry so many birds again.

J. A. DOUGLAS.

PROPOSED NEW SOCIETY FOR STAVELEY AND DISTRICT.

SIR,—Kindly spare space in your valuable CAGE BIRDS, calling up the fanciers of Staveley and District with a view to forming a Cage Bird Society for the district. Along with a few others, I would like to meet all fanciers at any central place in Staveley. I hope this will meet with hearty support, as I think a good society could be got together.

HENRY SMITH.

HYBRIDS AT ORMSKIRK SHOW.

SIR,—I must say that I was very much astonished to notice in last week's CAGE BIRDS Mr. T. Johnson's letter re the above, in which he asks Mr. Houlton (judge at the above show) his reasons for wrongly classing his (Mr. J.'s) exhibit. If Mr. Johnson had had the courtesy to write to the Secretary instead of rushing into print (a great failing with some people), he would have been informed that it was not necessary for Mr. Houlton to give any explanation, as that gentleman acted entirely upon instructions from the committee. There is no blame attached to anyone but Mr. J. himself, which I will endeavour to explain. At our previous show we had a class for "Any Variety Mule," and one for "Any Variety Hybrid," the former being Canary cross, the later any other cross. The latter class did not secure an entry. Previous to our drawing up the schedule for the show on November 28th last, Mr. Johnson sent word that if there were no other Hybrids going to be exhibited we need not make a class for them, as he could send his to Southport show the same day as ours. Only the Mule class (which was distinctly understood to be Canary cross) was put in the schedule. Previous to judging Mr. Houlton pointed out one or two wrongly classed birds, and, to save any disagreeableness among the members, he asked if they could be put into some other classes. Mr. H. was informed that there was no class for Hybrids, other than Canary, so Mr. Johnson's bird had to share the same fate as some other members' exhibits in being "wrong classed." I trust, Sir, I have clearly proved that no blame whatever is attached to Mr. Houlton, whom, I may finally state, the Ormskirk C.B.S. have found to be a gentleman well worth his hire.

T. H. TIFFEN,
Hon. Sec. Ormskirk and Dist. C.B.S.

P.S.—Mr. Houlton did not leave Ormskirk till the 5 p.m. train for St. Helens.

Canary Breeding for Beginners - - Post Free 7d.

By Claude St. John.

A practical, up-to-date guide to the cult of Canary breeding, designed specially for the use of the beginner in the hobby. It contains many helpful illustrations, and deals very fully, and in an easily-understandable manner, with the choice, sexing and mating of the birds, feeding for condition, the cages and their fittings, the bird room, egg-food, nest-building, rearing and moulting the young, colour feeding, training for show, and all the details and difficulties likely to confront the breeder.

CAGE BIRDS, 154, Fleet Street, London, E.C.

PROPOSED NEW SOCIETY FOR PENDLEBURY AND DISTRICT.

SIR,—Will you kindly allow me, through you valuable paper, CAGE BIRDS, to notify bird fanciers around Pendlebury, Swinton, Irlams, Height, and Walkden, that we wish to form a bird club in Pendlebury. We shall be very pleased to hear of anyone wishing to join. Particulars may be had from Mr. A. Donally, 46, Swinton Hall Road, Swinton, or from myself,

W. LLOYD,

FROM THE MIDLANDS TO THE CRYSTAL PALACE.

SIR,—Whilst visiting Tamworth Show on Saturday last, one of the members of that society remarked how enjoyable it would be if the fanciers in the Midlands would join together in a trip to the Crystal Palace Show in February next, and engage a saloon (or more if necessary). I should like to suggest that the Secretaries of the different Cage Bird Societies in the Midlands bring up this matter at their next meetings, so that, if favourably received, arrangements can be made in good time with the railway companies.

J. H. DE MAILLET,
Hon. Sec. City of Birmingham C.B.S.

WHAT WAS ITS RIGHT CLASS?

The Classification of Foreign Birds.

SIR,—In answer to Mr. W. Smith's letter in your issue of December 12th, I would point out that I wrong-classed his Eclectus because an Eclectus is not a Lory it should have gone into the next class, 153, for all Parrots not mentioned above," i.e., other than Parrakeets, Lories, Budgerigars, Love-birds, and Hanging Parrakeets. Had it been entered there I should have given it a prize. I am sorry for Mr. Smith, as I believe in some books the Eclecti are called Lories; but they certainly are not so, the brush-tipped tongue, jumping gait, and honey-sucking habit of the Lories marking them off as very distinct, and no modern book treats the Eclecti as Lories. In my opinion, foreign birds should be classed as Britishers are for show purposes, by size and by the nature of the food, with special classes for a few very common cheap species. Only in this way can a judge give, and an exhibitor obtain, full satisfaction.

FRANK FINN.

A VISIT TO THE AVIARIES OF MR. J. M. WHYTE (ABERDEEN).

SIR,—Having had a welcome invitation to visit the aviaries of Mr. J. M. Whyte (Woodside, Aberdeen), for some time past, I was able the other day to avail myself of his hospitality. Arriving at about 10 a.m., I found him busily attending to the wants of his feathered family. After the usual hearty exchanges, Mr. Whyte started to show me over his premises. Before going into details I will give you an idea of the extent and erection of the main aviary. In length it measures from 85 to 90 feet, the width being 8½ feet and the height some 8 feet in front, rising to 9½ feet at the back. It is divided into separate compartments to suit the different species. Doors are provided in each so that access can be had from end to end without coming to the outside. Running the whole length in front is an all-wire aviary measuring 12 feet from back to front by 8 feet high, and it is divided into compartments by ¾ inch mesh netting in the same way as the inside aviary. By means of sliding windows the inmates can be let in and out at will. In the case of British birds they always have access to the outside, but the foreign Finches Mr. Whyte keeps in at his discretion. Beyond the main aviary are two smaller ones, each about 14 ft. by 7 ft. by 7 ft. Both are half wood and half wired. So much for the aviary; let me now speak of the occupants. In the first of the small buildings my host had a beautiful cock Golden Pheasant and two hens of the same species, all in fine trim. Mr. Whyte tells me he has had over thirty eggs from them this season, but up to this date none had proved fertile. In No. 2 he had two pairs of Quails, lovely little creatures, and very tame. No 1 compartment of the main building is the British bird aviary, about 20 ft. long. The occupants were 16 Siberian Goldies, 8 Greenfinch hens, 3 Bully hens, 2 Linnets, 2 Chaffinches, 2 Yellowhammers and 1 Bramblefinch hen. This compartment is fitted up for hybridising purposes. One or two Greenie hens were on eggs. One Bully hen had died eggbound the day previous to my visit. No. 2 compartment contains the small foreigners; it is about 14 ft long, and is full of nesting places of all kinds. As to the inmates, I should say they numbered about 200. Many were on nests, and I noticed a good many young of different species. I distinguished the following: Blackhead, Black-faced, Bronzewing and Goldbreasted Munikins. Blue and White Javas, Zebra-finch, Zebra Waxbill, Bengalese, Ribbon-finch, Cutthroat, Whitethroated Finch, Scarlet Weavers, Boss Weavers, also the Red and Orange-cheek Whydahs, and others. It was a sight to see them all in the outside aviary, which is nicely got up to suit these delicate creatures. In the centre is a spray fountain playing continuously (in the trough of which many were enjoying a bath), surrounded by shrubs of different kinds; creepers are also growing on the wires and the Weavers were busy at work. Some six or eight Weavers' nests had been built but no eggs had been laid. It was a treat to watch these at work. No. 3 is the Budgerigar compartment. It is 12 feet long, and contained eight pairs of yellow Budgerigars, one green cock mated to a yellow hen, a pair of Cockatiels, the hen sitting on four fertile eggs, about a dozen young yellows fully fledged, and a few hens on eggs. Mr. Whyte put a sheaf of grass in the outside aviary, and it was a treat to observe how the birds ransacked it, and what a row they could make, too. No. 4 compartment, 7 feet long, contained a fine young King Parrot; he seemed to me very lonely-like. No. 5 is the finest compartment of the whole lot. It is 35 feet long, and the occupants are very numerous; no less than 45 pairs of Canaries—43 pairs Plainheads and 2 pairs for crest breeding. The cages were arranged in one long row along the back, three tiers deep, and a nicer lot it would be hard to find. Many youngsters were on the sticks and some of all ages were in the nests. About twenty hens were sitting on eggs. Two pairs only were up for muling, both paired to Goldies; one hen was set on four eggs. A small space wired off at the end of this room contained a lovely pair of Pope Cardinals. No. 6—which is the last—is about 6 ft. long, and contained three very curious specimens—namely, a pair of African Barn Owls, the hen being perched on a pedestal and rocking herself to and fro as if she wanted to send herself to sleep, and a Mynah Owl, very tame. This bird perched on to the hand of Mr. Whyte on being invited to do so. Thinking I had now seen the whole of his stock I proceeded to thank him for his kindness in showing me over his premises, but to my surprise I was told to come up to his dwelling-house, as he had still a few to show me. On entering the large porch he has had erected at the back of his house, I found still another display of cages with some of his finest stock, notably his two Scottish National and Palace winning Longtailed Whydahs, both looming well in colour and looking very fit. Also a pair of very fine Magpie Mannikins and three Saffron Finches. He also had a rare bird here, namely, a Yellow-rumped Bullfinch (which ought to make its presence felt this next show season if its owner is fortunate in moulting it), two foreign Bullies, one Crested Cardinal, two Greenfinches, one Redpoll and one Treesparrow. In addition to these small birds he had the following large ones: One Rock Parrot, one Amazon Parrot (which treated me to a measure of "Up in the morning, early"), one Congo Parrot, one Black Parrot, and tremendous-sized red and blue Macaw, which looks over three feet long. He saluted me with "Hello Bob." After seeing these I was shown still another room in which were eight pairs of Belgians. Mr. Whyte has been unfortunate with this lot in that he has not had any young from them. This finished the live stock, but I was shown a marvellous collection of about 500 bird skins, a few thousands of moths and butterflies and a large collection of eggs of all kinds. It took us close on four hours to go over and inspect his stock which I must say is a marvellous one (and it must be remembered that not one of all the above is for sale), and well worth any fancier's having a look over. Mr. Whyte is a very enthusiastic and congenial fancier, and assures me that nothing gives him more pleasure than to show anyone over his premises. Any fellow fancier who may happen to visit the city will have a welcome on going to inspect the stock of my friend. I will conclude by wishing Mr. Whyte a very successful show season.

THE MAKING OF NETTING.

SIR,—Could any reader kindly let me know through the columns of your valuable paper, how I could make my own netting? I have got some thread that would do very well for it J. PHILLIPS.

THE WELSH NATIONAL SHOW.

SIR,—We feel that an apology is due to those who sent for marked catalogues of our show last week, as the index was missing. This was due to our Printer being temporarily short-handed, and, owing to the very large number of late entries, being unable to complete the index. As it was, I think he did wonders; we had the marked catalogues on sale within three-quarters of an hour of the completion of the judging. We should also like to thank, through your columns, the very many oxhibitors who have written expressing their satisfaction with the prompt and satisfactory manner we dealt with their return exhibits. We did out utmost to satisfy all, and it is gratifying to hear that we succeeded.

CRESTS AT THE HORTICULTURAL HALL SHOW.

SIR,—In your report of tbe Horticultural Hall Show last week, you remark on my wining Crest (bred 1908): "We hear was bought with others at a surprisingly low figure." I am pleased to be able to say you have made a mistake abont this bird, like many others did at the show. I can satisfy everybody with proofs that I bred the bird I was first with, from a hen I claimed out of the 30s. limit class at the Palace last year, which belonged then to Mr. Wallace, of Aberdeen. The cock hird was bred by Mr. Grant, of London. I will be much obliged if you will put this correct.

F. JOHNSON.

(We have pleasure in giving this correction. The statement Mr. Johnson traverses was made by a fancier to several well-known fancers, and in our presence, the exact words used being that the said fancier had sold the birds indicated while in an unfinished state (owing to moult) for about 50s. each. We expressed our deep regret that we should have been out of such an excellent deal; we dry our tears, however.—EDITOR.)

A VISIT TO THE FENS IN SEARCH OF EGGS.

SIR,—During a recent holiday, a young London naturalist spent his holidays in this district egg and moth collecting. As the latter does not come within the radius of CAGE BIRDS, I will leave it out of my notes and relate simply some of his adventures with the birds and eggs. As he had a permit to go to several choice preserves, he was able to see many a nest which had escaped the boys, and take snapshots of several noted nests; I believe he is going to publish these photographs at some time in book-form. He was particularly anxious to find a nest with a young Cuckoo in, hut after several days' search he had to give that project up as a bad joh. He found plenty of Hedge Accentors' nests, but they all contained young, and no eggs were to he found in these, as it was too late for them. He asked me if they bred twice in a year, but that I could not say; I don't think they do, as I have never found the eggs later in the year. They are generally one of our earliest hirds to build. Several nests of Robins were found, but only one having eggs in it; the others all had young in them. Three nests of young Nightingales were found, one of them with 1 egg and four young in it, the young being nearly ready to fly. The other two nests had five young ones in each, of ahout the same age as the other four. One of these nests of young is now heing hand-reared, and four very nice birds they are. Next to be found were two nests of the Whitethroat with young ones in them of about 14 days old, and three Redstarts' nests, which also had young in them. These five nests were left; I only wish he had brought them for me to hand-rear, but he was too far from here to do so. A nest containing young Butcher Birds was found and a photograph taken. Two nests of the Summer Snipe were also found near the river; these had young ones in them. Any amount of Jackdaws' and Starlings' nests were found, and also Blackbirds' and Thrushes' Only one of these latter had eggs in it. Several nests of hoth eggs and young of the Missel Thrush were found. I believe that this season there has been a large number of such nests about here. All the Rooks' nests were over, and only one nest of the Carrion Crow with young was located. I think the boys have had all these, for I never remember so many eggs taken before. A friend of mine has brought up a nest of these hirds; they are now fine handsome hirds, and he is quite proud of them and is never tired of showing them to his friends. Any quantity of the Kestrel Hawks' nests were found, hut most of these had young ones in them, only a few having eggs, and these were hard sat upon. Several nests of Jays were found containing both eggs and young. Two nests of tho Blackcap were found with young in them about seven days old. He made notes of all the nests he had found, of what they contained, and it was quite interesting reading. I am not giving you them all; only a rough list of them. Near the ponds and pools he found a lot of nests of the Moor Hen, hut only one which had eggs in it. I can quite understand that, as I know that the boys have had, near the town, over a dozen nests. Two Wild Ducks' nests containing eggs were found, and one Partridge's nest, with over 20 eggs in it; no doubt two birds had laid in this nest. A Ring Ouzle's nest was found with young in it nearly ready to fly. A good snapshot of these birds was taken, which I doubt not will prove very interesting. As this is a larger subject than I thought for, I must leave it here. T. H. KINCH.

A LOSS IN TRANSIT.

SIR,—Through my advertisement in your paper I had occasion to send one of my winning young Buff Yorkshires to Crewe, taking same myself to Willesden Junction on Saturday, fully 46 minutes before the mail train (the 5.46 for Crewe) left. I inquired at the time of booking when it would arrive, and the clerk in charge looking up the time-table, stated 9.30, ahout three hours later. In the meantime I wired to the gentleman in Crewe to meet that train, which he did, and, to his surprise and disappointment, the bird did not arrive. He waited all trains till midnight, and returned Sunday morning at 9 o'clock and waited till 12 o'clock mid-day. Then at last he found the parcel office open, and there the bird was. On examining it before the clerk in charge, he found it more dead than alive; it died the following morning. I have now been twice personally making enquiries at Willesden Junction, and can get no satisfaction; only a statement that they will write and let me know. This is two weeks since. It seems awful to think we cannot send a hird, perfectly packed, a journey of three hours, only to have such a result. I have all the Crewe gentleman's correspondence in hand. I should feel obliged if any of your readers can give me advice in the matter, so as to get a little satisfaction from the railway company.

J. A. SIMPSON.

(Our correspondent should lodge a claim with the Railway Company at their head office for full value of the dead bird. If no notice is taken of this, after allowing ample time for them to make inquiries into the matter, he should write stating he intends to sue them in the County Court, through which, failing settlement otherwise, his remedy lies.—EDITOR.)

LEICESTER HAND-IN-HAND SHOW

SIR,—I note last week the Secretary stated that he paid all prize money out in the time guaranteed; also that he wrote me concerning same, which he did not. I did not receive my prize money till after the committee had been informed that I had not had it. As regards the postcard I wrote him, I thought it would remind him of the prize money, when I sent for the prize card. I can say with truth that I had not heard from him up to that time, a week after the show. Below is a copy of the letter in answer to my postcard:—

"Dear Sir,—Sorry I omitted to send you prize card. I thought I enclosed it with prize money. Have I overlooked you? Mr. C——, Nottingham, would buy your hen Linnet if for sale.—C. DRAPER, Secretary."

I think it would have looked better if he had replied to my other letters, which would have stopped all paper controversy. It was a matter of fifteen days between the letter and the time I received my prize, which, I think, was ample time for him to trace it. As to "abuse" and "civility" in my correspondence, I think the next time he answers it will be better if be states the true facts. Again, I think I am not far wrong in asking for what are only my rights, which I think any fancier would do; also I wish to say that my letter had reached your office before I received the money (which was last post December 1st), I think a letter to the committee was the means of my receiving it. Copy of other letter:—

December 1.

"Dear Sir,—I enclose you P.O. value 2s 6d., and regret mistake was made. I have it crossed off in the book, and it has been sent to someone, but I accept your word that you have not had it. But surely I am allowed to wait a day or two, to see if I hear anything of it, without your abusive letter. I was away for the week-end, and intended to write you when I came back, but on finding a letter from you and threats as to what you would do, well, I have simply given you the opportunity. It will be no news to Mr. N., as I laid your letter before the committee last Friday. I am writing Mr. B. as well.—Yours, etc., C. DRAPER, Secretary.

I know for a fact he did not write Mr. B.

CHASING THE CHORTLING CHOUGH.

Mealworms to the Rescue.

SIR,—On the day before judging at the Horticultural Hall, I was helping Mr. C. T. Maxwell get his hirds ready for the show. On entering the aviary to get the Chough out to put into its show cage, the door not being quite closed, the Chough escaped into the open. The owner's face at once became a study. But instant action was necessary to recapture the bird. The first thing it did was to settle down in the garden, but on our approach it quickly flew away. Over the high fence I scrambled, but not a trace of the bird could be seen. A small boy in an adjoining garden had seen a large hlack hird flying about, he said, and pointed out the direction it had taken. Over ahout six garden walls I went, looking in all the leafless trees, but no Chough could be seen. After a while, and traversing the length of a dozen gardens further on, I could plainly hear the cawing of a Chough. I have caught a good many wild birds in my time, but have never yet tried my hand at catching Choughs. On reaching the garden in which I could see the bird picking about on a lawn, and before getting over the wall, another man came in sight. I invited him to join in the chase, knowing full well that the owner of the bird would freely compensate anyone for the recovery of such a valuable hird, so he took up a position on the top of a high wall where he could get a good view of the direction the bird took if it flew away, as fly it did, and not to my surprise, knowing how the bird had always lived in a very large aviary, and how strong it was on the wing. It soared in the air, then took the direction of the Brixton Road, and I thought it was "all up" against our ever seeing the Chough again. To my great surprise, however, I saw it flying round. It made a complete circle, as one seems a homing pigeon take before starting for home. I thought its "first stop" would be Clapham Common or Tooting, but to my surprise it returned to the garden where it went first, dropping on a very high stone balcony, which was approached by a flight of iron stairs. Not having a net, or anything in the way of food to entice it down, I thought of the well-known dainty for birds called mealworms. I dispatched a hoy to Mr. Maxwell's house for a tin of mealworms, anxiously awaiting his return, thinking over the best way to tackle the hird in the meanwhile. While the hoy was gone there was a good deal of excitement at the surrounding windows and gardens, and I nearly lost my chance of ever getting near the bird hy a person appearing at the door on the balcony offering to get, or try to get hold of it for me. I commenced throwing a few mealworms to the bird, at the same time ascending the steps very cautiously, so as not to startle it in any way, and gradually getting nearer until within about a yard of him. Knowing I should only have one chance to make a grab at him, and fully realising the result if I missed my hold, I decided to make a dash at the legs; strangely enough I came off trumps, at the expense of only a few scratches and pecks from the bird's strong beak. And so ended my chase. Amid the excitement of many onlookers, I bore back my prize in triumph, and put it in its show cage without its suffering the loss of a single feather. Imagine Mr. Maxwell's surprise when he found the bird safe in its show cage, none the worse for its fly round, and, as a great many people now know who visited the Horticultural Hall Show on Friday and Saturday, this very bird won 1st, and special for the best British bird in tbe show, and was greatly admired.

CHASE ME CHARLIE.

C.B.U. MATTERS.

SIR,—In reply to your correspondent "Equity," the C.B.U. has no rule to prevent any relative of an exhibitor from showing hirds. In the case of a suspended exhibitor, whose wife or other relative is exhibiting, the secretaries of shows can exercise their judgment, and, if in any doubt, refuse these entries. In any event, the person exhibiting the birds declares them to be his or her hona fide property, and runs the risk of having to prove this statement. Referring to the letter of "H.M.R.," I do not remember to have received any letters on the subject he mentions which have not been answered (unless, perhaps, anonymous ones). I have had a cursory look through my correspondence, and cannot trace one; hut to go through each letter would not he the light task "H.R.M." may imagine, considering they average from 40 to 50 a week.

GEO. W. F. LYTHGOE.

HYBRIDS AT THE HORTICULTURAL HALL SHOW.

SIR,—We much regret having occasion to contradict a statement appearing in your report of the Horticultural Hall Show in your last issue, to the effect that the committee upset the judge's decision in one of the Hybrid classes. This is absolutely a pure invention, published without knowing the true facts of the case. The committee have never met yet to discuss any point arising out of the show, neither have any of them, either collectively or individually, been approached respecting the matter. The fact is that the judge misread the heading, owing doubtless to being so rushed for his slips to enable us to get catalogues with awards as quickly as possible. The judge himself came to the office, and requested a new set of prize-cards to be put up, which was immediately done, and we would thank you to kindly give this equal publicity to the misleading report.

TYSON AND MUGFORD.

(As Mr. Tyson is good enough to accuse us of "pure invention" we have no option but to at once state that our information came direct (though, of course, unofficially) from the president of the society, Mr. R. L. Crisp. Mr. Crisp was discussing the matter with us (and in the presence of others), and said that the judge, Mr. Robson, at first contended that the bird was entitled to compete in the class in which he had awarded it a prize. In answer to a question as to how the situation had been dealt with, he replied to the effect that: We have had it wrong-classed; we had no option, it is in its wrong class and is not entitled to compete therein. We say, further, that this impression was the one commonly prevailing at the show—we several times heard the matter being discussed. We have no desire to mis-state facts, or to mislead readers; and in this case the responsibility (if any) is not ours. Taking "the facts" as given by Mr. Tyson, they are sufficiently astonishing. We had always thought that once a judge's slip was handed in to the secretary, no material alteration could be made on it. Here a class is officiated on and the prize-cards put upon the cages, yet a "new set of cards" is put up at the request of the judge—after, of course his mistake had been pointed out to him by some third party. This, then, merely amounts to some official giving the judge permission to upset his own decisions. That official sanction to the changing of the awards must have been given seems to us self-evident; Mr. Tyson's own letter proves it. It may well be—we do not dispute it—that the judge was, as may be inferred from Mr. Tyson's letter, given so many classes to officiate upon that he could not even find time to properly read the headings in the schedule governing the said classes. That is a matter which solely concerns the management and the exhibitors. —EDITOR.)

SOME POINTS ABOUT SALES AND EXCHANGES.

SIR,—I am delighted to think that you are opening your columns to those who are desirous of warning the unwary against professional bird-sharpers. After over thirty years' experience in dealing with honest and dishonest men, I have formulated a few rules for my own guidance. Your readers may take these for what they consider them worth. The typical examples which I shall quote are only a few of many others for which I can give chapter and verse. To begin with, I never answer a long, high-sounding, puffing advertisement with a low price attached to the article, as I have learnt from experience that a fair price is asked for a genuine article, and strangers are not likely to make presents to strangers, e.g., "Joey, finger-tame cock Goldfinch, blood-red blaze, fine bars, buttons and moons, a gem, sings by gaslight as well as by day. Too noisy to keep. Sacrifice for 2s. 6d., &c." It will be observed that this advertisement must have cost nearly half the price asked for the bird, and the inference should be plain. My lad, however, was attracted by the word "Joey" and "too noisy to keep," and parted with 2s. 6d. The bird was received, and turned out to be a small, half-coloured hen finch, probably one out of a dozen others that had been bought from a dealer by the advertiser concerning whom the chief constable of the town informed me he had received several letters of complaint. I was determined to take legal proceedings, even if I spent a few pounds in so doing. Before I did so, however, I received back the P.O. Take another example to support this rule: "Hand-reared, beautiful cock Goldfinch, incessant songster, one out nest of 4 birds, lovely plumage, in pink of condition, etc., 2s. 6d." Then follows a long and high sounding address, probably beginning with "Mr." Out of curiosity I enquired about this bird. A well-written answer came, saying the price was too low to bother with approval arrangements, and as would be seen from the enclosed letter, which the seller had received "after" mine (probably a letter written by an accomplice as there was no envelope showing a postmark), another person was anxious to purchase the bird unconditionally, and the other person's offer would have been accepted, were it not for the fact that the writer made it a point of honour (?) to take the offers in the order of their receipt. With eyes open, I sent the P.O. for 2s. 6d., and received a wild, freshly-caught, but mealy-coloured hen. I called in two brother fanciers to examine this hen with me and to assist me to place upon it a private mark before I returned it to the owner, with a short note saying that unless my money was sent back by return of post, the matter would be placed in the hands of the police. The sequel was the most abusive and indignant letter I have ever received. It even threatened me with exposure to the C.B.U.! But the P.O. was enclosed! I replied: "All right, I advise you to abandon your game. I am prepared to meet you; please proceed with the matter." It is needless to add that I never heard any more from this person. It does not, however, necessarily follow that a high price spells genuineness, and I have found not a few slippery, plausible people, who show no hesitation in asking the very highest price for an inferior article. The semi-genuine article is often advertised on approval, but when you get into communication with the seller he writes back a lengthy letter expressing unqualified praise of the bird, and adding that by "approval" he means that unless you are perfectly satisfied he will return your money. He adds that, if you want a thundering good bird, you should write per return enclosing money, and a "gem," a "champion," the "best you have ever heard," will be sent you. You argue with yourself, and conclude that this will be a chance lost unless you comply. Away goes the money, and back comes the bird, far and away below the standard described. You write expressing disappointment, and asking the seller to return money, or money, less 2s. for his trouble, in case the transaction means 10s. 6d. or more, to which he replies expressing regret that you "are so hard to please," and apologising that he has, under pressure of circumstances, spent the money! He promises to save up and send the money on soon! This is about the last one hears. One should be chary of placing reliance on the words of strangers, who describe their birds as prize winners, Mule-breeders, safe with eggs, etc. I have found the genuine working man as honest and reliable as anyone. His replies are brief and to the point, and the bird is generally up to the quality he claims for it. He hates letter-writing and post-office transactions, so that he often refuses to adopt the deposit system on this account. I sometimes buy genuine stuff from working men without safeguarding myself by the deposit system. Well-known people, with a character to preserve, and big firms, are the only other people I deal with in this way. I have no doubt but that one occasionally loses a good thing by insisting on the deposit system, but, generally speaking, it is the only safe method of protection. The experiences given by those who exchange goods, are most interesting, and I would willingly contribute towards a fund for defraying the legal expenses incurred by sufferers in bringing swindlers in these cases to justice. The game of sending or selling a slightly-sick bird instead of a healthy one is very difficult for an amateur to detect. If the seller stands near the bird it will pull itself together nicely, and if he takes the additional precaution of running his fingers across the cage wires, the feathers will be tightened, and the bird will hop from perch to perch as if it were one of the gayest creatures living. Stand well back from a bird you contemplate buying, and look well at the eye and carriage of the bird from a fair distance. One ignorant lady called me in to show me how large and fat her bird was growing. "It will soon be the size of a Thrush," she said. Yet in reality this yellow Canary was very emaciated, but with feathers well puffed out. It died two days afterwards. One more example to conclude. A seller insisted on my sending him a post-dated P.O. It was to be payable in six days. At 7 p.m. on the fifth day the bird had not arrived, so I wired to the post-office to stop payment. I was only just in time, for, next morning, the most miserable wretch I had ever seen arrived. I have omitted samples of heaps of deceptions which have been practised on me through the want of sufficient precaution on my part. I have only quoted those typical tricks which I have been made conversant with after having learnt prudence and caution. I hope their reading may prove useful to some inexperienced buyers. To sum up, my advice is, deal with well-known firms, or well-known private people of good standing, and offer a fair price for your bird. In all other transactions, insist on the deposit system, unless you sometimes have a deal with a real working man or a real cricket: neither is at all a bad sort.

R. A. BROWN, Sec.

LLANELLY SHOW AND A MISSING BIRD.

SIR,—I had no intention of writing again as, having stated the facts about Mr. Tedstone's bird, I had intended (as Mr. Mills put it) leaving it to the individual judgment of readers. But Mr. Tedstone has asked me a few questions, so I feel called upon out of courtesy to reply. Mr. Tedstone states that my letter was full of fabrications; why not call them falsehoods at once? It is all very well to make such a sweeping charge, Mr. Tedstone, but why not point out where the lie is? About your statement that I wrote to try and make Mr. Beard bring an action against you, that is all imagination, as I attach no importance to the telegram. I only mentioned it to show that the secretary had wired you, and also got the reply. You state that you did not get the wire until nearly 4.30 p.m., and that it reached the Brecon office at 12.23. I hope that you do not blame us for that also. In regard to the telegram being marked "Private," this is the first time I became aware of it; but, at the same time, any communication marked private I consider worse than an open letter, as it ties the hands of the receiver, and does not alter its contents. In regard to the late arrival of Mr. Tedstone's case, I would like to ask Mr. Beard, as a gentleman who attended the show, and who would be an independent witness, if he can throw any light on the matter; also to give his opinion on the management of the show? In regard to Mr. Longdon, who was the representative and an official of the W.C.B. Club, I invite him to give his version of the unpacking of Mr. Tedstone's birds to your readers. Mr. Tedstone wants to know why I did not reply to Mr. Brown's letter last January. Well, for the simple reason that what Mr. Brown wrote was true, and I do not object to the truth, but only to misleading statements being made. You want to know what compensation we gave Mr. Brown, but I do not see why I should satisfy your curiosity. I invite Mr. C. E. Brown, however, if he would like to do so, to give readers his opinion of myself and the Llanelly Society. As far as I am concerned, I do not intend continuing this correspondence, as it is drifting away from the loss of the bird, and no good can be achieved by doing so. I am prepared to abide by what the above independent gentlemen have to say on the subject.

D. R. JONES,

JUDGE-BAITING EXTRAORDINARY.

SIR,—Your correspondent, "Cede Nullis," displays a remarkable ignorance of the facts of the case about which he writes in your issue of a fortnight ago, under the above heading. He apparently has heard a very distorted account of the happenings at the show concerned, and, if I may, I should advise him to hear the whole of the facts before expressing any further opinion on what he terms a "frivolous matter," which, seemingly, is not in his opinion so very "frivolous" after all, seeing that he, instead of "treating it with the contemptible disgust is deserves," deigns to answer it. Had "Cede Nullis" been at the show when the regrettable incidents occurred, he would, I think, have been quite as disgusted at the conduct of the discontented exhibitor as were 99 per cent. of those who were there. The judge (as straight and as conscientious a gentleman, and as competent a judge as can be found in the Fancy), did his work honestly, and in a satisfactory manner, as proved by the entire absence (with just the one exception) of grumbling at his awards. I can recall several previous occasions on which this particular exhibitor has made himself very unpleasant—and others uncomfortable—in the presence of visitors to the shows, and this has done the Association concerned no good. It cannot be said that I am a "disappointed exhibitor," or that I am "mourning a deficit," or even "celebrating any particular Government measure;" neither can it be said that my birds were beaten in any one class by the exhibitor, whose cause "Cede Nullis" is championing. Neither does it seem quite so certain that the exhibitor will continue to make his presence felt at the shows of this particular Association, as he said, in my presence, that he would never again show under this unfortunate judge! So, what will happen if this gentleman is asked—and consents—to judge the next show? How will the exhibitor make his presence felt? I do not know, and really I do not think that the Association would suffer any enormous loss if it were never again honoured by his patronage. And beware, ye "premier and most popular society in London," how you select your judges in future, lest your "handsomest cup" should never again be won by the present holder. What an awful thing this would be! Since "Cede Nullis" hides his identity under a nom de plume, I also avail myself of a similar privilege.

VERA PRO GRATIUS.

SIR,—Since the letter signed "Querist" appeared in your columns, I have had several exhibitors ask if I were the writer. Therefore, may I ask you, Sir, to kindly state in your next issue that no letter, except the present, has been received from me on this subject? It is a pity both "Querist" and "Cede Nullis" did not sign their names, and so avoid others being suspected and annoyed. Much to my disgust I received an unstamped letter this morning (paying the usual fee of twopence), enclosing a cutting from the last issue, signed "Frank Table." This was attached to a half-sheet of notepaper, upon which was written: "Brave fellow. The person that wrote this as'nt the pluck of a worm" (note spelling). In my mind I am quite convinced that only one person could have sent this (which, by the way, is a terribly plucky action!), and I am disgusted with such a contemptible effort to draw me into this controversy. I need hardly mention that I do not know either "Querist," "Cede Nullis," or "Frank Table." This is my first and last letter on the subject.

R. P. HARPER.

[We have received no communication from Mr. Harper other than the above.—EDITOR.]

SIR,—I felt highly amused, and had a good laugh, at Mr. Table supporting "Querist" last week. To sum his letter up, he is no intending fancier, but one of this exhibitor's so-called friends. In the first place, how is it this exhibitor and the judge concerned are the least interested in this correspondence, and, I believe, on the very best of terms, as could be seen at the Horticultural Hall Show. Secondly, the two Finches were not shown together in one class at this show; the best Finch was competing in the A.O.V. Members class, against Hawfinches, Buntings, etc. This exhibitor's best Finch, which stood down third at the suburban show, has scored two firsts in open competition, and special second best bird in show. I am sorry that Mr. Table should bring another suburban show into the mire, as no doubt its officials will not thank him for this either, especially when (I believe) this exhibitor intends to bring this serious matter before the annual general meeting, where things may develop to a sensational character. Regarding this exhibitor thanking me for exposing him, I say, all the better, for it tends to show what a lot of petty jealousy exists in these minor societies when a man is winning. Last, but not least, if I was Mr. Table, as a beginner and stranger, I should keep under the table, and let other societies' business alone; they have their remedy, and can manage their own affairs without assistance from him. In conclusion, although I am the honourable "Cede Nullis," I feel it my duty not to expose my name, so I seek the same shelter Mr. Frank Table has done, by adopting this one—

FRANK CHAIR.

LIFE EXPERIENCED JUDGES.

SIR,—It has often occurred to us when looking down the list of judges, what "life experience" means? I know for a fact that certain judges have not been in the Fancy more than five or six years; surely that cannot be a life experience? Yet they have the audacity to advertise it as such. We consider a thing like this should be put a stop to.

WHITBURN.

Whitburn and District C.B.S. held its third annual show, in the Town Hall, on December 12th. Here we found a nice little hall, with the birds on tiers all round, and a double tier in the body of hall, making things look nice and compact. The society possess a capable lot of officers, ever ready to oblige, and just the sort to carry a show through successfully. We learn there will be a nice balance on the right side. There was a grand attendance when we left early in the afternoon. Entries were in excess of last year's, especially in the Border classes, they being well filled. Unfortunately, however, some of the entries were "eleventh hour" ones, making it impossible for us to trace the names. It would be of great assistance to secretaries, and would ensure the insertion of their names in catalogues, if exhibitors would only send on early. Mr. A. Chalmers (Kirkintilloch) judged the Norwich section. The Border Fancy judge, Mr. Patterson, unfortunately, through illness, was unable to fulfil his engagement, but the society telegraphed Mr. A. Hay (Berwick) at the last moment, and fortunately secured his services as a substitute. Mr. P. Pettigrew (Glasgow) judged the Mules, British and Foreign birds. Some lively discussion took place amongst the three anent the allocation of spl for best bird in show, Mr. Chalmers taking a lovely Norwich in Mr. Buglass' buff, Mr. Hay Mr. Bennet's buff Border cock bird, and Mr. Pettigrew the winning light Mule belonging to Mr. Jamieson. They ultimately agreed to spin a coin—which may be more a matter of luck than merit. Anyhow, the coin favoured the Mule, which got the coveted spl. It was well on in the afternoon 'ere the judges got the last spls judged for. The secretary, Mr. J. Forrest, is to be complimented on his efficient management.

JERSEY.

The 21st annual show of the Jersey P. and O.S. was held in the Vegetable Market, Dec. 9th and 10th. The caged birds were judged by Mr. F. J. S. Chatterton. There was a very good turnout of Yorkshires, many high class specimens being staged. The challenge cup for the best team of three was won by a grand trio of Yorkshires, shown by Mr. J. L. Le Rossignol. The silver medal for the second best team was won by Mr. J. L. Lowen's Crests, also of good type. Considerable interest was shown in this attractive section.

MIDDLETON O.S.

This society held its ninth annual exhibition on December 5th, in the Assembly Room (an excellent place) at the "Old Boar's Head," Middleton. There was a good entry of birds, and the quality was first-rate, while a gratifying number of fanciers put in an appearance to look over the exhibits. There was a keen struggle for the special for best members' bird. The choice lay between Mr. Wagstaffe's clear yellow and Mr. Bescoby's clear buff, the judge giving his decision in favour of the latter's exhibits. The points' specials in the open classes fell to Messrs. Sellars and Smith (2), Yorks., Yell., and Buff; Lane, Yorks., Yell. or Buff unflighted; Hirst, Nor. Yell.; Lees, do. Buff; Law, British; and Harrison, Selling. A noticeable feature of the members' classes was the fine display of Yorkshires. The secretarial duties were well attended to by the ever-courteous Mr. Harvey Thomas. Messrs. Bescoby (chairman), Wagstaffe, Oldham, Adams, etc., were attending to all and everything to supply comfort for both the exhibits and the spectators. A feature which is to be recommended is the paying of prize-money during the evening. Mr Alex. Donnely judged, and his awards gave general satisfaction.

TAMWORTH.

The annual show took place in the Town Hall on December 12th, and for a first venture must be counted a success. The Norwich classes, although not strong numerically, were certainly not lacking in quality, some very typical specimens being on view. The three classes of Yorkshires contained some gems. The British, although limited to two classes only—and those Hardbills (Softbills being excluded from the show)—contained several very fine birds, the winning Goldie being a topper. The A.O.S. Hardbill was a strong one both for numbers and quality, three chinking Hawfinches doing battle. The show was opened by the Rev. J. H. Courtney Clarke, vicar of Tamworth, who, in a few well-chosen words, expressed the pleasure it gave him to see such beautiful birds. Mr. Spencer made a very capable and courteous secretary, and was backed up by his committee, who gave the exhibits every attention. Mr. G. Russell judged, and gave every satisfaction.

THORNTON.

The little village of Thornton was all excitement on Dec. 12, the occasion being the local show. The function was held in the Public Hall, a place in every way adapted for such a purpose, but the cage birds were relegated to a side room, with the exception of the British birds, which were ranged alongside the poultry, not at all commendable, as the dust created gets into the drinkers and soils the plumage of the cage-bird exhibits. Otherwise the show was in every way a great success. The society having extended the Border Fancy classification had the satisfaction of seeing an increase of over 100 entries more than last year in the cage bird section, which speaks for itself. The Scotch Fancies, upon which Mr. Alex. Paterson (Edinburgh) adjudicated, had a nice entry, the most successful exhibitor being Mr. Wm. Allan, who secured five 1sts and a 2nd with his six entries. But Mr. James Cook secured the special for best in section with a grand yellow piebald cock, a real beauty. Mr. J. Adams (Dundee) had a heavy task in getting through his 25 classes of Norwich and Borders, as every class was fairly well filled, and the exhibits were of more than average merit. Mr. Howie won cup for most points in cage bird section (presented by Mr. W. Paton). The British and Mules were handled in a masterly way by Mr. A. W. Watson (Leith). The society's affairs are looked after by a hard-working set of officials, headed by Mr. Alex. Leslie (president). In Mr. James Moyes the society possess an ideal secretary, who gets through his work in a very able and efficient manner. The show was well patronised by the public, and we hope to hear that it was a financial success. The judges' awards seemed to give general satisfaction.

GREAT HORTON (Good Intent) ORNITHOLOGICAL SOCIETY.

Last members' show for the season, held Dec. 12th. About 60 birds faced the judge, Mr. H. Sutcliffe (Windhill), and there were some real good ones amongst them. Buff hens were a hot lot, and were a credit to the members. Messrs. Holden and Whiteley were winners of the two extra specials and the winners of points specials were: A. Holden, H. Schofield, A. Firth, T. L. Whiteley, D. Bartle, and H. Chubb.

CARMARTHEN.

The cage bird section of this show, which took place on Dec. 15, was held in the Corn Market, a well lighted and comfortable hall, most suitable for the purpose. The weather was not conducive to a large attendance, but the bird-room was evidently the centre of attraction all day. We met many of the best known birdy men in the district, and the ease with which the exhibits were handled reflects great credit on them. Notable among the exhibitors were Messrs. Crabbe, Lohr, Evans, and Isaac. The Canaries were good, some grand Norwich and Yorks being staged, far in advance of what we generally see at Welsh shows. The British birds are generally strong, particularly the two classes of Goldies, and the two variegs. classes. The quality in this section was up to the usual standard and good specimens were exhibited by Messrs. Lewis and Dymond, Bancroft, Prosser, Edwards, and Ford. The A.O.S. classes in the British bird section were good, Mr. Brotherhood's Waxwing being the centre of attention. There is one thing the executive of Carmarthen can be complimented on, that is, the dispatch of the long-distance birds before 4 o'clock on the evening of the show. The wild-caught "Hybrid, by the way, proved to be a cock Grey-necked Berin Finch. Mr. J. Robson judged.

RUTHERGLEN AND DISTRICT O.S.

Annual show held in the Hall, on December 12th. There were 44 classes for caged birds. Some of the classes were a little poor in entries, but the total entries were about 50 in advance of last year's Officers: President, Wm. Moffat, Esq., M.A., vice-president, J. J. Manson, Esq., L. D. S. and T. A. Boyd, Esq.; secretary and treasurer, Mr. Frank Wilson; committee, Messrs. Lappin, Hutchinson, McAulay, and Livingstone. Mr. Wilson had all his arrangements well carried out, assisted by an able band of workers, the show being a complete success. Mr. Millar (Annisland), judged, and his awards proved very satisfactory. Mr. Lappin won the silver medal for most points and the B.F.C.C. medal. The show was well patronised. The club is in a flourishing condition, and making steady progress. Most points in Young Crests: 1, Lappin, 16; runner-up Joel, 15; most points in Young Bord., medal, 1, Brownlie, 35; Lappin, 33; most points in Plainheads, medal, 1, McAulay; most points in Brit.: cup, 1, Manson; most points in For.: 1, Manson.

PENDLETON & SALFORD.

Pendleton and Salford O.S. held their 16th Annual Exhibition on Dec. 11 and 12, in the Caxton Hall, Blackfriars, Salford, a grand room for the purpose, being well lighted, lofty and nicely heated. Entries totalled 480, and the quality right through the show was of the very highest standard. We were rather surprised to see four out of the six Yorkshire classes cancelled, as Yorkshires have always been well catered for at Pendleton, both as regards classification and judges. The three open novice Yorkshire classes were, however, well filled, and competition was very keen. Norwich, both Champion and Novice, came up well, and many noted winners were amongst them. The four Border Fancy classes made a good show, and some smart little exhibits were on view. British and Foreign birds were a fine section. The liquor stand, presented by the President, Councillor Hampson, was won by Mr. S. W. Birchley; Hyde's special and Sandiford's medal, by Mr. W. Turner; and the Society's Championship Gold Medal by Mr. T. Atkinson. Other specials were won by Messrs. Brennan (2), Harding, McCann, Linsey, Epsley (2), Savage (2), Durnford, Atkinson (2), Kirk, Fish, Jackson, Whittle and Downs. Of the management we cannot speak too highly, everything being in first-class order. The secretary, Mr. W. J. Jackson, is well up in the art of show managing, and did everything in a thoroughly businesslike manner. He was ably supported by the chairman, the well-known Mr. G. W. F. Lythgoe, and an energetic committee, consisting of Messrs. Ashton, Aspinall, Clayton, Cleaver, Fish, Holland, McCann, Stocker, Turner, Cook, Raynes, and Stringer. Messrs. A. Wellings (Prescot), and W. A. Cowgill (Bradford) judged.

STAVELEY.

Staveley and Dist. F.S. Show took place on Dec. 9. The Markham Hall provided cover for the exhibitors. Dr. J. Court, J.P., is president, and the committee consist of a most willing band of fanciers, who all endeavour to help things along in the way they should go. They are to be complimented. The hon. treasurer is Mr. B. Pattison; the hon. secs. are Messrs. T. Griffiths and W. Farmer, a couple of capital workers. Courteous in the highest degree, they are also always on the go. Mr. J. C. Barnes (Sheffield) judged. Specials for best cock and best hen both went to Mr. P. Hay.

Gateshead Gets a Bumper.

Another record display of high quality birds on the Tyne-side.

This pioneer society of the Tyne-side held its ninth annual show on December 11th and 12th, and it proved a record, drawing together over 1,200 of the cream of the fancy. Norwich Plainheads were first on the programme, and although in this section we have seen larger classes, in quality the exhibits were superb. All the classes were keenly contested, and honours evenly distributed. Mr. Irons, however, secured three 1sts, while Mr. Dobinson claimed two 1sts. The unflighted classes held some real gems, while the natural colour class was very interesting. The class of the section, however, was that for Novices, and as we overheard an old fancier exclaim: "Some of them are old-fashioned, or else have been swallowing CAGE BIRDS." The winner was a fine variegated buff, staged to perfection, by Mr. Snell, who should feel proud at heading the strongest contested class in the show, with an entry of 46. The judge carefully selected the birds, and owing to the keen competition, found it necessary to add a few extra prizes to the list. Cinnamons on the whole, were an excellent collection, but here Messrs. Godley and Dormer secured the plums. The novice class was a representative one; Mr. Beck captured 1st, 2nd, and 4th. Crests and Crest-breds were forward in force; and the Tynesiders can hold their own in any place with this variety. To-day they had a regular "scoop." Taking these classes throughout, I think such a collection of gems has rarely been seen at any show. It looked more like a competition between North and South, and North just managed to hold the balance in the awards. The bowl for best in show was secured by that marvellous Crest belonging to Mr R. Armstrong, and rightly named "The King of Kings." Words can hardly describe this specimen. It has a regular "Soutar Johnnie Kilmarnock Bonnet," which fits to perfection—a marvel, and no mistake. It also won the silver challenge bowl for best young Crest, and assisted its owner to secure most points for the Roberts's £25 challenge cup. Another well-known Northern breeder, Mr. Bewick, who unfortunately has not been blessed with good luck during the breeding season, secured the challenge bowl for best young Crest-bred, with a gem of a hen, well-named "The Duchess." She is the sole survivor of a nest of five. What might not the other four have been worth? The novice classes were keenly contested, and contained some very promising specimens.

The Long and the Short of it.

Borders followed, and here were found the cream of the "Wee Gems." All the well-known firms had forwarded good teams, especially from Tweedside. The yellow cock class was headed by that gem of Mr. Gilchrist's, the Glasgow winner, which for position, style and feather can scarcely be surpassed; in fact it must have run very closely for the B.F.C.C. medal. Mr. McKenzie accounted for both yell. and buff hen classes with two of his toppers. The clear buff cock class was won by a gem for quality, lovely position and type, exceedingly well staged, which secured the coveted B.F.C.C. medal for best in show, for Mr. J. S. Wilson, the well-known Cumberland exhibitor. Mr. J. Patterson headed the even marked class with his champion buff, but was hotly pursued by Mr. Wright's well-known winning yellow. Messrs. Duncan and Logan accounted for no less than three of the remaining classes, with gems of the first water. Unfortunately their buff uneven had lost some feathers from its back, probably through fighting after judging. Greens and Cinnamons were good, and here the veteran firm of Arnot and Jamieson won. Their old champion yellow is the winner of about forty 1sts and specials. The novice class was a teaser, and here Mr. Fuller managed to secure the coveted first place with a sweet Border. The Border classes, on the whole, were extra good. Many birds had to be content with a card that have done a lot of winning this season. The Yorkshires were strong classes throughout, some of the leading Yorkshire exhibitors sending teams to do battle. Among the prominent prize-winners were Messrs. Bailey and Swanger, Greaves and Crabtree, Shackleton and Cuthbertson. Often only condition just turned the scale in favour of the winners. The novice class was a good one, and Mr. Kent landed home with a smart exhibit, splendidly put down. Scotch Fancies were a nice collection, the quality being better than we have seen here for some time. The veteran Mr. Little won in the yellow class, Mr. Cobb the buff class, and Messrs. Thompson Bros. the hen class, all with high-class specimens.

The Mules and Hybrids were highly attractive. Messrs. Colton and Dawn won with a gem of a Redpoll-Bullie, in fine bloom, and Mr. Bruce with a topping variegated Linnet-Can, an Irish-bred specimen, we heard, and well-named "The Irishman." Mr. Frazer, all the way from Fort William, scored in the dark class with his clinking buff Siskin-Can., a well-known Scotch face. The Britishers, taken on the whole, were grand, some gems being staged. The three Linnet classes were very hot, while in Softbills some beauties were to be seen. The Blackbird, Thrush or Starling Class was one of the best. Owing to the word "Thrush" being inserted this year, the judge "wrong classed" a Missel Thrush and a Fieldfare in the Any Other Species class, which led to some comment from the visitors and exhibitors. The Foreigners were a gorgeous collection, and greatly admired by the visitors. The members' classes were keenly fought out, and the quality was very high.

As Keen as Mustard.

A crowd of eager fanciers pushed and jostled to get a sight of the one thousand two hundred odd birds on view. Here and there could be heard strong arguments in the broad diffect of the North, for the Tynesider is at all times ready to uphold his opinion, and many a little "scene" was enacted round some choice specimen to which the judge had been over kind, or unduly severe, according to the point of view. Exhibiting birds would lose half its fascination if their merits could be weighed mathematically. There is now an element of sport in it, just enough to appeal to the Northern fanciers, and so they gathered in strong force to re-judge the birds after the official judge had placed his awards.

There was no special centre of attraction, for at all times the looker-on could see many excited groups. While a few keen Crest men were pointing out to the younger members the differences between Armstrong's "King of Kings" and Taylor's "Pride of the North," an equally interested gathering was to be observed round the chubby Norwich, or arguing over the points of the huge beaked Hawfinches.

The little Brown Linnet is always a favourite with the men in the North, and two splendid classes of house and field-moulted birds, with another for Novices, kept up the reputation of the district. The Goldfinch class was rather disappointing.

When it came to the awarding of the prize for the best bird in the show, Mr. Heath's selection, "King of Kings," was a good first, the runner-up being a beautiful Crested cock, shown by Mr. T. Taylor. The Yorkies were good, but Mr. Battye thought "discretion the better part of valour," and quietly put his champion back on the shelf. So once again the coveted cup and honour was secured by a Tynesider against all comers.

One of the great successes of the show was the staging of some grand Yorkshires by Dr. C. D. O'Neal, his beautiful yellow hen winning the bowl over that section. His success is just an object-lesson to the budding fancier, as he has only been breeding for three or four years. He started with the best material he could possibly secure—some of it (tell it not in Gath) came from the South—and by careful pairing and studying the variety he has built up a strain of really good ones. He beat to-day such champions as Messrs. Shackleton, Bailey and Swanger, Cuthbertson, Wilcock, Radley, etc.

Good Fanciers; Good Workers.

Mr. Thos. Taylor and his co-workers must feel proud of the grand display they managed to get together, for "quality" was the word throughout. There were individual instances of Crests and Crest-breds having to stand down that had won high honours elsewhere.

It would be impossible to find a better secretary and show manager than Mr. Thos. Taylor. He is one of those rare individuals who are always looking forward and anticipating what will be required next. But we must not forget to mention his able assistant, Mrs. Taylor, for it is well known she helps Thomas greatly with the scribbling, and fanciers who have at some time or other held the reins, will know the value of such assistance. In Messrs. Mather, Grieve, Johnson, Buck, Longstaff Hodgson, and Moore, he has helpers of the right stamp; men who are good fanciers and keenly alive to the necessity of doing the thing well.

The show was held in the Burt Street Drill Hall, a very suitable place indeed, though inclined to be just a shade on the cold side. The staging is excellent, and was admirably fitted, and we could only suggest that nearest the doors should come the Norwich or British sections, with back (not all wire) cages. The management was all that could be desired under the capable guidance of the deservedly popular secretary, Mr. T. Taylor, who is truly a host in himself. He was ably assisted by an enthusiastic committee, who worked wholeheartedly, and carried the show through to a successful finish. The hall was very heavily patronised by visitors, and what with the record entry and the good gate, we expect to hear of the Gateshead coming out well on the right side, which the society well deserve to do. The following gentlemen officiated as judges, and their awards were well received: Mr. J. Trengove (Norwich), Mr. T. Heath (Crests and Foreigners), Mr. H. Bennet (Borders and Scotch), Mr. Battye (Yorks), and Mr. Parker Robinson (Mules and British).

STONEHOUSE.

Stonehouse C.B.S. held their first open show in the Public Hall on Dec. 12th. Office bearers: President, Mr. John Whitelaw; vice-president, Mr. G. McAlpine; treasurer, Mr. John Cuthbertson; assistant secretary, Mr. Wm. Melvin; secretary, Mr. John Govan; judges, Messrs. Scaife, Walker, and Adam. For a first open show the efforts of the promoters were very successful. There were 43 classes, with a total of about 257 entries, quite a satisfactory beginning. Secretaries Govan and Melvin had all their arrangements for a successful start made to the best advantage, everything being in the best of order. The staging and care of the exhibits and the general comfort of the visitors were well looked after by them, and they were assisted by a hard-working committee. The Public Hall is well adapted for show purposes, there being ample room for the exhibits and abundance of light. In the Border and Norwich section there were some good birds staged, a few of them being well-known winners this season. The British and Foreign bird sections were also a good turnout. The B.F.C.C. medal was won by G. Sommerville, the runner-up being A. Allardice. The judges' awards appeared to give general satisfaction. There was a large turnout of visitors, the hall being packed during the afternoon.

LLANELLY.

Held at Market Hall, December 8th. The weather was against the success of the show, rain falling in a regular deluge all day. Towards the evening the people began to come in larger numbers, and there is every prospect of the show proving a financial success. Mr. D. Griffiths, the indefatigable secretary, is still at his post, and the arrangements went along without hitch of any kind. Caged birds made a strong section, and well-known winners were staged. Mr. Silvester (Sheffield) judged, and appeared to give every satisfaction.

ECCLESHILL.

The Eccleshill B.F.A. held their 14th annual exhibition on Dec. 11th and 12th in the Mechanics' Institute, which is an ideal venue for such an occasion. Grandly lighted on three sides, very spacious, lofty, well ventilated, and nicely warmed and absolutely free from draughts, it is one of the best rooms in Yorkshire. What a grand entry was obtained in response to the capital schedule issued—448, over 200 more than last year! We were extremely pleased to see such a magnificent array. Our Eccleshill friends are a band of most enthusiastic fanciers, and in years gone by have not had the best of luck, so we were told; but this triumph no doubt will be the means of straightening matters up somewhat as regards finance. They deserve success. Besides quantity, quality was much in evidence throughout. Yorkshires held pride of place, as was to be expected. Under the Y.U. rules and having the Y.C.C. patronage, it is no wonder so many grand specimens were on view. Amongst the Cinnamon marks one saw regular "knock-outs," and in the Novice section were birds equal to the majority in the upper circle. Norwich Plainheads proved a rattling collection, both as regards numbers and merit, brought about possibly through the Open Norwich F.U. Club patronage being granted. This section was one of the best ever seen at any Bradford and Dist. fixture. The Novice Norwich, too, were of a nice order. The president is Mr. C. Stebbings, and the treasurer Mr. C. Mortimer, both enthusiastic officials. The committee of management consists of all the members who work in real earnest for the welfare of the society. The staging was of an excellent description, being neatly arranged, so that one could see every bird with comfort and at a first glance, and the following members are to be highly complimented upon their hard work in the fixing of same on the night previous to the show day: Messrs. Stebbings, Mortimer, Wilcock (Junr. and Senr.), Slater, Airton, F. Clarke, Hargreaves, and Nettleton. The stewards were Messrs. Slater and Airton, who officiated in a most practical and praiseworthy manner, affixing prize cards promptly. The secretary is Mr. T. Elsegood. Although quite new to this office, his organising abilities were evident; hard working and courteous, he managed the show in fine style. In him Eccleshill have a genuine fancier and a capable holder of the reins. Mr. J. Robson adjudicated, assisted by a fine light.

GLASGOW AND WESTERN COUNTIES B.C.

Annual show of the Glasgow and Western Counties N.C.M.B. and F.B.C. was held in Good Templar's Hall, Ingram-st., Glasgow, on December 5th, and was a success both as regards numbers and quality. The management was in good hands. Mr. Martin makes a capable president. Mr. Adams is secretary. The hall accommodation was taxed to its utmost. A street "warbler," who is a powerful imitator, was employed to advertise the show. The judges did their work admirably. The Norwich, Crests, Yorkshire, and Cinnamons were judged by Mr. Scaife (Fauldhouse), the Border Fancies by Mr. Laurie (Govan), and the Mules, British, and Foreign birds by Mr. Strachan (Bathgate).

WELSH NATIONAL (Swansea.)

A Splendid Welsh Success.

This association held its second annual show at the Albert Hall on December 10th and 11th. The weather was "simply awful," but did not in any way interfere with the general working of the exhibition. The show proved a record one, both in numbers and quality, and the manner in which the exhibits were attended to should be an object lesson for Welsh show promoters. As a spectacle the exhibition was a treat—rows of four tiers of Yorkshires one side the full length of the hall, with the same arrangement on the other side with Nor. and Nor. Greens. The total of entries was 820, easily the largest collection ever brought together in Wales. The secretary, Mr. R. J. Truscott—by the way, quite a "youngster" in the Fancy—deserves a full mead of praise for the able manner in which things were carried out, and in him the association have a man of tact and ability. May he long retain the position. Mr. D. A. S. Longden, the capable show manager, looked after the arrangements in his usual style, and everything worked in as smooth a manner as possible under his advice and his keen scrutiny. He was ably assisted by Messrs. H. Creber (vice-chairman) and F. Serine (who by the way, are responsible for the fine staging and set-out of the show), as well as by some notable fanciers, such as Messrs. R. F. Browne (chairman), S. J. Nicholas, W. J. Bancroft, B. Prosser, M. Slade, A. E. Wright, F. Jones, and W. A. Truscott (treasurer), who constitute the committee. The birds were carefully handled by them. The hall was practically lined with red baize, giving a warm and cheerful appearance, as well as protecting the birds from draughts which are frequent in a large hall. We regret to state that Messrs. Jackson and Bond's, R. J. Howe's, and F. Hingley's birds arrived too late for judging. There is not the slightest doubt that the awards in most of the classes in which these were due to appear would have been altered entirely had they competed. The Norwich were very strong in some classes, no fewer than 19 being staged, with not a poor one in the lot. Some beauties were staged by Messrs. Harber, Sheldon, Coventry, and Tedstone—birds that could hold their own in any company. Crests and Crest-breds made clinking good classes. The struggle for places was particularly keen, the prize eventually going to Messrs. Evins' clear body dark crest. In the Crest-breds the winner proved to be Mr. W. Radley's champion, which also won spl for best Canary in show. The Yorkshires were quite a show of themselves, and every exhibit could be plainly seen without the necessity of handling. There was ample satisfaction here for lovers of the "straight 'un." Notable winners in this section were staged by Messrs. Elsmore, Negus, Whittaker, Rennie, J. Howes, J. Jones, Date, and T. Morris. The Green Canary section, both in Norwich and Yorkshires, made a brave show. The likes of these have never before been seen in the Principality, nearly 100 birds being staged in the eight classes provided. The cash winners in all these classes were perhaps the best living of their respective varieties. Grand teams were seen representing Messrs. Clayton, Hughes, Atherton, Fielden, Deacon, Walker, Lawson, and Harrison. The cinnamons, Lizards and Lancashires were very good, but the numbers did not come up to general expectations. Good birds were staged by Messrs. Barnes, Ind, and Yates, all winning their colours in fine style. Borders, as is the general order here, were very warm, some classes containing no fewer than 21 exhibits, and all real typical models. Mr. D. O'Connell's tkd. buff stood out in prominence, winning most of the spls for best Border, etc. Messrs. Hocking, Richards, Hammacott and Card, D. Williams, and Jones also put down very smart teams. The Borders are no doubt making rapid strides. The Scotch Fancies were not so good as we have seen them at this fixture, but the winner, Mr. B. Davies', is all that can be desired in a typical Scots of modern build. Mules and Hybrids were worth going many miles to see, every class containing gems of the first water. A Chaffinch-Bramblefinch was disqualified by the judge in the hybrid between two British birds class. We also noted that the decision was upheld by the other judge, and by well-known exhibitors present. Messrs. Lewis and Dymond, Jones, Browning, Longden, and Lamb staged some toppers. The cinnamon Siskin-Canary was generally admired. British and Foreign birds were a magnificent lot, and very large classes in most cases. Rows of Goldies faced a row of Bullies, and Greenfinches went to make a very pleasing show in their gaily-painted light green cages. Some of the best known champions were seen here looking their best. Such a galaxy of quality has never been brought together in Wales. Messrs. Bancroft, Longden, Lewis and Dymond, Nicholas, Jones, Howe, Birchley, and Coffey figured in the prize list, most of them being big winners. Messrs. J. Robson and J. B. Evans were the judges, the former doing the Canaries, whilst the latter did the Mules, British, Foreign, and selling.

The Norwich and Crests.

STAMFORD.

The Stamford and Dist. F.A. held their first open exhibition on December 10th, in the Frederick Temple Memorial Hall, which is a very suitable place for the purpose. The total number of entries was 160, although several classes were amalgamated. The committee decided to pay full prize money on eight entries, the number of classes being 16 in all. Mr. A. W. Ludlow, the secretary, that most enthusiastic fancier determined to do his best toward making the show a success, with his able band of workers such as Messrs. B. Grimes, Clitherow, E. Harrison, C. Harrison, Locke, Scholes and Woods, who soon had the birds in order. The judging commenced quite early, and the prize cards were all up by the opening of the show. The special for best Norwich was secured by Mr. H. Poppie; Mr. L. Dykes took special for best Yorkshire; Mr. F. Rose won special for best Crest or C.B., also special for best Can. in show. Special for best Mule or Hybrid went to Mr. Andrew; for best British seed eater, Dr. Belcher. Mr. S. H. Mays took the British softbill special, and Mr. J. Shaddock that for best foreign bird. Mr. W. P. Barnes (Grantham) placed the cards and gave every satisfaction.

CLITHEROE.

Clitheroe and Dist. C.B.S. held their first annual show in the National Schools on December 5th. About 140 birds were staged in the 17 classes, and were judged by Mr. E. Walsh, whose awards gave general satisfaction. The show was opened by the Mayor (Alderman J. T. Whipp), who is president of the society. At the conclusion of the opening ceremony the chairman of the society (Mr. F. Turner) presented the Mayor with a bird and cage, on behalf of the members. The quality of the exhibits throughout was excellent, and the arrangements under the supervision of Messrs. Lambert (secretary) and J. Winckley (show manager) were capital.

MACCLESFIELD AND DIS. C.B.S.

Backend show held in the Assembly Rooms, Chestergate, on November 28th. Mrs. Rhodes opened the exhibition, which proved a great success. The quality of the exhibits was A1 in all respects, and the judge, Mr. S. R. Compston, had no easy task in separating the winners. The arrangements were ably carried out by the secretary, Mr. F. Broadhurst.

CASTLE DOUGLAS.

Third annual show of the Castle-Douglas C.A. was held in the Town Hall on Dec. 12. The entries numbered close on 700. This shows an increase of 59 on last year's total, and constitutes a record. The association has only been in existence for three years, and its prospects are exceedingly brilliant indeed. The quality was of the finest, the Norwich being the best we have seen this season. There was strong competition in the British bird section, McMinn Bros. (local exhibitors) giving a good account of themselves. In the British Bullfinch class we could have selected four winners, and Greenfinches were better than what is seen at most Scotch shows. Mr. McQuiston's is an almost perfect one, and we could scarcely find a fault with her. In the A.O.S. British class, Mr. G. Lawson carried off 1st and 3rd in a class of 15. There were also some very cheap and good birds in the selling classes. The exhibits were well suited as regards lighting accommodation, and their wants were well attended to by a large staff of diligent stewards. Mr. John Martin (Castle-Douglas) had on view a number of grand cages. Mr. John C. Burnie makes a most energetic secretary, and the success of the show was in a great measure due to his untiring efforts and those of the committee who rendered their assistance so ungrudgingly. Cage birds were judged by Mr. John McLay, and his awards were all well received.

The Canary Section.

McCreadie; show cage by Mr. John Martin for best Greenfinch, won by Mr. McQuiston; medal by Mr. T. Miller for best exhibit and biscuit barrel by Mrs. Roan, won by Messrs. McMinn Bros. The secretary called our attention to a hen in the Yorkshire class, which carried off 1st at Perth, and as its colour was doubted there, we were asked to give our decision. We did so, and found it to be undoubtedly a yellow. The judge (McLay) afterwards confirmed our decision.

NELSON AND DISTRICT C.B.S.

Annual members' show held at headquarters, Bull Hotel, on December 5th. Entries showed a considerable increase on the previous year's total, and the quality of the birds also showed an improvement. The entries totalled 122 in 18 classes. All the birds were well staged, and ready for the judge, Mr. John Broadley (Windhill). Competition was very keen. The cup winner was a grand yellow Yorkshire, owned by Mr. R. Leonard, who wins the cup for the third time; he also wins special for most points throughout show with a total of 61 points. Special for best novices' bird, also special for most points in class 7, Mr. J. Gregson. Sandiford's medal for hottest-fed bird, Mr. Lingard.

METROPOLITAN C.B.A.

Third annual members' show of the Metropolitan C.B.A. was held at the Crown Hotel, Lavender-hill, Clapham, on December 10th. The room is a good one for a show, and the entries, numbering 100, were nicely staged on one side and at the end. The quality was A1 all through, many of the birds having won in the open during the season. The secretary, Mr. R. Dear, had the arrangements well in hand, and carried out his duties splendidly, receiving great assistance from Messrs. Harwood and Sawyer, also Mrs. McGregar, who kindly took charge of the "gate." Mr. F. J. Martin, the manager of the open show, did most of the winning in the champion Norwich. Mr. H. Norman judged, and appeared to give every satisfaction.

BANNOCKBURN.

This show was held in the New Town Hall on Dec. 5th, when there was a large entry and a very successful result all round. Mr. Wm. Wark, the hon. secretary, laboured hard to perfect the arrangements. He was ably seconded by the following committee:—Messrs. Hamilton, Paterson, Duchart, Auld, Bowie, Munnoch, Kennedy, Carson, Dunlop, Miller, Richardson, Wilson, Clarke, and Whitefield. Messrs. J. M'Watt and J. Jeans judged. Messrs. Wilson Bros. won the society's challenge cup for most points in any one section; Messrs. Jaffray and Stevenson took the gold medal for best Border Fancy; Messrs. Clarke and Carson won the silver cruet stand for best Scotch Fancy; and Messrs. Wilson Bros. annexed the silver cup for the two highest awards in each class.

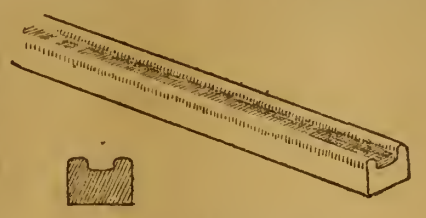
I visited the Coventry Godiva Show, writes Mr. J. Brown (Wilnecote), in the capacity of delegate to the Cage Bird Union, and found the management and attention paid to all exhibits worthy of the strongest praise. Mr. Vardy being ill, Mr. Poole had to undertake the whole of the judging, which he did with much ability.

ILLUSTRATED IDEAS



Under this heading we shall illustrate weekly some ideas useful to the bird-keeper. Readers are invited to send us particulars of any novel and practical appliance of use in our hobby, either in cage, bird room or aviary, with a rough sketch of same where possible. Every "Illustrated Idea" used in this column will entitle the sender thereof to a postal order for two shillings and sixpence.

No. 266.

A PERCH FOR BIRDS WITH SORE FEET.

Sent by Alex. Purves, 27, Beaverhall Terrace, Edinburgh.

I enclose a sketch of a perch designed for the use of birds with sore feet, or such as a sprained or swollen foot. It will do for all cage birds. Make a ¼in. or ⅜in. square perch, hollow out the face, then round off all square edges. This allows the sprained or swollen part to rest in the hollow of the perch, which gives the feet a proper chance to heal, and prevents much pain. I think the sketch will explain; the upper figure shows the face, and the lower one the end of the perch.—A. PURVES.

No. 267.

COMBINED SEED HOPPER AND SIEVE.

Sent by J. Robinson, 6, Brock Street, Byker, Newcastle-on-Tyne.

Enclosed is sketch of a combined sieve and seed hopper. I have seen them with gauze on bottom and glass at back. I make them with the gauze at the back, for it answer the same purpose as the glass; you can see the seed, and have but to turn the hopper on its back, give one or two shakes, and your seed is clean. Make the hopper with flanged sides and bottom, the same as for glass, so that you can renew the gauze when necessary.—J. ROBINSON.

IN THE COURTS.

Alleged Cruelty to Decoy Birds.

At Stratford on November 28, Ernest Porter, Barking, was summoned for using decoy birds and nets for the purpose of taking wild birds; and, further, for causing unnecessary suffering to a Chaffinch, a Greenfinch, and three Linnets. P.C. Robbins said he saw defendant on the marshes near Creeksmouth Road, Barking. He had two nets stretched on the ground some distance apart. Between them five birds were fastened to a piece of wire, and defendant occasionally pulled the birds up and down. Witness examined the birds, and found two of them had been cut by the string with which they were braced.—Defendant pleaded that the birds were properly fastened, and there was no cruelty.—He was fined 10s. and costs 4s. for cruelty, and ordered to pay costs 4s. in the other case. The nets and birds were confiscated.

Another Fine.

Arthur Lawrence, Over-the-Gates, Barking, was summoned for using nets and decoy birds for the purpose of taking wild birds, and for causing unnecessary suffering to four birds.—The Bench fined him 10s. and costs 4s. for the cruelty, and ordered him to pay costs 4s. for using nets.

UNDER THE WHITE ROSE.

THE Eccleshill Society's Annual Show was a decided success, the entries in all sections coming up in decent numbers. The show was held under the rules of the Yorkshire Union, and the specials, etc., of the Y.C.C., the C.M.Y.C.C., and the O.N.P.C., were all here, so the competition was keen throughout. The challenge cup of the Y.C.C. was competed for at Gateshead Show, held on Saturday last. The competition for this trophy, as usual, is very keen, only two points separating the first two contestants, with only two shows to go, the next being Edinburgh on January 1st and 2nd, and the final at the Palace. More than the usual interest is being taken in the competition this season, in consequence of the possibility of the cup being won outright by one of the "combatants." No doubt the result of the next two shows will be eagerly awaited by the majority of Yorkshire fanciers.

FOR Tuesday, December 22nd, the Shipley O.S. have arranged a pie supper at their headquarters, the Prince of Wales Hotel, Saltaire Road, Shipley, to be served at 7 p.m. Afterwards, Mr. S. Dean, of Gt. Horton, will give a washing exhibition before the members and friends assembled. The secretary hopes to have a large attendance for both affairs.

THE Great Horton, Laisterdyke, and Gt. Horton Good Intent Societies each held members' shows on Saturday last, and at all a good entry was obtained, and keen competition resulted.

KIRKSTALL Society, which was formed some months ago, is progressing quite favourably, and had arranged to hold the first members' show on Saturday last, no fewer than 15 classes being provided. Mr. W. Richmond officiated as judge. This society have some good, hardworking officials; may success attend their efforts.

SOWERBY Bridge and Dis. C.B.S. held their annual members' show on Saturday last, admirable arrangements being made in anticipation of a good show. The Fancy has advanced by leaps and bounds in this district since the formation of the society, and great interest is centred in its shows and its working.

NEXT week-end, in consequence of the Christmas holidays, there is no open show under the Yorkshire Union, but a very large number of the societies will hold members' shows on Saturday (Boxing-day). The Gt. Horton Society open the latter part of the season with their show on January 1st and 2nd, and it is expected that a meeting of the delegates of the Yorkshire Union will be called to take place at this fixture.

"STRAIGHT 'UN."

THE YOUNG NATURALIST.

Prizes of 1s. and two of 6d. each will be given each week for the best three anecdotes about birds written on postcards. Competitors must be children under sixteen years of age, and must state from where stories are taken.

Two stars indicate the Winning Contribution; one star the runners up.

*A "Bitter-Sweet" Egg.

My elder brother tried during the summer to breed some Linnet and Canary Mules. He made a nest in the box himself, and day after day he used to look to see if there were any eggs. So my other brothers and I put a white sugared almond in the nest each day until there were four. You can quite imagine my brother's surprise when he took one out and accidentally dropped it and found it never broke but rolled along the floor.—Sent by Lizzie Walters (age 10), 3, Kilburn Lane, Willesden.

* "Locomotive Nests."

As a rule birds build their nests in quiet, out-of-the-way places, where they are not likely to be disturbed. This, however, is not always the case. Recently a Sparrow was discovered sitting on a nest among the coal of a railway engine, which was in regular use. A Thrush's nest containing two eggs was found on the brake-pipe of a carriage on an express train. A Robin's nest containing six eggs was discovered on the axle of a colliery wagon in Nortbumberland. In this instance the wagon had been standing idle for a few days.—An extract sent by Cecil Hobart (aged 12), 22, Paddock Street, Norwich.

Friendly Nuthatches.

A lady friend of mine amused herself one winter by throwing seeds several times a day on the terrace in order to feed the birds. She also put some hemp seed and cracked nuts on a window sill for her favourites, the Blue Tits. Two Nuthatches came one day to the window and liked it so well that they came every day, and in the spring they settled themselves in a hollow tree close to the house, and as soon as their two young ones could fly they brought them to the window where they were to be fed and soon after the old birds disappeared. But the two young birds stayed by the house all the summer, until one day in autumn they heard the report of a sportsman's gun, and flew away, never to be seen again by the lady. It is probable that fear alone had driven them so far that they could not find their way home again.—Sent by Irene Quant (age 14), 37, Upper Church Road, Weston-super-Mare.

WILD BIRD LIFE.

Tits in Winter.

All birds appear to be quick of sight and to be able to detect anything that suspicious, or that is eatable, a long tance off. Pigeons, Rooks, Waders wild fowl of all kinds are wary and suspicious, and their sharp eyes soon notice anything likely to be dangerous in the fields and marshlands they usually frequent. The smaller birds are equally sharp, and in the winter, when food becomes scarce they notice at once anything fresh in the food way which is dropped or thrown out near the houses. We keep a lump of fat or meat of some kind hung in a tree close to the house, for the special benefit of the Tit family generally, and since the autumn it has been visited by nearly every member of that interesting group. Once or twice the supply has run out, and it has perhaps been a day or two before the feast has been renewed; but no sooner is it out than it has been detected. The Greater Tit is master, and generally has to have first meal, while the smaller fry pretend to be interested in something else until he leaves the dainty morsel. Then there is a rush for it; but the first comer generally holds his position, proving the old saying that "possession is nine points of the law."

The Greater Tit is undoubtedly one of the handsomest birds we have. His plumage is made up of rich colouring and strong contrasts. Where can we get a greater contrast than the jet blue black head and throat, surrounding a pure white cheek, and running down the breast with a beautiful sulphur yellow upon either side? He is as active and vivacious as his smaller brethren, and, if anything, a little more greedy for tit-bits. It is very seldom that the Long-tailed birds visit the gardens, although they may be met with along the hedgerows in the district. They are very independent little fellows, and seldom take advantage of anything lying about on the refuse heaps or round habitations. If seen in the former place it is to search for tiny insects found in such positions. They appear to pass the winter wandering along the hedgerows or through the woods, keeping to no one particular place, but always on the move. We often meet with them in these positions, and occasionally among the furze and undergrowth upon the Downs. There are generally six or eight together, and so wandering from place to place, they pass the dull, short days, and when spring arrives they pair off and nest wherever they may be at the time.

Flight of the Jay.

The flight of the Jay much resembles that of the Magpie. It has the same jaunty uncertain style; but the longer tail of the latter bird aids identification.

The Theory of Migration.

Richard Jefferies says: "The original and simple theory that the majority of birds migrate for food or warmth, is not overthrown by modern observations."

Increase of Linnets & Goldfinches.

Both Linnets and Goldfinches are increasing enormously. The former bird has always been fairly common in spite of its popularity as a cage-bird. Year after year every English hedgerow contains Linnets' nests in all stages of preparation, but it is years since the sprightly Goldie was to be seen in anything approaching the numbers visible now in suitable localities. No bird, perhaps, varies so much in plumage according to district.

Among the Furze in Winter.

Linnets and Hedge Sparrows are ever present among the furze on the breezy common. Linnets love the open, and one seldom sees them in a wood. The common Wren may be seen darting in and out the thick undergrowth or searching among the thorn stems upon the bank; he is always alive. The Stonechat will chink to you as you pass, his plumage contrasting well with the dull surroundings, although lacking the glories of the spring, when food is plentiful; and he is flippant and perky with the very joy of living.

Redwing and Fieldfare.

It is somewhat amusing to read descriptions of these winter visitors. Some writers say the Redwing is the prettier bird of the two, while others consider the Fieldfare to be the handsomest of the Thrushes. The fact is, each bird has a beauty of its own. The clean, light eye stripe, regular markings, and red wing of the former bird makes as pretty a picture as one could wish to see; but he is smaller than the Fieldfare, which is a bold bird with a beautifully-marked breast and a rich touch of colour upon it, his colouring throughout being more varied than the Redwing's.
